6658. —— Where receiver appointed.]—By an order dated May 14, 1887, by which pltf. obtained final judgment in an action, a receiver was appointed to carry on the business of deft., & to collect & get in outstanding debts. By a further order dated Dec. 20, the order of May 14 was rescinded except as regarded the book debts mentioned in the four parts of the first schedule, as to which the receiver was to continue to act for pltf. with power to issue to any of such book debtors a circular in prescribed form ; & it was further ordered that the whole of the book debts mentioned in the four parts of the first schedule should be allocated to & accepted by pltf. in satisfaction of his judgment debt interest & costs, & after giving deft. power to redeem any of the book debts in the schedule by payment thereof, it was further ordered that in case any of the book debts mentioned in the first part of the first schedule should not have been paid by the respective debtors or redeemed by deft. on or before Mar. 31, 1888, pltf. should be at liberty to give notice of the order of May 14, & of that order in the form prescribed in the second schedule, to each of the debtors mentioned in the first part & to collect & recover such debts in his own name. On Feb. 13, 1888, the receiver sent to the debtors mentioned in the first schedule of the order of Dec. 20, a notice requiring payment, & stating that deft.'s firm were "closing up accounts with a former member," & that it was "necessary to collect all outstanding debts." On Feb. 23, 1888, deft. in the action committed an act of bkpty. upon which a petition was presented against him. On Apr. 4, pltf., without knowledge of the act of bkpcy. or of the petition, sent to the debtors whose names were mentioned in the first part of the first schedule, a notice as prescribed of the appointment of the receiver & the assignment. In May debtor was adjudicated bkpt. & the trustee claimed the scheduled debts :—Held : the order of Dec. 20, transferred the book debts to pltf., but left them in the order & disposition of bkpt. without notice, & although the debts in the first part of the schedule were taken out of the order & disposition clause by the notice of Apr. 4, 1888, those contained in the other three parts of the schedule were in the order & disposition of the bkpt. at the time of the bkpcy., the notice sent out by the receiver on Feb. 13, 1888, being sufficient.—Re TILLETT, Ex p. KINGSCOTE (1889), 60 L. 6659. —— Failure to give notice before knowledge of act of bankruptcy.]—On Nov. 29, 1913, mtgees. of the book debts of a business appointed a receiver. Negotiations at once ensued between the mtgor. & the mtgees., the mtgor. desiring that the receiver should not give notice to the book debtors, & the mtgees. insisting on their appointment of the receiver. On Dec. 15 the negotiations fell through, & on Dec. 16 the receiver arranged with the mtgor. to take possession of the business the next day & instructed the mtgor.'s clerk to give notice to the book debtors, which he did not do. On Dec. 17 the receiver had notice of an act of bkpcy. committed that day by the mtgor., & on Dec. 29 the mtgor. was adjudged bkpt. on his own petition. Between Dec. 22 & 29 the receiver gave notice to the book debtors :—Held : the book debts were at the commencement of the bkpcy. (Dec. 17) in the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the true owners, for the receiver could have given notice between Nov. 29 & Dec. 17 to the book debtors.—Re NEAL, Ex p. TRUSTEE, [1914] 2 K. 6660. Assignment of costs by bankrupt solicitor —Notice of assignment given—Further funds for payment of costs becoming available—Failure to obtain stop order.]—T., the solr. of pltfs. in an administration suit, assigned his costs as security for a debt. Notice of the assignment was given to pltfs. & to the exors. of testator. Subsequently an order was made on further directions for payment to T. of pltfs.' costs out of the funds to be brought into ct., after satisfying prior demands. T. became bkpt. The fund in ct., at the times of the order on further directions & of the bkpcy., was insufficient to pay the charges prior to T.'s costs, but later a fund was brought in by the exors. applicable to payment of the costs. No stop order was ever obtained by the assignee of the costs :—Held : the fund did not pass to the assignees in bkpcy. as having been within the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the true owner, but belonged to the assignee of the costs.—DAY v. DAY (1857), 1 De G. & J. 144 ; 26 L. 6661. —— —— No stop order obtained.]—The solr. to a party in a suit assigned the costs due & to become due to him in the suit, & subsequently became insolvent. An order was afterwards made for the payment of the costs out of a fund in ct., & the assignee of the solr. claimed the costs as against the person to whom they had been assigned, as being under the order & disposition clause, on the ground that, though notice had been given to the solr. for pltf. in the suit, no stop-order had been obtained on the fund in ct. :—Held : it was not necessary to get a stop-order on the fund in ct. ; & the person taking under the assignment was entitled to the costs.—LORD v. COLVIN (1862), 2 Drew. & Sm. 82 ; 6 L. 6690. Assignment of bills of exchange—Letter asking acceptors to send bills to creditor when accepted.]—D. sold a cargo of coal to a co. at Athens. He shipped the coal to the purchasers & forwarded bills of exchange for the price, to be accepted by them & returned. Being in want of funds D. arranged with the N. E. Bank on Feb. 3 for payment of cheques, & agreed in writing that the payments should be against the bills to be accepted, & he "undertook to hand to the bank the above bills immediately on receipt." On Mar. 3, the bills not having arrived, D. gave the bank a letter addressed to the co. requesting them to "hand the bills on demand to the N. E. Bank." That letter the bank on Mar. 3 forwarded to the co., enclosed in one from themselves, to the following effect: "We shall be glad if you will post direct to us the four bills in accordance with the enclosed instructions." D. committed an act of bkpcy. on Mar. 3, before giving the letter to the bank, but the bank had no notice of an act of bkpcy. till Mar. 6. 6701. —— —— Stop order.]—The tenant for life of a fund in ct. mortgaged his interest, & afterwards became bkpt. After the bkpcy., the mtgee. obtained a stop order on the dividends. The assignee in bkpcy. did not obtain a stop order : —Held : the mtgee. was entitled to priority over the assignee in bkpcy.

If the assignee of a chose in action omits to give notice of the assignment to the debtor or trustee, or, in the case of a fund in ct., to obtain a stop order, & the assignor becomes bkpt., the chose in action remains in the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the assignee, & passes to the assignee in bkpcy. 6702. —— —— After death of bankrupt.]—No act of an assignee for value after bkpcy. of the assignor can give validity to the assignment, as against the assignees in bkpcy.

A person having mortgaged a policy of insurance on his own life, afterwards became bkpt., & died four years after the bkpcy. The mtgee. thereupon gave notice to the insurance office & claimed the proceeds of the policy. No previous notice had been given of the mtge. or of the bkpcy. :—Held : the policy remained in the order & disposition of bkpt.—Re WEBB'S POLICY (1867), 36 L. J. Ch. 341 ; 16 L. T. 89 ; 15 W. 6703. —— After death of assured.]—A policy effected by A. on his life was mortgaged in 1860 without notice to the office. A. became bkpt. in 1862, & in 1868 joined in a transfer of the mtge. to B., who had no notice of the bkpcy. After the death of A., B.'s solr. gave notice to the office that the policy was mortgaged, & that he acted for the mtgees., not naming them :—Held : the notice, to be valid, need not be made during the lifetime of the assured, the principle being, that notice was sufficient if given to the party having the fund whilst it remained in his possession.—Re RUSSELL'S POLICY TRUSTS (1872), L. 6704. —— Notice to party abroad—Arriving after goods despatched to bankrupt.]—A. accepted bills to enable B. to make shipments to Sydney, on an agreement, known at Sydney, to apply the return proceeds in payment of the bills. On the last shipment, B. sent notice to Sydney to send the proceeds direct to A., & gave the same notice to a partner of the Sydney house, who happened to be in London. Before the notice arrived at Sydney the return proceeds were sent off to B., who became bkpt., & his assignees received them : —Held : not in his reputed ownership, & A. entitled thereto.—Re CORNIE, Ex p. FLOWER (1835), 2 Mont. & A. 224 ; *sub nom. Before that could have taken place by either mode of transmission, the sub-mtgors. became bkpt. :—Held : the notice was sufficient to take the goods out of their reputed ownership.—Re BEATTIE, Ex p. KELSALL (1846), De G. 352, Ct. of R.

6706. —— —— Bankruptcy before arrival.]—H., residing in Australia, was indebted to A., who bonâ fide, & for a valuable consideration, assigned the debt to W., & joined W. in a letter notifying to H. the assignment, & requiring him to pay the debt to W. The letter, even if it had been posted on the day of the assignment, could not have reached Australia before the day on which a fiat in bkpcy. issued against A. H. remitted, by letter, £50 which was received after the fiat & delivered over to W. The assignees of A. having sued W. for the amount :—Held : W. having taken every possible step to obtain possession of the debt, it could not be said to remain in the order & disposition of bkpt., with the consent of the true owner.—BELCHER v. BELLAMY (1848), 2 Exch. 303 ; 17 L. 6707. —— —— Not received by party to whom sent—Service of copy immediately on arrival in England.]—G., by deed, dated Nov. 11, 1857, assigned the cargo with which a ship was then laden, & which thereafter should be placed on board, to deft. for securing the balance of a banking account. On Jan. 23, 1858, notice of the deed was sent, directed to the captain of the ship, "west coast of Africa," but it never reached him. At the date of the deed deft. had reason to expect that the ship would soon sail on her homeward voyage. In fact, she was then on the west coast of Africa taking in & seeking cargo. On Jan. 18, 1858, she was still taking in & seeking cargo, & on Feb. 1 to the 11th received part of the cargo of another ship belonging to bkpt. On Feb. 12 she sailed on her homeward voyage. On Mar. 1 G. was adjudicated a bkpt. On the arrival of the ship, on Apr. 14, the master was served with a copy of the notice. In an action by the assignees of G. to recover the proceeds of the cargo :—Held : (1) the deed operated as an equitable assignment of the cargo, & there was no distinction between the part of the cargo put on board before the assignment & the part put on board after ; (2) there was no default in deft. in not giving notice of the deed, & the goods were not in the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the owner.—ACRAMAN

Before the sale the trustees gave notice of the assignment to the army agents of the officer. Afterwards the officer was adjudicated a bkpt., & subsequently to his bkpcy. his commission was sold, & the proceeds thereof were received by his agents, & handed over by them to his assignee in bkpcy.:—Held: the trustees for the creditors having done all they could do to perfect the assignment to them, were entitled to the proceeds of the commission in priority to the assignee in bkpcy.—GLOVER v. MOORE (1869), 39 L. 6712. —— Party by whom money payable—Charterparty entered into by agent of bankrupt owner—Assignment of freight by owner.]—A., on behalf of the owner of a ship, entered into a charterparty with B., by which B. agreed to pay to A., on the owner's behalf, a certain sum for freight. The owner afterwards assigned all the freight accruing under the charterparty to C., as a security for a debt, & C. gave notice of the assignment to A. but not to B. The owner having subsequently become bkpt.:—Held: the arrears of freight were not in his order & disposition at the time of his bkpcy.

Where a trader assigns a debt, the only person to whom notice of the assignment need be given, in order to vest a good equitable title in the assignee, is the party from whom the trader was to have received payment of the money, in other words, the party holding the property at the order & disposition of the trader.—GARDNER v. LACHLAN (1838), 4 My. & Cr. 129; 8 L. 6714. —— London agents of bankrupt solicitor—Assignment of claim for costs.]—A solr. assigned his claim for costs to W. & became bkpt. W. gave notice of his claim to the London agents of the solr. The assignees in bkpcy. petitioned for payment to them, subject to the London agents' claim:—Held: (1) the notice to the London agents, as far as costs became payable to them, took those costs out of the order & disposition of bkpt.; (2) the costs being ordered out of a fund in ct., the petition must be refused.—SHARPLES v. MARSH (1854), 2 W. R. 400.

6710 i. To whom given—Person supposed to be solicitor to trustees—Reversionary interest.]—Leaseholds were bequeathed to trustees in trust, to sell & out of the proceeds to invest £3,000 in stock, & pay the dividends to F., the wife of E., for life, for her separate use, without powers of anticipation, & subject thereto, to pay the principal to the children of E. & F., in such shares as she should appoint, with gifts over, in default of appointment, to the children of E. & F. living at testator's death, & powers were given to the trustees to sell the stock & invest the proceeds on private security or in the purchase of land, to be held upon the same trusts as were declared of the stock. At testator's death, in 1839, there were three children of E. & F. The trustees sold, & left the £3,000 outstanding on a mtge. of the property, which was then held for a term of sixty-two years, executed by the purchaser to them in 1840. In 1843 F. appointed the £3,000 in unequal shares to her three children, subject to her own life interest, & in 1858 the appointees, by a deed which was imperfectly registered, mortgaged to D. the sums appointed to them together with their respective estates, & interests therein, to secure money advanced to their father. D. gave no notice of the assignment to W., the surviving trustee, but only to M., whose firm, he was informed by one of the assignors, had acted as solrs. for the trustees. Two of the assignors were adjudicated bkpts. in England in 1866, & in 1873 F. died, having had no other children. In 1874 D. instituted a suit to raise the amount due to him, & the creditors' assignees proved that W. had received no actual notice of the assignment till the filing of the bill, & that M. had never acted as his solr. They also gave in evidence orders made by the English Bkpcy. Ct. for the sale of "all & every the right, title, interest, claim, & demand" of bkpts. in the £3,000 trust fund. The Master of the Rolls decided that the reversionary shares of F.'s children were choses in action, & that, no previous notice of their assignment having been given to W., the share of bkpts. were in their "order or disposition" by the "consent & permission" of D. at the time of the bkpcies. & passed to their creditor's assignees:—Held: although the interests of F.'s children were choses in action, & bkpts.' shares were in their "order or disposition" by the "consent & permission of the true owner," the language of the orders for sale was such as only to vest bkpts.' equity of redemption in the creditor's assignees, & D. was entitled to the relief sought by his bill.—DANIEL v. FREEMAN (1877), I. R. 11 Eq. 638.—IR.

6715. How proved—Statement that partner had given notice.]—B. granted an annuity to F., assigning the share he was entitled to under his father's will as a security. B. afterwards became bkpt., & F. stated that he had no doubt his partner, who managed the business for him, had given notice of the assignment, previous to the bkpcy., to the exors. of B.'s father:—Held: this was not sufficient proof that the exors. had notice of the assignment, & B.'s share remained in his order & disposition.—FOSTER v. BONNER (1863), 2 New Rep. 226; 8 L. T. 530; 11 W. R. 742.

On May 15, June 5, June 24, July 15, & Aug. 5 respectively similar bills of sale were made by A. to B., but the last of such bills of sale was the only one of them which was registered under Bills of Sale Act, 1854. Such registration took place on Aug. 23, 1856. In July, 1856, A. had committed one or more acts of bkpcy., & the goods comprised in the bills of sale continued in his possession during the first ten days of Aug., 1856. A. was adjudicated bkpt. on July 1:—Held: the possession of the chattels by bkpt. being consistent with the terms of the deed, they were not in his possession with the consent of the "true owner," & did not pass to the assignees under the order & disposition clause.—Re STANLEY (1885), 17 L. 6715 i. How proved—Deposition of solicitor that he believed notice was given.]—B. assigned a policy of insurance, effected on his own life, to two trustees, by a deed of settlement, & was afterwards adjudged bkpt. Upon his death the sum assured was claimed by B., as alleged surviving trustee of the settlement, & by the assignees in bkpcy. At the trial, the attorney, who had prepared the settlement, deposed that he believed he had given notice of it to the insurance co., but there was no other evidence that notice had been given before the bkpcy. After the bkpcy. notice was given:—Held: there was no evidence to go to the jury of notice to the co., so as to take the policy out of the operation of the order & disposition clause.—BRADLEY v. JAMES (1876), 10 I. 6715 ii. ——— Proof of posting letter sufficient.]—On June 28, 1873, M. by deed agreed to assign for value a policy, effected on his own life, to his father W., who, on the same day, by a separate deed assigned it to D. by way of equitable mtge. The parties were all resident in Ireland, & a memorandum at foot of the policy, which had been issued from the Dublin branch office, directed that notice of assignments should be given at the head office in London. Immediately upon the execution of the deeds of June 28, D. prepared a formal notice of the assignment to W., in whose name & at whose request it was signed for him & addressed, & posted in Dublin, to B., the society's secretary, at the London office. M. was adjudicated a bkpt. in Jan., 1874, & died in the following Aug., when his assignees in bkpcy. gave notice to the London office, & claimed the proceeds of the policy as having been in his "order or disposition" at the time of his adjudication, B. deposing that D.'s notice had never reached the London office:—Held: the notice, having been duly posted, must be presumed to have reached its destination, & irrespective of the question whether the notice was actually received at the office, the mere posting of it was effectual to prevent the policy from being in the "order or disposition" of M. at the date of his bkpcy. (d) Of Possession, etc., of Firm or continuing Partner.

6726. Of firm—Removal of stock to shop of new partnership.]—Upon a dissolution of partnership between A. & B., it was agreed that, until A. should be provided for, B. should allow him a third of the profits. B. entered into partnership with C., & carried in the stock of A. & B.:—Held:

regularly. The first & second instalments were paid. Before the third fell due, A. filed a declaration of insolvency, upon which he was subsequently adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: the furniture passed to the assignees under the order & disposition clause.—Re MURRAY, Ex p. TICKELL (1859), 9 I. Ch. R. 281.—IR.

6719 iii. —— —— ——.]—Where a person is in possession of chattels, of which he has executed a bill of sale, & is subsequently adjudicated a bkpt., before making any default in payment of the sum thereby secured, such chattels are to be deemed to be in the order & disposition of bkpt., with the consent of the true owner.—Re HAYES, [1899] 2 I. R. 206.—IR.

6719 iv. ——————.]—Where the grantor of a registered bill of sale is adjudicated a bkpt. before making any default in payment of the sums thereby secured, the goods comprised in the bill of sale are, in the absence of evidence displacing the reputation of ownership, in the possession, order, & disposition of bkpt. as reputed owner thereof, with the consent & permission of the true owner.—HOLLINSHEAD v. EGAN, LTD., [1913] A. x. —— —— Default before bankruptcy but possession not taken.]—J., within three months of his being adjudged a bkpt., gave a bill of sale of the chattels in his dwelling-house to F., in order to induce him to withdraw an execution thereon. By the bill of sale it was provided that the chattels should not be liable to seizure or to be taken possession of by F. for any cause other than those specified in Bills of Sale Act Amendment Act, 1883, s. 7. After the day stipulated for payment the grantee failed to take possession in default of payment:—Held: the chattels being, with the grantee's consent, in bkpt.'s possession at the time of his bkpcy., the bill of sale was void against the assignee in bkpcy.—Re DUNLOP (1890), 24 I. z. —— Under agreement that goods to remain until fixed date—Demand by grantee before date not persisted in.]—A trader executed a bill of sale of chattels, containing a clause that he was to retain possession until a certain day, whereby he was to pay the advances made. Notwithstanding that clause, the mtgee, demanded possession of the goods three days after the execution of the mtge. The trader refused, & the mtgee. seemed to acquiesce in the refusal. The goods were in the trader's apparent possession at the time of his bkpcy.:—Held: they were in his order & disposition, with the consent of the true owner, & they passed to the assignees.—Re SIM (1862), 14 Ir. 6727. —— Destruction of property by fire before bankruptcy—Property belonging to & insured in name of one partner.]—A. & B., on entering into partnership, agreed that the manufactory & utensils in trade should be the separate property of A., & that B. should pay a rent in proportion to his share of the business. The manufactory & utensils were insured in the name of A., & were subsequently consumed by fire. Afterwards a commission issued against A. & B. :—Held : the insurance money was not in the order & disposition of the firm, as there was no visible possession at the time of the bkpcy., & the subject-matter being gone, 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11, ceased to apply. —Re BAKEWELL, Ex p. SMITH (1819), Buck, 149 ; 3 Madd. 63 ; 56 E. 6729. —— —— Notice by advertisement.]—The dissolution of a partnership was announced in the Gazette, with a statement that all debts due from the partnership were to be paid by the continuing partner, & requiring all debts due to the partnership to be paid to him. The continuing partner became bkpt. :—Held : the notice in the Gazette did not bring the partnership property into the order & disposition of bkpt. before the bkpcy., as apart from the difficulty of construing the notice as a notice to those who had not seen it, it could not put the debts into the ordering of bkpt., when, by its terms, the hand which was to receive them, was the hand to apply them in satisfaction of the demands against the partnership.—Re MALLAM, Ex p. WHEELER (1817), Buck, 25, L. 6730. —— —— ——.]—A. & B. carried on business in partnership under the style of A. & Co. A. retired from the firm with the knowledge of the joint creditors, the dissolution was advertised, & B. continued the business in his own name. He was afterwards adjudicated a bkpt. :—Held : the partnership property was in the order & disposition of bkpt. & belonged to his separate estate.—Re STEWART, Ex p. FISHER (1855), 2 Bankr. & Ins. R. 67.

6731. —— —— —— No notice to joint debtors.]—A. & B. dissolved partnership in Sept. It was agreed the partnership property should belong to A. alone, who should carry on business on his own account, & pay the joint debts, & a notice to that effect was inserted in the Gazette, but no other notice was given to the joint debtors. A. took possession of the leasehold premises & other assets of the partnership, & carried on business till Nov., when a joint commission issued against A. & B. :—Held : the debts owing by those debtors who had no notice of the agreement, remained in the order & disposition of the partnership, but the leasehold premises, stock, etc., which had been transferred & delivered to A. prior to the commission formed part of A.'s separate estate.—Re BARKER, Ex p. USBORNE (1823), 1 Gl. & J. 358.

6732. —— —— —— No absolute proof of want of notice to joint debtors.]—L. & C. employed packmen to travel round various districts in the country to sell their goods, in the course of which dealings were had with three thousand five hundred customers. L. & C. dissolved their partnership, of which notice was given in the Gazette, & sold the debts owing on the different rounds to the new firm of S. & C., which continued the same course of dealing, & some of the bills of parcels delivered to the customers by one of the packmen were altered in the heading from the firm of L. & C. to that of S. & C., but it did not appear that any express notice was given to the customers of the assignment of the debts from the old to the new firm. Both firms became bkpt. :—Held : there was not such proof of want of notice to the different debtors, of the assignment of the debts from the old to the new firm, as to raise the inference that the debts continued in the order & disposition of the old firm.—Re LITTLE, Ex p. WOODGATE (1841), 2 Mont. 6733. —— —— —— Notice given to pay to one partner.]—A dissolution of partnership was advertised in the Gazette & a circular sent in the name of the dissolved firm, requesting debtors to the firm to pay their debts to one partner :—Held : the notice was insufficient to take the debts out of the reputed ownership of the firm.—Re BREWSTER, Ex p. SPRAGUE (1853), 4 De G. One partner died & the surviving partner paid a portion of the balance in the hands of the partnership bankers to sureties for completion of the arrangement, on the understanding that, if the arrangement was not carried out, it should be returned. The arrangement fell through, & the surviving partner became bkpt., the money remaining in the hands of the sureties :—Held : the money was not in the order & disposition of the surviving partner, but belonged to the joint estate of the two partners.—Re SIMPSON, Ex p. LEAF (1840), 4 Deac. 287 ; Mont. & Ch. 662 ; 9 L. "C. D. & Co." in Rotterdam, until the death of B., when the business was carried on by A., C. & D. till A.'s bkpcy., which was followed by the bkpcy. of C. & D. Accounts were prepared of the assets of the partnership (a) after, & (b) before, the death of B., & a petition was presented by creditors of A., C. & D. to have the following items transferred from (b) to (a), on the ground that the property to which they related had been left in the order & disposition of the surviving partners. (1) Cotton had been purchased in the lifetime of B., on the joint account of A., B. & Co. & two other firms, in shares of one-third each. It had remained in the possession of one of the other firms up to the bkpcy. (2) Goods which had been sold in the lifetime of B. had been returned, & were at the docks at the bkpcy. The bill of lading was sent to the holder of a bill of exchange drawn on the partnership which was not accepted, & was in his hands at the bkpcy. (3) At the death of B. S. & Co. were indebted to the partnership. After B.'s death, A. as a surviving & sole acting partner, employed W. as his agent to recover the debt. Goods were consigned to W. in part liquidation of the debt, & were in W.'s possession at the bkpcy., & he claimed a lien on them for freight :—Held : none of the goods were in the order & disposition of the surviving partners.—Re CAMPBELL, Ex p. TAYLOR (1831), Mont. 240.

Then B. retired, & C. alone continued the business; default was made in payment of an instalment, C. became bkpt., & A. re-entered :—Held : a debt originally due to A., B., & C. was not in the reputed ownership of C., & A. had a lien thereon.—Re STOKES, Ex p. PEMBERTON, Re STOKES, Ex p. HANCOX (1836), 2 Mont. & A. 548; 1 Deac. 421, Ct. of R.

6738. Bankrupt must have been trader—When in possession of goods.]—To bring a case within 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11, bkpt. must have been a trader, when he was in possession of the goods.—GORDON v. EAST INDIA CO. (1797), 7 Term Rep. 228; 101 E. R. 946.

6739. —— When assignment granted.]—W held forty shares in the S. office, but to be qualified as manager he required to hold fifty. He acquired ten others, but declared that he held sixteen in trust for T. & ten for N. W. becoming indebted to T. for £800, by deed charged his fifty shares with the payment of the £800 within three months, agreed on default to transfer them to T. to be sold & applied. The £800 being unpaid P. advanced that sum on the security of the shares, & took the deed from T. with an indorsement by him declaring same to be in trust for P. W. subsequently became bkpt. as a trader, & T.'s extrix. paid off P. & got back the assignment of the fifty shares. In an action by W.'s assignees against the extrix. :—Held : as the assignment was made before W. became a trader, 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11, did not apply, & the assignees' claim failed.—BANKS v. FARQUHARSON (1752), cited in 2 Ves. Jun. Supp., at p. 178; 34 E. R. 1047, L. C.

6740. —— Intention to carry on trade or business—Insufficient evidence.]—W. was the tenant of seventy-nine acres of land at a rental of £400 per annum, upon which land he resided, & was in the habit of selling the animal & vegetable produce of his holding. Previous to his bkpcy. he had executed a bill of sale upon the property in dispute, under which his wife had bought the whole, & executed a fresh bill of sale in favour of S. S. allowed the goods & chattels to remain in the possession of W., & upon the bkpcy. of W. the trustee claimed the goods & chattels as having been at the commencement of the bkpcy. in the possession, order, or disposition of bkpt. in his trade or business by the consent & permission of the true owner :—Held : the facts did not indicate a primary intention on the part of bkpt., when he took the property, to carry on a trade or business, & that primary intention was never changed sufficiently to bring the goods & chattels of bkpt. within the order & disposition of bkpt.—Re WALLIS, Ex p. SULLY (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 950; 52 L. T. 625; 33 W. R. 733; 2 Morr. 79.

6741. —— Acting as manager for wife.]—Certain furniture belonging to bkpt.'s wife was placed by her in a house carried on by her as a seaside lodging-house. Bkpt. had no proprietorship in the house, & acted only as his wife's manager, but the tenancy of the house was placed in his name by the desire of the solrs. for the landlord. Bkpt. filed his own petition, in which he described himself as a lodging-house keeper. On application by the official receiver as trustee in the bkpcy. for an order declaring that the furniture was in the reputed ownership of bkpt., the county ct. judge declined to allow the petition to be contradicted, or to receive evidence that the furniture & lodging-house business belonged to the wife, & he dismissed the application on the ground that bkpt. did not carry on a trade within 1883 Act, s. 44 :—Held : (1) the words of the above sect. included the case of a lodging-house keeper who did not supply his lodgers with board, & the county ct. judge was wrong in his decision on the ground upon which it was given; (2) the ct. having heard evidence which ought to have been admitted by the county ct. judge, could only come to the conclusion that the furniture was not in the reputed ownership of bkpt.—Re HARRISON, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1892), 67 L. 6742. Articles not in their nature connected with bankrupt's business—Degree of proof required.]—When a trader is in possession at his place of business of articles not in their nature connected with his business, & the trustee in his bkpcy. claims the articles, on the ground that bkpt. was the reputed owner of them, much stronger evidence will be required to prove the reputed ownership than in the case of articles connected with the business, the inference from the nature of the

A. was subsequently adjudged bkpt.:—Held: the shares were not at the commencement of the bkpcy. in the possession, order, or disposition of bkpt. in his trade or business, within 1883 Act, s. 44, which did not extend to property unconnected with bkpt.'s trade, although mortgaged to secure his trade account with his bankers.—Re JENKINSON, Ex p. NOTTINGHAM & NOTTINGHAMSHIRE BANK (1885), 15 Q. 6744. —— Must be in bankrupt's possession for purposes of or connected with his trade.]—In order to establish that goods were, at the commencement of the bkpcy., in the order or disposition of bkpt. in his trade or business, it is not necessary to show they were such as bkpt. could pledge or sell in the course of his business; it is enough to show that they were in his possession, order, or disposition for the purposes of, or purposes connected with, his trade or business.

In an action to recover possession of stands used in the business of a mantle-maker for the purpose of showing off to advantage the mantles in her shop, it was proved that the stands were in her possession with the consent of pltf., the true owner, that the mantle-maker subsequently became bkpt., & deft., her trustee in bkpcy., had removed them from her shop:—Held: there was evidence for the jury that the stands were goods in the possession, order, or disposition of bkpt., in her trade or business, by the consent & permission of the true owner, in such circumstances that she was the reputed owner thereof within 1883 Act, s. 44 (iii).—SHARMAN v. MASON, [1899] 2 Q. Deposit in course of business by one partner —Business carried on in partnership.]—Shares in a railway were purchased with the assets of a firm of stockbrokers, & registered in the name of B., one of the partners. B., in the course of business, & for the purposes of the firm, deposited the certificates of shares, with a transfer in blank executed by himself, with a bank to secure repayment of a loan, but no notice of the security was given to the railway co. until after both B. & his partner T. had committed acts of bkpcy., on which they were adjudicated bkpts., & after presentation of the petition on which they were adjudicated.

At the date of the bkpcy. some calls had been paid out of the assets of the firm, but other calls remained unpaid:—Held: the possession, order, or disposition of the shares was not in the business, & the bank were entitled to retain the shares as against the trustee.—COLONIAL BANK v. WHINNEY (1886), 11 App. Cas. 426; 56 L. SUB-SECT. 5.—"BY THE CONSENT AND PERMISSION OF THE TRUE OWNER."

A. Sufficiency of Consent.

6746. Real relation of parties must be considered.]—In determining the question of the consent of the true owner the real relation of the parties must be taken into consideration.—Re WATSON & CO., Ex p. ATKIN BROTHERS, [1904] 2 K. B. 753; 73 L. J. K. B. 854; 91 L. T. 709; 20 T. L. R. 727; 48 Sol. Jo. 673; 11 Mans. 256, C. A.

6747. —— True owner living with bankrupt as wife—In ignorance of prior marriage.]—The goods of a woman married to & living with insolvent as his wife, he having a former wife living, do not pass to his assignees, although such goods were in his possession, if she was ignorant of the former marriage. But if she has allowed him the control & management of her property after discovery of the former marriage such property passes to the assignees.—MILLER v. DEMETZ (1835), 1 Mood. & R. 479, N. P.

6748. Knowledge of bankrupt's possession essential—Stock transferred to bankrupt mortgagor without knowledge of mortgagee.]—Stock standing in the Accountant-General's name was mortgaged to secure a debt. The Accountant-General transferred the stock to the mtgor. without the privity of the mtgee. The mtgor. then became bkpt.:—Held: the stock could not be claimed by the assignees, under 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, ss. 10 & 11, as it was not in the possession, order, & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the true owner.—Re CHESHIRE, Ex p. RICHARDSON (1820), Buck, 480.

6749. —— Property concealed by bankrupt in prior bankruptcy.]—Where the true owner has no knowledge, nor any means of knowing, of bkpt.'s reversionary interest, "consent" on his part cannot be predicated.

Where bkpt., upon the occasion of a previous insolvency, suppressed the circumstance of his being entitled to a reversionary interest, & excluded it from his schedule, & it did not appear that the assignee in insolvency had any knowledge or notice of that circumstance:—Held: the latter was entitled, notwithstanding his title had not been perfected by notice to the trustee, as in the circumstances there were no laches on his part. Semble: laches on his part would have been equivalent to "consent."—Re RAWBONE'S TRUST

PART XX. SECT. 9, SUB-SECT. 5.—A.

6747 i. Real relation of parties must be considered—True owner living with bankrupt as wife.]—W. living with bkpt. as his wife, though not married to him, owned furniture, which was in the house occupied by them both at the commencement of the bkpcy.:—Held: the furniture was divisible amongst the creditors in the bkpcy.—Re SMITH, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1895), 16 N. 6750. —— Presumed from consent.]—An undischarged liquidating debtor went into business again whereby he acquired property. He afterwards filed a second petition. The question being whether the property so acquired was in his order & disposition with the consent & permission of the true owner:—Held: the ct. might assume that the goods were really the property of the trustee in the first liquidation, & if the goods were in the order & disposition of debtor with the consent of the trustee in the first liquidation, they must have been so with his knowledge, for consent presupposed knowledge.

The words used in [1869] Act are "consent & permission." Those words imply knowledge. You cannot consent to a thing unless you have knowledge of it. It is impossible to suppose that these words do not imply that the true owner has at least a knowledge of the events which happened, but they imply something more; there must be a voluntary allowance on the part of the true owner of that mode of dealing with the property (JESSEL, M.R.).—Re CAUGHEY, Ex p. FORD (1876), 1 Ch. 6751. Must be given intra vires.]—Testator who owned machinery used in his partnership business, authorised his three trustees, one of whom was his partner, to continue the business either alone or in conjunction with other persons. Two of the trustees continued the business & became bkpt. The other took no part in the business, but was aware that it was being continued. The machinery remained in specie:—Held: the creditors of the new firm were not entitled to the machinery on the ground that it had remained in their order & disposition with the consent of the creditors of the old firm, the carrying on of the trade by two trustees only being unauthorised.—Re MELLOR, Ex p. BUTCHER (1880), 13 Ch. 6754. —— Property sold not fit to remove—Hay.]—Deft. bought hay of a farmer & left it on the farm, it not being fit to remove. The farmer's bkpcy. occurring before it was fit to remove, deft. then agreed with the assignees to take their interest in the farm & stock at a valuation. The hay was, without his knowledge, included in the valuation. In an action by the assignees for the amount:—Held: it was not a case of reputed ownership, & if included in the valuation by error, they were not entitled to recover.—PENNELL v. FOX (1859), 1 F. & F. 617, N. P.

6755. Key of locked box kept by true owner.]—Pltf. left his chest of plate with his father for safe custody, but kept the key. The father sent the chest to be kept by his banker. The father on being told by the banker that he had overdrawn his account, pointed to the chest & another, in which were his deeds, & which was also in the custody of the banker, & said, "You have plenty of security there." He subsequently assigned his property to deft. for the benefit of his creditors, & deft. obtained the plate from the banker on paying his claim on the overdrawn account:—Held: the plate was not in the possession, order, or disposition of the father as reputed owner, as the banker held it with a lien, &, if it were in the possession of the father, it was not with the consent of the son, who kept the key.—WEBB v. WHINNEY (1868), 18 L. 6756. Consent to change of possession—From firm to continuing partner.]—Two partners mortgaged their loose chattels. The mtge. was not registered as a bill of sale. The partnership was dissolved & the business was carried on by one partner alone. The outgoing partner executed an assignment of his half share in the mortgaged property to the continuing partner, subject to the mtge. The continuing partner afterwards filed a petition. At the date of the filing of the petition the mortgaged property was in his sole possession. The retiring partner remained solvent. The mtgee. had not demanded possession, but there was no evidence of his actual consent to the change of possession:—Held: the loose chattels, passed by virtue of the reputed ownership clause to the trustee.—Re REED, Ex p. BROWN (1876), 9 Ch. 6761. —— Person permitted by true owner to deal with goods as his own.]—A mtgee. of coal mines & boats permitted the mtgor. to remain in possession. The mtgor. subsequently sold the boats to M., & while in the possession of M. they were seised by a canal co. for tolls. M. became bkpt. after the seizure:—Held: the boats were not in his possession by the consent of the true owner, it not being sufficient that they were in his order & disposition with the consent of a party who was permitted by the true owner to deal with them as his own, but the consent must move directly from the true owner to bkpt.—FRASER v. SWANSEA CANAL NAVIGATION (1834), 1 Ad. & El. 354; 3 Nev. & M. e. Possession taken by trustee of marriage settlement—No objection by true owner.]—Where the owner of chattel property, & of an establishment where he carried on his business, left the country without giving any directions as to his affairs, or making any provision for his wife, & one of the trustees of her marriage settlement took possession of chattels, the subject of the settlement, & paid the wife a weekly sum for their hire, with the consent of co-trustees, & they so remained with him to his bkpcy.:—Held: they were in his order & disposition, & the true owner could not claim them as he knew of the arrangement, but did not remonstrate against it.—Re MURRAY (1864), 16 Ir. f. Possession retained by bankrupt by false & fraudulent excuses.]—B., having borrowed £500 from W., agreed to insure his life for that amount, & assign the policy to W. as security. He took out a policy, but did not deliver it to W., & afterwards, being pressed for it, he stated that he had mislaid it, but gave W. a receipt for a premium, with an indorsement signed by him, to the effect that he assigned the policy to W. by way of security:—Held: assuming the doctrine of reputed ownership applicable, it could not be resorted to by the official assignee in the circumstances, as the policy was not in B.'s possession by the consent & permission of the true owner, B. having engaged to deliver it to W., & having evaded performance of his engagement by false & fraudulent excuses calculated to deceive, & which did deceive W.—Re LOWTHER BROAD'S ESTATE, Ex p. WELDON (1893), 12 N. PART XX. SECT. 9, SUB-SECT. 5.—B.

6768 i. Demand for possession—Before bankruptcy.]—The furniture of a hotel was lent on hire by A. to B., on the agreement that, upon payment of certain instalments it was to belong to B., but until such payment it should continue the absolute property of A., who, on default of payment of any instalment, might resume the possession. A. demanded possession of the goods on Oct. 1, B. having made default in payment of an instalment, which became due on Sept. 9, & having taken steps to file a petition of arrangement. B. filed a petition for arrangement on Oct. 2. A. again demanded possession on Oct. 22, but was refused. The arrangement proceedings were turned into bkpcy. on Oct. 28, up to which time the goods remained in the possession of B., as reputed owner:—Held: the goods did not pass to B.'s assignees, as, A. having previously demanded possession, it was not with his consent & permission that they remained in B.'s possession, at the time of the arrangement proceedings being turned into bkpcy.—Re SMITH, Ex p. HARPUR (1874), 9 I. L. T. 52.—IR.

6768 ii. —— —— Further time for payment granted.]—In 1883 B. mortgaged furniture to D. The mtge.-deed provided that until default the mtgor. should have free use of the mortgaged property, that the mtgee. should be at liberty to place a durwan in charge of the furniture, & that on default by the mtgor. the mtgee. should have power to enter the premises & deal with the goods as his own. A durwan was placed in charge, & in Jan. 1884 the mtgor. defaulted & was pressed for payment at different times previous to Aug. On Aug. 1, the mtgee. sent to the premises people for the purpose of cataloguing the furniture. Admittance into the house was refused to them by B., although they were admitted into the compound by the durwan of the mtgee. At about that date B. asked for further time for payment, which was granted. On Aug. 6, B. filed his petition in insolvency:—Held: on Aug. 6 the furniture was not in the possession, order, or disposition of B. as reputed owner with the consent of the true owner, & the fact that further time for payment was granted had not the effect of a fresh consent on the part of the mtgee. to the goods being in the possession of B. as reputed owner.—Re BROWN (1886), I. 6768 iii. —— Before act of bankruptcy.]—B. having made default in the payment of the instalments due under a hire purchase agreement of an engine, on Oct. 19 the owner wrote him demanding the return of the engine. On the following Nov. 2 B. committed an act of bkpcy. The owner of the engine, not having received any reply to his demand for its return, sent his agent on Nov. 2 to take possession of it:—Held: as the owner had bonâ fide demanded possession of the engine on Oct. 19, before the commencement of the bkpcy. of B., & had within a reasonable time after his demand taken steps to obtain possession, the engine was not at the date of the commencement of the bkpcy. in the possession of bkpt. with the consent of the true owner.—CAMPBELL v. BUCKMAN'S OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1909), 28 N. 6768 iv. —— —— Possession obtained after act of bankruptcy.]—B., the holder of a registered bill of sale on the furniture in W.'s hotel, demanded possession on Feb. 2. On Feb. 3 W. left the country, & on attending at the office of the solrs., B. was advised by them to take possession, which he did forthwith. On Mar. 9 W. was adjudged bkpt. on the act of bkpcy. committed in leaving the country on Feb. 3:—Held: the demand of possession of the goods made by B. was, in the circumstances, insufficient to negative his consent to their remaining in the order & disposition of W.—Re WALSHE, Ex p. BRUNKER (1878), 12 I. 6769. —— ——.]—A merchant in France employed debtor in England to sell wines on commission, & to purchase wines on his account, for which he provided letters of credit. The wines were generally bought & sold by debtor in his own name. Part of the wines were at the docks in debtor's name, & part formed one indiscriminate stock in debtor's cellar. The merchant required debtor to deliver up all his wines, debtor neglected to comply & became bkpt. :—Held : the wines were not in the order & disposition of bkpt., & those which were consigned to debtor or purchased with the merchant's money must be delivered up. —Re HUNTER, Ex p. MOLDAUT (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 351, Ct. of R.

He mortgaged the newspapers, type, & plant to F., who took no steps to alter the registration of proprietorship. The sheriff entered under an execution issued by a creditor of B. &, though possession was demanded by F., remained in possession till B. had become bkpt., which took place after two days :—Held : the type & plant were not within the order & disposition of bkpt., at the time of his bkpcy., with the consent of the true owner.—Re BALDWIN, Ex p. FOSS, Ex p. BALDWIN (1858), 2 De G. & J. 230 ; 27 L. 6771. —— ——.]—M., a warehouseman, borrowed £700 of pltf., & gave bills of exchange for the amount, & at the same time delivered to pltf. a warehouse warrant in the following form : "13th Jan. Warehouse warrant for 16,000. Archangel cargo mats, now lying in my warehouse, which I will deliver to the order of H. only, or hold on his account" ; & also another document of the same date, purporting to give pltf. a general lien on the mats, with a discretionary power to sell them for pltf.'s benefit. On Mar. 4 M. committed an act of bkpcy., the mats being still in his warehouse, but on Feb. 19, & on several occasions between that date & Mar. 4, pltf. had demanded possession. On Mar. 16 M. was adjudicated a bkpt., & his assignee claimed the goods :—Held : there had been a complete transfer of the property to pltf., & after pltf.'s demand on Feb. 19, there had been no consent on his part to the goods remaining in bkpt.'s possession, & pltf. was entitled to judgment.—HORNCASTLE v. THOMPSON (1867), 16 L. In Mar., 1871, the price was paid. On Feb. 19, 1872, W. wrote to C., directing him to forward a specified hogshead of the whisky, & enclosing a cheque of sufficient amount to pay duty & clear the whisky. On the 26th C. filed a petition for liquidation, having retained the cheque, but not paid the duty nor in any way complied with W.'s directions. At the time of sale the whisky had been all carried to W.'s credit in C.'s books, but had throughout been lying to C.'s order at a dock warehouse :—Held : the hogshead did not pass to the trustee in liquidation as being within C.'s order & disposition, as the consent of the true owner had been determined by the demand of possession, though no notice had been given to the warehouseman.—Re COUSTON, Ex p. WARD (1872), 8 Ch. At the same time he gave the bankers a written request addressed to the warehouse keeper to transfer the oil to the bankers. The order was presented on the afternoon of the following day, but in the morning of that day the oil had been delivered to debtor, & mixed with other oil in his warehouse. 6777. —— ——.]—Debtor on the eve of insolvency being pressed for payment by a creditor, wrote a letter purporting to transfer to him coal lying at his wharf, the proceeds of which he agreed to hand over to the creditor till his debt was discharged. The next day the creditor, not having heard of the filing of the petition, but suspecting that debtor was insolvent, made a formal demand for the coal, & sent a man to take possession of it, who was forcibly ejected by debtor. On the following day debtor filed a petition:—Held: although it was intended by the parties that the coal should remain in the possession of debtor, yet the creditor had a right to demand possession of it if he suspected the insolvency of debtor, & when that was done it ceased to be in the order & disposition of debtor with the consent of the true owner.—Re O'BRIEN, Ex p. MONTAGU (1876), 1 Ch. 6778. —— After notice of act of bankruptcy.]—W., a trader, by bill of sale, dated July 14, 1856, assigned all his stock & household furniture to pltf. as security for an advance of £100. The deed contained a proviso that, in case W., his exors., etc., should pay to pltf., his exors., etc., the £100 on July 14, 1866, or at such earlier day or time as pltf., his exors., etc., should appoint for payment thereof in & by a notice in writing given to W., his exors., etc., twenty-four hours before the day or time so to be appointed for payment, & should in the meantime pay the interest half-yearly to pltf., his exors., etc., the deed should cease & be void. There was also a covenant by W. for payment of the £100 & interest, & a further proviso that, until default should have been made in payment of the £100 at the day appointed for payment, or of the interest, after notice, it should be lawful for W., his exors., etc., to hold, make use of, & possess the goods assigned, without any hindrance or disturbance by pltf., his exors., etc. W. continued in possession of the goods until Jan. 19, 1862, when he committed an act of bkpcy. On the 21st, pltf., having heard of that, left at his dwelling-house a notice in writing requiring payment of the £100 & interest on the 23rd. On the 22nd, W. was adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: the goods passed to the assignees of W., as goods in his possession, order, & disposition, at the time of the bkpcy., with the consent of the true owner, within 1849 Act, s. 125.—SPACKMAN v. MILLER (1862), 12 C. 6779. —— After bankruptcy.]—Bkpt., before his bkpcy., on behalf of an unnamed principal (deft.) took in exchange a quantity of timber, to be delivered free on board, & at the same time bought other timber of the same party on his own account. The timber was delivered to bkpt., & lay, till after the bkpcy., on a common, mixed with other timber of bkpt., & in his actual possession. Deft., after the bkpcy., but more than two months before the commission issued, wrote to the vendor, stating himself to be the principal, adopting the contract as to the goods taken in exchange, but no others, & directing that bkpt. should not be suffered to take them, & the vendor accepted him as purchaser. Before the commencement of the two months deft. had required bkpt. to deliver the timber belonging to him (deft.), & bkpt. had proposed to make up a deficiency in the quantity by delivering some of his own timber, but no contract of sale was made as to the latter, nor did anything further pass respecting the timber till two months before the commission, when bkpt. made a formal delivery to deft. of part of the sold & part of the exchanged timber, lying on the common, & the whole of the timber belonging to deft. was in the order, possession, & disposition of bkpt., with the consent of the true owner, till after the bkpcy.:—Held: there was a delivery of the timber to bkpt., though it was not shipped, & the timber remained in bkpt.'s apparent possession, with the owner's consent, up to the time of the delivery.—SHAW v. HARVEY (1834), 1 Ad. & El. 920; 3 L. The sheriff remained in possession until after the bkpcy., which occurred a few days after:—Held: it passed to the assignee as being in the reputed ownership of bkpt. at the time of the bkpcy. with the consent of the true owner, he not having claimed it until after that event.—Re ROUSE, Ex p. THE ASSIGNEES (1865), 13 L. 6781. Intention to demand possession—Possession obtained after notice of act of bankruptcy.]—The true owner of goods under a bill of sale permitted them to remain in the order & disposition of debtor. At a meeting of creditors, at which the bill of sale holder was present, an assignment for the benefit of creditors was proposed. The next morning debtor committed an act of bkpcy. by executing it. A few hours later the bill of sale holder sent a man to take possession, but was referred to the trustee under the assignment who was in possession, who gave him notice of the act of bkpcy., & told him he was too late. He replied he would inform the bill of sale holder, who afterwards obtained possession by force:—Held: what had been done before notice of the act of bkpcy., only amounted to an intention to demand & obtain possession under the bill of sale, & did not defeat the title of the assignees.—BREWIN v. SHORT (1855), 5 E. & B. 227; 24 L. 6782. Attempted sale—Bankrupt allowed to continue in possession.]—A trader executed a bill of sale of his stock-in-trade to deft. On June 17, in pursuance of an arrangement between the parties, deft. came on the premises of the trader & attempted to sell the goods, but there were no buyers & nothing was sold. Deft. then left the premises, & the trader remained there & continued to carry on business till the 22nd, when he committed an act of bkpcy. The sale had been advertised, but it did not appear that the goods were advertised to be sold as the goods of deft.:—Held: notwithstanding the attempted sale the goods were in the possession of bkpt. as reputed owner with the consent of the true owner at the time of the bkpcy., & passed to his assignees.—REYNOLDS v. HALL (1859), 4 H. & N. 519; 28 L. J. Ex. 257; 157 E. R. 943.

6783. Attempt to take possession without demand—Everything done short of forcible entry.]—Debtor assigned goods as security for the payment of his debt on a certain day, by a bill of sale which authorised the creditor to enter the house at any time, take possession of the goods, &, if refused admission, break into the house. Debtor retained possession, without interference by the creditor, till the day when payment was due. On that evening & the next morning the creditor's agents kicked at the gates & tried for hours to get in, intending to take possession. The gates were kept closed, & they were refused admission till debtor had filed his petition, & thereby committed an act of bkpcy. His trustee claimed the goods as being, at the commencement of the bkpcy., in the possession of debtor, as reputed owner, by the consent of the true owner :—Held : though the creditor had made no actual demand of possession, as he had done all in his power to take possession short of a forcible entry, there was no consent of the true owner & the creditor was entitled to his security.—Re SPARKE, Ex p. COHEN (1870), 40 L. 6784. Possession taken of part of goods—Terminates consent as to whole.]—A trader executed a bill of sale of his stock-in-trade in his shop & his furniture in his dwelling-house to secure a debt. The shop & the dwelling-house were situate in different streets in the same town. The bill of sale holder instructed his agent to take possession, & he entered into possession of the property in the shop before the filing of a petition by debtor, & took possession of the furniture in the course of the same day, after notice of the petition :—Held : the taking possession of the stock-in-trade operated as a withdrawal of the consent to the whole of the property comprised in the bill of sale remaining in debtor's order & disposition. Semble : the instruction to the agent to take possession amounted to a withdrawal of the consent to the property remaining in debtor's order & disposition.—Re ESLICK, Ex p. PHILLIPS, Ex p. ALEXANDER (1876), 4 Ch. h. Demand for first mortgage of debts due to bankrupt.]—By deed dated Apr. 6, 1892, a bank agreed to sell, & R. agreed to purchase, property & debts, payment of the purchase money to be secured to the bank by an agreement to mtge. over the debts. In pursuance of the deed, & on the same date, the bank, by a separate deed, assigned the debts to R. absolutely. In further pursuance of the purchase deed, & on the same date, by a separate agreement in writing contemporaneous with the two deeds, R. agreed to execute & deliver to the bank upon demand a first mtge. or assignment by way of mtge. of the property & debts of which he had become the purchaser, & also of all future debts which might become owing to him whilst engaged in any business, which might be carried on by him during the continuance of the security. The agreement also provided that until the mtge. or assignment should be executed the debts & other property should continue to be a security to the bank for the payment of the purchase money, & R. declared & agreed that he held the debts & other property as a trustee for the bank, for the purposes mentioned. On Dec. 14 the bank called upon R. to execute a first mtge. in its favour in accordance with the terms of the agreement, but R. declined to execute the mtge. Semble : after the refusal by R. to comply with the demand made by the bank the property did not remain in the possession, order, & disposition of R. with the consent & permission of the true owner.—BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES v. COOK (1894), 12 N. Before the bkpcy, A., for valuable consideration, made an equitable assignment to B. of part of the money covered by the letter, & by way of additional precaution it was agreed that the letter of credit should, in the interest of B., be forwarded to C. At the date of the bkpcy. the letter of credit was in the hands of C. Before the bkpcy. 6788. Reputed owner & true owner same person.]—A British ship registered under 3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 55, was conveyed by A., the registered owner, to B., for a valuable consideration, by a bill of sale executed before, but not registered until after, the bkpcy. of A. :—Held : B. thereby acquired no property in the ship, but it passed to A.'s assignees.

Defts. are the assignees of A., & claimed the ship, either as having passed to them as the property of bkpt., under the fiat, or, on the supposition that B. acquired some interest under the bill of sale, as having been in the order & disposition of bkpt. as reputed owner, at the time of the bkpcy., with the consent of the true owners. A. died in Oct., 1816. In Oct., 1817, C., the widow, married E., who immediately took possession of the messuage & furniture, & continued in possession until Oct., 1828, when a commission of bkpcy. issued against him. In Oct., 1818, E. had procured B. to assign the messuage & furniture to him by a deed, which contained false recitals, & was in breach of the trust :—Held : the furniture was not in the order & disposition of E.

6790. —— Executor transferring shares to himself.]—J. became possessed in trust, as exor. of his deceased father, of certain shares in the joint stock of a co. The only evidence of a party's interest in the stock of that co. was a book, in which were entered all transfers of shares. There was an entry in the book signed by J., purporting to be a transfer of the shares in question from himself as exor. to himself in his individual character. Where the transfer was made in pursuance of a bonâ fide sale for a money consideration, the words " sell & assign " were used ; but those words were erased. On the faith of his apparent ownership of the shares, J. acted as a director of the co., & received the dividends to his own use up to the time of his bkpcy. ; &, on passing his accounts under the commission, he treated the shares as his own property. Upon an issue directed to try the right to the shares, between J. & another, as exors. of the original proprietor, & the assignees of J., it was left to the jury to say whether or not the shares were, at the time of the bkpcy., in the possession, order, or disposition of bkpt. with the consent & permission of the true owner. The jury having found for pltfs., the ct. refused to disturb the verdict.—COOPER v. DE TASTET (1833), 2 Moo. & S. 714.

6791. —— Purchaser who has obtained delivery order.]—A party having goods in his warehouse at Liverpool sold them, & gave the following delivery order to the vendee :—" We hold to your order thirty-nine pipes," etc., " rent free to Nov. 29 next." The goods remained in the same warehouse unpaid for till the vendee became bkpt. In an action of trover for the goods by the assignee, evidence was given that, by the usage of Liverpool, goods sold while in warehouse were delivered by the vendor handing to the vendee a delivery order, & that the holder of such order might obtain credit with a purchaser as having possession of the goods :—Held : bkpt. had not possession of the goods as reputed owner, with the consent of the true owner.

6792. —— Contractor under building contract—Containing forfeiture clause.]—A contract with a railway co. to erect a bridge provided that the contractors were to provide the implements & materials & that, if they did not proceed with proper expedition, the co., on giving notice, might employ other workmen, & in that case might use the contractors' implements & materials therein or about the works. The contractors committed an act of bkpcy., & a fiat was issued. Certain goods, timbers, etc., for building the bridge, had been previously deposited by them, on it & the land adjoining, & consisted of four kinds :—(1) those actually on the line of the railway, value £612 13*s.* 6*d.*, (2) those upon land adjoining the line of railway, not the property of the co., but enclosed & taken possession of by them under their Act, value £634 13*s.* 9*d.*, (3) those deposited upon the line of a temporary railway, made by bkpts., over land not belonging to the co., for the convenience of conveying materials, their value being £7 19*s.* 6*d.*, & that of the materials of the temporary railway, £131 15*s.* 4*d.*, (4) a crane, erected by the contractors at the end of the temporary railway, value £50. The co. took possession of all the goods, &, having given notice, took upon themselves the completion of the bridge, using some of the goods & retaining the remainder. In an action of trover, brought by the assignees of bkpts. for the goods :—Held : the lien of the co. on the first & second classes was not invalidated by the possession of bkpts., the case not being one of apparent ownership, for down to the date of the bkpcy., bkpts., who had the possession, were the true owners of the property.—HAWTHORN v. NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE & NORTH SHIELDS RY.

6793. —— —— ——.]—By a building contract made between a firm of builders & a school board, it was provided, by clause 10, that all plant & materials brought on to the ground by the builders for the purposes of the building should be considered to be the property of the board, & that they should not be removed by the builders or any other person without the licence of the architect, but that the board should not be answerable for any loss or damage which might happen to them, &, by clause 20, that, if the builders should delay the performance of their contract, the board might give the builders notice to proceed with the work, & that in the event of their not doing so within seven days the plant, etc., should be forfeited to the board. The builders having become bkpt., the board subsequently to the commencement of the bkpcy. gave to the builders & to their trustee notice under clause 20 to proceed with the work, & upon non-compliance with the notice the board claimed that the plant & materials upon the premises were forfeited, & that they were entitled to retain them as against the trustee:—Held: clause 10 of the contract did not vest the ownership of the goods in the board, & they were not in the order & disposition of debtors by the consent of the true owner within 1883 Act, s. 44, & did not pass to the trustee as being in the reputed ownership of debtors.—Re KEEN & KEEN, Ex p. COLLINS, [1902] 1 K. 6795. —— Person retaining possession after declaration of trust.]—A sole trustee, who had appropriated £4,000, part of the trust property, deposited in the box in which he kept the trust deed & the securities for other portions of the trust funds two policies of assurance, one on his own life for £2,000, the other on the life of his father for £3,000, inclosing them in an envelope with a memorandum that, "in the event of his" (the trustee's) "death," the amount of the inclosed policies was to be applied to the repayment of £4,000 borrowed by him of the cestui que trust. Six years afterwards the trustee became bkpt. The policy for £2,000 was found inclosed with the memorandum in the box, the other policy having been paid to bkpt. upon his father's death:—Held: there being a valid declaration of trust by the sole trustee, he was the proper person to be in possession of the policy, in other words the true owner within 1849 Act; & he being also in the reputed possession of the property when the bkpcy. took place, there was no separation of interests, the true owner & the reputed owner were the same person, & s. 125 did not apply.—Re BANKHEAD'S TRUSTS (1856), 2 K. & J. 560; 4 W. 6796. —— One of several trustees of settlement.]—Trustees, in breach of trust, advanced part of the trust money to a banking firm, in which one of the trustees was a partner, on the security of a mtge. of bonds in which some of the bankers were obligees. The bonds were left in the custody of the bankers, & no notice of the mtge. was given to any of the obligors. One of the partners & trustees of the settlement was the sole surviving obligee in one of the bonds:—Held: he was the real, & not the reputed owner of the bond debt, but he held it in trust, & it was not in the reputed ownership of the firm or of himself.

Others of the bonds had, without the knowledge of the cestui que trust been paid off & replaced by different securities, which the bankers had set apart & marked with the names of the trustees of the settlement:—Held: the securities were not in the reputed ownership of the bankers.—Re STRAHAN, Ex p. GEAVES (1856), 8 De G. The son, after W.'s death, elected to purchase, & paid part of the purchase-money, but before the residue of it was paid became bkpt. The receiver, in an action to administer W.'s estate, claimed to have a charge upon certain stock in the possession of the son for the residue of the purchase-money due to W.'s estate as against the trustee in bkpcy. of the son:—Held: bkpt. was both the reputed owner & also, as one of the trustees of his father's estate, a true owner, & the above sect. had no application.—Re WEBBER, Ex p. SLATER (1891), Times, July 14, C. Soon after the bill of sale was executed, the creditor's initials were marked on all the goods:—Held: this was no evidence of the notoriety of the change of property, & there was no evidence to go to the jury that bkpt. had ever ceased to be the reputed owner.—LINGARD v. MESSITER (1823), 1 B. & C. 308; 2 Dow. & Ry. The requisites of the registry had been complied with:—Held: as bkpt. had once been the real owner of the whole ship, & had never done anything to make it notorious to the world that he had ceased to be the owner of three fourths, he continued to be the apparent owner, & these shares passed to his assignee.—KIRKLEY v. HODGSON (1823), 1 B. & C. 588; 2 Dow. & Ry. 6810. —— After deed of gift.]—A. being at the time in partnership with his son & others, executed a deed of gift, whereby he gave to his son certain paintings, & other effects, in his dwelling-house, upon trust for himself (A.), for life, & after his decease for his son absolutely. At the time the deed was executed, formal possession was given to the son by the delivery of one painting in the name of the whole, but the effects were left in the possession of A. at his house, & the change of ownership was not made public further than by its being communicated by A. to some of his friends:—Held: as the son had omitted to give notice of the change of ownership the possession of A. was referable to his original title, & A. was in the reputed ownership of the goods at the time of his bkpcy.—Re ACRAMAN, Ex p. CASTLE (1842), 3 Mont. R6,000, & as collateral security he pledged watches, clocks, etc., with D. The articles remained for some months in the custody of D., who then redelivered them to M. for sale on commission, the proceeds to be applied in liquidation of the debt. M. gave a receipt for the articles. & some of them were sold by M. on those terms. On May 2, 1877, M. filed his petition in the Insolvent Ct. It was alleged that it was customary for European jewellers in Calcutta to receive articles on commission sale. & it was contended that such receipt did not divest the true owners of possession:—Held: the articles were rightly vested in the official assignee, as insolvent was the true owner of the goods.—Re MURRAY, Ex p. DWARKANATH MITTER (1877), I. r. —— Mixed with stock of bankrupt.]—P. carried on business in London, Melbourne, & elsewhere as a bookseller. On July 19, 1894, he was adjudicated bkpt. in England, but no insolvency or bkpcy. proceedings were taken against him elsewhere. Pltfs., a bank domiciled in Victoria, from time to time advanced money to P. to enable him to carry on his business in Victoria & to import goods. To secure those advances pltfs. received from P. the bills of lading of consignments of books, the bills of lading being indorsed absolutely to them. Those consignments on reaching Melbourne were placed in bond, & the parties agreed under seal that when P. required, for the purposes of his trade, any of the books so consigned, he was to apply to pltfs., & on giving an acknowledgment, to receive the bill of lading relating to such books, & obtain the books from the bond. In pursuance of the arrangement he obtained certain books from the bond, took them to his place of business, & disposed of them there in the usual course of business. At the date of P.'s bkpcy. some of the books thus obtained from the bond were on his business premises for sale in the usual course of his business. On that date pltfs., as owners under the indorsed bills of lading & as P.'s principals, seized the books. P.'s debt to pltfs. at the time exceeded the value of the books seized. Deft. claimed them as part of the bkpt.'s estate:—Held: the goods exposed for sale in P.'s warehouse at the date of the bkpcy. were at that date in the possession, order, & disposition of bkpt. by the consent & permission of the true owners, & P. under the style of his firm, was the reputed owner of them. The agents described themselves, upon a brass plate, which was affixed at their place of business, & also upon the invoices which they used, as "merchants & manufacturers' agents." They acted as agents in the same way for several other manufacturers:—Held: the trustee in their liquidation must deliver up to the manufacturers goods of theirs which were in the possession of the agents, in specie, at the commencement of their liquidation, & to pay over to the manufacturers the proceeds of the sale of their goods which had been sold.—Re SMITH, Ex p. BRIGHT (1879), 10 Ch. 6833. Possession by agent of bankrupt—Master of ship.]—By charter-party, the owner agreed to let, & the charterer to hire, a vessel for six months. The owner gave the charterer the power of appointing his own master, & required him to be responsible for his conduct, & the charterer appointed a master. The freight on the goods was to be paid, according to the bills of lading, to the master, without any stipulation that it should be applied in payment of the price of the hire of the vessel. The charterer agreed to pay at the rate of 22*s.* per ton per month, for so long as the vessel should be employed by him, such payments to be made from month to month, leaving one month's pay in abeyance, & the balance in cash on her final discharge. In an action upon the charter-party, by the assignees of the charterer, who had become bkpt., against the owner, for refusing to permit the master to deliver the cargo, deft. pleaded that bkpt., before his bkpcy. had agreed with C., the agent of deft., to deliver to him the bills of lading of the homeward cargo, & that C. should receive the proceeds thereof, for the purpose of paying the freight due to deft. on the charter-party :—Held : (1) the master was in possession of the cargo, as the agent of the charterer ; (2) as C. never had either constructive or actual possession of the goods till after the bkpcy. of the charterer, who remained, through his master of the vessel, the reputed owner of them, they passed to pltfs., as assignees, under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 72.—BELCHER v. CAPPER (1842), 4 Man. & G. 502 ; 5 Scott, N. 6834. Proof of reputed ownership—What must be shown.]—To make out a case of reputed ownership it is not enough to prove continued possession by the assignor, if the real ownership appears to have been known to creditors, & for aught that appears to all creditors, & in such a case, there is no question of fact for the jury.

A claim to goods before insolvency, known to one of the creditors & to the attorney, & to the sheriff's officer, is notice to all the creditors, & the assignees, of the real ownership which prevents, as against them, at all events, any reputed ownership from arising.—HALL v. DAY (1861), 2 F. & F. 568, N. P. ; subsequent proceedings, 5 L. T. 398.

6835. —— How proved—Disposition by bankrupt as owner.]—Where the question was, whether bkpt. had possession of a stack of bark as reputed owner :—Held : evidence of his being reputed the owner of it was properly admitted, facts having been proved, which amounted to a disposition of the property by him as owner.—OLIVER v. BARTLETT (1819), 1 Brod. & Bing. 269 ; 3 Moore, C. P. 592 ; 129 E. R. 726.

6836. —— —— Want of notice of assignment not conclusive—Insurance policy.]—Bkpt., a shareholder in a joint stock banking co., carried on the separate trade of a banker under the firm of Y. & Co. & was indebted to the banking co. in a large balance on a running account. To secure such balance, bkpt. had deposited with the co. two policies of life assurance, & other securities, but no notice of the deposit had been given to the insurance office :—Held : the want of notice to the insurance office was not conclusive evidence of the policies being in the reputed ownership of bkpt., &, no evidence having been adduced of such reputed ownership, the banking co. were entitled to the policies in question.—Re YOUNG, Ex p. COOPER (1842), 2 Mont. 6834 i. Proof of reputed ownership—What must be shown.]—In order to bring a case within the operation of the reputed ownership clause the circumstances of bkpt.'s possession of the goods must be such that the owner, in allowing the goods to remain in bkpt.'s possession, must be taken to have consented to a state of things from which the inference of ownership in bkpt. must, not might or might not, arise.—MAXWELL v. GILLESPIE'S ASSIGNEE (1909), 8 C. 6841. —— —— Knowledge in district that bankrupt not owner.]—By agreement between B. & deft., B. agreed, on payment to him of a sum certain, to convey to deft. a dwelling-house, & to deliver possession of all the household furniture & stock, & that after formal possession delivered to deft., B. should be allowed to remain in possession for three months without paying rent. The agreement was notorious in the neighbourhood. The money was paid by deft., & a formal delivery made to him, & B. afterwards left in possession according to the agreement. B. became bkpt. whilst he so remained in possession, & before the expiration of the three months :—Held : this was not a possession by bkpt. within 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11, as the agreement was notorious & there was no reputation of ownership in bkpt.—MULLER v. MOSS (1813), 1 M. & S. 335; 2 Rose, 99; 105 E. 6858. Payments becoming due to bankrupt under hire-purchase agreement.]—Debtors deposited with a creditor as security for his debt a hire-purchase agreement, by which they had agreed to let certain furniture on the hire-purchase system, to be paid for by half-yearly instalments, with the usual conditions in case of default, etc. No notice of the assignment was given to the hirer, &, before the second instalment became due, debtors were adjudicated bkpt. :—Held : the amount payable under the agreement was a debt growing due to bkpts. in the course of their trade, &, no notice having been given, the trustee in bkpcy. was entitled to the benefit of the agreement under 1883 Act, s. 44 (iii).—Re DAVIS & Co., Ex p. RAWLINGS v. DEWARS (1888), 60 L. SUB-SECT. 8.—EFFECT OF CUSTOM.

A. In General.

6859. Duty of court—To take notice of alleged custom.]—A trader hired household furniture under a written agreement, whereby he was to pay a weekly rent, & the owner was empowered to repossess himself of same upon the hirer becoming bkpt. The hirer became bkpt. At the time of the bkpcy. the furniture remained in his house, in his apparently uncontrolled possession. Although no evidence was adduced of the existence of a custom of hiring furniture :—Held : the ct. must take notice of such custom, & the goods were not in the order & disposition of bkpt.—Re HAWKINS, Ex p. EMERSON (1871), 41 L. 6860. Remittal to registrar—To inquire as to custom.]—A trader hired furniture under an agreement, which provided that in the event of nonpayment of any instalment, the upholsterer might seize & retake possession of the furniture as in & for his first & former estate, & any money already paid to him was to be forfeited, & that on payment of the full sum, the furniture should become & be the property of the hirer, but till payment of the whole sum it should remain the sole & absolute property of the upholsterer, & that it was only lent on hire to the hirer. The hirer, after paying £15, under the agreement, filed a liquidation petition, & afterwards two instalments being in arrear, the upholsterer took possession of the furniture :—Held : the case must be remitted to the registrar to decide whether the furniture was in the reputed ownership of debtor, or whether the custom of hiring furniture was so well-known as to exclude the operation of 1869 Act, s. 15 (5).—Re ROBERTSON, Ex p. CRAWCOUR (1878), 9 Ch. 6861. How question tried—By judge & jury—On vivâ voce evidence.]—When property is claimed as being in the reputed ownership of bkpt., it is convenient that the question of the existence of a custom notorious in a particular trade should be tried by a judge & jury on vivâ voce evidence, & not upon affidavit alone.—Re JENSEN, Ex p. CALLOW (1886), 4 Morr. 1, D. 6862. Onus of proof—Conflicting evidence.]—Where assignees rely upon the custom of the country to raise a title by order & disposition, but the evidence as to usage is both ways, this will not entitle the assignees, it being upon them to prove the reputed ownership.—Re ASHTON, Ex p. SCARTH (1840), 1 Mont. 6884. —— ——.]—Eleven pockets of hops having been purchased from T. in Oct., 1884, nine of them were left in T.'s possession, &, although they had been paid for, remained on his premises until Jan., 1885, when he filed his petition in bkpcy. The trustee claimed the goods in question as having been in the order & disposition of bkpt., & the purchaser alleged a custom of hop merchants to retain hops on their premises after purchase :—Held : (1) the custom was established ; (2) the mere fact of seeing hops in a merchant's warehouse could not be an inducement for any prudent man to give credit to the merchant, & the purchaser's claim was good.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. DYER (1885), 53 L. 6885. Horsedealer—Custom to take horses for sale or return.]—Goods which have been sent to a dealer on sale or return, in accordance with a well-known custom of trade, & which are, at the commencement of the bkpcy., in the possession of bkpt., do not pass to the trustee as being goods of which bkpt. is reputed owner, or of which he has taken upon himself the sale or disposition as owner within 1869 Act, s. 15 (5).

A horse was sent to a dealer on sale or return, in accordance with a well-known custom of the horse-dealing trade. The dealer was adjudicated a bkpt., the horse being in his possession :—Held : the custom of the trade excluded the reputation of ownership, & bkpt. had not taken upon himself the sale or disposition of the horse as owner, & the horse must be delivered up to the true owner.—Re FLORENCE, Ex p. WINGFIELD (1879), 10 Ch. The horse remained upon the premises of the firm until the time of their bkpcy., & it was sworn that in the trade it was customary to hire horses for business purposes :—Held : the horse did not pass to the assignees as being within the order & disposition of bkpts. at the time of the bkpcy.—Re COLSON & MILES, Ex p. ELMER (1865), 13 W. f. Horse racing—Custom to lease horse in consideration of receiving proportion of winnings.]—L. was the owner of a racehorse, & on Sept. 9, 1916, leased it to bkpt. for three years, on the terms that he should stable & keep the horse, & pay all expenses of running him, & that L. should receive half the stakes won. The lease was registered in accordance with Racing & Hunt Rules to that effect, & the details of such registration appeared in the Irish Racing Calendar for the information of parties interested in turf matters. The practice of leasing racehorses was common & well known to persons concerned in or interested in horse racing. The horse, whose winnings were considerable, had been raced by bkpt. in his own name, & was in his actual possession at the date of his bkpcy., & during the currency of the lease :—Held : bkpt. was not the reputed owner of the horse.—Re MAHON, [1918] 2 I. 6888 i. Hotel keeper—Custom to hire billiard tables—On hire-purchase.]—A billiard table was lent on hire to an hotel-keeper, on an agreement that, upon payment of certain instalments, it was to become his absolute property, but until such payment it should continue the property of the other party to the agreement, who, on default of payment of any instalment, might resume the possession. The hotel-keeper paid one instalment, & before any other accrued due was adjudged bkpt., while the billiard table still remained in his possession at the hotel. No general trade custom with respect to such hirings having been established in evidence :—Held : the billiard table passed to bkpt.'s assignees, under the order & disposition clause. Qu. : whether a general trade custom, if proved, for the hire of such goods under the "three years' system" would, in such case, suffice to prevent the operation of that clause.—Re SHAW (1877), 11 I. 6889. ——— ———.]—The custom for hotel-keepers to hire the furniture of their hotels is so notorious, & has been so often proved, that it need not now be proved, but the ct. will take judicial notice of it; & the custom extends, not only to furniture in the strictest sense of the word, but to all the articles which are necessary for the furnishing of an hotel for the purpose of using it as an hotel. The effect of the custom is absolutely to exclude the reputation of ownership by the hotel-keeper of all those articles in the hotel, at the time of his bkpcy., which are within the scope of the custom, without regard to the question whether the particular articles are or are not in fact hired by him. —Re PARKER, Ex p. TURQUAND (1885), 14 Q. 6894. Piano trade—Custom to let pianos.]—Four months previously to his bkpcy. debtor hired a piano from H. & Co., upon the following written terms:—"£15 a year for three years by equal monthly payments of 25*s*.," at the expiration of which term the piano became the absolute property of the hirer, but in case the instalments were not paid, or in the event of the death, bkpcy. or insolvency of the hirer before the expiration of the term H. & Co. were to be at liberty to determine the hiring & take possession of the instrument. There was no special mark or label on the piano to show that it was not the property of debtor. Upon the bkpcy., H. & Co. removed the piano from debtor's premises. The trustee claimed the piano as being within the order & disposition of debtor. There was evidence of a custom of letting pianos on such terms:—Held: the custom was sufficiently established, & one which the ordinary creditors of bkpt. must be reasonably presumed to have known, & the agreement for hire was valid, & did not come within the mischief contemplated by 1869 Act, s. 15 (5).—Re BLANSHARD, Ex p. HATTERSLEY (1878), 8 Ch. A plate with the lessors' name was affixed to the engine, but, in the position which the engine occupied in bkpt.'s premises, the plate could not be seen. 6896 i. Printing trade—Custom to hire machines.]—A printing machine was let by a firm on hire to a trader for the purpose of his carrying on business as an operative printer, under an agreement, which provided for payment by instalments. From the date of delivery in Feb., 1890, to Apr., 1891, when the trader was adjudged a bkpt., he paid only £10. On a claim by the firm to have the machine restored to their possession, it was established that there existed in the printing trade a general & well-recognised custom of letting such machines on hire, with power to resume possession on the bkpcy. of the hirer:—Held: the custom took the machine out of the reputed ownership of bkpt.—Re DUNNE, Ex p. PALLESTER & SON (1891), 25 I. The goods were left there for the convenience of the purchaser, to whom a delivery warrant had been given by the vendors, in which they stated that they held the goods to his order as warehousemen. The vendors did not carry on business as general warehousemen, but it was proved to be the usual custom of the wine & spirit trade, in Liverpool, for goods sold in bond to remain in the possession or under the control of the vendors, in the bonded warehouse in which they were at the time of sale, until they were required by the purchaser for use:—Held: the existence of a custom of that nature, shown to be well known among persons in the wine & spirit trade, excluded the doctrine of reputed ownership, & the goods did not pass to the trustee.—Re COUSTON, Ex p. WATKINS (1873), 8 Ch. No delivery order had been given to the purchasers before the filing of the petition, & they were ignorant in what warehouse the whisky was lying:—Held: the custom of the spirit trade excluded the reputation of ownership, although the whisky was in the warehouse of a third party, & not in that of the vendors, & the fact of the delivery order not having been given to the purchasers before the commencement of the liquidation did not raise a reputation of ownership in the vendors.—Re COUSTON, Ex p. VAUX (1874), 9 Ch. While the machine remained in the possession of the trader, he was adjudged bkpt. An issue was tried by a jury, who found that there was a general well-recognised custom or usage on the sale in Ireland of sewing machines by manufacturers, that such machines should not become the property of the purchaser until the instalments as agreed upon had been paid. No grounds were shown to the satisfaction of the ct. for holding that, in the particular circumstances, the custom was unreasonable:—Held: the custom took the machine out of the reputed ownership of bkpt., & the laches of the co. in allowing the instalments to remain overdue, without resuming possession of the machine, did not disentitle them to reclaim it from the assignees.—Re BLACKWELL, Ex p. SINGER SEWING MACHINE CO. 6917. —— Death of debtor before seizure.]—The goods of a judgment debtor at his house were seized under a fi. fa. While the sheriff was in possession at the house, the judgment debtor, without the knowledge of the sheriff, placed a sum of money which he had received in a drawer in his bedroom there. Some days afterwards he died, & his widow, having found the money, removed it & deposited it with her solrs., the sheriff remaining in ignorance of its existence. Subsequently an order was made under 1883 Act, s. 125, for the administration of judgment debtor's estate in bkpcy. The sheriff, having learned of the existence of the above sum, claimed it from the solrs.:—Held: there was no seizure by the sheriff before the death of the judgment debtor, &, after his death, the sheriff could not seize the money, & it belonged to the trustee under the administration order as against the execution creditor.—JOHNSON v. PICKERING, [1908] 1 K. 6918. —— Sheriff withdrawing & reserving right to re-enter.]—Execution having been issued upon a judgment for £80 & costs, the sheriff on Dec. 31, 1898, levied under a writ of fi. fa. On Jan. 5, 1899, debtor, under an arrangement with the solrs. of the execution creditors, paid the solrs. a sum of £40 on account, & gave to the sheriff authority to re-enter under the writ of fi. fa. upon default in payment of any of the instalments of the balance at the agreed dates for payment. The sheriff thereupon withdrew. On Jan. 14 a receiving order was made against debtor on his own petition; at that date the sheriff had not re-entered under the writ of fi. fa.:—Held: the execution had not been completed as to the £40 at the date of the receiving order, & the execution creditors were not entitled to retain the benefit of the execution, but the trustee in bkpcy. was entitled to the £40 as part of debtors' estate.—Re FORD, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1900] 1 Q. 6919. —— Sheriff withdrawing on payment of debt direct to creditor.]—The goods of a judgment debtor were seized by the sheriff, but before the sale the amount due was paid to the creditor, & the sheriff withdrew. A week later a receiving order was made against the judgment debtor, on which he was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: payment direct to the execution creditor was not a completion of the execution by seizure & sale, & the trustee was entitled to the amount paid.—Re POLLOCK & PENDLE, Ex p. WILSON & MATHIESON, LTD. 6920. —— ——.]—The goods of debtor were seized in execution, &, to avoid a sale, he paid the full amount of the levy directly to the execution creditor & also paid the charges of the sheriff, who withdrew by direction of the execution creditor. Nine days afterwards debtor became bkpt.:—Held: (1) for the purposes of 1883 Act, s. 45, & 1890 Act, s. 11, an execution levied on the goods of a judgment debtor was not completed except by seizure & sale or payment of the full amount of the levy to the sheriff, & the retention by the sheriff of the money received for fourteen days without notice of a bkpcy. petition against debtor; (2) the execution had not been completed & the creditor could not, as against the trustee, retain the money which had been paid to him.—Re GODDING, Ex p. TRUSTEE, [1914] 2 K. 6921. —— Sale by agreement of certain articles withdrawn from execution.]—A judgment creditor issued execution against debtor's goods on June 26. Debtor's wife claimed the goods, acting on debtor's instructions, he being the real owner. The creditor, on the faith of the representation that the goods belonged to the wife, entered into an arrangement between July 10 & 17, whereby certain pictures were to be withdrawn from the execution & sold, & the proceeds paid to the creditor. The sale took place on July 17, & on 21st the creditor had notice of an available act of bkpcy., on which the receiving order was subsequently made. The proceeds of sale were paid to the creditor, partly before & partly after the date of the receiving order:—Held: the execution had not been completed within 1914 Act, ss. 40 & 41, & the trustee was entitled to the money paid to the creditor.—Re EVANS, Ex p. SALAMAN, [1916] H. 6922. Execution against goods under writ of elegit—No seizure till after petition—Premises kept closed.]—Pltfs. signed judgment against defts. on July 12, & on the same day delivered a writ of elegit to the sheriff. On July 11 defts. closed their place of business in order to prevent executions being levied, & kept them closed until July 16, when they filed a petition under 1869 Act, & at a meeting of creditors on Aug. 27 it was resolved that a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound should be accepted & secured by an assignment of the whole of the assets of defts. to claimants as trustees, & that a proper deed of assignment should be executed by defts. On Sept. 11 claimants received a written notice from pltfs. that the writ of elegit had been lodged with the sheriff, & on Sept. 17 defts. executed the deed of assignment to claimants in pursuance of the resolution of the creditors. The sheriff seized the goods on Sept. 20 :—Held : pltfs. were entitled to the goods.—EHLERS SEEL & CO. v. KAUFFMAN & GATES, WENDT & CHARLES, CLAIMANTS (1883), 49 L. T. 806.

6923. —— Possession taken before 1883 Act—Adjudication after Act came into force.]—Possession of the goods of debtor was taken by the sheriff under a writ of elegit on Dec. 22, 1883, but no delivery was made to the judgment creditor prior to debtor being adjudicated a bkpt. under the above Act, which came into operation on Jan. 1, 1884 :—Held : the judgment creditor was not deprived of his right to delivery of the goods seized.—Re WINDAS & DUNSMORE, Ex p. HOUGH (1884), 50 L. 6924. Attachment of debt—Sum paid into court.]—A judgment creditor having obtained a garnishee order in respect of a debt due to his judgment debtor, a third party intervened claiming the debt, & the garnishee under an order of the ct., paid the amount into ct. to abide further order. A receiving order having been subsequently made against the judgment debtor, the third party withdrew his claim :—Held : there had been no "receipt of the debt" by the creditor within 1883 Act, s. 45, so as to entitle him to retain it against the trustee.—BUTLER v. WEARING (1885), 17 Q. 6925. —— Payment before act of bankruptcy—Failure to file before bankruptcy consent order for judgment.]—A judge's order made by consent was given by deft. in a personal action to pltfs. authorising them to sign judgment, & judgment was signed. The consent order was not filed within twenty-one days after the making of the order, as required by Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), s. 27. The judgment creditors subsequently obtained payment under a garnishee order of money owed to the judgment debtor, & after such payment had been made debtor was adjudged bkpt. :—Held : as the consent order had not been filed within twenty-one days, & the bkpcy. of debtor had intervened, both the order & the judgment upon which the garnishee order was based were void under s. 27, & the trustee was entitled to recover from the judgment creditors the money received by them under the garnishee order as money paid to the use of the trustee, although it had been paid before the act of bkpcy.

6926. —— Payment postponed by agreement.]—A judgment creditor, who had attached a debt due to the judgment debtor, arranged with the garnishee not to enforce the order before a specified date, & the garnishee undertook to hold the amount of the debt on behalf of the judgment creditor, & on the day named paid it over to him. A receiving order having in the meantime been made against the judgment debtor, upon which he had been adjudicated bkpt. :—Held : the judgment creditor had no claim to the debt as against the trustee, & the garnishee was liable to pay the amount to the trustee, the attachment not having been "completed by receipt of the debt" before the date of the receiving order.—Re TREHEARNE, Ex p. EALING LOCAL BOARD (1890), 60 L. Before the bills were due C. recovered a judgment against A., & obtained a judge's order under 1854 Act, s. 61, for attachment of the debt due from B. to A., & to show cause why B. should not pay C. the debt due from B. to A. Upon the order being served on B., he gave C. a promissory note payable by instalments for the amount of the debt due to A. No further proceedings were taken under the attachment. A. afterwards became bkpt. :—Held : the debt due from B. to A. was not discharged by the promissory note given by B. to C., & A.'s assignees were entitled to recover it from B. :—Semble : payment by the garnishee to the judgment creditor upon notice of the attachment, is no discharge of the debt due from the garnishee to the judgment debtor, but there must be a judge's order for payment.—TURNER v. JONES (1857), 1 H. & N. 878 ; 26 L. 6930. —— Delivery in execution before receiving order—Return of writ after.]—A judgment creditor sued out a writ of elegit. An inquisition was held & the jury found that debtor was possessed of certain lands, & the sheriff delivered same in execution to the creditor until the debt was satisfied. The proceedings before the sheriff terminated at 12.30 p.m. At four o'clock on same day, debtor filed his petition & a receiving order was at once made. On the next day the sheriff returned the writ. The creditor had no notice of the presentation of any petition or of the commission of any available act of bkpcy. by debtor:—Held: the delivery in execution of the lands by the sheriff was a "seizure" within 1883 Act, s. 45, & the execution was complete before the receiving order was made, as the return of the writ was a mere matter of procedure, & the making of the receiving order before the return did not oust the right of the judgment creditor.—Re HOBSON (1886), 33 Ch. On Apr. 3, 1868, A. received $1,927, which, on the same day, was attached in his hands by B. on process issued against S., the husband, as an absent or absconding debtor. On Feb. 23 previously, S. had been adjudicated a bkpt. in England, & a creditors' assignee appointed. The assignee gave notice to the sheriff of the assignment & asked for a statement of the costs incurred to that time. No tender of the costs was made or undertaking given to pay them, & the sheriff proceeded with the sale, & sold the land. The order was served upon a bank with which he had an account, & an order was afterwards made directing the bank to pay into ct. to the credit of the action, " the sequestrator's account," the balance standing in their books to the credit of deft. The payment was made on Aug. 6, & the same day a receiving order in bkpcy. was made against deft. upon a creditor's petition presented on the previous July 13. He was afterwards adjudicated a bkpt. :—Held : pltfs. did not by virtue of the sequestration, or by the subsequent payment into ct., become secured creditors of bkpt., but the money in ct. had passed to the trustee as part of the property of bkpt. divisible among his creditors. Semble : if an order had been made that the balance of the fund, after payment of the sequestrator's costs, should be carried to the general credit of the action, pltfs. would have been in the position of secured creditors of bkpt.—Re POLLARD, Ex p. POLLARD, [1903] 2 K. A. In General.

6934. General effect—1890 Act, s. 11 (2).]—Apart from the above sub-sect., money in the hands of the sheriff can be attached by a garnishee order. The effect of the sub-sect. is to place a temporary stop on the money in the hands of the sheriff. The right of the execution creditor to the money is not a contingent right ; it is a vested right, liable to be divested in the event of bkpcy. supervening within the fourteen days mentioned in the sub-sect.—Re GREER, NAPPER v. FANSHAWE, [1895] 2 Ch. 217 ; 64 L. 6935. " Shall on request deliver "—Where no request made.]—Debtor gave a bill of sale of goods as security for a loan. The sheriff having taken the goods in execution on behalf of a judgment creditor of the grantor, the grantee gave the sheriff notice of his claim. The sheriff took out an interpleader summons, & on the same day a receiving order was made against the grantor, & he was afterwards adjudged bkpt. The official receiver did not claim the goods under 1890 Act, s. 11, but appeared on the hearing of the interpleader summons & concurred with the judgment creditor in asking for a sale under R. S. C. Ord. 57, r. 12, & an order for sale was made. Semble : if the official receiver had asked for the delivery of the goods to him under the above sect. the operation of the above rule would have been excluded, but 6931 iv. ——.]—Pltfs. in 1911 recovered judgment against Mrs. W., who had a furnished flat, which was let to deft. Pltfs. obtained the appointment of a receiver of Mrs. W.'s interest in the flat, & notice of the receivership order was served upon deft. with a request to pay the rent to pltfs., but nothing further was done to enforce the order. In 1913 Mrs. W. became bkpt. in Scotland. The sheriff informed the judgment creditor of the fact, but before the money was handed over to the creditor, debtor filed a petition for liquidation, notice of which was served on the sheriff, who nevertheless paid the judgment creditor the money, etc., he had received. The judgment creditors knew of & assented to the payments. Debtor on Nov. 24, filed a petition for liquidation, & a restraining order was served on the sheriff, who continued to hold the sums so paid on account. 6940. —— Payment of sum due for certain selected articles.]—Debtor, against whom a writ of fi. fa. was out, with the sheriff's assent, made an arrangement with a third party that he should have certain selected articles of debtor's, & pay for them sufficient to satisfy the execution. Afterwards the sheriff seized debtor's goods, & debtor filed his petition. The third party having paid the amount of the levy to the sheriff, he retired, & possession was obtained by the trustee, who sold the selected articles for double the amount paid by the third party:—Held: (1) there had been no good contract of sale of the goods, & the sheriff could not have sold before seizing; (2) the arrangement between debtor & the third party was a fraudulent attempt to keep some of the goods out of the liquidation, & the trusteee was entitled to them; (3) the third party, having entered into a fraudulent arrangement with debtor with the knowledge that he was about to commit an act of bkpcy., had no equity to be allowed to stand in the place of the execution creditor, although by paying the execution debt he had pro tanto relieved debtor's estate.—Re TOWNSEND, Ex p. HALL (1880), 14 Ch. 6942. —— Payment into court by adverse claimant.]—Pltf. recovered judgment against deft., & issued execution thereon for £130. The goods, which were seized by the sheriff, were claimed by A. under a bill of sale. The sheriff thereupon interpleaded, & on Nov. 6 an order for an interpleader issue was made, the sheriff being ordered to withdraw, A. to pay £130 into ct., otherwise the goods to be sold. On Nov. 17 deft. filed his petition in bkpcy., & a receiving order was made, & on Nov. 20 A. paid £130 into ct. The official receiver claimed the £130 paid into ct., & applied, with the assent of A., for an order directing payment of that sum out to him, contending that such sum represented the proceeds of the goods :—Held : the money never was debtor's, & the official receiver could not be entitled to the money, which he had no right to at all.—SHUCKBURGH v. DUTHOIT, PIKE, CLAIMANT (1892), 8 T. Notice of a bkpcy. petition against debtor was given to the high bailiff, within fourteen days. The high bailiff paid the money to the official receiver :—Held : the money was not paid "in order to avoid sale," within 1890 Act, s. 11 (2), & the execution creditor was entitled to recover the amount from the high bailiff. Qu. : whether it made any difference that the money was not paid by debtor himself.—BOWER v. HETT, [1895] 2 Q. 6944. —— Payment to release goods not belonging to debtor.]—Under a writ of fi. fa. the sheriff seized scenery & theatrical costumes lying at a railway station in the name of a judgment debtor, but not being in fact his property. Debtor had a few days previously been adjudicated bkpt., although the sheriff had no notice of the fact at the time. To release the property for a performance, which bkpt. was under a contract to present, a sum of money was paid over to the sheriff by a third party, who took a receipt from bkpt. & deducted the amount so paid from a share of the takings at the theatre, to which bkpt. became entitled under the contract at the end of the week : —Held : the money was paid for the specific purpose of releasing goods, which were not the property of bkpt., & the official receiver was not entitled to the goods seized or the money.—Re WATSON, Ex p. SCHIPPER (1912), 107 L. 6945. Duty to retain—"Fourteen days"—From time at which sale was complete.]—An execution was issued against defts. upon a judgment. The sheriff seized goods & sold them on Jan. 10. On Jan. 12 other goods upon other premises were sold. On Jan. 24 a petition was presented against defts., under which they were adjudicated on Feb. 19. The sheriff had notice of the petition on Jan. 25 :—Held : the trustee was entitled to the whole proceeds, as the "sale" contemplated by 1869 Act, s. 87 was not completed until Jan. 12, within fourteen days from the receipt by the sheriff of notice of the filing of the petition.—JONES v. PARCELL (1883), 11 Q. B. D. 430 ; 52 L. J. Q. B. 672 ; 49 L. T. 197 ; 47 J. P. 614.

6946. —— —— Calculated from date of sale—Not from receipt of proceeds.]—The period of fourteen days during which the sheriff is required by 1883 Act, s. 46 (2), to retain in his hands the proceeds of goods sold under an execution commences to run from the date of the sale, & not from the date when the proceeds of the sale are received by him.

The general notion of the Act seems to be that a creditor shall not have the benefit of his execution if, before sale, notice is given to the sheriff, or if, the amount being over £20, notice is given to the sheriff within fourteen days after the date of the sale. That seems to give fair notice to creditors of the time within which a petition in bkpcy. must be presented ; &, if fourteen days are allowed to pass without the presentation of a petition, the legislature seems to consider that the execution creditor should reap the benefit of his diligence. Therefore, the fourteen days must run from the date of the sale, & not from the time when the proceeds are received by the sheriff (CAVE, J.).—Re CRIPPS, ROSS & CO., Ex p. ROSS (1888), 21 Q. B. 6950. —— When presumed.]—A creditor issued execution against a trader for a debt above £50. After the goods seized by the sheriff had been sold, the same creditor issued another execution against debtor for another debt above £50. The goods seized under the second execution were sold, & the money produced by the sale was paid over to the creditor, the sheriff having had no notice within fourteen days from the sale of any bkpcy. petition against debtor. Afterwards debtor was adjudicated a bkpt. upon the act of bkpcy. committed by the seizure & sale under the first execution. The money produced by the first sale was not paid to the creditor till after the sale under the second execution:—Held: though it was not proved that the creditor had, when the sale took place under the second execution, any actual knowledge that the sale had been made under the first, he must be deemed to have had notice of the proceeding under his own execution, & must refund the money produced by the second execution.—Re HUSBAND, Ex p. DAWES (1875), L. 6951. —— Sufficiency of.]—The notice of an act of bkpcy., in order to invalidate an execution, under 1869 Act, s. 95 (3), ought to convey specific information as to the acts constituting the act of bkpcy., & ought not to leave room for doubt. A notice stating circumstances, which may or may not amount to an act of bkpcy., is insufficient.

H. obtained judgment against B., a non-trader, & issued a writ of fi. fa. The sheriff seized thereunder certain goods of B. Prior to the seizure, B. had executed a deed of assignment of all his estate & effects to W. for the benefit of B.'s creditors, & thereby committed an act of bkpcy. On the day after the seizure, the attorneys of B. wrote to the attorney of the execution creditor a letter as follows:—"B. made an assignment of what goods he had, & it was arranged that his daughter should raise the money, but this we find was never finally arrived at." The sheriff sold the goods under the execution, & B. was adjudicated a bkpt. on the next day:—Held: the letter of the attorneys was insufficient as a notice of the act of bkpcy., & the execution creditor was entitled to the proceeds of the sale.—EVANS v. HALLAM (1871), L. 6952. —— ——.]—Where a sheriff has sold under an execution the goods of a person, who is not evidently a trader, & notice of the filing of a liquidation petition is given to the sheriff under 1869 Act, s. 87, it should give such information to the sheriff that he may identify debtor with the person whose goods have been sold, & may infer that he is a trader.—Re SMITH, Ex p. SPOONER (1874), 10 Ch. 6954. —— ——.]—Goods of debtor were taken in execution by pltf. under a judgment for a sum exceeding £20. The goods having been claimed by a third party an interpleader order was made, directing that, unless payment were made or security given by claimant, the sheriff should sell the goods & pay the proceeds into ct. Claimant did not comply with the order & ultimately withdrew his claim. The goods were sold & the proceeds paid into ct. After payment into ct. & within fourteen days of the sale notice of a bkpcy. petition having been presented against debtor was served on the sheriff, & debtor was adjudged bkpt. on such petition:—Held: the trustee of debtor was entitled as against pltf. to the money in ct.—HEATHCOTE v. LIVESLEY (1887), 19 Q. 6955. —— ——.]—On July 22, 1903, the sheriff levied on the goods of debtor at the A. & B. hotels. On July 27 he withdrew, on the instructions of the judgment creditor, from the A. hotel on part payment. On July 28 debtor sold to the execution creditor goods at the A. hotel which had been seized, & on July 29 he also sold to the execution creditor goods at the same place which had not been seized. On the same day an arrangement was made, by which debtor received credit for the amount in the hands of the sheriff & for the goods sold, & he paid the balance direct to the execution creditor. The sheriff, on Aug. 12, paid over the amount in his hands to the execution creditor, having received no notice of a bkpcy. petition. On Aug. 20 a receiving order was made against debtor on his own petition:—Held: the trustee had no title against the execution creditor to the money or the goods.—Re JENKINS, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1904), 90 L. L. T. 96.—IR.

On the same day deft. executed an inspectorship-deed of his estate under 1861 Act, & on the following day, July 9, filed a petition in bkpcy., & thereupon an adjudication in bkpcy. was, on that day, made against him as a trader-debtor on a judgment-debt above £50. The proceedings in bkpcy. were stayed from time to time, under s. 199, until the registration of the inspector-ship-deed which took place on Aug. 5, & immediately afterwards, on Aug. 9, the petition was dismissed & the bkpcy. annulled. The sheriff, being in doubt as to the proper disposal by him, under s. 73, of the proceeds of the sale of deft's. goods under the fi. fa. paid the amount into ct., & on a rule to show cause why same should not be paid out to the inspectors under the deed, or to deft. himself :—Held : the money belonged to pltf., the execution-creditor, from July 15, seven days after the sale of the goods under the fi. fa. on the 8th, & he, & he alone, was entitled to it, & on the bkpcy. being annulled, the assignees ceased to have any title, & the sheriff held the money for the benefit of the execution creditor.—DIGGLES v. AUSTIN (1868), 18 L. 6957. —— —— Successive writs.]—The sheriff having levied execution under five writs of fi. fa., the second & fifth of which, in order of priority, were for sums less than £20, retained the proceeds of the sale in his hands for fourteen days, & upon receiving notice of a receiving order having been made against debtor, paid the second judgment creditor, & handed the balance to the trustee. The amount realised would not have sufficed to pay the first four creditors in full. The fifth creditor claimed to be paid in full :—Held : where there was a succession of writs, some for more & some for less than £20, & the sheriff sold, the writs were payable in order of priority so long as there were funds, & if he received notice of a bkpcy. petition within fourteen days of the sale, only those writs were entitled to be paid which were for less than £20, & which would have been paid had not bkpcy. supervened.—Re PEARCE, Ex p. CROSSTHWAITE (1885), 14 Q. 6961. —— —— —— Debtor adjudicated bankrupt on subsequent creditor's petition.]—A creditor levied execution on his debtor's goods for a debt exceeding £50, & the sheriff seized & sold them. Debtor filed a petition for liquidation, & served notice of it on the sheriff before the sale. Before the expiration of fourteen days after the sale the first meeting of the creditors was held, but no resolution was passed. The sheriff, after the expiration of the fourteen days, paid the proceeds of the sale to the execution creditor. Afterwards a bkpcy. petition was filed by another creditor, which stated the filing of the petition for liquidation & the failure of the proceedings, & debtor was adjudicated bkpt. under such petition :—Held : the liquidation proceedings entirely came to an end on the failure of the meeting to pass a resolution, & as debtor was not adjudged a bkpt. on the liquidation petition within 1869 Act, s. 87, the sheriff was justified in paying the proceeds of the sale to the execution creditor.—Re CONDON, Ex p. JAMES (1874), 9 Ch. The trader filed a petition for arrangement, & on the same day a creditor filed a petition for adjudication against him. Notice of both petitions were given to the sheriff within fourteen days after the sale. The petition for adjudication was from time to time adjourned, & ultimately, at the first meeting for arrangement, an order was pronounced turning the case into bkpcy. The assignees claimed the proceeds of the sale in the hands of the sheriff :—Held : notice of an arrangement petition was not included under the words "any other petition of which the sheriff has notice" in 1872 Act, s. 54, & the petition for adjudication having been dismissed by force of law, the execution creditor was entitled to the proceeds of the sale. —Re M'CAMMON (1875), 9 I. Within fourteen days from the sale one of the partners presented his petition in bkpcy. & a receiving order was made against him, due notice of the petition being given to the sheriff:—Held: 1890 Act, s. 11 (2), did not apply, & the official receiver was not entitled, as against the execution creditors, to the net proceeds of sale in the hands of the sheriff.—DIBB v. BROOKE & SONS, [1894] 2 Q. 6975. What amounts deducted—Payments on account before sale.]—After seizure under a fi. fa. for a sum which was increased by possession money to an amount above £50, payments on account were made by the execution debtor, reducing the amount below £50. The execution creditor knew & approved of such payments, & authorised the sheriff to give the execution debtor further time to pay the balance, so that a sale might be avoided. Proceedings in bkpcy, having been taken against the execution debtor, his trustee paid the balance to the sheriff, who gave possession of the goods to the trustee :—Held : the execution creditor was entitled to the balance, as the proceeds of an execution for a sum not exceeding £50.—MOSTYN v. STOCK (1882), 9 Q. 6995. Costs of interpleader—1890 Act, s. 11.]—Goods of a judgment debtor, which had been seized by the sheriff under a writ of fi. fa., were claimed by a bill of sale holder & the sheriff interpleaded. On the hearing of the interpleader summons an order was made for the sale of the goods & for payment out of the proceeds of the claim of the bill of sale holder, the amount of the execution, & the costs of all parties, including the costs & charges of the sheriff. Before the sale, notice was served on the sheriff that a receiving order had been made against the judgment debtor:—

to levy the amount of his judgment debt & costs on the goods of C., such debt & costs together amounting to less than £20. Between the time of seizure & attempted sale C. was adjudged bkpt., & the sale was prevented by the messenger of the Ct. of Bkpcy., who took possession of the goods seized. This adjudication was subsequently annulled, & C. was again adjudged bkpt. on a new petition. On motion by the sheriff to be paid his expenses of levying execution, & by the judgment creditor for his costs under the judgment:—Held: the latter alone was entitled to move, & on consenting to prove as an ordinary creditor for the amount of his judgment, the sheriff's expenses should be paid out of ct. to the sheriff.—Re CAREY, Ex p. BOTTOMLEY & JORDI (1896), 31 I. d. Replevin—Seizure after delivery to registrar of deed of assignment but during removal thereof from office.]—An assignment was made to pltf. for the benefit of creditors, which pltf. delivered to the Registrar of Deeds at his house, at 3 a.m., with instructions to record it as a deed, & file it as a bill of sale. The registrar did not mark it "filed," or file it as a bill of sale, or number, enter, or index it in the book kept by him for entry of bills of sale, but recorded it in the usual way as a deed of land. It remained in his office until Dec. 5, when it was, without any instructions from pltf., sent by mail to the residence of pltf., who was not then at home, & who did not personally learn that the deed had been returned until Jan. 6. On Jan. 9 pltf. returned the deed to the registrar. In the interval, the goods were seized under an attachment issued on Dec. 22, & an execution upon a judgment obtained on Jan. 2 against the assignor:—Held: the removal of the deed from the office could not be taken advantage of by an attaching or execution creditor, who knew of its having been in the office, & replevin for the goods could be main-

7018. —— Delivery of goods to creditor—At value appraised on inquisition.]—The delivery to the execution creditor of goods seized by the sheriff under an elegit at the value appraised by the jury on the inquisition is a sale of the goods within 1869 Act, s. 95 (3), & is protected by that sub-sect., if the creditor has not at the time of the delivery notice of any act of bkpcy. committed by debtor prior to the seizure & available against him for adjudication. Notice of an act of bkpcy. committed between the seizure & the delivery will not deprive the creditor of the protection.—Re BANNISTER, Ex p. VALE (1881), 18 Ch. D. 137; 50 L. J. Ch. 797; 45 L. SUB-SECT. 6.—POSITION OF PARTIES ON AVOIDANCE OF EXECUTION.

7020. Execution by landlord—Right to deduct rent under Landlord & Tenant Act, 1709 (c. 14), s. 1.]—A landlord, who seizes his tenant's goods under an execution, the proceeds of which he is obliged to refund to the assignees of the tenant under 7 Geo. 4, c. 57, s. 34, cannot retain against the assignees the amount of a year's rent under s. 1 of the earlier Act.—TAYLOR v. LANYON (1830), 6 Bing. 536; 4 Moo. & P. 316; 8 L. 7021. First execution set aside—Right of trustee to benefit—As against second execution creditor.]—The goods of X. being seized under several writs of fi. fa. issued successively by A. & B., X. became bkpt. Upon an issue tried under an order of interpleader obtained by the assignees of X., A.'s execution was set aside, as having issued on a judgment founded on a warrant of attorney :—Held : B. was entitled to be paid, as if he had been the sole execution creditor, & the assignees of X. were not entitled to take the benefit of A.'s execution.—GOLDSCHMIDT v. HAMLET (1843), 1 Dow. & L. 501; 6 Man. & G. 187; 6 Scott, N. 7022. —— —— ——.]—B. entered up judgment on a warrant of attorney, & sued out a fi. fa., under which the sheriff seized. W. afterwards lodged a fi. fa. with the same sheriff in a bonâ fide adverse action against same debtor, & the sheriff delivered a warrant, in W.'s action, to the officer already in possession. The goods seized were sufficient only to satisfy B.'s execution. Before any sale, a fiat in bkpcy. issued against debtor. The assignees claimed the goods, & an issue was directed between B. & the assignees, to try whether B. was entitled to the proceeds of the goods, which were in the meantime sold, & the produce paid into ct. The issue was decided in favour of the assignees, on the ground that B.'s writ was founded upon a judgment on a warrant of attorney, & had not been executed by sale before the fiat :—Held : the issuing of the fiat rendered B.'s writ void, & W.'s writ, having already attached upon the goods provisionally, became, in effect, the first writ, & W. was entitled to have his execution satisfied out of the proceeds, & the assignees could not first claim any part of them under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 108, for rateable distribution among the creditors.—GRAHAM v. WITHERBY (1845), 7 Q. 7023. —— —— ——.]—On Mar. 4 the sheriff entered upon premises of A., under a fi. fa. at the suit of B., A.'s goods being then already under seizure, upon an execution at the suit of C., by an officer of the Lord Mayor's Ct., & D., the landlord of the premises, being also in for rent. On Mar. 9 a fiat in bkpcy. was awarded against A. On Apr. 6, D. sold all the goods, &, after paying C.'s execution, & retaining the amount due to himself for rent, paid the residue into ct. to abide the event of an issue between A.'s assignees & B., as to whether, at the date & issuing of the fiat, the assignees were entitled to the goods as against B. :—Held : it was not competent to the assignees, under such issue, to set up either the prior execution or the distress, to defeat the claim of B.—BELCHER v. PATTEN (1848), 6 C. 7026. Auctioneer paying off sheriff—Before any levy made—Knowledge that debtor about to file petition—Fraud.]—After a writ of fi. fa. had been issued against a non-trader & lodged with the sheriff, but before any levy had been made, a fraudulent arrangement was, with the knowledge of the under-sheriff, made between debtor & H., an auctioneer, that H. should, after a levy had been made, purchase goods of debtor sufficient to satisfy the amount to be levied, & that he & debtor should at once select the goods which H. was to purchase. H. knew that debtor was about to file a liquidation petition. On Mar. 19 the goods were selected, & were pointed out to B., a clerk of the under-sheriff, who took a list of them, which he handed to the under-sheriff. On Mar. 20 B. seized the goods & put a man in possession. Shortly afterwards debtor filed a liquidation petition, but before notice of the petition had been served on the under-sheriff, he had sent to H., telling him that the seizure had been made, & that the selected goods were his property, & asking him to send a cheque for the amount of the levy. Later in the same day the under-sheriff gave up possession of the goods to a receiver, who had been appointed under the petition, under the mistaken impression that debtor was a trader. The next day H. sent a cheque for the amount of the levy to the under-sheriff, & out of the proceeds the execution debt was paid. A trustee having been appointed under the petition, H. applied to the ct. for an order that the trustee should deliver up the selected goods to him, or pay him the amount which they had produced. The trustee had sold them for double what H. had paid:—Held: the goods had never become the property of H., &, although, by virtue of the seizure before the filing of the petition, the execution creditor had acquired a security for his debt on debtor's property, yet H., who had chosen to enter into a fraudulent arrangement with debtor with knowledge that he was about to commit an act of bkpcy., had no equity to be allowed to stand in the place of the execution creditor, notwithstanding the fact that, by paying the execution debt, he had relieved debtor's estate from the necessity of paying it.—Re TOWNSEND, Ex p. HALL (1880), 14 Ch. 7027. Bill of sale holder taking sufficient possession—After execution—Before filing petition.]—If, after the sheriff under an execution has seized the goods comprised in an unregistered bill of sale, to which Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (c. 31), applies, the bill of sale holder takes a sufficient possession before the filing of a bkpcy. petition, on which the grantor is afterwards adjudicated a bkpt., & the execution is then avoided by virtue of the relation back of the title of the trustee to an act of bkpcy. committed before the levy of the execution, the execution is swept away as if it had never existed, & the bill of sale holder is entitled to the goods as against the trustee.—Re TOOMER, Ex p. BLAIBERG (1883), 23 Ch. 7034. —— & provisional assignment—Whether good against trustee.]—If a soap maker, having incurred a forfeiture for concealing soap contrary to 1 Geo. 1, c. 36, s. 2, become bkpt. & a provisional assignment of his estate be made, after which the soap is condemned & bkpt. convicted, & thereupon a warrant issues to levy the penalty on his goods generally, such a warrant is bad, & cannot justify a seizure of the soap in the hands of the assignees.—AUSTIN v. WHITEHEAD (1795), 6 Term Rep. 436; 101 E. R. 635.

7035. Sale in default of claim—Estoppel against assignees.]—Where dfdt.'s effects have been sold under a venditioni exponas on an extent in default of claim, it does not conclude his assignees under a commission of bkpcy., & they will be allowed, on application, to enter their claim, & plead in a proper case where the proceedings have gone so far, on payment of costs of the sale & the application & putting the prosecutors of the extent in the same situation as if they had claimed & pleaded in due time.—R. v. ADAM (1817), 5 Price, 39; 146 E. R. 529.

7036. Warrant issued to levy exact sum—Larger sum subsequently found due to crown—Title of crown to balance on sale.]—Local Comrs. of Taxes issued their warrant under 43 Geo. 3, c. 99, ss. 41, 52, for seizing & securing the real & personal estate of a collector refusing to pay over the money received by him, but as a matter of arrangement did not proceed to sell the property so seized under such warrant, which had been issued expressly to secure a certain sum of money said to be due from him to the Crown. Five days after, the solr. for the taxes, the collector having been declared a bkpt. on that day, issued extents, under which was taken not only the property already secured by the warrant of the Comrs. of Taxes within their jurisdiction, but also other real & personal property in other places, for the purpose of levying precisely the same sum claimed on the same account, but, it being eventually discovered, that the sum actually due to the Crown for money received by the collector, amounted to very considerably more than the sum for which the warrant & the extent had issued, but not to double the amount, the Crown sold all the property, & applied the proceeds in discharge of the public debt in aid of the parish, as far as it extended to satisfy it, which produced a net sum much larger than the sum sought to be raised originally, but not sufficient to pay the whole debt, which sum, so produced, was paid into the receipt of the Exchequer in Aug., 1817. In such circumstances, the ct. refused to make absolute a rule, founded on the objection, that it was having recourse to two modes of proceeding for the same debt, granted to show cause why it should not be referred to the Deputy Remembrancer, to take an account of the money due to the Crown, with a view to get the surplus, beyond the amount of the sum originally sought to be levied, paid back to the assignees of bkpt., inasmuch as for such a debt so incurred, in such a character, the Crown was entitled to use every mode of proceeding given by statute.—R. v. JONES (1820), 8 Price, 108; 146 E. R. 1147.

7037. Writ of extent sued out in fraud.]—The Ct. of Exch. declined to interfere as a Ct. of Equity, on behalf of assignees, to declare that certain writs of extent in aid were fraudulently sued out, & to decree on that ground an account & repayment of the sums recovered by the judgments obtained thereon, because it appeared that the money obtained thereby was really due & owing from bkpt. to the prosecutors of the extents at the time, notwithstanding there was ground for doubt whether there was a debt due from the prosecutors to the Crown.—EVANS & MACKLEW v. SOLLY (1821), 9 Price, 525; 147 E. R. 171.

7038. Writ of extent set aside for irregularity—Second extent while goods in custody of sheriff—Title of trustee.]—Personal estate was seized under the Crown's extent, which was afterwards set aside for irregularity, & the effects ordered to be delivered up to the assignees of debtor, duly appointed under a commission, sued out after the teste of the extent. A second extent, tested the day the first was set aside, & subsequently to the assignment, was issued, & delivered to the sheriff, before the execution of the order by delivery of the goods to the assignees, the sheriff still holding them in his custody :—Held : the property in the effects had been changed & transferred by the assignment, & the Crown had no lien thereon, & the assignees were entitled to reduce them into possession.—R. v. MARSH (1825), M'Cle. & Yo. 250; 148 E. R. 404.

7039. Money standing in name of accountant in bankruptcy.]—To a writ of extent in aid against bkpt., sued out long after the issuing of the commission, the sheriff returned that bkpt. was entitled to a sum standing in the name of the accountant in bkpcy., in the books of the Bank of England, that the accountant held the money in trust for bkpt., & that the sheriff had seized such money. On that return the Ct. of Exch. made an order, that the sheriff should pay over to the prosecutor of the extent the amount of his debt. On a petition by the sheriff to the Ct. of Review to order the money to be paid over by the accountant in bkpcy. : —Held : the finding of the inquisition, & the sheriff's return, were alike erroneous, & no such order should be made.—Re AUSTEN, Ex p. MAGNAY (1842), 2 Mont. k. Jurisdiction of court to stay execution.]—Re DELAHOYD (1861), 11 I. Ch. R. 404.—IR.

l. Duty of court to stay execution.]—In bkpcy. the proper order to make is an order absolute in the first instance, restraining proceedings under executions, upon which the facts should be fully before the ct.; the order will be set aside if made improvidently or upon suppression or misstatement of facts.—Re ARRANGING DEBTOR (1873), 7 I. L. T. 17.—IR.

m. Application to issue execution—Against property of insolvent—Refused.]—ANON. (1829), 2 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 419.—IR.

n. —— —— To make other proceedings available.]—Where a beneficed clergyman had been discharged as an insolvent debtor:—Held: a judgment creditor, whose debt had been returned in the sched., might legally issue a fi. fa. for the purpose of obtaining a return of nulla bona, & thereupon issuing a levari de bonis ecclesiasticis.—MILLS v. HORNER (1845), 7 I. L. R. 212.—IR.

o. Application to set aside execution.]—Application to set aside an execution under a fi. fa. against insolvent's property refused, & the party left to his action on the merits.—ARMSTRONG v. MAGREGGOR (1828), 1 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 462.—IR.

r. —— What must be shown.]—To support an application by an insolvent to set aside an execution, a levy must be shown upon some property not vested in the assignee, who would otherwise be the proper party to apply.—MULLENS v. BURKE (1854), 1 P. R. 271.—CAN.

s. —— When granted.]—Pltf. issued a fi. fa. on June 7, 1865, & renewed it from time to time until June 4, 1867. On Mar. 30, 1867, deft. obtained his discharge in insolvency. Pltf. had proved his claim for the full amount of the judgment in the insolvent ct., & had never attempted to take any proceedings under the writ, which he refused to withdraw, although requested to do so. The ct. set the fi. fa. aside with costs.—DICKINSON v. BUNNELL (1869), 19 C. P. 216.—CAN.

t. —— ——.]—An application to set aside an execution against a discharged insolvent, on a judgment entered after his discharge, on a bond & warrant executed eighteen years before, granted.—ANON. (1831), 3 Ir. L. Rec. 1st scr. 105, 125, 145, 274.—IR.

v. —— —— Fi. fa. issued in district other than that where suit begun.]—COMMERCIAL BANK v. BRONDGEEST (1849), 5 U. C. R. 325.—CAN.

x. Application to compel creditor to refund proceeds of execution—When refused.]—The ct. refused, on motion, to make pltf. in an execution refund money levied under an execution, on the suggestion that deft. therein, a bkpt., had, in contemplation of bkpcy., executed a bond, with warrant of attorney to confess judgment, as that would determine the property in a summary way.—ANON. (1800), Rowe, 611.—IR.

y. Effect of insolvency — Upon prior seizure.]—Where deft.'s property has been attached, & he afterwards becomes insolvent, the ct. is bound to dissolve the attachment, although the property was released on bond.—MCINTOSH v. HAMILTON (1879), 19 N. B. R. 1.—CAN.

a. —— Upon subsequent sale.]—Where prior to sale of a judgment debtor's property in execution of a simple decree for money, the judgment debtor becomes insolvent & the vesting order under Insolvency Act, s. 7, is made, the purchaser at such sale acquires no interest in the property sold.—SUNDARAPPAIYAR v. ARUNACHELLA CHETTIAR (1908), I. L. R. 31 Mad. 493.—IND.

b. Effect of avoidance of assignment for creditors—Followed by proceedings in compulsory liquidation.]—Proceedings in compulsory liquidation taken after the execution of an assignment for the benefit of creditors not made in accordance with 1864 Act, render it absolutely void as against creditors of insolvent, so as to let in intermediate execution creditors.—THORNE v. TORRANCE (1866), 16 C. d. Effect of release of bankrupt's estate—Execution on judgment for defamation.]—Resp., who had obtained a verdict against applt. in an action for defamation & breach of contract, & had signed judgment for the amount of the damages & costs, presented a petition in bkpcy. for the sequestration of applt.'s estate, &. an order having been made for sequestration, proved as a creditor for the full amount of the judgment. She then procured the arrest of applt. on a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum for the amount of the damages recovered on the count of defamation:—Held: after the release of bkpt. deft.'s estate, if the judgment debt in respect of the damages for defamation had not been wholly satisfied, the liability of deft. for the balance continued, & the judgment creditor had the same choice of methods of execution as before the bkpcy.—FERRIS v. MARTIN (1905), 2 C. g. Seizure under writ of fi. fa.—Whether stopped by assignment.]—Goods in the possession of an assignee appointed under Insolvent Act 1875, cannot be taken in execution.—MCMASTER v. MEAKIN (1877), 7 P. R. 211.—CAN.

h. —— ——.]—The W. Co. was indebted to pltf., but sold & delivered possession of its stock to the S. Co. without observing Bulk Sales Act (Man.). Pltf. sued the W. Co. & placed an execution against the stock, which in the meantime passed to the assignee of the creditors of the S. Co. The sale to the S. Co. was held void in so far as the claim of pltf. was concerned. The assignee thereupon paid the bailiff the amount of the claim, & the bailiff advertised the receipt of the money, & before three months had elapsed pltf. filed a notice of claim under an execution out of the Ct. of King's Bench against the W. Co. On a claim to share rateably in the money in ct. under County Cts. Act:—Held: the money paid by the assignee was not realised under a writ of execution within s. 204 of the Act, & was not the proceeds of the goods of debtor, but was the assignee's money.—DRAPER v. JACKSON (1916), 33 W. L. R. 796; 10 W. W. R. 78; 26 Man. L. R. 165.—CAN.

j. —— —— By executors.]—Testator gave all his estate, real & personal, to his exors. in trust, empowering them to continue his business, which they did for several years, & in doing so acquired a large amount of property. Subsequently they assigned same, as well as that portion remaining left by testator as that acquired since his death, to trustees for all creditors of the estate, & each exor. severally assigned for the benefit of individual creditors. A judgment having been recovered against the exors. individually, upon a note made by them as exors., the judgment creditors claimed a right to seize the goods in the hands of the trustees, notwith-

7045. "Unable to meet his engagements"—1849 Act, s. 135.]—Held: a trader was not to be deemed "unable to meet his engagements" within the above sect., if his assets exceeded the amount of his liabilities, even although it did not appear that he could have immediately realised the amount.—LOADER v. HISCOCK (1858), 1 F. & F. 132.

7046. "Antecedent debt or demand"—1849 Act, s. 135.]—A warrant of attorney given to a retiring partner, contemporaneously with the deed of dissolution, to secure him repayment of the capital he had brought into the business, is not given for an "antecedent debt or demand" within the above sect.—LOADER v. HISCOCK (1858), 1 F. & F. 132.

7047. Seizure under writ of fi. fa.—Whether stopped by issue of commission.]—The seizure of goods in execution cannot be affected by any subsequent act of bkpcy. by the party to whom they belonged, but a seizure after an act of bkpcy., if a commission is taken out thereon, will.—COLE v. DAVIES (1699), 1 Ld. standing the assignments thereof:—Held: the assignments passed the property to the trustees, who were entitled as pltfs. to a verdict.—KERR v. HALDAN (1864), 2 E. & A. 382; affg. HALDEN v. KERR (1862), 12 C. P. 620. —CAN.

k. —— —— After stay of execution.]—Judgment creditors having executions in the sheriff's hands, under which a seizure had been made, signed an agreement giving deft. an extension of time for payment on certain conditions therein mentioned. Upwards of thirty days afterwards deft. assigned under Insolvent Act, the conditions of the agreement having been so far performed:—Held: the writs were not in the sheriff's hands for execution, & the assignment took priority.—Re ROSS (1866), 3 P. R. 394.—CAN.

l. —— —— ——.]—During a stay of proceedings on an execution the writ cannot be considered as in the sheriff's hands to be executed until the stay is removed & the sheriff ordered to proceed, & if he is so ordered within thirty days of an assignment in insolvency the execution creditor is not entitled to priority over other creditors. —Re FAIR & BUTTS, 2 C. L. J. N. S. 216.—CAN.

n. —— —— Seizure of partnership assets—By separate creditor.]—V. & J. being in partnership, J. went out, & his father, D., took his place in the firm. About six months afterwards V. assigned to D. all the stock-in-trade, but the possession was not changed nor the assignment filed. Pltfs. subsequently became assignees of the firm under Insolvent Act, 1864, & of each of the partners. In an interpleader issue to try their right as against an execution creditor of V. alone, the execution being after the assignment to D., but whether before or after pltfs.' title accrued did not appear:—Held: deft., as creditor of one partner, could not seize the goods out of the possession of the assignees of the firm, although he might have a right to V.'s share of the proceeds, if any, after paying the partnership debts.—WILSON v. VOGT (1865), 24 U. C. R. 635.—CAN.

p. —— —— —— Bankruptcy of partner.]—Partnership assets were seized in execution by the sheriff & advertised for sale. Before the sale took place one of the partners became bkpt., & the other partner left the colony. The official assignee of the estate of the bkpt. partner claimed the administration of the partnership estate. The sheriff interpleaded:—Held: what the sheriff had to sell would be merely the interest of the solvent partner, which was indivisible, & as there was nothing the sheriff could seize, he must withdraw.—DALGETTY & Co. v. ROSS & Co. (1892), 11 N. Z. L. R. 170.—N.Z.

r. —— —— Sale by trustee in ignorance of seizure.]—An assignee for creditors sold goods assigned, in ignorance of a seizure thereof by the sheriff under execution, but before a sale under the execution. The sheriff had left the assignor in possession:—Held: the assignment took precedence of the execution, & the assignee could sell the goods & give a good title thereto, notwithstanding the assignee's failure to publish notice of the assignment & to furnish the sheriff with a copy of the assignment.—SEINBAINE & TOX v. CHRISTOPHERSON & SASKATCHEWAN GUARANTEE & FIDELITY CO. (1918), 3 W. W. R. 174; 11 Sask. L. R. 385.—CAN.

s. —— —— Payment of proceeds into court by arrangement.]—Payment of money into ct. by arrangement between the sheriff, the execution creditor, & the assignee, does not affect the lien of the execution creditor, as the proceeds stand in the place of the goods.—DEERING v. GIBBON (1907), 7 W. L. R. 178; 1 Alta. L. R. 7.—CAN.

t. —— —— Mandamus to compel sheriff to convey land sold to execution creditor.]—M., under a fi. fa. at his own suit against D., which was the first in the sheriff's hands, purchased land in Sept., 1867. D. had in Apr. made a voluntary assignment, under Insolvent Act, 1864, to an official assignee, who claimed the proceeds of the sale. M. claimed a conveyance from the sheriff, crediting the purchase money on his judgment. The ct., in the circumstances, discharged with costs an application by M. for a mandamus to compel the sheriff to convey, to which the assignee was no party.—Re MOFFATT (1867), 27 U. C. R. 52.—CAN.

w. —— —— Further step required to perfect trustee's title.]—W. made an assignment to pltf. for the benefit of his creditors, of his entire property, including a number of shares in a schooner, but no bill of sale of the shares was either executed or delivered to pltf. D. & M. having obtained a judgment against W., issued a writ of execution under which deft., as sheriff, levied upon the shares & proceeded to sell. Prior to the sale, pltf. appeared before the Registrar of Shipping, & after making a declaration of ownership was entered upon the register as owner of the shares:—Held: pltf. had no equitable right which could be so asserted or which could prevail over the judgment creditors & the levy made by deft.—MOFFATT v. FERGUSON (1885), 6 R. & G. 217; 6 C. L. T. 446.—CAN.

7047 i. —— Whether stopped by attachment in insolvency.]—An execution against an insolvent debtor is superseded by an attachment in insolvency. —ONTARIO BANK v. WILCOX (1878), 43 U. C. R. 460.—CAN.

7047 ii. —— ——.]—Where an attachment has been issued against the property of deft. under 37 Vict. c. 7 (C. S. c. 38), & a writ of attachment in insolvency was subsequently issued against deft.:—Held: the judge was bound to dissolve the attachment, & the regularity of the proceedings in insolvency could not be inquired into.—GANTER v. BLATCHFORD (1877), 17 N. B. R. (1 P. & B.) 6.—CAN.

7047 iii. ——.]—Writs of attachment against the mtgor., as an absconding debtor, were delivered to the sheriff on May 20, & copies of the writ, with the appraisement & description of the land, were registered on May 21. On the same day a writ of attachment, under Insolvent Act, 1869, was taken out against the mtgor., but was not delivered to the sheriff until after he had registered the documents connected with the proceedings under Absconding Debtors Act:—Held: the claims of the assignee of the estate, to the surplus proceeds, must prevail over that of the attaching creditors.—ALMON v. GRAY (1876), R. E. D. 6.—CAN.

7047 iv. —— ——.]—A writ of attachment had issued against A. under Insolvent Act, 1864; the sheriff returned that he had previously attached A.'s property under Absconding Debtors Act, & that he also had various writs of fi. fa. in his hands:—Held: the writs of fi. fa. & attachment did not keep the estate out of the hands of the assignee who would be obliged to give the execution & attaching creditors that priority that they would be entitled to.—HENRY v. DOUGLASS, 1 C. L. J. N. S. 108.—CAN.

x. —— After assignment set aside—Right to follow money received by trustee.]—Where an assignment has been held void as against 13 Eliz. c. 5, & a creditor, who had subsequently obtained judgment against the assignor, & notwithstanding the assignment, sold all debtor's personal property so transferred, becomes entitled to all the personal property of the assignor levied upon by him under his execution, such creditor has no legal right & no equity to an account or to follow money received by the assignee or paid by him under such assignment

Sect. 10.—Rights of execution creditors & restrictions thereon: Sub-sect. 8.]

7049. —— Must be before act of bankruptcy—Act of bankruptcy & seizure on same day—Inquiry.]—Where goods are seized under a fi. fa. the same day that the party commits an act of bkpcy., it is open to inquire at what time of the day the goods were seized & the act of bkpcy. was committed; & the validity of the execution depends upon the priority.—SADLER v. LEIGH (1815), 4 Camp. 195; 2 Rose, 286, N. P.

7050. —— —— —— Fraction of day.]—The sheriff took possession under a fi. fa., & at a later hour of the same day deft. surrendered in discharge of his bail, & afterwards lay in prison two months, & thereby committed an act of bkpcy., & by 21 Jac. 1, c.19, was a bkpt. from the time of his arrest. In an action by his assignees to recover the value of such goods:—Held: the ct. would notice the fraction of a day, & the sheriff having entered before bkpt. had surrendered in discharge of his bail, the assignees were not entitled to recover.—THOMAS v. DESANGES (1819), 2 B. & Ald. 586; 106 E. 7051. —— —— Delivery of writ insufficient.]—A warrant of fi. fa., on a county ct. judgment, was delivered to the bailiff to be executed. Later on the same day debtor filed a petition for liquidation, & a receiver was appointed. The bailiff, on coming to debtor's house to execute the warrant, found the receiver in possession:—Held: the trustee was entitled to the goods as against the execution creditor, for under 1869 Act, s. 12, goods were not, as against the trustee, bound by a writ of fi. fa. from the delivery of the writ to the sheriff, but a seizure of them before the act of bkpcy. was necessary.—Re DAVIES, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1872), 7 Ch. 7052. —— After resolutions for compositions registered & composition paid—Writ delivered before petition filed.]—A judgment creditor delivered a writ of fi. fa to the sheriff before debtor filed a liquidation petition, but no seizure was made until after the creditors had resolved to accept a composition, the resolutions had been registered, & debtor had paid the amount of the composition to a trustee appointed by the creditors:—Held: the execution creditor was not a creditor holding a security at the time when the composition became binding, & he could not enforce his writ against debtor's goods afterwards.—Re BALBIRNIE, Ex p. JAMESON (1876), 3 Ch. D. 488; 45 L. J. Bcy. 156; 35 L. T. 533, C. A.

a. —— —— Seizure with notice of act of bankruptcy.]—On Nov. 3, D. filed a declaration of insolvency. On Nov. 22, F., a creditor of D., with notice of the act of bkpcy., seized the goods of D., under a fi. fa. On Nov. 24, D. presented a petition for arrangement, & obtained the usual protection order:—Held: the order operated against the previous seizure so as to prevent the execution creditor proceeding to a sale.—Re DELAHOYD (1861), 11 I. Ch. R. 404.—IR.

b. —— Of property acquired after discharge.]—Held: the goods of insolvent, discharged under Insolvent Act, 1795, acquired by him after the discharge, were not liable to be seized under execution for debt due prior to his discharge.—MAXWELL v. KERR (1796), Rowe, 396.—IR.

d. —— —— Property fraudulently assigned before discharge.]—The language of Insolvent Debtors Act, 1846, which permitted pltf. to take under execution property subsequently acquired by insolvent:—Held: not to restrain pltf. from taking under execution goods fraudulently assigned by insolvent previous to his discharge under the Act.—FALCONER v. SAWYER (1851), 2 N. S. R. (James) 277.—CAN.

D. & Osb. 74.—IR.

g. —— Undischarged bankrupt continuing to trade.]—A party had been declared a bkpt., & the assignee appointed on Sept. 15, 1842. In Apr., 1843, the usual consent to enable him to obtain his certificate had been signed by the assignee, & by the majority in number & value of the creditors, but the other necessary steps to obtain the certificate had not been taken, & bkpt. had continued to trade in his own name, without any attempt on the part of the assignee to take possession of his goods, until Aug., 1844, when they were seized & sold by the sheriff under a writ of fi. fa. at the suit of a judgment creditor. The sum levied having been lodged in the ct. by the sheriff, the ct. refused to pay it over to the assignee, pltf. in the execution undertaking to appear to a writ served on him by the assignee for money had & received, & also to admit the receipt of the money.—COLEMAN v. LYNCH (1844), 7 I. j. Seizure of ship under warrant of Court of Admiralty—After protection order.]—When seizure of a ship, the property of arranging debtor, is effected under a warrant of the High Ct. of Admlty., issued at the suit of a master in a cause of wages & disbursements after the granting of a protection order to arranging debtor, the Ct. of Bkpcy. has jurisdiction, under 1872 Act, s. 66, to restrain by injunction the Marshal of the High Ct. of Admlty., & such officer. Afterwards, on the same day, a vesting order was made by the Insolvent Debtors Ct. transferring the estate of T., & the assignee took possession of T.'s property. Afterwards the sheriff's officer seized it:—Held: the seizure was proper.—WOODLAND v. FULLER (1840), 11 Ad. & El. 859; 113 E. R. 641.

7063. —— On judgment in detinue—Goods being property of execution creditor.]—In an action of detinue for a mare, pltf. recovered judgment for £60, the value of the mare, to be reduced to 1*s.*, if she was returned to pltf. within two days, & £25 damages for the wrongful detention, & costs. After notice of the filing of a petition by deft., pltf. signed judgment & issued a writ of fi. fa. for the value of the mare, the damages, & his taxed costs. The sheriff seized deft.'s goods, but was restrained from levying by an injunction granted by the Ct. of Bkpcy. Subsequently pltf., seeing the mare in the possession of deft., who was using her with the trustee's permission, directed the sheriff to seize her under the writ, & the sheriff removed her forcibly:—Held: (1) the judgment not having been satisfied, the property in the mare was never divested from pltf., even though satisfaction was presented by the bkpcy. of deft., & he had a right to take possession of her peaceably, or to recover possession by legal process, but as he had seized her forcibly, he must pay his own costs; (2) the proper course to have adopted was for pltf. to have applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an order on the trustee to deliver up the chattel.—Re WARE, Ex p. DRAKE (1877), 5 Ch. a. —— Under void warrant of attorney.]—On Mar. 1, two traders executed to C. their bond, with warrant of attorney to confess judgment thereon, which was filed on Mar. 30, on which day judgment was marked & duly registered. No affidavit verifying the date of the execution of the bond & warrant, was filed. On Apr. 16 the traders were adjudicated bkpts. Before the bkpcy., C. levied a considerable amount of his judgment debt. By consent, & subject to the parties' rights, the money was lodged in ct.:—Held: the warrant was one to confess judgment in a personal action, within 20 & 21 Vict., c. 60, s. 334, & that, since the warrant had not been filed, or its execution verified, as required by that Act, the judgment was null & void against the assignees.—Re SHEIL & LYONS (1865), 17 Ir. b. —— ——.]—A. having entered up judgment against B., a trader, on a warrant of attorney given to A. by B., whilst in embarrassed circumstances, but before the committing of an act of bkpcy., issued execution against the goods of B., & levied the amount of the judgment. Within two months after the giving of the warrant of attorney, & after the execution of the writ of fi. fa., by seizure & sale, a petition of bkpcy. was presented against B., under which he was adjudged a bkpt. No fraudulent preference was alleged to have existed:—Held: by 20 & 21 Vict. c. 60, s. 333, the warrant of attorney became a nullity, & the judgment was void, & the assignees of B. were entitled to maintain against A. an action of trover for the goods seized under the execution.—ORR v. DEVIN (1858), 9 I. 7066. —— Under interpleader order between creditor & trustee—Trover by trustee against execution creditor—For difference between price & value at seizure.]—Goods were seized under a fi. fa. issued upon a judgment on a warrant of attorney, after an act of bkpcy. committed by debtor, against whom a fiat issued before the goods were sold. The assignees gave the sheriff notice not to sell, & he brought the parties before a judge by an interpleader order. The judge directed that the goods should be sold, & the money brought into ct. to abide the event of an issue to be tried between the execution creditor & the assignees. The latter made no objection, & did not suggest any other mode of disposing of the goods, which were sold by the sheriff's auctioneer. The execution creditor subsequently abandoned all claim to the goods, & the proceeds of sale were paid out of ct. to the assignees:—Held: the assignees were not entitled, as matter of law, to recover, in an action of trover against the execution creditor, the difference between the produce of the sale & the value of the goods at the time of the seizure, & it was no misdirection in the judge to state to the jury, that, if they thought the sale was bonâ fide, they might consider the produce of it as the measure of damages.—WHITMORE v. BLACK (1844), 2 Dow. & L. 445; 13 M. & W. 507; 14 L. 7071. Attachment of debt—After curators appointed in Holland.]—A. & Co., merchants at Amsterdam, corresponded with B. & C., merchants in London. On Dec. 18, 1759, A. & Co. stopped payment, & on Jan. 2, 1760, they were declared bkpts., & curators or assignees appointed of their estates & effects. On Dec. 20, 1759, C., who was a creditor of bkpts. for £3,000 made an affidavit of his debt in the Mayor's Ct. of London, & attached their money in the hands of B., who was their debtor to the amount of £1,200. On Mar. 8, 1760, C. obtained judgment by default on the attachment, & thereupon a writ of execution issued against B., who was taken in execution, but being unable to pay the £1,200 gave C. his note payable in a month, on which C. caused satisfaction to be entered on the record of the judgment. A few days after, D., who had a power of attorney from the curators to act for them in England, filed a bill, making himself & the curators pltfs., praying that B. might account with them for the effects of bkpts. which were in his hands, might pay same over to D. for the use of the curators, & be restrained from paying or delivering them over to C. B. then filed a bill by way of interpleader, praying an injunction & that he might be at liberty to bring the £1,200 into ct., & the money was paid into the bank, pursuant to an order of the ct.:—Held: the stock purchased with the money paid into the bank, should be transferred to D., for the benefit of the creditors of bkpts., & C. should deliver up the note given by B. for £1,200 to be cancelled.—SOLOMONS v. ROSS (1764), 1 Hy. m. —— Debtors & Creditors Act, 1876.]—H. bought a piece of land & directed the vendor to transfer it to his wife, in whose name a certificate of title issued. The wife died, leaving a son. The husband filed a declaration of insolvency under the above Act, within three years from the date of the transfer. In a suit by the creditors' trustee to have the certificate of title declared void:—Held: (1) although the certificate of title was bad as against pltf. as trustee, it was good as between bkpt. & the heir-at-law; (2) after satisfaction of the claims under the bkpcy., & the payment of all costs, the residue of the land, or the proceeds therefrom, belonged to the heir-at-law.—HALL v. HALL, 2 J. n. —— Buildings erected thereon by bankrupt.]—N. & D. his wife, were married in 1876, shortly after which time D., who alleged that she was possessed of £90, £55 of which was in the hands of her brothers, placed in N.'s hands £30, to invest for her benefit. In 1879, N., who carried on business as a storekeeper at F., assigned his estate, but arranged with his trustees to retain his assets in his own hands, contingently on his paying his debts in full by his own promissory notes. Next month he bought, in his wife's name simply, but without her knowledge, an allotment of land at C., paying a deposit of £20 upon it. In Dec., 1879, N. failed in paying an instalment of his debt to his trustees, when his wife's brothers paid to them £510, in full discharge, & in the same month paid £45 to complete the purchase of the above land, but the completion was delayed till 1881. In 1880 N. removed to C. having spent £100 of his own money on buildings suitable for his trade on the land, & started business there. In Apr., 1881, a certificate of title to the land was issued to D., in its terms giving her a power of appointment over the land apart from her husband. Upon the memorandum of transfer N. wrote a consent thereto. Rent for the land was paid by N.'s firm in cheques, which were paid by N. into his own private bank account. At various times, also, sums of money amounting to over £800 were expended on buildings on the land by N. In 1883 N. became insolvent:—Held: both the contract of 1879 & the transfer of 1881 were void against N.'s subsequent creditors as voluntary settlements made by N. in contemplation of trade.—LLOYD v. BLUMENTHAL (1884), 5 N. p. —— Payments by bankrupt of instalments of purchase money & interest—1908 Act, ss. 75, 76.]—The term of an agreement for the purchase of land, into which bkpt.'s wife had entered, was extended by a second agreement, executed more than three years before the adjudication, in which bkpt. joined to guarantee payment of the balance of the purchase-money & interest thereon. Under that agreement bkpt. paid an instalment of purchase-money & some interest less than three years before his adjudication. The official assignee claimed to have such payments declared void as settlements of property in her favour within 1908 Act, s. 75. A second instalment of purchase-money & some interest, which bkpt. paid within two years before his adjudication, were claimed from the wife by the official assignee under ss. 75, 76:—Held: (1) the first instalment of purchase-money was a sum settled on his wife within s. 75, but was not recoverable, as it was not a voluntary payment or transfer of property; (2) the second instalment of purchase-money was recoverable under s. 76; (3) the first payments of interest were not recoverable under s. 75, ; (4) the sums paid for interest within the two years were not recoverable under s. 76.—OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE v. TOSSWILL, [1919] N. r. —— Part of purchase-money belonging to wife.]—The trustee of a bkpt. estate brought an action against bkpt. & his wife, concluding for declarator that a conveyance of certain house property had been fraudulently taken by bkpt. in favour of his wife while he was insolvent, or otherwise "that the disposition was a donation stante matrimonio, &, as such, revocable by the trustee, & in either event, bkpt. & his wife should be ordained to denude & convey the subjects to the trustee, &, if necessary, that there should be a decree of reduction. The defence was that part of the purchase-money belonged to the wife's estate:—Held: the pursuer was not entitled to an issue of partial donation.—TOLMIE v. CRUICKSHANKS (1859), 21 Dunl. The policy was settled in circumstances which rendered the settlement void against the trustee in insolvency both under 13 Eliz., c. 5 & Insolvency Statute, 1871 (No. 379), s. 70:—Held: the settlement of the policy was valid as against the trustee in insolvency under Life Assurance Cos. Act, 1873 (No. 474), s. 37, & P. was entitled to 7092. Agreement to transfer shares to trustees—Subsequent transfer in pursuance of agreement—No covenant to transfer.]—Bkpt. within ten years of his bkpcy. entered into an agreement with trustees, by way of voluntary settlement on his wife & children, by which the trustees were to stand possessed of shares in a co., so soon as they were transferred. There was no covenant by bkpt. to transfer the shares. The shares were transferred in pursuance of the agreement within two years of his bkpcy., & while bkpt. was solvent:—Held: the agreement was not a "settlement," but the transfer was a "settlement," & being voluntary, was void as against the trustee in bkpcy.—Re ASHCROFT, Ex p. TODD (1887), 19 Q. 7093. Settlement of damages in divorce suit.]—Damages recovered by a husband against a co-resp. under Matrimonial Causes Act, 1857 (c. 85), s. 32, are entirely under the control of the ct., & a settlement of such damages made by the husband with the sanction of the ct. is not a "settlement of property" within 1883 Act, s. 47.—Re STEPHENSON, Ex p. BROWN, [1897] 1 Q. 7094. Transfer to son of business acquired partly by bankrupt's money.]—In May, 1896, a trader, then in good credit, sold his business to a limited co. promoted by him for the purpose of purchasing it. He & his son took between them practically the whole of the shares issued by the co., & substantially the whole of the debenture issue was taken by the father himself. The co. in May, 1898, went into voluntary liquidation. With a view to preserving the father's credit, he & his son entered into an arrangement by deed with the co., by its liquidator, & the co.'s ascertained creditors, whereby the son purchased the co.'s business in consideration partly of a sum in cash & partly of payment by him of the debts due to the ascertained creditors secured by joint & several promissory notes of the father & son, &, by way of further consideration, the father surrendered his debentures & a private debt due to him from the co. The father & son also covenanted to pay off any then unascertained creditors of the co., & to indemnify the co. & its assets against all claims in respect of the business, & the father covenanted with the son that all money paid by him, the father, under the arrangement, & all property thereby handed over by him to the son, should be treated "as an absolute & irrevocable gift" from him to the son. The son took over the business, & carried it on with such success that, by means partly of his earnings & partly by contributions from the father, the whole of the purchase-money & debts payable under the arrangement were discharged. In March, 1899, the father became bkpt.; whereupon the trustee applied to have the transfer of the business to the son under the arrangement of 1898 declared void as a "settlement" within 1883 Act, s. 47:—Held: the mere fact that the business had been acquired by the son, partly by means of money obtained from or paid by the father, was not sufficient to make the transfer a "settlement" within the sect.—Re PLUMMER, [1900] 2 Q. The nephew arranged with his lessor that, in consideration of the clock being allowed to become part of the freehold, the rent to be paid by him for the premises should be reduced by £10 a year. 7097 i. Marriage part of scheme to defraud creditors—Parties living in concubinage.]—The consideration of marriage is sufficient to support a settlement by a man on a woman, although they have been already living in concubinage, where the marriage is a bonâ fide one, even though the man be, to the knowledge of the woman, in very straitened circumstances, & his creditors are thereby defeated. But if the marriage is a mere contrivance, by parties already living in concubinage, to defeat the man's creditors, the settlement will be set aside at the suit of the creditors.

Where creditors bring an action to set aside a marriage settlement on the ground that it was a mere cloak or contrivance to enable the settlor to defeat his creditors, all the facts concerning the settlement being within the knowledge of the settlor & settlee & not within the knowledge of the creditors, although the burden of proof is on the creditors impugning the settlement, a very slight degree of proof is sufficient to shift the burden.—MICHAEL v. THOMPSON (1894), 20 V. 7105. "Purchaser in good faith & for valuable consideration"—General rule.]—In order to constitute a "purchaser in good faith" within 1883 Act, s. 47, it is sufficient if there be good faith on the part of the purchaser; it is not necessary that both parties to the transaction should act in good faith.

A wife, who was married in 1883 & was then possessed of separate property, after the marriage allowed that property to pass into her husband's hands, but not as a gift, nor as a loan for the purposes of his trade. The husband, having applied part of her property to his own use, settled the residue of it, together with other property of his own, upon trusts under which he took a life interest, with a proviso for the cesser thereof in the event of his bkpcy. The wife had no notice of any fraud or fraudulent intention on his part:—Held: the wife was a "purchaser in good faith & for valuable consideration," & the settlement was

l. Settlement executed after marriage—In pursuance of ante-nuptial agreement.]—A trader, who afterwards became bkpt., on the occasion of his marriage, agreed to assign his house to trustees for himself for life, or until bkpcy., & on the same day a collateral bond for £1,000 was prepared to secure the £500. By some accident, the settlement or bond did not arrive until after the marriage, & were not executed until the following day. Semble: the settlement could not be considered post-nuptial, & the wife's claim against the husband's assignees was good.—Ex p. WOOD (1830), 4 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 57. —IR.

m. Gift of money to wife under ante-nuptial contract.]—N., subsequent to his marriage under ante-nuptial contract, donated a sum of money to his wife, & about a year afterwards surrendered his estate as insolvent:—Held: the trustee could reclaim the money in order to pay the creditors of the estate, even though some of the creditors' claims were for debts contracted after the date of the gift, & there was no proof that at that time N.'s liabilities exceeded his assets.—VAN NIEKERK'S TRUSTEE v. VAN NIEKERK, 17 S. C. 470.—S. AF.

7103 i. Settlement on re-marriage of widower—Whether voluntary as regards children of first marriage.]—In 1884 bkpt., upon marrying a second time, by marriage articles agreed to convey & settle lands & property in trust to apply the income as follows:—to pay his wife for life £150 per annum without power of anticipation, or such other sum as bkpt. should by any writing direct, & the surplus income to bkpt. for life, & after his death divide same equally amongst all his children, i.e., his then present children & any children or child which he might have by the then intended marriage, until the whole property was realised as provided. Provision was made after his death to realise the property, &, subject to providing for the annual payment to the wife, to divide the proceeds among the child or children, grandchild or grandchildren of bkpt. either by his former or then intended marriage as bkpt. might appoint, & in default of appointment for all & every such child or children of the former & then intended marriage as should come within the condition prescribed. The marriage took place; there was issue of the first marriage, but not of the second. The articles were never registered until after the bkpcy. Bkpt., who was a solr., was not at this time indebted, or about to engage in any risky business. On Dec. 13, 1888, bkpt. with six others entered into a guarantee to secure an overdraft; in Sept. 1901, demand was made under the guarantee; in June, 1902, bkpt. purporting to act in pursuance of the marriage articles, assured certain property to the trustees named in the articles, all of which was property which belonged to bkpt. at the date he executed the articles. On Sept. 14, 1903, judgment for over £3,000 was obtained against bkpt. on the guarantee, a bkpcy. notice followed, & on May 15, 1905, a sequestration order was made against him. From 1885 to 1899 bkpt. dealt with the property, the subject of the articles. On Dec. 1, 1890, bkpt. by indorsement on the articles directed the £150 payable to his wife to be increased to £300, bkpt. being then practically free from liability:—Held: (1) in the circumstances the articles were not fraudulent; (2) the children of the first marriage were included within the consideration of the articles executed on the second marriage.—Re DEANE, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1906), 6 S. 7107. Sufficiency of consideration—Wife's concurrence in conveyance.]—A husband & wife, at a time when the wife was under age, executed a deed, which purported to convey freehold property of the wife to a purchaser for £500. The deed was not acknowledged by the wife. The husband received the £500. The purchaser afterwards contracted to sell the property, & his sub-purchaser required the concurrence of the wife in the conveyance to him. The wife, who was then of age, refused to concur, unless the husband would execute a bill of sale of his furniture to a trustee for her, to secure the payment of £425 for her separate use. That was done by the husband, & she then executed the conveyance to the sub-purchaser. The bill of sale was registered. Possession of the furniture was given to the trustee by delivering to him a silver fork in the name of the whole, & the keys of the house where the furniture was. The furniture remained, until the husband filed a petition, in the house which was occupied by him & his wife, & it was used by them:—Held: the execution of the bill of sale amounted to a purchase of the wife's concurrence in the conveyance, & as the possession was consistent with the terms of the deed, the wife's trustee was entitled to the furniture as against the trustee.—Re REED, Ex p. COX (1875), 1 Ch. 7108. —— Liability attached to settled property—Settlement of leaseholds.]—A settlement of leasehold property, to which liability is attached, is of necessity a settlement for valuable consideration, & cannot be avoided as a voluntary settlement under 1869 Act, s. 91, even though no other consideration be given.

A., being subject to a possible liability as surety for D., assigned the lease of his farm & the chattels thereon to his children B. & C., they undertaking to pay him an annuity of £50. At the date of such assignment D. was insolvent, although it did not appear that the fact was known to B. & C. Apart from the property assigned to B. & C., A. had not sufficient at the date of that assignment to discharge his liability as surety, & when upon the failure of his principal to pay the debt, he was called upon to do so, he made default & was subsequently adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: the assignment of the leaseholds was not void under 1869 Act, s. 91.—Re DOBLE, Ex p. DOBLE (1878), 38 L. The parties were thereafter married in Mar., but transfer of the property was not passed till Mar., 1895, when the value of the property had increased to £600 & when also C.'s liabilities, fairly calculated, far exceeded his assets fairly valued, he surrendering his estate soon after in May. C.'s trustees brought an action to declare the transfer void, under s. 83 of Ord. 6 of 1843:—Held: the sale was made when C. was not in insolvent circumstances, & the mere fact that formal transfer was not passed till shortly before C.'s insolvency would not work a cancellation of such transfer, as it was bonâ fide passed in completion of the previous sale.—CILLIERS' TRUSTEES v. CILLIERS (1896), 13 S. The demise was for the life of D., & made at an undervalue. On July 14, 1874, D. was adjudged bkpt. The lease was executed with intent to defeat & delay the creditors of bkpt., & it was not executed bonâ fide or with intent that same should be acted upon:—Held: the lease was fraudulent & void against bkpt.'s assignees & creditors.—Re DOMVILE (1865), 9 I. On Mar. 11, a verdict was had against him in the action. He remained in possession of the premises until Mar. 14, on which day the lease was registered, the lessor committing upon the same day a voluntary act of bkpcy., whereon he was subsequently adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: the lease should be set aside as fraudulent & void as against the assignees of the lessor.—Re O'NEILL (1873), 7 I. On Mar. 26, L. having discovered that B. was entitled to a life interest in the property settled on his wife, & which was worth about £4,000, & not being then aware of the action, offered B. £500 for his life interest, for the purpose of settling the property on B.'s wife free from her husband's claims. The offer was accepted. Part of the £500 was, on Apr. 8, handed by L. to his solr. for payment to B., on the execution of the conveyance settling the property on the wife. The conveyance was executed on Apr. 20, & part of the £500 was returned to L. in payment of a prior debt:—Held: under Insolvent Act, s. 7, the deed was void as against B.'s creditors, the consideration not being such a valuable one as would give validity to the conveyance under the Act.—SEMPILL v. LEE (1865), 4 N. A settlement to the above effect was executed in July, 1862, & in the following Oct. the wife of the settlor died. In 1866 the settlor executed a deed which operated as a determination of his interest under the settlement, & in 1867 he became bkpt.:—Held: notwithstanding that the £990 stock was the property of the settlor, regard being had to the much larger sum which was brought into settlement, the settlement was valid.—HAMMONDS v. BARRETT (1869), 21 L. 7112. —— Settled fund pledged in payment of settlor's past debt & present advance.]—Bkpt. made a voluntary settlement upon his sister of a policy of assurance. Subsequently he & his sister assigned the policy to secure a past debt & a present advance to him. A receiving order was subsequently made:—Held: the estate of bkpt. had had the benefit of the advance, & the settlement pro tanto was for valuable consideration.—Re NAYLOR, Ex p. STEPHENSON v. PIKE (1893), 62 L. 7113. —— Annuities granted by members of family—Object of consideration to protect settlor's property.]—A settlor entitled under a will to £12,000 on his majority, & a further sum on the death of his mother, made the day before coming of age a post-nuptial settlement of all his interest under the will, upon trust to pay the income to himself for life or until he should charge same, & upon the determination of his interest, upon trust for his wife. At the time of executing the settlement a sum of £3,000 was expressly set aside for the payment of debts incurred during his minority. The settlor was extravagant, & his family were anxious that his property should be made secure from the claims of future creditors. On the advice of counsel, the settlor's mother & brother became parties to the settlement, & the mother covenanted during her life to pay him £50 a year, & his brother £25 a year repayable with compound interest on the death of his mother. The settlor became bkpt.:—Held: the settlement was made for valuable consideration, & notwithstanding that the consideration was given for the express purpose of protecting the settlor's property, from the claims of future creditors, for the benefit of the settlor, his wife & family, it was not intended to defeat & delay creditors, & was not void.—Re TETLEY, Ex p. JEFFREY (1896), 66 L. The wife kept a shop during her marriage, from the profits of which she materially contributed to the support of the family. 7116. —— Wife agreeing to live apart.]—By a separation deed, after reciting that the husband & wife had agreed to live apart, the husband assigned leaseholds to trustees in trust to pay the rents to the wife for life, & then to sell & hold the proceeds, in the events which happened, in trust for himself, & he covenanted to make up the wife's income to £300 a year. The deed contained a proviso for determination in the event of the wife seeking to resume cohabitation, but it contained no covenant by the wife to live apart. The husband paid nothing under the covenant, & in 1868 he was adjudicated a bkpt. On the death of the wife the husband's assignee in bkpcy. claimed the leaseholds :—Held : (1) a covenant by the wife to live apart ought to be implied from the recital, & there was valuable consideration for the husband's covenant ; (2) the trustees were entitled to retain the leaseholds until the arrears due since the date of bkpcy. were satisfied.—Re WESTON, DAVIES v. TAGART, [1900] 2 Ch. 164 ; 69 L. 7117. —— Consent of trustees to previous settlement to partial revocation thereof.]—In 1899 debtor executed a post-nuptial settlement, which contained a power of revocation with the consent of the trustees, which they had an absolute power to give or withhold. In 1902, in consideration of the settlor settling his life interest under the first settlement & a reversion to which he had become entitled since the execution of that settlement, the trustees consented to a partial revocation in order to provide funds for the payment of the settlor's debts. In 1903 the settlor became bkpt. : —Held : the new settlement was void against the trustee in bkpcy. to the extent necessary to pay the debts in the bkpcy., its trustees not being "purchasers for value" within 1883 Act.—Re PARRY, Ex p. SALAMAN, [1904] 1 K. Debtor having become bkpt. :—Held : the taking over of the liability for the payment of the annuity was a good consideration, & to that extent the deed must stand, but after discharging the liability for the annuity, the assignee must pay the remainder of the pension to the trustee in bkpcy.—STURMEY'S TRUSTEE v. STURMEY (1912), 107 L. 7122. —— Wife releasing husband's obligation to maintain her.]—By a deed supplemental to an ante-nuptial settlement the life interest which the settlor had in the settled fund was destroyed & the first life interest given to his wife, & the deed also gave an extra general power of appointment to the wife which might act in derogation of the ultimate reversion to the settlor. It was suggested that the wife, who was living apart from her husband, had accepted the deed in satisfaction of the husband's obligation to maintain her. The deed was made more than two years & less than ten years before the bkpcy. of the settlor :—Held : the supplemental deed was made without consideration moving from the wife &, as the wife was unable to prove that the settlor was at the time of executing that deed able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in it, the deed was void under 1914 Act, s. 42 (1) so far as was necessary for payment of the debts of the settlor in his bkpcy.—Re MACDONALD, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1919), 88 L. 7126. Against whom void—Only against trustee.]—By marriage articles made in 1886 between A., B., his intended wife, & pltf., & three other trustees, it was agreed that so soon as might be after the marriage a settlement should be made of the property therein mentioned, & A. agreed to settle any property which he might acquire during the intended coverture. The marriage took place, & a settlement was executed. Subsequently pltf. demised certain property to A. for twenty-one years, A. covenanting to keep the property in repair, & not to assign or underlet without leave of the lessor. A. thereafter became bkpt., & the premises were surrendered to pltf. by the trustee in bkpcy. In an action by pltf. against B. claiming possession of the premises:—Held: the premises must be held bound by the trusts of the settlement.

It was suggested that the settlement was void under 1883 Act, s. 47 (2). But the trustee in bkpcy. did not treat it as void, & the surrender of the term by him was expressly made subject to such claims as might be established under the agreement. 7147. What assets considered—Goodwill & implements of trade—Intention to carry on business.]—In determining whether a trader, who has executed a voluntary settlement was, "at the time of making the settlement able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in such settlement," the value of the implements of his trade & of the goodwill of his business is not, if he was intending to continue his business, to be taken into account. At any rate, if that value is to be taken into account, it can only be such a value as would be realised at a forced sale.

A baker, being about to purchase a grocery business, which he intended to carry on in addition to the baker's business, made a voluntary settlement of the bulk of his property for the benefit of his wife & children. He afterwards bought the grocery business, & carried it on for about six months, but lost money by it. He then sold it for as much money as he had given for it, & carried on the baker's business alone, for three years after the execution of the settlement, when he filed a petition, his liabilities largely exceeding his assets. The debts which he owed at the date of the settlement had been all paid:—Held: in the circumstances, the settlement was void against the trustee.—Re BUTTERWORTH, Ex p. RUSSELL (1882), 19 Ch. b. ——.]—A., on the marriage of his son, B., settled an estate, to which it turned out he was not entitled. By the settlement, A. covenanted generally with F., the intended wife's father, for title to all the lands, & he & B. covenanted with the trustees for title & quiet possession, notwithstanding any acts done by A. or B. The settlement provided that, if A. should purchase the head rents & inheritance of any of the settled estates which were held for lives, his purchase should be subject to the trusts of the settlement, but that he should have power to charge with the purchase-money the estate so purchased. A. did so purchase, & he charged the estate with the purchase-money in favour of his daughter, D., without valuable consideration:—Held: such appointment was as valid against general creditors as the settlement of any other part of his property would have been, & would prevail against them, unless A. had at the time been indebted to the extent of insolvency.—MARTYN v. MACNAMARA (1843), 4 Dr. & War. 411; 2 Con. & Law. 541.—IR.

The settlor was indebted at the time of its execution, & no evidence was given by the parties claiming under it that he was able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property put in settlement:—Held: the settlement was void as against the assignees under 1872 Act, s. 52.—JAMES v. MASON, Re CAMPBELL (1878), 12 I. These subjects, with a sum of £439, which he subsequently uplifted from bank & delivered to his wife, constituted his whole means. At the date of the assignation the husband's private estate was solvent, but he was liable for the debts of a mercantile business belonging to a trust-estate on which he was a trustee. The business was in financial difficulties. The trust estate & the estate of the husband were subsequently sequestrated: — Held: that the assignation was reducible at the instance of the trustee in his sequestration.—ROBERTSON'S TRUSTEES v. ROBERTSON (1901), 3 F. In 1881 he executed a second voluntary settlement, under which he also took a life interest worth £1,300. At that time his life interest under the former settlement was worth £1,000 & his debts amounted to £1,800. The life interest under the second settlement passed directly to debtor through trustees, who acted merely as conduit-pipes. In 1885 he became bkpt.:—Held: the second settlement was not void, since the life interest under it must be taken into account in estimating his solvency.—Re LOWNDES, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1887), 18 Q. His father & mother afterwards revoked the appointment of the one-tenth share, & instead thereof revocably appointed to the settlor in remainder one-ninth share of the trust funds, & his mother, who had survived his father, afterwards revocably appointed to him in remainder one-ninth share. 7159. —— Settlor altering position from beneficial owner to trustee.]—By a post-nuptial settlement the settlor declared that he or the trustees would stand possessed of his estate upon trust for sale, & hold the proceeds upon trust for his wife for life, & after her death to the settlor, if he should survive her, with trusts in favour for the issue of the marriage, & in default of issue, an ultimate trust for the settlor. At the date of the settlement the settlor was solvent, & able to pay his debts without the aid of the property comprised in the settlement, & the settlement was made in good faith. Within ten years after the date of the settlement the settlor was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: the settlor had altered his position from beneficial owner to trustee, & the settlement was valid against his trustee in bkpcy.—SHRAGER v. MARCH, [1908] A. 7160. —— Must be read with regard to nature of property—Transfer of furniture.]—Debtor by his marriage settlement settled the furniture in his residence upon trust for the use & enjoyment of his wife during her life, & covenanted that any furniture afterwards acquired by him during the life of his wife should form part of the settlement. Debtor & his wife, after many changes of residence, ultimately moved into a large house where they lived together until debtor's bkpcy., & debtor purchased a large amount of additional furniture for such house. There was no formal delivery of the additional furniture to the trustee of the settlement, but he occasionally visited debtor & his wife, & saw the furniture. After a receiving order had been made against debtor he removed all the furniture to a warehouse. The trustee in the bkpcy. claimed the after-acquired furniture, on the ground that it had not been "actually transferred" to the trustee of the settlement pursuant to the covenant:—Held: (1) the words "actually transferred" must be read with reference to the nature of the property; (2) in view of the fact that the furniture had been used by the wife in accordance with the trusts of the settlement, no formal transfer to the trustee of the settlement was necessary, but in the eye of the law there had been an actual transfer made in pursuance of the covenant by debtor to the trustee of the settlement & by the trustee of the settlement back to the wife, & the claim of the trustee in bkpcy. failed.—Re MAGNUS, Ex p. SALAMAN, [1910] 2 K. 7161. Covenant to settle all furniture—Settlement of original furniture—& furniture bought since marriage.]—A., previous to marriage, agreed to settle after marriage all his furniture on his wife for her sole use & benefit. At the time of the marriage A. had some furniture, & so had his wife, & some was purchased subsequently. Three years after the marriage A., when in debt, settled on his wife & children all the furniture then in his possession. Shortly afterwards he became bkpt., & his assignee claimed the furniture on behalf of the creditors:—Held: the whole of the furniture was subject to the trusts of the settlement.—BRASHIER v. WYATT (1867), 16 L. 7162. Covenant to convey leasehold estate free from encumbrances—Other estate substituted.]—By marriage articles, in 1865, an intending husband covenanted with trustees to pay off the incumbrances on a leasehold estate, & to convey it to them, free from incumbrances, upon trusts therein declared. In 1869, the husband, being pressed by the trustees to perform the covenant, & being unable to convey the estate freed from incumbrances, conveyed other lands in lieu thereof upon the same trusts. His interest in the substituted lands, was worth little more than his interest in the lands subject to the original articles. The husband, six months later, became bkpt. At the date of the conveyance legal proceedings were pending which resulted in an award against him of large damages:—Held: the settlement of 1869 was fraudulent & void, in so far as it conveyed property not included in the articles of 1865.—Re WIELAND, GATES v. FABIAN (1870), 19 W. 7166. —— ——.]—Whether in any particular case a payment impeached in bkpcy. is a payment by way of undue preference or not, is a question of fact to be considered by a jury, if the case comes before a jury, by the ct., if the ct. performs the function of judging of the facts of the case. The mere insolvency of the person making the payment is insufficient. The mere fact that at the time of the payment the whole of his property would not be sufficient to pay the whole of his debts, is not sufficient. 7177. Whether relationship of debtor & creditor exists.]—In Sept. remittances to the amount of £5,300 were sent by a firm at Glasgow to a firm in London, to enable the latter to take up bills of exchange, drawn by the Glasgow firm upon & accepted by the London firm, which were to become due on Oct. 5, the arrangement between the two firms being that the Glasgow firm should provide the funds to meet the bills at maturity. The London firm kept a banking account at the Bank of England, for the purpose of meeting all their acceptances, & intended that the £5,300 should be paid to that account, but, through the mistake of a clerk, only £3,300 was paid there, £2,000 being paid to the L. Bank, where the London firm kept their general banking account. On Oct. 2 the London firm found that they were insolvent, & called in an accountant to investigate their affairs, & on Oct. 3 they announced to their creditors that they had suspended payment. On Oct. 2 they drew a cheque for £5,300 on the Bank of England, to which they then supposed that all the remittances of the Glasgow firm had been paid, intending to repay it to the Glasgow firm, but their solrs. advised them that it was doubtful whether they could legally do so, & the £5,300 was thereupon placed in a third bank in the joint names of two of the partners of the London firm. On Oct. 3 they discovered the mistake of their clerk, & attempted to withdraw the £2,000 from the L. Bank, but could not do so, because that bank claimed a lien on the balance of their account. The Glasgow firm took up the bills at maturity, & the £3,300 was paid to them, but the £2,000 was placed in the hands of the accountant, pending the decision of the rights of the parties. On Nov. 1 the London firm filed a liquidation petition, under which the accountant was appointed trustee of their property. They 7193. —— ——.]—In 1834, D. & T. agreed to become partners for a term of years. D. was to bring in £3,000 capital, & the profits were to be equally divided, but the business was to be carried on in the name of T. alone. The capital was, in fact, advanced by D.'s uncles, J. & W. In May, 1836, the partnership was dissolved, when there was found due to D. £1,175 on account of profits, & £7,400 on account of capital. D. then advanced sufficient money to make up the sum of £8,000, to secure which T. executed to him a bond, dated Jan. 2, 1837, in the penal sum of £16,000, & conditioned for the payment of £8,000 by annual instalments of £1,000 each. The £1,175, & an instalment of £1,000, & the interest, were duly paid, but in Mar., 1842, there being a large arrear upon the bond, joint & several bonds by D. & T. were given to J. for £3,000, & to W. for £4,000. At the time the bonds were executed T. was in failing circumstances, but there was no evidence that he then contemplated bkpcy. In July he was declared a bkpt.:—Held: (1) pressure for payment, & the fact of the insufficiency of a man's property to pay all his debts, were not alone sufficient to invalidate a security then given for an existing debt; (2) J. was a creditor in his own right for valuable consideration upon the estate of T. for the amount due on the bond for £3,000.—Re TODD, Ex p. WOOD (1843), 1 L. 7194. —— ——.]—C. was pressed for payment of an old debt by P. & in Aug., 1872, agreed to remit to her £2,350 in Nov. The course of business was for P. to send C. flax at the time when he sent her bills. On Nov. 4 C. remitted £4,000, of which £2,350 was carried to the old debt, & the balance treated as other remittances. At the time of the remittance C. could not pay all his debts out of his own money, but at that time, as in Aug., he had no thought of stopping payment:—Held: no fraudulent preference.—Re CRAWFORD, Ex p. KEVAN (1874), 9 Ch. Part of the cash & notes was delivered upon the faith that assistance would be given, & the other part without any such expectation:—Held: the cash & notes were recoverable by the assignees, as money had & received to their use, although there was no idea, at the time of delivery, of giving an undue preference, & no contemplation of an act of bkpcy.—SIMPSON v. SIKES (1817), 6 M. & S. 295; 105 E. instance of the manager, who was aware that C. was in pecuniary difficulties, but who did not apprehend bkpcy., C., in Jan., 1873, deposited with him trade bills as a security to the bank for the bills for £6,000 previously discounted. On Feb. 3, the manager, at the instance of M., applied to C. in reference to M.'s liability on his guarantee, & it was arranged that, after satisfying the obligations to the bank, the proceeds of the trade bills should be held by the bank as a security for M. The bills guaranteed by M. came to maturity on Feb. 7, & were taken up by the acceptors, to whom M. had become liable, & on Mar. 14, C. was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: the dealing with the trade bills did not amount to a fraudulent preference.—Re CAREW (1873), 8 I. At the time of the settlement P. was perfectly solvent. The settlement was not registered in the colony. P. afterwards went to the Cape, & by a bond hypothecated his real estate there to his wife to secure the £13,000 in satisfaction of the settlement. That bond was registered in the colony. P. also, while there, remitted £7,000 to the trustees on account of the £13,000 secured by the settlement. P.'s firm at the Cape was some time afterwards adjudicated bkpt. in that colony, & P. was also made a bkpt. in respect to his separate estate:—Held: the payment of the £7,000 was not an undue preference in contemplation of bkpcy., within Ord. 6 of 1843, s. 84.—THURBURN v. STEWARD, p. 858, ante.—S. 7207. —— Probability of bankruptcy.]—Although a trader has reason to believe, from the state of his affairs, that bkpcy. may be probable, yet, in order to render a payment made to a particular creditor void on the ground of a fraudulent preference, he must have an act of bkpcy. in contemplation at the time of such payment.—FLOOK v. JONES (1826), 4 Bing. 20; 12 Moore, C. A voluntary payment or delivery can only be a fraud upon the bkpcy. laws, where the party making it contemplates at the time the issuing of a fiat against him, but the mere contemplation of insolvency does not necessarily involve a contemplation of bkpcy.—ATKINSON v. BRINDALL (1835), 2 Bing. The bank claimed the chattels under the mtge. Debtor had long previously been embarrassed, most of his paper was under protest, his real estate was also mortgaged to the bank & others, & no pressure was shown to obtain the mtge., & no promise was made of any future advance:—Held: in the circumstances, the chattel mtge. was fraudulent & void as against creditors.—Re HURST (1876), 6 P. 7213. Proper questions & direction to jury.]—A trader in perilous circumstances, & likely to become bkpt., owed his son £12,000, which had, upon his son's marriage, been settled on the son's wife. At the request of his son he conveyed property to the trustees under his son's marriage settlement, as a security for or in discharge of the debt due from him to his son. The transfer was not registered, or otherwise made public, till after his bkpcy. In his examination bkpt. stated that he did not contemplate bkpcy. when he executed the assignment, & that he had no intent to defeat or delay his creditors, but executed it solely at the request of his son. The questions left to the jury were, (1) was the assignment spontaneous & made with a view to prefer his son, (2) whether bkpt. knew, or must have had reason to suppose, that bkpcy. was inevitable. The notes so transferred were discounted, & the proceeds applied to the payment of the $3,000 note, leaving a balance of $835, which was retained by defts., though nothing was then due them by D. & Co., & was used to retire a note of D. & Co. that subsequently became due. One month after the $3,000 became due, D. & Co., on Nov. 29, 1870, made a voluntary assignment, their liabilities being upwards of $100,000. The jury were instructed that if, when the notes were transferred, D. & Co. had reason to believe & did believe that their affairs were in such a situation that insolvency would in all probability ensue, though there was a possibility of their tiding over their difficulties, the transfer would be in contravention of Insolvent Act, 1869, & be deemed to be made in contemplation of insolvency, & was invalid if made to give defts. a preference over other creditors :—Held : such instruction was correct.—HARVIE v. WYLDE (1875), R. 7216 i. Effect of failure to establish—Whether transaction avoided.]—Between Jan. 1, 1905, & May 26 of the same year the account of A., an hotel keeper, was overdrawn to an amount varying from £459 to £576. The overdraft was secured by two guarantees to the extent of £450. Early in 1905 A. decided to sell the business, & shortly after Apr. 18 informed the manager that the business had been sold for £850, which would be sufficient to pay off the bank & all his other creditors, & that he desired the purchase money to be paid into the bank, & A. signed an order directing the agents to pay the money into the bank. The total purchase money in fact amounted to £950, made up of cash £350 & three bills of £200 each. The purchaser's solrs. refused to pay the money until a debt of another creditor for £140 had been paid, & one of the bills was discounted, the debt discharged out of the proceeds, & the balance paid into the bank. The purchase money was then paid into A.'s account on May 26, & the two promissory notes lodged for collection, A. signing a letter of lien over them in favour of the bank. The bills were discounted & part of the proceeds employed in wiping out A.'s overdraft, & the balance in paying certain creditors. The bank cancelled & gave up the guarantees. A.'s estate was compulsorily sequestrated on Aug. 3. Practically the whole of A.'s assets consisted of the hotel & business, & at the time of the sale he believed that the proceeds would be sufficient to pay all his debts. As a matter of fact, there were debts to the extent of £335 remaining unpaid. The remaining assets amounted to £142, & consisted chiefly of book debts, of which but a small portion had been recovered by the assignee in insolvency :—Held : the payment to the bank was not a fraudulent preference. —MCDONALD v. BANK OF VICTORIA, [1906] V. Shortly afterwards H.'s old stock-in-trade was assigned to the firm, & an acceptance of the firm, falling due on the same date & for the same amount as that given by B. to the bank, was substituted for such latter with the bank. One of the leases had previously been deposited with the creditor, & bkpt. had agreed in writing to deposit the other lease as security for £600:—Held: the fact of the transaction taking place within three weeks of the fiat was not sufficient to raise an inference that it was a fraudulent preference.—Re OGBOURNE, Ex p. HEATHCOATE (1842), 2 Mont. 7225. —— Presumed where no pressure—Rebuttal of presumption.]—A payment to a particular creditor without a demand made by debtor, on the eve of bkpcy., out of a fund which would otherwise be distributable among his creditors, is not necessarily a fraudulent preference, for though such a payment would primâ facie raise the presumption that debtor fraudulently intended to defeat the bkpcy. law, from which fraudulent intention alone arises the invalidity of the payment, yet that presumption may be rebutted by other circumstances.—BILLS v. SMITH (1865), 6 B. & S. 314; 5 New Rep. 364; 34 L. 7226. —— Real dominant motive must be considered.]—In order that a payment or transfer of property should amount to a fraudulent preference it is essential that it should have been made with a view of giving a preference to the creditor. d. —— Payment by direction of holders of valid bill of sale.]—F. obtained an overdraft in deft. bank on a bond, with H. & C. as sureties, & gave H. & C. a bill of sale over his goods as security for payment of the overdraft. After default had been made by F. under the bond, F. instructed S., an auctioneer, to sell his goods. H. & C.'s attorney, B., thereupon wrote to S. calling his attention to the bill of sale, & directing him to hold the proceeds for H. & C. B., acting on behalf of H. & C., wrote to the bank asking that all money paid in after that date should be applied in reduction of the overdraft. S. paid the proceeds of sale into F.'s account at the bank. At that time there was another account in the bank opened by H. & C. for the liquidation of the overdraft. Within sixty days after the payment into the bank, F. sequestrated his estate. F.'s official assignee brought an action to recover the amount of the proceeds of the sale of F.'s goods received by them. The jury found that on the day when the first payment was made to the bank F. was insolvent, & defts. knew it:—Held: the payment must not be regarded as a voluntary payment by F., but as a payment made by direction of H. & C., who then had dominion over the goods by virtue of their bill of sale, & made with the view of meeting the security of H. & C., & the payments up to the amount secured by the bill of sale were good as against F.'s official assignee.—LYONS v. BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES (1882), 3 N. l. —— —— Assignment of joint & separate property—For benefit of joint creditors.]—Under Debtors & Creditors Act, 1876, an assignment of the joint property of a trading firm, & of the separate property of the members of the firm, for the benefit of the joint creditors of the firm is a fraud, if there are separate property & separate creditors, but if there is no separate property to be affected by the deed, the deed cannot be avoided by the trustee in bkpcy. of the assignors.—FRASER'S CREDITORS' TRUSTEE IN BANKRUPTCY v. BROWNE & BEAUMONT (1882), 2 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 8.—N.Z.

m. —— Presumption of fraud.]—Where debtor transfers the whole, or nearly the whole, of his property to one creditor for an antecedent debt, the law presumes an intent to defeat or delay the other creditors, but such presumption does not arise where a material portion is left, unassigned; it then becomes necessary to prove the intention by some act of debtor.—HASKER v. MOORHEAD, HASKER v. BLACKWOOD, HASKER v. M'MULLEN (1876), 2 V. o. "Fraudulent disposition"—Collection Act.]—It was contended that a bill of sale given by deft. to S. was a fraudulent preference & was a fraudulent disposition of deft.'s property within the above Act:—Held: the disposition intended to be cover by the Act must have been one fraudulent in fact & not one which the Act relating to assignments declared to be invalid because it contravened its provisions.—SHORT v. BENT (1904), 40 N. Question of fact for jury—Depending on intention of debtor—At time of transaction.]—Whether or not a voluntary payment made by a trader in insolvent circumstances & on the verge of bkpcy. to a particular creditor is void as being a fraud upon the bkpcy. laws, is a question of fact for the jury depending on the mind & intention of the party at the time of making the payment, to be collected from the surrounding circumstances.—GIBSON v. BOUTTS (1836), 3 Scott, 229.

7228 vi. ——.]—To constitute a fraudulent preference it is not sufficient to show that a particular creditor was in fact preferred, or that the result of the payment was so to prefer him. The real question for the ct. to consider under 1892 Act, s. 79, is what has been the substantial, effective, or dominant view of debtor in making the payments he did, & where it was the practice of debtor on receiving payment of money to distribute it among his creditors as far as it would go, & he did not know he was in a bkpt. state, it will not be inferred that debtor had necessarily any intention to prefer the creditors to whom the money was paid.—Re ABURN (1908), 27 N. It is not enough to show that in the village in which the parties carried on their business such transactions as the one impeached were common, or that as between themselves they had had similar dealings before. The creditor must show that the usual or ordinary course of trade or business among men of business & repute in the commercial world has been followed, & if it appears that there has been a departure from the course followed by reputable men of business in similar circumstances the protection of s. 86 cannot be invoked. —DU PLOOY'S TRUSTEE v. PLEWMAN (1890), 7 S. 7245. —— Pressure alleged.]—In 1837 A., being in embarrassed circumstances, executed a deed to secure to his creditors a composition of 7*s.* in the pound. B., a creditor, refused to sign the deed, until A. made B. a promise to give him security for the difference between the composition & the full amount of the debt. Pursuant to that agreement A. subsequently handed over to B. his promissory notes, payable to B. or order. B. indorsed the notes, & paid them in to his bankers at Leeds, to whom B. was in the habit of indorsing all bills & notes received by him, & drawing generally on account. When the notes were at maturity the London correspondents of the Leeds bankers presented them to A., by whom they were paid. A. continued to deal with B. down to his bkpcy., in 1840, without ever complaining of the transaction or attempting to set off the payments made in respect of the notes against the subsequent demands of B. against him. No evidence was given to show the state of the account between B. & the Leeds bankers at the time of the payments, or that A. knew the character in which the notes were held by the bankers who presented them. In an action for money paid by A. to the use of B., brought by the assignees of A. to recover back the amount of the notes, the judge left it to the jury to say whether or not the payment was voluntary, & told them that if the payment was made to the bankers as agents only, it must be considered as voluntary, & that if they found the payment to be voluntary, & to have been made with a full knowledge of the circumstances, they must find for B., otherwise for pltfs. The ct. directed a new trial, in order that the attention of the jury might be more precisely called to the question, whether A. knew the character in which the bankers presented the notes for payment, namely, whether as agents of B., or as holders for value.—GIBSON v. BRUCE (1843), 5 Man. & G. 399 ; 6 Scott, N. Having told deft. that it would be impossible for him to meet the bill, by an effort A. procured £300 which he gave to deft. on Oct. 16, & deft. took up the bill, adding £80 of his own. On Oct. 17 deft. received a cheque for £40 10*s.* from A., on account of the £80. A. committed an act of bkpcy. shortly after Oct. 16. B. did not commit any act of bkpcy. until after the transaction. The fiat issued on Nov. 13. In an action by the assignees of A. & B. to recover the £340 10*s.* as a payment by bkpts. by way of fraudulent preference, the judge left it to the jury to say whether the £340 10*s.* was paid to deft. voluntarily, & in contemplation of bkpcy., remarking that there was a peculiarity in that C. was the holder of the bill, the money was procured to take up the bill, & C. received it :—Held : there was no misdirection.—SMITH v. WATSON (1848), 11 L. q. —— Payment within sixty days of insolvency.]—M. bought of Y. "on sale or return" goods for shipment to Otago, with the understanding that if not sold there, they might be brought back & returned to Y. within a reasonable time. M. insured the goods for their voyage, they were totally lost, & a verdict for their value was recovered from the insurance co. It was agreed by M. & Y. that Y. should receive from the insurance co. the amount of the policy in discharge of M.'s debt to Y. for the goods. The debt of M. to Y. was thus paid in full. There were other then existing creditors of M., & the estate of M. was sequestrated within sixty days. On trial of a feigned issue between Y. & the official assignee of M. the judge directed the jury that the payment in full of Y. by M. was void under 5 Vict. No. 17, s. 8, as a preference of Y. over other than existing creditors of M. :—Held : the direction was right.—YOUNGHUSBAND v. COURTNEY (1861), 1 W. & W. 55. —AUS.

7249. —— ——.]—In an action by assignees to recover a sum alleged to be paid by bkpt. by way of fraudulent preference, the jury were rightly directed, that although the payment was apparently voluntary, yet if the evidence satisfied them that debtor's motive was not to give a fraudulent preference, but to fulfil an obligation which he believed to be peremptory, the payment was legal & valid, as against the assignees. In such a case all these circumstances must be left to the jury, & they should be told, that unless they come to the conclusion that debtor had the intention of defeating the law, & preventing the due distribution of his assets, by preferring one creditor at the expense of the rest, the transaction will stand good in law.—BILLS v. SMITH (1865), 6 B. & S. 314; 5 New Rep. 364; 34 L. 7251. —— Debtor's goods allowed to be taken in execution.]—On Jan. 15, the stock-in-trade of bkpt. was taken under fi. fa. at the suit of B., for a debt alleged to be due from bkpt. to B. individually, & on the 17th bills of exchange & promissory notes were taken under a fi. fa. at the joint suit of B. & C., &, not being due, were held by the sheriff, deft., under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 12. B. & C. were trustees under a marriage settlement, by which bkpt. had covenanted to pay them £1,000, & for that sum, which had not been paid, the second execution was sued out. That proceeding, though in their joint names, was in fact instituted by C. alone. Bkpt.'s assignees brought an action of trover & contended (1) that the execution of Jan. 15 was collusive, on which point evidence was given that bkpt. had, on that occasion, committed an act of bkpcy. under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 3, by procuring "his goods, money or chattels to be taken in execution, with intent to defeat or delay his creditors"; (2) inasmuch as B. knew of such act of bkpcy., C., who sued out the second execution jointly with B., & as his co-trustee, must be taken to have known of it also, & the second execution was not protected, as executed bonâ fide & without notice of a prior act of bkpcy., or, alternatively, the latter execution was itself, on the part of bkpt., a causing and procuring the property to be taken in execution for the purpose of defeating his creditors by a fraudulent preference. The judge left both heads of the case to the jury. With reference to the first, he stated that an act of bkpcy. was committed by bkpt.'s procurement of the first execution, if the jury were satisfied that, in order to defeat other creditors, that process was obtained for a debt which did not really exist, or for a real debt but with intent to give a fraudulent preference, & that if they were so satisfied, to bring the execution of Jan. 17 within 2 & 3 Vict. c. 29, it must appear that neither B. nor C. had notice of the prior act of bkpcy., & it was for deft. to give some reasonable evidence of that negative. As to pltfs.' second position, he left it to the jury to say, on the evidence, whether the execution of Jan. 17 was procured by bkpt. for the purpose of defeating his creditors by giving a fraudulent preference to the trustees under the settlement. The jury having found a verdict for pltfs., a motion for a new trial, on the ground (inter alia) of misdirection, was refused.—EDWARDS v. COOPER (1847), 11 Q. B. 23; 10 L. T. O. S. 160; 116 E. Bkpt. at the time of the deposit also gave a cognovit to secure the same debt, which had been set aside because irregular in point of form & obtained by fraud :—Held : the deposit was so near the act of bkpcy. in point of time, that, not being given under pressure, it was a fraudulent preference.—Re GOREN, Ex p. AINSWORTH (1838), 3 Mont. & A. 451, Ct. of R.

s. —— ——.]—On Sept. 5, 1904, a merchant, being then insolvent, sold his stock-in-trade at 50 cents on the dollar, & received in payment the purchaser's cheque on defts.' private bank for $1,172.27, payable to his own order, which he took to that bank, where he had an account, & deposited it to his own credit. Defts. knew that the sale was about to be made, & had lent the purchaser the money to make the purchase, & knew that the money was to be deposited in their bank by insolvent, &, in anticipation, had charged up against insolvent's account, without the latter's knowledge, an overdue note for $1,000 & $40 interest thereon. The deposit of the purchaser's cheque with defts. was attacked within sixty days thereafter as a preferential transfer of a bill or security to a creditor, within R. S. there should be a threat or pressure, with an immediate power of rendering it available by taking legal steps. 7256. —— Payment need not correspond with amount pressed for.]—In order to make a payment to a creditor by bkpt. a fraudulent preference, bkpt. must be a volunteer, & if he makes a payment or gives a bill of exchange in consequence of pressure, it is immaterial in law that the payment or bill does not correspond in amount or parties with the money or security asked for, or that the creditor had already taken a previous bill not then due, those being merely circumstances for the jury in determining whether the payment or bill were given by way of fraudulent preference.

Bkpt., being indebted to deft. in £167 5*s.* for goods sold, gave him a bill at four months for £77. On the following day deft. brought back the bill stating that it was on a wrong stamp, & his bankers refused to discount it, & pressed bkpt. to give him cash on account. Bkpt. having in his possession an acceptance of K. at four months for £197 5*s.* gave it to deft., who returned him £30 in cash. Bkpt. said that by the course of dealing between himself & deft., the latter was only entitled at that time to bkpt.'s own acceptance at four months for the amount due. The jury found that K.'s acceptance was given by bkpt. in consequence of a request for payment:—Held: as against the assignees deft. was entitled to retain K.'s acceptance, as the payment of a debt not then due, upon a bonâ fide request of the creditor, was not in law a voluntary payment, & the fact of the debt not being due was merely a circumstance for the jury in considering the question of fraudulent preference.—STRACHAN v. BARTON (1856), 11 Exch. 647; 25 L. 7258. —— Must be cause of act.]—The mere fact of pressure on the part of a creditor is not enough to show that the transfer was not voluntary, unless it was made really by reason of such pressure, & not merely from a desire to favour & prefer the creditor.—KINNEAR v. WALMISLEY (1862), 2 F. & F. 756.

7259. —— ——.]—To show a transfer is not voluntary, there must be such pressure as would be likely to cause bkpt. to make the transfer. If the motive of the transfer is merely the desire of bkpt. to prefer the creditor it is fraudulent, if it is not by reason of the demand, or the pressure, of the creditor.—KINNEAR v. JOHNSON (1862), 2 F. & F. 753.

7257 i. Pressure—Must be real.]—To sustain the preference the pressure must have been real, & not a feigned contrivance between debtor & creditor to wear the appearance of pressure, for the mere purpose of giving effect to debtor's desire & intention to give a preference.—CLEMMOW v. CONVERSE (1869), 16 Gr. 547.—CAN.

The only pressure which appeared to have been exercised was that on Mar. 11 security was demanded from insolvents:—Held: there having been no pressure which could not be resisted, & no legal proceedings having existed against insolvents, or which they could have feared, the transaction was a voluntary transfer, & void.—PHULCHAND v. MILLER (1885), I. 7257 v. —— —— ——.]—Pressure will not validate a security, unless it be bonâ fide pressure to secure a debt, & without a view of obtaining a preference over the other creditors.—POWELL v. CALDER (1885), 8 O. R. 505.—CAN.

7257 vi. —— —— Debtor hopelessly insolvent.]—Pressure to take a case out of the fraudulent preference sect. must be genuine, & a delivery by debtor, who is hopelessly insolvent, under threat of an action cannot be regarded as made under pressure, for such a threat cannot possibly have any influence on debtor so situated.—MACKAY v. JELLIE (1890), 17 V. 7258 v. —— ——.]—A payment by debtor within three months of his bkpcy.:—Held: not void as a fraudulent preference under 1884 Act, s. 27, where the main reason of the payment was owing to pressure by the creditor.—Re MORGAN (1885), 4 N. Z. L. R. 1.—N.Z.

7260. —— ——.]—A. obtained a loan from B., his brother-in-law, to enable him to set up as a publican. Being subsequently repeatedly pressed for repayment, A. sold his public-house business, & repaid B. the loan in full. There was evidence that debtor would have paid B. without pressure, inasmuch as he did not wish him to lose anything :—Held : in the circumstances, the fact of pressure by the creditor for his debt was unimportant, & the payment was a fraudulent preference.—Re GRIMES, Ex p. WHEATLEY (1881), 45 L. T. 80.

7261. —— ——.]—It is not sufficient to prevent a payment being a fraudulent preference, that honest pressure had something to do with bringing about such payment, if the ct. comes to the conclusion that the dominant view of bkpt. was to prefer the creditor, even though but for the importunity of the creditor bkpt. might not have made the payment.

If it is the fact that the desire to prefer the creditor was a substantial motive operating on the mind of bkpt. who has made the payment, in such a sense that it can be said to be the dominant motive, such payment will be a fraudulent preference, notwithstanding that but for the importunity of the creditor, the payment might never have been made.—Re BELL, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1892), 10 Morr. 15, D. 7262. —— Must be exercised before payment.]—L. being on the eve of bkpcy., drew out all his balance at his bankers & sent it to K., who was employed by him as accountant, & to whom he owed a considerable sum. His object in sending the money to K. was to prevent its being attached by another creditor, who had issued a writ against him. K. took back the money, & refused to accept it, unless debtor consented to his paying himself out of it. After some discussion, the debtor agreed, & K. appropriated £421, part of the sum entrusted to him, in satisfaction of his own debt. The evidence did not establish that there had been anything which amounted to pressure for payment on the part of K. before the occasion on which he took back the money to L. Three days afterwards L. stopped payment, & soon afterwards presented his petition for liquidation :—Held : the act of debtor in drawing out the balance from the bankers for the purpose of defeating the creditor who was suing him was in itself an act of bkpcy., & the payment of the £421 to K. was a fraudulent preference.—Re LIEBERT, Ex p. HALLIDAY (1873), 8 Ch. Sect. 12.—Avoidance of preference: Sub-sect. 4, B.]

The creditor replied that the bills must be met & the account considerably reduced. Debtor telegraphed suggesting a return of goods. The next day at an interview the creditor demanded a substantial payment or a return of goods, otherwise he would "make it hot" for debtor. Debtor agreed to return goods & during the next few days returned goods to the value of £1,808, being more than three times the amount of the two bills then due. Within three months debtor became bkpt.:—Held: the return of the goods was not caused by any real pressure on the part of the creditor but was the voluntary act of debtor, & was a fraudulent preference.

When I use the word "dominant" I do not mean that, if one could enter into a quantitative analysis, it would be good enough if 51 per cent. could be attributed to the wish to prefer & 49 per cent. to the wish to get an advantage or to escape difficulties; but I mean that the substantial motive, the master motive, was in the direction of fraudulent preference (PHILLIMORE, J.).—Re RAMSAY, Ex p. DEACON, [1913] 2 K. Judgment was not entered up on the warrant of attorney, but a writ was issued & judgment entered in the action. Afterwards W., by threats to put the sheriff in possession & by other great pressure, got from S. a transfer of two bills of exchange. Within sixty days of the transfer S. absconded & his estate was sequestrated:—Held: as the transfer of the bill was not voluntary it was not defeated by 5 Vict. g. Threat of seizure of property under security.]—Debtor, within three months before his bkpcy., under pressure, gave a security for an antecedent debt over certain horses. Afterwards, before his bkpcy., the creditor having threatened to seize the horses, he paid the amount required to release the security. Debtor's object in making the payment in discharge of the security was to release the horses & save them for his wife. There was nothing in the relations between debtor & creditor to indicate that, though that might have been debtor's ostensible object, he really made the payment with a view to prefer:—Held: the payment was not a fraudulent preference.—Re MCCANDLISH, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1897), 15 N. In fact they were accommodation bills. Six months later, debtors, who were heavily in debt to the bankers, discussed their position with the bank manager, & it was arranged that a suspense account should be opened, into which money could be paid without diminishing the debt on current account. Debtors shortly before their bkpcy. gave their bankers two cheques, in exchange for the three bills, which were still undue:—Held: the payment by the two cheques constituted a fraudulent preference.—Re FLEMING, FRASER & Co., Ex p. TRUSTEE (1888), 60 L. M. promised, if B. would do so, to give him a bill of sale of all his property to secure what he owed him. B. acceded to the request, a bill of sale of all M.'s property was given to him to secure £200, & B. paid the £100 to the bankers. Soon afterwards M. was adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: however difficult, on grounds of public policy, the position of B. might have been, if he had been seeking the assistance of the ct., M., who was a party to the offence, if any, could not have recovered the proceeds of the goods from B., & as no offence against bkpcy. law had been committed, the trustee had only the same rights as M.—Re MAPLEBACK, Ex p. CALDECOTT (1876), 4 Ch. 7276. —— No prosecution contemplated.]—Debtor shortly before his bkpcy. transferred to his father shares of the value of £2,000 in a co., of which his father was the promoter & principal shareholder, the father at the same time paying off a charge of £105 which had been effected on the shares by debtor & also certain sums of money amounting to about £1,000 received by debtor on behalf of the said co. & not accounted for. The shares constituted practically the whole of the assets of debtor & the transaction was subsequently set aside by the county ct. judge as being void against the trustee:—Held: there being no evidence of any criminal proceedings having been contemplated against debtor in respect of his alleged defalcations, & the father being well aware of debtor's insolvent condition at the time when the transfer was made to him, the county ct. judge was right in setting the transaction aside.—Re BOYD, Ex p. BOYD (1889), 6 Morr. 209, D. 7277. Withdrawal of prosecution.]—A banking co. commenced a prosecution against a customer for having obtained credit under false pretences. The bank had notice of an act of bkpcy. committed by the customer. H. signed an undertaking that, if the magistrate would allow the summons to be withdrawn, he would pay the bank the sum obtained from them by false pretences. An application to allow the summons to be withdrawn was granted by the magistrate. H. then paid the money to the bank. The bank manager believed that H. was paying the money out of his own pocket. The customer was adjudicated a bkpt., upon the act of bkpcy. of which the bank had notice. The trustee discovered that the money, which H. had paid to the bank, had been previously handed to him by bkpt.'s wife, she having, with bkpt.'s knowledge, taken it for the purpose of paying the bank out of a bag of money belonging to bkpt.:—Held: the consideration for the payment to the bank being the stifling of a prosecution, there was no legal consideration, & though H., being in pari delicto, could not have recovered the money from the bank, the trustee, to whom, by virtue of the relation back of his title to the act of bkpcy., the money really belonged, could recover it.—Re CAMPBELL, Ex p. WOLVERHAMPTON BANKING CO. 7281 xii. —— Whether previous demand for security.]—Debtor mortgaged all his real estate to deft., & shortly afterwards made an assignment to pltf. for the benefit of his creditors generally. Before the giving of the mtge. he knew himself to be insolvent. On the day the mtge. was given deft. asked for payment, & debtor informed him he could make none, & then gave the mtge. The evidence was contradictory as to whether there was a request for security:—Held: the mtge. constituted a preference.—SCHWARTZ v. WINKLER (1901), 21 C. L. T. Occ. N. 574; 13 Man. L. 7283. —— Bill allowed to become due at date of transaction.]—The acceptor of a bill of exchange, two days before the expiration of the time for which the bill was originally drawn, called upon the indorser & informed him privately that he was insolvent. The indorser insisted on being paid the amount of the bill, offering at the same time to become security to the creditors for so much as the estate should produce, whereupon the acceptor paid it, & four days after became bkpt. It also appeared that the bill had been altered so as to make it fall due before such transaction, but without deft.'s knowledge :—Held : this was sufficient proof of fraudulent preference to defeat the payment of the bill.—Where a trader having accepted a bill for the use of a third person, is induced by that person to pay the bill, after having informed him that he was insolvent, on the promise of such person to guarantee the payment of a composition to the trader's creditors, and he afterwards becomes bankrupt, that payment is a fraudulent preference.—SINGLETON v. BUTLER (1800), 2 Bos. & P. 283 ; 3 Esp. 215 ; 126 E. 7286. —— Bankrupt released from prison to collect debt.]—A trader in the Fleet Prison, under an arrest for debt, eight days before the suing out of a commission of bkpcy. against him, obtained a day rule, & went to an insurance office to receive a sum of money that was due to him. Deft., to whom bkpt. was indebted, knowing that he was about to receive the money, without any communication from him, met him at the office, & procured payment of his debt out of the money received by bkpt. The payment was made on June 8, debtor having been committed to prison on Apr. 19 preceding, & on June 18, a commission issued against him, on an act of bkpcy. committed by his lying in prison. In assumpsit by the assignees, for money had & received by deft. to their use, the jury having found that there was no fraudulent preference, & that deft. did not know of his debtor's insolvency & imprisonment at the time of the payment :—Held : the payment was not a fraudulent preference.—CHURCHILL v. CREASE (1828), 5 Bing. 177 ; 2 Moo. & P. 415 ; 7 L. 7287. —— Presentation of cheques—With knowledge that bank insolvent.]—One of the partners in a bank, which was in a state of insolvency, intending to give a preference to his father-in-law, communicated to him the state of their affairs. The father-in-law, besides his private account, had also an account for an insurance co., of which he was a trustee. Bkpt. did not intend to favour the insurance co., & was anxious that no communication should be made to them, but his father-in-law transmitted the information to them, & their debt was drawn out by cheques, one paid over the counter, & the other passed through the clearing-house before the bank stopped. The other partners were not acquainted with the fact of the communication having been made :—Held : the money was not recoverable by the assignees as a fraudulent preference.—BELCHER v. JONES (1837), 2 M. & W. 258 ; Murp. & H. 34 ; 6 L. 7288. —— By solicitor—Refusal to proceed with composition arrangement until paid.]—The deposit of a lease made by bkpts. on the morning of the day fixed for the first sitting, under a petition for private arrangement, under pressure, such pressure being a demand by the solr. for security for his costs, & a refusal on his part to proceed unless such security were given :—Held : a transaction protected under 1849 Act, s. 133, notwithstanding bkpt.'s petition for arrangement was turned into a bkpcy. the same day, the security given in such circumstances not amounting to a fraudulent preference.—Re ROBINSON & ROBSON, Ex p. ROBINSON'S ASSIGNEES v. ROBSON (1858), 32 L. 7284 i. —— Before usual time for payment.]—T. was an under-agent of defts., & about the 4th of each month he settled with defts. In the end of Dec., 1869, defts.' representative, L., told T. that he must keep defts. safe. On the four days before his bkpcy. on Jan. 5 T. sent sums of money to defts. Large sums were due to T. from customers of defts., a great part of which pltfs. collected. The jury found for pltfs., on the ground that the payments before bkpcy. were fraudulent preferences. The money was sent in notes & gold, in a box, &, finding it impossible to meet the run, O. & S. discussed the propriety of returning the money. While discussing it they received a letter from F., one of the sureties, saying that, as the case was hopeless, O. & S. could not honourably retain the money, & that it ought to be returned, & F. afterwards, in an interview, again urged them to return the money. The letter & the subsequent application from F. operated upon the minds of O. & S. in coming to the conclusion to return the money, & the box containing the money was returned to defts. unopened:—Held: O. & S., in returning the money, were influenced not solely by their own wish, but also by the application from the surety, & the return of the money was not purely voluntary, & did not amount to a fraudulent preference.—EDWARDS v. GLYN (1859), 2 E. & E. 29; 28 L. At the same time as he handed debtor a cheque for that amount, he presented him with his bill of costs, which amounted to £87, & debtor paid it out of the money advanced:—Held: not a fraudulent preference, as the presentation of the bill of costs amounted to a demand for payment. —Re COLLETT, Ex p. BOYLE (1871), 25 L. 7293. —— Charge given to secure overdraft.]—Debtor having overdrawn his account at his bankers, & being insolvent, at their request signed a paper charging certain money that was coming to him with the payment of the balance due:—Held: the charge having been given at the request of the bank, there had been sufficient pressure to negative the inference of fraudulent preference.—Re BROWN, Ex p. LONDON & COUNTY BANKING CO., Ex p. TRICKETT (1873), L. 7294. —— After promise to give security.]—A solr., shortly before absconding as an insolvent debtor, had given securities to deft., who was one of his clerks, & who was a bonâ fide creditor. Bkpt. left on Oct. 28, having two days previously signed a declaration admitting his inability to pay his debts. The securities bore date the 30th of Sept., but they were not executed till after that day. The deeds were engrossed in the office of bkpt. on Oct. 10, & were executed on Oct. 14. They were not stamped till after bkpt. absconded. Deft. had been pressing for security during Aug. & Sept., & it had been promised, & the drafts of the securities were prepared in Sept.:—Held: the pressure & promise of security were sufficient to rebut the presumption of a fraudulent preference arising from the circumstances, & would sustain the deeds, even if the knowledge of the insolvency were brought home to the deft.—SMITH v. PILGRIM (1876), 2 Ch. D. 127; 32 L. T. 408; 40 J. P. 437.

7295. —— For overdraft.]—Bankers agreed to allow their customer to overdraw his account to £1,800 upon his obtaining three sureties to that amount. His overdraft exceeded £2,400, & the bankers repeatedly pressed him to reduce his account within the limits of their security. Subsequently the manager at an interview pressed him to square his account, whereupon saying he "was fast" he handed to the manager £2,450 in cheques & bills against which he had drawn largely. The same evening the manager wrote to him that they would not honour any more of his cheques:—Held: in the absence of evidence to show that the payment was made with a view to release the sureties, or otherwise than in the ordinary course of a current account, the general lien of the bankers attached for their benefit & the payment was not a fraudulent preference.—Re WALTON, Ex p. CARLISLE BANKING CO. On Dec. 28, 1881, C., B.'s son, called at A.'s warehouse, & demanded money "as security for" the bills running, saying that if money was not paid to his father he would be ruined. A. thereupon gave C. a customer's cheque, all the stock, his gold watch & chain & a blank cheque on his bankers, which was afterwards filled up. B. further obtained from one of A.'s creditors a cheque for £69 3*s.*, & from another a cheque for £172 8*s.* 9*d.* Two days afterwards he met A., & induced him to hand over £87 in notes & gold. On Jan. 4, 1882, A. filed a liquidation petition. The trustee moved for a declaration that the cheques, cash, bills, & goods paid & handed over as above formed part of the estate of debtor. The application having been refused:—Held: as a trader debtor's summons could not have been supported against debtor, there was no legal pressure, & as the

of goods in pursuance of the contract, does not of itself prevent such delivery from being an undue preference of the creditor.—If it were clearly shown that the dominant motive for the delivery was that the surety was able to intimidate or put some pressure on debtor to make the delivery, the presumption that there was an intention to prefer the creditor might be negatived.—DU TOIT'S ESTATE v. BARRY BROTHERS (1909), 19 C. 1. —— By wife.]—Pltf. was married in 1876 without any marriage contract or settlement being possessed of about $1,500, which she lent to her husband, directly or in paying his debts, a small portion having been lent prior to their marriage. In Jan., 1879, on a further advance of $200 she obtained from her husband a chattel mtge. of certain goods, which was duly registered but not renewed. In Nov. she insisted upon & obtained from her husband a bill of sale of other goods, for the expressed consideration of $300:—Held: the bill of sale, being obtained by pressure was not a fraudulent preference under R. Subsequently the trader, becoming insolvent, announced the fact to his creditors. Deft. thereupon reminded the trader of his promise to him, & induced him to give a confession of judgment for the amount of his indebtedness to deft., & to execute an assignment of his book debts to him:—Held: the confession of judgment, & the assignment of book debts, having been obtained by pressure, were not within 58 Vict. c. 6, ss. 1 & 2.—AMHERST BOOT & SHOE CO. v. SHEYN (1901), 21 C. 7299. Importunity—Inferred from findings of jury on another point.]—W. drew a bill on deft. to whom he had been sending goods for sale, & deft. accepted the bill, neither party knowing the state of the account between them, but it turned out that W. was at the time indebted to deft. W. lurking from his creditors at large, after an act of bkpcy., indorsed the bill, upon importunity, to pltf., one of his creditors, with whom he was on friendly terms, & then became a bkpt. Pltf. sued deft. on the bill, & the jury found for deft., at the same time stating expressly that the bill had been indorsed after an act of bkpcy., by the drawer, of which pltf. had no notice :—Held : if the jury still found their verdict for deft., it could only have proceeded on the ground that the delivery of the bill to pltf. by bkpt., either was not a bonâ fide payment to him, or was a fraudulent preference to pltf., & though that precise point was not specifically left to the jury, it was involved in the evidence in the cause, & could be the only ground on which the verdict rested.—BAGNALL v. ANDREWS (1830), 7 Bing. 217 ; 4 Moo. & P. 839 ; 9 L. 7300. Pressure in hostile spirit—Transfer of dock warrants.]—A trader handed over wine warrants to deft., a creditor, on the occasion of a sudden stoppage of payment, caused by the unexpected withdrawal of assistance. The transfer was pressed for by the creditor in a hostile spirit, & concurrently with other steps taken for his own protection, & the trader assented to it with reluctance, & struggled against bkpcy. several weeks afterwards in the hope of surmounting his difficulties :—Held : it was for the jury whether there was not a transfer of the property in the warrants for the benefit of the creditor, under pressure & against the will of the trader, & if so, deft. was entitled to a verdict.—PENNELL v. HEADING (1862), 2 F. & F. 744.

7301. Pressure continued after receipt of bill—Goods payable in cash.]—Debtor purchased goods of A., to be paid for in cash three days after delivery. Being unable to pay, he drew a bill on A. for the price, which debtor himself promised to discount the following week, A. retaining the bill in his own hands. A. continuing to press for payment, debtor signed a paper requesting a creditor of his to pay the amount of the bill to A., & the creditor paid the sum to the assignee of debtor, who had become bkpt. The ct. being satisfied that the bill was given only as a security, that there was no intention to depart from the terms of the original contract, & that pressure had been put upon debtor :—Held : the signature of the paper was not an act of fraudulent preference, & A. was entitled to the debt.—Re BAKER, Ex p. SEALS (1864), 10 L. T. 315, C. A.

7302. Judgment creditor seeking to stop sale.]—Debtor, a farmer, whose tenancy was about to expire, placed the whole of his farming stock in the hands of an auctioneer for sale. To prevent a judgment creditor from stopping the sale, he gave a letter to the auctioneer authorising him out of the first proceeds of sale, after satisfying the rent, to pay the judgment creditor his judgment debt, together with the amount due to him on debtor's promissory note :—Held : the motive for the transaction was not to favour the creditor, & it was not a fraudulent preference.—Re GLANVILLE, Ex p. JENKINS (OFFICIAL RECEIVER), HARRIS v. HAWKER (1885), 33 W. R. 523 ; 2 MORR. 71.

7303. Creditor stopping goods in transit.]—The purchaser of brimstone, which formed a portion of the cargo of a general ship then on its voyage from Messina to Swansea, finding himself unable to protect his acceptances given in exchange for bills of lading indorsed in blank, & desiring to cancel the contract, telegraphed to the vendors to appoint an agent in England to receive the brimstone & returned the bills of lading. The ship arrived in port on Aug. 24, & the vendors' agent, by notice to the master, stopped delivery of the brimstone to the purchaser. On Aug. 25 the sheriff came on board & took it in execution at the instance of J. & Co. judgment creditors, & on the same day a receiving order was made on the purchaser's own petition, & adjudication followed on Sept. 23. The sheriff interpleaded, & upon a motion in the county ct. for a declaration as to the relative legal positions of the parties as claimants, it was decided that the redelivery of the bills of lading revested the property in the vendors, & they had lost their right of stoppage in transitu, & that the redelivery was an act of bkpcy., & gave the vendors a preference over the other creditors, which was fraudulent & void as against the trustee in bkpcy. Upon appeal to the Divisional Ct., WILLIAMS & COLLINS, JJ., differed in opinion, COLLINS, J., holding the vendors' right of stoppage in transitu was not destroyed, & as between the vendors & the trustee the former were entitled to the cargo, & even if there were a fraudulent preference, it did not defeat the vendors' right to stop in transitu. On appeal to the Ct. of Appeal :—Held : on the 7305. —— Creditor aware of insolvency.]—A., a trader, being indebted to B., another trader, assigned property to him to secure it. A. was either actually insolvent at the time, or in such circumstances that enforcement of the provisions of the deed would have stopped the business, & both A. & B. knew that it was only by preserving the goodwill & by careful management that A. could hope to pay his debts, for which time & the forbearance of B. were necessary. A., & probably B. also, knew that the former was insolvent. B.'s debt, however, was bonâ fide, & the security was executed under bonâ fide pressure, & contemplated the continuance of the business by A., & his ultimate extrication from his difficulties by the aid of B. :—Held : the assignment came within 1849 Act, s. 67, & could not be supported against the assignees of A., who had become bkpt.—STANGER v. WILKINS (1855), 19 Beav. 626 ; 52 E. Debtor adopted the suggestion, & out of the proceeds of the sale of goods which he obtained on credit he made several payments on account of the debt. 7309. —— —— Payment to him & another.]—A judgment creditor, who had issued execution upon the property of his insolvent debtor, agreed to make him a substantial advance for the alleged purpose of enabling him to carry on his business, upon the understanding, come to at a meeting at which all the parties to the transaction were present, that the advance should be applied in paying the bankers of debtor, who had pressed for payment of a debt of £2,000, & threatened to make debtor a bkpt. if they were not paid, & also in paying off two other debts due to solrs. employed in the transaction. A bill of sale over substantially the whole of debtor's property was given by him to the execution creditor on Sept. 9, 1882, to secure the execution debt & the fresh advance, which was applied in payment of the debts to the bankers and the solrs. On Sept. 11 possession under the bill of sale was taken by the grantee. On Sept. 13 debtor filed a liquidation petition, & the trustees impeached the bill of sale & the above-mentioned payments:—Held: the payments to the solrs. were fraudulent & void, but the payment to the bankers, who had acted bonâ fide, was protected by 1869 Act, s. 92.—Re WILKINSON, Ex p. CLATER, Ex p. BECKETT-DENISON (1883), 48 L. Trust deed granted—To raise funds to make good scheduled breaches of trust—No pressure from cestuis que trust.]—A trustee, on the eve of his bkpcy. & without any pressure or request by his cestuis que trust, executed a deed, by which he conveyed an estate to a person, upon trust to raise thereout by sale or mtge. £4,200, & therewith to make good breaches of trust which he had committed in respect of certain scheduled trust estates. By the deed he charged the property conveyed with the payment of the £4,200, & conferred on the grantee, his exors. or administrators, a power to appoint new trustees. The deed was not communicated to any of the beneficiaries : —Held : the deed was not a fraudulent preference within 1883 Act, s. 48, because the object of bkpt. in executing it was not to prefer some creditors to others, but to shield himself from the consequences of the breaches of trust committed by him.—SHARP v. JACKSON, [1899] A. 7332. Agreement to give security when creditor "lost confidence."]—Shortly before a trader filed his petition he executed a bill of sale of substantially the whole of his property, to secure the repayment of an advance, which had been made to him two months previously. At the time when the advance was made, the borrower agreed to give a bill of sale to secure it, but the agreement was that the bill of sale was not to be signed, until the lender "lost confidence" in the borrower:—Held: this amounted to an agreement to postpone the giving of the bill of sale until the grantor should be on the verge of bkpcy., & it could not support the deed.—Re TUNSTALL, Ex p. BURTON (1879), 13 Ch. 7333. Agreement to give security if & when required.]—Debtor gave promissory notes for the amount of his debt, which notes contained the words "security to be given by bill of sale when required." One year afterwards the creditor required security, & six weeks after the request debtor gave him a bill of sale over a portion only of his property, which was registered. Debtor having afterwards petitioned for liquidation the creditor took possession under his bill of sale:—Held: (1) the bill of sale was not bad as a 7332 ii. —— To party indorsing notes for debtors' accommodation.]—In Apr., 1898, a firm obtained from a bank accommodation of about $8,200 for the purpose of buying goods upon promissory notes indorsed for their accommodation by deft., they promising him to retire the notes out of the proceeds of the sales of the goods. The proceeds were not so applied, to deft.'s knowledge, & the notes were from time to time renewed in full, deft. indorsing them upon each renewal. He was satisfied by a general promise that they would secure him, but no security was ever definitely mentioned, nor did he ever press for it. On May 27, 1899, the firm sold out their assets. Before the sale was carried out deft. became aware that the firm was insolvent. The purchase-money was paid to the firm, $1,000 in cash, $5,000 by a cheque to their order, & the remainder by promissory notes. The firm handed over the cash to deft., & indorsed the cheque & some of the notes to him, & he retired all the notes upon which he was liable, & paid, besides, some rent, taxes, & other debts due by the firm. On June 2, 1899, the firm assigned for the benefit of their creditors:—Held: (1) the promise to give deft. security was not sufficient to rebut the statutory presumption of a preference; (2) the payment of $1,000 in cash to deft. could not be attacked; (3) the $5,000 cheque transferred to deft. was the transfer of a security, & he was liable to repay the proceeds of it, less the portion expended in paying debts, etc., of the firm.—ARMSTRONG v. JOHNSTON (1900), 20 C. Shortly after executing the bill of sale, he made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors under C. S. N. The fact that the agreement was to give the bill of sale "if or when required" by the creditor does not of itself necessarily invalidate it.—Re BARKER, Ex p. KILNER (1879), 13 Ch. D. 245; 41 L. 7335. Payment out of proceeds of security—Debtor allowed to remain in possession.]—Debtor executed an assignment of the goodwill & fixtures of his business to his brother, in satisfaction of money advanced. Two years afterwards debtor, who had retained possession of the goodwill & fixtures, sold them, & his brother obtained payment of the purchase-money. Debtor was then insolvent, & soon afterwards presented a petition for liquidation by arrangement:—Held: the payment of the purchase-money to debtor's brother was not a fraud upon the other creditors, & could not be set aside.—Re WILSON, Ex p. WILSON (1874), 29 L. The debt exceeded £5,000. In Nov., 1872, C. paid to P., through a foreign bank, £4,000, but without expressly stating that it was paid in pursuance of the previous promise. The bankers did not then take the security, but debtor agreed to let them have it at any time, if they should desire it. In Oct. the bankers called upon him to fulfil his promise, & he deposited the builder's certificate of the ship with their manager, who took possession of the ship, & applied to the authorities to have her registered in his name as owner, but as the ship had not been launched that could not be done. In Aug., 1872, B., being hopelessly involved, W. by his agent, T., after very considerable urging, obtained security for W., upon almost the entire property of B. W. did not know the exact state of B.'s affairs, or the full amount of B.'s indebtedness, but knew that B.'s affairs were desperate. B. gave W. a certificate of sale of a ship on Aug. 17, 1872, & B. confirmed the sale to W. on Sept. 20. B. made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors in Nov., & his assignee filed a bill to recover back the property so transferred to W.:—Held: the transfer from B. to W. was an unjust preference, & neither the previous promise of B. to give security, nor the pressure brought to bear on him by T. made the transfer good.—MCLEOD v. WRIGHT (1877), 1 P. & B. 68.—CAN.

Later F. executed a mtge. of 20,64 shares of the ship in favour of S., & had same recorded, & within thirty days thereafter a writ of attachment in insolvency was issued against him:—Held: the promise to give security "in case anything should happen," could only mean "in case the party should go into insolvency," & the transfer was void under Insolvent Act, 1875, s. 133.—JONES v. KINNEY (1885), 11 S. In his evidence P., one of the partners in the bank, stated that he had no idea on Aug. 1 that the bank would be compelled to close its doors. On Aug. 3, the Bank Holiday, it appeared that very heavy demands would be made on the bank which they could not meet, & it was determined to close the doors on Aug 4, but on the announcement that the three succeeding days would be bank holidays, it was decided to carry on, & the instructions to close were cancelled. Afterwards P. remembered the promise to give a charge to the trustees & wrote a letter giving a charge. On Aug. 22 the bank closed its doors & the partners were subsequently made bkpt. : —Held : there was no fraudulent preference, the previous promise to give the security being a good ground for writing the letter of charge, & there was valuable consideration for the charge in the fact that C., on account of the agreement, refrained from getting his co-trustee's signature to a cheque for the amount in the bank, though P. did not know that C. had no cheque & believed with reasonable grounds that he would be bound to pay.—BULTEEL & COLMORE v. PARKER & BULTEEL'S TRUSTEE (1916), 32 T. The goods so assigned comprised all his property, except some household furniture & book debts. In an action by the assignees of the trader to recover the value of the goods seized under the bill of sale, the judge left it to the jury with very strong observations to say whether they would infer an intent to defeat & delay creditors. The jury having found for pltfs., the ct. thinking they might have been misled by the observations of the judge granted a new trial, the costs to abide the event.—PENNELL v. DAWSON (1856), 18 C. 7350. Smallness of additional advance relevant but not conclusive.]—Where debtor on the eve of his bkpcy. assigns all his property to a creditor to secure a past debt as well as a fresh advance, the smallness of the fresh advance, although not necessarily making the assignment an act of bkpcy., is strong evidence that the advance was made, not to enable the debtor to continue his trade, but to secure the past debt.

A trader applied to a creditor, who had previously advanced him £600, for a further advance of £100, which was made on debtor giving a conditional promise that if he did not repay the £100 within ten days, he would make an assignment of all his property to the creditor to secure both the past & fresh advance. Default was made in payment, & the assignment was executed. Shortly afterwards debtor became bkpt., & the property was sold for about £700 :—Held : having regard to the conditional nature of the promise & the smallness of the fresh advance, the assignment was void against the creditors.—Re ASH, Ex p. FISHER (1872), 7 Ch. 7354. Bill of sale given to prevent issue of execution on judgment.]—A trader on Aug. 28 executed a bill of sale of substantially the whole of his property to secure a debt, for which the grantee had recovered judgment on July 3, & another debt which he owed the grantee. The grantor had on July 7 written a letter to the grantee, undertaking, in the event of his not issuing execution on the judgment, to execute to him on demand a bill of sale to secure the judgment debt & such other sums as he owed him. The grantee did not enter into any agreement not to enforce the judgment, but in fact he did not issue execution. On Aug. 29 another creditor levied execution at the grantor's place of business, & on Sept. 1 the grantor filed a liquidation petition. 7355. New bill of sale given to avoid seizure under old bill.]—The forbearance of the grantee under a bill of sale of the whole of the grantor's property, given for value, to seize the property comprised in it is not, as against the trustee of the grantor, good consideration for the giving of a new bill of sale in lieu of the first, but the new bill of sale given in such circumstances without any fresh advance to the grantor is void as against the trustee of the grantor.—Re CROSS, Ex p. PAYNE (1879), 11 Ch. 7356. ——.]—On Oct. 26, 1857, bkpt. by deed assigned furniture to trustees upon trust for his wife for life for her separate use with remainder over, & the deed was registered as a bill of sale. On June 23, 1881, he by deed assigned furniture to W. his son-in-law, as security for an advance of £50, & the deed was also registered. On Oct. 11, 1887, two further deeds were executed. The first was a deed affirming the assurance of 1857, & by it bkpt. assigned the furniture specified in the schedule thereto, which was the same furniture as that comprised in the deed of 1857, & the equity of redemption in the furniture assigned to W. as security to A. & W. upon the trusts of the deed of 1857. The second deed simply affirmed the assurance to W. of 1881, & was executed in consideration of a forbearance on the part of W. to seize. Both deeds were registered : —Held : forbearance to seize was not a sufficient consideration for an assignment of all debtor's property, & the deeds of 1887 were both voluntary & the furniture must be handed over to the trustee in bkpcy.—Re EMERY, Ex p. CHIEF OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1888), 21 Q. 7357 i. No agreement to make any further advance.]—D. & Co., merchants, kept a banking account with the B. bank, & were allowed to overdraw their account up to Sept., 1879, when the bank refused further advances without additional security. D. & Co. requiring a further advance of $40,000 to enable them to carry on their business, without any specific arrangement with the bank, executed a bill of sale on Sept. 17, whereby in consideration of $40,000 alleged to be paid to them, they conveyed to the bank all their goods & stock-in-trade, & all book accounts due & owing to them, as security for the payment of the $40,000. The bill of sale was given by D. & Co. to the bank president, who informed the directors of it, but it did not appear that it was laid before the board, or that they approved of it, or agreed to advance the $40,000 to D. & Co., or that any subsequent communication was made to D. & Co. respecting it, but the bank discounted notes for them, the proceeds of which were placed to their credit, & they continued to draw on the bank. o. Security granted to consolidate previous securities.]—H. was in the habit of purchasing sheep from M. & Co. On the purchase of each lot H. executed an instrument under Chattels Transfer Act, 1889, in favour of M. & Co., over the sheep purchased to secure the purchase money, & also gave promissory notes, which were stated to be given as collateral security. H. was also in the habit of reselling the same sheep through M. & Co., the proceeds going to her credit. On Nov. 25, 1896, there were three instruments in existence. Two of the promissory notes given in respect of them were overdue, & the third was just about to mature. H., at the request of M. & Co., executed an instrument in their favour over the unsold sheep included in the above instruments, to secure the balance then owing on such instruments. No new liability was incurred by H., nor was any additional property included in the instrument of Nov. 25, but the previous instruments were retained by M. & Co. The transaction was admittedly for the convenience of M. & Co.'s banking arrangements. H., within four months of the date of the last instrument, viz. on Feb. 12, 1897, was adjudged a bkpt. :—Held : the last instrument was void under 1892 Act, s. 79 (2), but its execution did not cancel the three previous instruments, & M. & Co. were entitled to retain the proceeds of the sheep by virtue of such previous instruments.—Re HILL, OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE v. MATSOM & CO. 7379. —— —— After execution issued by creditor.]—P. recovered judgment for a sum exceeding £50 from a trader, & on Aug. 8 lodged an execution in the hands of the sheriff, who seized six of his horses. On Aug. 11, before any sale had been made by the sheriff, debtor agreed with P. to sell him the six horses, which the sheriff had seized for the amount of the debt & the sheriff's charges, & P. withdrew the execution, but he left the horses in debtor's stables, & signed an agreement to let debtor have the use of them for a certain payment per day. On Aug. 15, P. removed the horses, & soon afterwards sold them for about the same price as he gave for them. Debtor was at the time of the sale insolvent, & on Aug. 15 he filed a petition for liquidation, & trustees were appointed, who claimed the price of the horses from P. :—Held : the sale was a fraudulent preference of the creditor.—Re MORTIMER, Ex p. PEARSON (1873), 8 Ch. 7381. —— Fraud on bankruptcy law.]—Down to the time of his actual bkpcy. a trader has the unrestrained dominion over his own property. The only exception to the rule is that if he disposes of any part of it contemplating bkpcy. at the time, & intending to prevent the equal & just distribution provided by the law, he thereby commits a fraud. The principle upon which voluntary payments to favoured creditors made before the commission of an act of bkpcy. are avoided is that such payments are a fraud upon the bkpcy. laws.—ATKINSON v. BRINDALL (1835), 2 Bing. N. C. 225; 2 Scott, 369; 1 Hodg. 336; 5 L. J. C. P. 73; 132 E. R. 88.

7382. —— No intention to benefit creditor—& no creditor benefited.]—If a party contemplating bkpcy. voluntarily makes a payment, by which the equal distribution of his property under the fiat will be defeated, such payment is a fraudulent preference, though bkpt., in making it, did not intend to benefit, nor did in fact benefit, the particular creditor. As if he pays off a mtge. on property settled to the use of his wife, who had joined in such mtge., without previous notice to, or request by, the creditor, to whom it would have been equally beneficial to retain the mtge., bkpt. intending only, by such payment, to liberate the wife's property for his own & her benefit.—MARSHALL v. LAMB (1843), 5 Q. The trader being from home when the bags were delivered, on his return the same day gave directions not to have them opened or entered in his books, but only weighed off to see that they agreed with the invoice, he being then in embarrassed circumstances & intending not to take them into the account of his stock, if in the event he found himself unable to pursue his business. Afterwards on Mar. 4 & 5, being then avowedly insolvent, he returned the bags with a letter to the merchants declaring his situation, & hoping that they would have no objection to take back the wool, & requesting the favour of a line of approbation thereof, which letter was received & the approbation given after an act of bkpcy. committed on the same day the letter was sent: —Held : by the trader keeping possession of the goods so long, his option, which ought to have been exercised on the receipt of them was gone, & being in a state of insolvency & on the eve of bkpcy., he could not exercise the power of restoring the goods to the vendors, though without any fraudulent concert with them, & the trader's assignees were entitled to the property.—NEATE v. BALL (1801), 2 East, 117; 102 E. 7389. Granting warrant of attorney.]—Debtor within three months before the commencement of his imprisonment, being then in insolvent circumstances, with the view of petitioning the Insolvent Ct., voluntarily executed a warrant of attorney in favour of deft., a creditor, for the express purpose, by arrangement between them, of enabling deft. to take debtor's goods in execution in satisfaction of his debt. Deft. immediately entered up judgment on the warrant of attorney, & issued execution thereon, & directed & assisted the sheriff in the seizure & sale of the goods:—Held: the warrant of attorney, being voluntarily given for the purpose of enabling a favoured creditor to take the goods, was fraudulent & void as against the assignees.—YOUNG v. BILLITER (1860), 8 H. to a creditor for an antecedent consideration, with the intention of preferring the creditor, does not necessarily avoid the sale under 1883 Act, s. 78, but throws the onus of proof of the creditor's bona fides upon him. 7390 i. Vesting property in one creditor—To protect insolvent from other creditors.]—H. knew he was insolvent when he made a conveyance of land to his daughter, who was a creditor & entitled to be paid what was due her, in order to withdraw the property from the reach of his creditors:—Held: the conveyance was intended merely as security & not as an absolute conveyance.—CASSERLEY v. HUGHES (1905), 6 O. W. R. 70.—CAN.

7390 ii. Vesting property in some creditors—No intention to prefer.]—Where debtor assigns his stock-in-trade & effects by an absolute conveyance to two of his creditors, there is no foundation for asking the ct. to engraft upon a deed, which is in its express terms a grant for the benefit of two individuals, an equity which would compel them to share that benefit amongst all the creditors of their debtor, it being admitted that the assignment was not made with the fraudulent intention of giving undue preference to creditors.—THOMAS v. TASKER & BRUCE (1858), 4 Nfld. L. R. 197.—NFLD.

7390 iii. —— Unfair advantage to particular creditor.]—At a meeting of the members of a firm & their three principal creditors, on July 21, 1914, an arrangement was made by which the creditors formed themselves into a committee to look after the affairs of the firm, upon the basis that all the creditors were to be paid pro ratâ. In Feb. 1915, the firm made a mtge. to a co., a creditor. Semble: the preference given by the mtge., while unjust if regarded in the light of the arrangement of July, 1914, was not strictly within Assignments & Preferences Act.—MORTIMER v. FESSERTON TIMBER CO., LTD. (1917), 40 O. L. R. 86; 39 D. L. R. 781.—CAN.

7392. Payment without intention to prefer.]—C. shortly before his bkpcy. paid a sum of more than £1,000 to a creditor. The trustee under the bkpcy. claimed that sum, on the ground that the payments amounted to a fraudulent preference. The question was tried by a jury, who, in answer to questions put to them by the county ct. judge, found that bkpt. when he made the payment was unable to pay his debts as they became due from his own money, but that he did not make the payment with the view of giving the creditor a preference over his other creditors. The county ct. judge thereupon decided that the payment amounted to a fraudulent preference, & ordered the creditor to refund the money:—Held: the jury having found as a fact that the payment was not made with the view of preferring the creditor, & there being no suggestion that the county ct. judge had misdirected the jury, or that the verdict was against the evidence, the ct. could not go behind the verdict, & the decision of the county ct. judge was wrong, & the payment was good as against the trustee.—Re CHERRY, Ex p. BOLLAND (1871), 7 Ch. 7394. Payment to assignee of Stock Exchange—Only good when no outside creditors.]—The rules of the Stock Exchange provided that a member, who was unable to meet his engagements should be declared a defaulter, & thereupon cease to be a member, & should not be readmitted, unless he paid at least one-third of his Stock Exchange debts, & also that the official assignees of the Stock Exchange should obtain from the defaulter & examine his books of account, collect his assets & administer his estate in conformity with the directions of the Stock Exchange creditors. C., a member, was declared a defaulter. His Stock Exchange liabilities amounted to £24,790, & he also owed £107,000 to another creditor. His assets amounted to £8,000, including £5,000, his balance at his bankers'. The secretary of the Stock Exchange gave notice to the bankers not to part with the balance. Next day debtor attended with his books of account a meeting of his Stock Exchange creditors, & stated he had no outside creditors. He was then informed that if he could pay to his Stock Exchange creditors a dividend of 13*s.* 4*d.* in the pound, his readmission would not be opposed. He then handed to the assignees a cheque for the £5,000, & out of that sum a dividend was distributed among the Stock Exchange creditors. He was subsequently adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: (1) the Stock Exchange rules could only apply where there were no external creditors; (2) the payment of the £5,000 was a cessio bonorum, & also a fraudulent preference, which the trustee in the bkpcy. was entitled to recover.—TOMKINS v. SAFFERY (1877), 3 App. Cas. 213; 47 L. 7395. Mortgage for previous debt—Mortgagee not party to fraud.]—Bkpt. mortgaged all his property to B., without her collusion, to secure money previously lent by her:—Held: the mtge. deed must be set aside as a fraudulent preference, B., though no party to the fraud, being able to take no benefit from the fraud of another.—Re YATES, Ex p. BROWN (1879), 27 W. 7396. Suffering judgment by default—In suspicious circumstances—Insufficient evidence of preference.]—Debtor, who owed large sums to his father-in-law & was in pecuniary difficulties, consulted his father-in-law's solr. The latter issued a writ against him, & after telling him that he could only act for his father-in-law, & must leave him to take his own course, he proceeded with the action. Debtor did not appear to the writ, & judgment was obtained against him, upon which a writ of elegit was issued, & his goods were seized & delivered to the father-in-law. Debtor then filed a petition, which was the first act of bkpcy. committed by him:—Held: although the circumstances of the case were suspicious, there was not sufficient evidence to show that by suffering judgment to go by default against him debtor had intended to give his father-in-law a fraudulent preference over his other creditors.—Re MARSDEN, Ex p. LANCASTER (1883), 25 Ch. 7395 ii. —— ——.]—A creditor in good faith, & without knowledge that debtor was insolvent, took from him a chattel mtge. The transaction was straightforward & honest, but the effect of it was to give the mtgee. a preference over other creditors:—Held: the mtge. was void as against creditors.—STEPHENS v. MCARTHUR (1890), 6 Man. L. R. 496; 19 S. C. R. 446.—CAN.

7396 i. Suffering judgment by default.]—On Mar. 28, 1882, a writ was issued by C. against M., for $32,155.33, indorsed with particulars of claim on account stated & settled between C. & M. No appearance was entered, & on Apr. 8 judgment was recovered for the amount, & writs of execution issued:—Held: C.'s judgment was not void as being a preference prohibited by R. S. O. c. 118.—MACDONALD v. CROMBIE (1885), 11 S. C. R. 107.—CAN.

7396 ii. —— Defendant defending another action.]—The fact that debtor defends one action brought against him by a creditor, & allows judgment by default for want of an appearance in another suit, is not such an undue preference of one creditor as will render the judgment void under 22 Vict. c. 96, ss. 18 & 19.—YOUNG v. CHRISTIE (1859), 7 Gr. 312.—CAN.

7396 iii. Giving confession of judgment.]—Giving a confession of judgment payable immediately for a sum justly due to a creditor, who has pressed debtor for payment, there being other creditors:—Held: not a voluntary & fraudulent procuring of debtor's goods to be taken in execution in contemplation of bkpcy. within 7 Vict. c. 10.—BEEKMAN v. WORKMAN (1845), 1 U. C. R. 531.—CAN.

7397. Sending stock to creditor for agistment.]—Debtor sent calves to his father, to whom he was indebted, for agistment & to be returned again:—Held: not a fraudulent preference.—Re KEMP, Ex p. LUCK (1883), 49 L. T. 809; 32 W. R. 296.

7398. Payment to creditor—Acceptor for bankrupt's accommodation.]—A trader on the day after he stopped payment sent a £100 note to a particular creditor, saying it was to help him over his payments:—Held: such trader afterwards becoming bkpt., his assignees might recover the money in assumpsit, although it appeared that, at the time of payment, a bill for a larger amount was becoming due, which had been accepted by the creditor for bkpt.'s accommodation, & for which he had promised to provide, & the creditor could not be considered as the agent of bkpt. to pay the money for the bill, because, he being a party to it, the payment operated pro tanto in his discharge.—GUTHRIE v. CROSSLEY (1826), 2 C. & P. 301, N. P.

7399. —— Against his will—Fictitious assignment.]—Debtor, after an act of bkpcy. committed to the knowledge of a creditor, offered to make him a payment by way of fraudulent preference, which the creditor declined to accept. The creditor subsequently assigned the debt for its face value, to an assignee named by debtor who was ignorant of the transaction. The money paid to the creditor had in reality been borrowed by debtor for the purpose of paying the creditor:—Held: a fraudulent preference, & the money so received must be repaid by the creditor to the trustee.—Re ROBERTS, Ex p. DANIEL (1888), 5 Morr. 213.

7400. Goods sent to creditor for realisation—Allegation that they were sent for custody—To avoid distress.]—On Dec. 5 bkpt. told A., his brother-in-law who had previously lent him money, that he feared his landlord was going to put in a distress for rent due. A. inquired about the debt due to him, & a promise was made by bkpt. that the money or something else should be sent, & next day bkpt. sent to A. a mare & colt, which were sold & the proceeds retained by A. On Dec. 7 a distress was put by the landlord into bkpt.'s premises. On Dec. 18 bkpt. executed a deed of assignment for the benefit of his creditors, on which a petition was subsequently founded:—Held: the transaction must be set aside, on the ground that it was a fraudulent preference.

The substantial motive of bkpt. in sending the mare & colt to his brother-in-law, primâ facie was to prefer his brother-in-law. If the motive had been to cheat the landlord, bkpt. would have sent the mare & colt to his brother-in-law to keep for him, whereas he really sent them to turn into money for his own benefit (A. L. SMITH, J.).—Re RICHBELL, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1890), 6 T. L. R. 376, D. C.

7401. Goods delivered under belief of moral obligation.]—Debtor delivered goods to a creditor partly in the hope of staving off his bkpcy., & partly from a belief that he was under a moral obligation to the preferred creditor:—Held: a fraudulent preference.—Re VINGOE & DAVIES, Ex p. VINEY & NORTON (1894), 1 Mans. 416.

Execution was issued on the 30th. On Jan. 12 defts, dissolved partnership, & on the 23rd, L., one of defts., absconded:—Held: the withdrawal of the appearance by L. showed sufficient grounds for setting aside the execution for fraud & collusion.—WHITE v. LORD (1863), 13 C. n. ——.]—In pursuance of an agreement made between H., then in insolvent circumstances, & certain of his creditors, a document was executed, by which the creditors assigned all their claims to D. in order that an action might be brought for the recovery of all the claims. It was at the same time verbally agreed that such an action should at once be brought, & that H. should facilitate the obtaining of the judgment. On the day after the execution of the document, a writ was issued, declaration & pleas were filed on the same day, on the day following, deft. was examined on his plea, & on the next an order was made striking out the pleas, upon which judgment was signed & execution issued:—Held: the judgment was not void as a fraudulent preference.—UNION BANK v. DOUGLASS (1885), 2 Man. 7398 i. Payment to creditor—Being banker—By purchaser of debtor's stock—Purchaser having account with same bank—Nature of transaction.]—A trader in insolvent circumstances sold his stock-in-trade in good faith & directed the purchaser to pay as part of the purchase-money a debt due by the trader to his bankers, who held, as collateral security, a chattel mtge. on the stock-in-trade. The purchaser had an account with the same bankers, & gave to them a cheque on such account for the amount of their claim, there being funds at his credit to meet the cheque:—Held: a payment of money to a creditor & the bankers were not liable to account for the amount received.—GORDON MACKAY & CO. v. UNION BANK OF CANADA (1899), 26 A. him to sell & account for the proceeds to pltf. On the same day bkpt. executed a deed of assignment, on which he was adjudicated bkpt. The proceeds were claimed by pltf. & the trustee, & an interpleader issue was directed. The jury found that the property in the goods had passed to bkpt., & that he had acted in the belief that the goods were pltfs., & not with any wish to prefer: —Held: there was no fraudulent preference, but as the indorsement of the bill of lading did not pass the property, it remained part of bkpt.'s estate & passed to his trustee.—LAURITZEN v. CARR (1894), 72 L. 7403. Advance in good faith—Bill of sale registered at last possible moment.]—Applt. advanced money in good faith to a person, who appeared to be solvent, taking a bill of sale which included all debtor's stock-in-trade, book debts, & other property, but without taking delivery or registering the bill of sale until just in time to prevent its being avoided under Bills of Sale Acts:—Held: his title thereunder prevailed against debtor's assignee, no intent being shown to have existed at the date thereof to defeat or delay creditors.—MORRIS v. MORRIS, [1895] A. 7406. Bill of sale given to wife of bankrupt.]—While a husband & wife were living together in Jan. or Feb., 1915, the husband bought furniture for their house at a cost of £950. Although the house was taken in the wife's name, the rent, rates, & taxes were paid out of money provided by the husband, but partly, it was alleged, out of money contributed by their children. The wife had a separate banking account, into which the husband paid large sums for household expenses in addition to other money. The husband was adjudged bkpt. on Apr. 25, 1917, & the wife claimed the furniture in the bkpcy. proceedings. In support of her claim she produced a receipt of July, 1915, for £350, given to her by her husband, & alleged that the purchase-money was provided by various loans & pawning her jewellery:—Held: (1) the receipt of 1915 was a security for a loan which the wife had made to bkpt. of £350 on the furniture; (2) the document was bad as being a bill of sale within Bills of Sale (1878) Amendment Act, 1882 (c. 43), & the property belonged to the trustee.—Re LAVEY, Ex p. TRUSTEE, [1918–19] B. & C. 7405 i. Payment of bill of exchange before due date—Not in ordinary course of business.]—Debtor borrowed a sum of money, for which he gave bills, which he paid before they arrived at maturity. He was at that time unable to pay his trade debts, & within three months afterwards was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: this was distinct evidence of a preferential payment not made in the ordinary course of business, & the transaction was not protected by the bona fides of the creditor, who had received the money.—Re SMITH (1890), 8 N. Z. L. R. 408.—N.Z.

b. Novation of contract—Creditor accepting purchaser from debtor in place of debtor.]—A firm being indebted to G. carried out an arrangement whereby the firm sold their stock to L. & received the price in cash less the amount of G.'s claim, which was assumed by L., G. giving time to L. for payment, & releasing the firm. Within sixty days the firm made an assignment under Assignments Act, R. S. M., 1902 (c. 8), for the benefit of creditors generally:—Held: the transaction could not be impeached under the above Act.—NEWTON v. LILLY (1906), 16 Man. L. R. 39; 24 C. L. T. Occ. N. 250; 3 W. 7409. Mortgage to creditor eight days before liquidation petition—Subsequent bankruptcy seven years after date of petition.]—On Aug. 7, 1879, M. executed a mtge. & a bill of sale to S. to secure £24,639, of which £5,000 was then advanced by S. to M. On Aug. 15 M. presented a petition, under 1869 Act, in the statutory form, for liquidation of his affairs, by arrangement, admitting that he was unable to pay his debts, & resolutions for a composition were duly passed & confirmed in Oct., 1883. On Mar. 25, 1886, the ct. adjudicated M. a bkpt. under s. 126, on the ground that the composition under that sect. could not proceed without injustice or undue delay, to the creditors:—Held: as the power to adjudicate debtor a bkpt. under s. 126 was an independent power, & was not made on the act of bkpcy., constituted by the filing of the liquidation petition, there was no relation back of the trustee's title to that act of bkpcy. unless committed within six months, or at the most twelve months, of the adjudication, &, having regard to the time which had elapsed, the mtge. was not a fraudulent preference voidable under s. 92.—SHARP v. MCHENRY, SHARP v. BROWN (1887), 38 Ch. 7410. Delivery of security partly before & partly after three months before bankruptcy—Inquiry as to date at which remainder of security delivered.]—In Mar., 1888, bkpt. being unable to pay the half-year's rent due in respect of a farm of which she was the tenant, applied to applts. for assistance, who agreed to advance the amount necessary, on certain growing crops of wheat, barley, & hay being made liable for the repayment of the money. A promissory note was given by bkpt. for the advance, & applts. thereupon paid the rent, & also in Aug. made a further advance for the purpose of paying the rent for the next half-year. On Sept. 17 a man was sent by applts. to the farm to obtain possession & delivery of the wheat, barley, & hay, & on Sept. 18 the wheat was consigned by him to applts., the barley being sent on Sept. 22, & the whole being forwarded by Sept. 26. On Dec. 22 a petition was presented against bkpt., & upon the application of the official receiver as trustee the transaction with applts. was subsequently set aside by the county ct. judge, on the ground that it was a fraudulent preference within 1883 Act, s. 48:—Held: (1) the wheat being actually delivered on Sept. 18 was outside the limit of the three months necessary in order to make the transaction with respect to it a fraudulent preference, but the barley being delivered on Sept. 22 was within the three months & belonged to the trustee; (2) there being no evidence to show when delivery of the hay was completely effected, the case must go back to the county ct. judge for inquiry on that point, with the direction that the trustee would be entitled to all the hay delivered on or after Sept. 22.—Re HARVEY, Ex p. HARVEY & CO. p. —— By action of trover—No demand by trustee.]—Debtor assigned all his property to a creditor, in consideration of a sum of money which was paid, but immediately handed back to the creditor. The creditor then had the greater part of such property sold by auction, & himself became the purchaser. Afterwards debtor's estate was compulsorily sequestrated, but no demand of the property assigned was made by the official assignee, nor did he give any indication, before action, of an intention to treat the assignment as a fraudulent preference. In an action by the official assignee against the creditor, in trover, & upon money counts for the proceeds of part of the property sold by him:—Held: (1) there was evidence to go to a jury of fraudulent preference, but deft. was entitled to proceed in the plea of "not guilty" as the transfer had been made by debtor, while fully competent to make it; (2) though a formal demand by the assignee was not essential, debtor was entitled to be fairly informed of the intention of the assignee to dispute the assignment. —SIMSON v. MITCHELL (1868), 5 W. 7447. —— —— —— Transaction not in ordinary course of trade.]—In Dec., 1899, S., a publican, owed about £3,000 to trade creditors, his trade premises were mortgaged to W. & Co., his lessors, & he was insolvent. It was agreed that S. should surrender his lease, that W. & Co. should release the mtge. & should take over the stock-in-trade, being the whole of S.'s assets, for £2,800, which sum was the total amount of a list of his debts furnished by S. & stated to be a complete list, & a cheque for £2,800 was handed by W. & Co., to S., who, according to the arrangement, immediately indorsed & delivered it to resps., who proceeded to pay all the debts set out in the list furnished by S. The commission against them was superseded, & another issued, under which defts. were reappointed assignees. Four months after A. had made the payment to them, he became bkpt. on a secret act of bkpcy. previously committed by him. In an action for money had & received, brought by his assignees against defts. in their own right, between the superseding the first commission, & issuing the second:—Held: they were not entitled to recover the payment made to the latter by A., being protected by the above sect. as the subsequent commission revested those rights in defts. which they believed to exist when the payment was made, & as such payment, if made to B. & Co., could not have been disturbed, if they had remained solvent.—DAVENPORT v. CARTER (1820), 2 Brod. & Bing. 317; 5 Moore, C. The guarantee was given, & H. having afterwards been guilty of dishonest conduct, the co. called upon the society to pay the sum guaranteed. Thereupon the society & the co., by their authority, entered & seized H.'s goods. Meanwhile H. had committed an act of bkpcy., but of that, at the time of entry & seizure, neither the society nor the co. had notice. H. was subsequently 7465. —— Money paid under order of court.]—S. being sued by deft., paid money into ct. in lieu of bail, on Sept. 12. Having omitted to put in bail or pay the additional sum required as security for costs, the ct. ordered the money to be paid to deft. on Sept. 23. On the 9th S. had committed an act of bkpcy., & on the 28th a fiat was issued against him:—Held: his assignees could not recover from deft. the money so paid him by order of the ct.

It is not disputed that all the property of bkpt. passes to his assignees by relation to the act of bkpcy., the only question is, whether this case falls within any of the exceptions to that rule; & I think that the money having been paid by order of a ct. competent to adjudicate on the subject, the payment does fall within the exceptions (VAUGHAN, J.).—REYNOLDS v. WEDD (1838), 4 Bing. 7468. —— —— Delivery of order for payment of sum due to bankrupt.]—Debtor gave a creditor an order for money drawn by a board of guardians on their treasurer, payable to himself, but not to bearer or order. He committed an act of bkpcy., of which the creditor had notice, before the treasurer of the union paid the creditor the amount of the order:—Held: the assignees could not recover the amount of the order, as this was a "transaction" protected by the above act & the "transaction," so far as bkpt was concerned, was completed when he handed the order to the creditor.—GREEN v. BRADFIELD (1844), 1 Car. & Kir. 449.

7469. —— —— Deposit of goods with liberty to owner to retake—Sale by owner before fiat.]—A trader took possession of goods, under an agreement with the owner that he should keep possession for a twelvemonth, on payment of a certain sum, but if the money was not paid on a certain day, the owner should be at liberty to retake them. The goods continued in the possession of the trader until the stipulated time for payment, when the money not having been paid, the owner sold them, after an act of bkpcy., committed by the trader, but before the fiat issued:—Held: this was a "dealing or transaction" protected by the above sect.—YOUNG v. HOPE (1848), 2 Exch. 105; 154 E. 7474. —— —— Seizure by employer under building contract.]—A builder contracted with a building club to erect some houses for them on their own land. The contract contained a stipulation that, if the contractor should neglect or refuse to proceed with the work in a proper manner, or become bkpt. or insolvent, or otherwise incapable of completing the contract, the architect should have power, after giving two days' notice in writing to the contractor, to seize & retain all materials, plant, & implements, provided that the contractor should have drawn money on account of his contract. The contractor commenced the works & carried them on for some time receiving a considerable sum from the club. On May 30 he filed a liquidation petition. On June 2 the architect of the club gave notice to the contractor that, as he had neglected to proceed with the works, they should, on the expiration of two days, employ other means of completing the works, & that he must not remove any materials, implements, or plant from the works, & on the expiration of such notice the club took possession of the materials, implements, & plant:—Held : the club were entitled, as against the trustee, to retain what they had seized, the seizure being a protected transaction within the above sect.—Re WAUGH, Ex p. DICKIN (1876), 4 Ch. 7490. Payment by "debtor" of "his debt"—1 Jac. 1, c. 15, s. 14—Money advanced to bankrupt on loan.]—A trader, after a secret act of bkpcy. consigned goods to a factor, who agreed to advance money thereon, & accepted & paid bills drawn on him by the trader. A commission afterwards issued against the trader on such prior act of bkpcy., after which the factor sold the goods & received money :—Held : he was answerable to the assignees for the value of the goods.

Here was no payment of any debt due to bkpt. ; the money advanced by defts. was a loan to bkpt.,

7492. —— —— Bill of exchange accepted for goods not yet delivered.]—A., a merchant in London, ordered goods to be made by B., a manufacturer in the country. The goods were made to order, but before they were forwarded to A., B. committed an act of bkpcy., & afterwards shipped the goods, having previously, but after the act of bkpcy., drawn upon A. a bill of exchange for a larger sum than the price of the goods ordered, which bill A. accepted, not then knowing that B. had committed an act of bkpcy. The goods having afterwards come to the possession of A.:—Held: the assignees were entitled to recover them, because the property in them remained in bkpt., both at the time when the act of bkpcy. was committed, & when the bill was accepted by A., & this was not a payment protected by the above sect. because A. was not a debtor of B. at the time when the acceptance was given.—BISHOP v. CRAWSHAY (1824), 3 B. & C. 415; 5 Dow. & Ry. B. afterwards became bkpt., without knowing that the goods had been repurchased by the broker on account of A. In an action of trover, brought by the assignees of B. against A. for the goods:—Held: that they were not entitled to recover, as the transaction was not fraudulent on the part of A.—HARRIS v. LUNELL (1819), 1 Brod. & Bing. 390; 4 Moore, C. 7498. —— —— —— Duty to inquire.]—Traders in embarrassed circumstances directed a shopman to remove goods to his lodgings & to sell them at 25 per cent. under prime cost. The shopman called on defts. & offered the goods for sale without disclosing the names of his employers, but stating that the owners were in want of money. Defts. called at the lodgings & made several large purchases, paying the shopman for each parcel in cash & deducting the discount. A fiat in bkpcy. issued, & the assignees brought trover to recover the goods. The jury found the bkpts. intended to defraud their creditors, & defts. had not made such inquiries as honest & prudent men would have done:—Held: the assignees were entitled to recover the goods sold both before & after the commission of the act of bkpcy.—DEVAS v. VENABLES (1837), 3 Bing. 7501. —— 2 & 3 Vict. c. 29—Bills & cash delivered to execution creditor.]—A. & B., brothers, being partners in trade, & B. being largely indebted to the partnership, B. borrowed £500 from a loan co., which was secured by a bond of C., the uncle of A. & B., & two other persons, & by a policy of assurance on B.'s life. Of that sum B. paid £400 into the partnership funds. B. afterwards executed a warrant of attorney in favour of C. to indemnify him against the consequences of the bond. B. having made default in payment of the premiums on the policy of assurance, the loan co. called on C. for payment under the bond, whereupon C. entered up judgment on the warrant of attorney against B. & issued a fi. fa. thereon, which was levied on the partnership effects on Aug. 5, 1840. At that time A. & B. were in a state of hopeless insolvency. On Aug. 7 another fi. fa. at the suit of another creditor was issued against B. & levied on the partnership effects. On Aug. 8 A., in the name of the partnership, indorsed & delivered to C. on account of his claim against B. bills of exchange drawn by A. & B. for £81, which were paid at maturity, & on the 10th A. paid to C. on the same account, out of the money of the firm, a further sum of £80 in cash. On the 11th a docket was struck against A. & B., & on the 12th a fiat issued against them, grounded on an act of bkpcy. committed on Aug. 5, & on the 13th they were duly adjudged bkpts. :—Held : the assignees were entitled to recover from C. the amount of the payments so made to him on Aug. 8 & 10, & they were not protected by the above Act, not being payments " really & bonâ fide made " within that Act, even though C. were assumed to have received them without notice of the bkpcy.—TURQUAND v. VANDERPLANK (1842), 10 M. & W. 180 ; 12 L. 7502. —— 1849 Act, s. 133—Successive unregistered bills of sale.]—Debtor gave a bill of sale on his furniture, the consideration being stated as for goods sold, & money lent. At the request of debtor the bill of sale was not registered within the twenty-one days required by statute, but on the expiration of that time another bill of sale of the same furniture was executed in similar terms & was not registered. A third, a fourth, & a fifth bill of sale were in the same manner executed & not registered, & ultimately a sixth was executed on Aug. 5 & was registered within the prescribed time, but none of the other bills of sale were cancelled. Debtor was adjudicated bkpt. in the following Dec., the act of bkpcy. being committed in July :—Held : neither the bill of sale of Aug., nor its registration, constituted a dealing which was " really & bonâ fide entered into " within the above sect.—STANSFELD v. CUBITT (1858), 2 De G. & J. 222 ; 27 L. 7509. "By any person on his behalf"—6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 82—Payment by agent.]—Bkpt. made a purchase of timber by two agreements, one before & one after the act of bkpcy., &. after the act of bkpcy. received part of the timber without paying for it, but was not entitled to receive the remainder without giving security for the whole. After the act of bkpcy., deft. became security, & purchased from bkpt. the benefit of the contract, which purchase was recited in the instrument, by which deft. became security. Bkpt. afterwards agreed with deft., that he would pay the money due to the vendor for the timber purchased by the first agreement & in part received, & should be entitled to retain the timber so purchased. Bkpt. then delivered money & bills to deft., to be paid to the vendor for the timber first purchased. Deft. paid the cash to his own bankers, & indorsed bills to them, & afterwards paid the amount of the cash & of the bills to the vendor, by a single draft on those bankers. After that the commission issued:—Held: deft. was not liable to repay the cash to the assignees, nor to indemnify bkpt.'s estate against the bills, for deft. was the mere agent of the vendor, & neither the cash nor the proceeds of the bills could have been recovered back from him, the transaction on his part being a bonâ fide one, protected by the above sect.—SHAW v. BATLEY (1833), 4 B. & Ad. 801; 1 Nev. & M. On Feb. 7, 1848, a fiat in bkpcy. issued against bkpt., & he was duly adjudged a bkpt. On Feb. 9, the official assignee was appointed, & in Feb., 1849, the creditors' assignees were appointed. After the appointment of the official assignee, & before the appointment of the creditors' assignees, & without having obtained the consent or the former, bkpt. sold the timber, & ordered defts. to deliver it to the purchasers, & defts., who had no notice of the act of bkpcy., or of the fiat, or of the adjudication, immediately upon the receipt of the order delivered the timber to the purchasers. The adjudication was not notified in the Gazette until Feb. 13, 1849:—Held: by the words in the above sect., "goods belonging to any bkpt.," were to be understood goods which belonged to the bkpt. at the time they were deposited in the possession or custody of the person or body corporate delivering them, & which goods would have continued to be his property, if an act of bkpcy. had not occurred, & defts. were protected, as they had delivered the goods without notice of the act of bkpcy.—CANNAN v. SOUTH EASTERN RY. 7513. Letter from debtor's solicitor—Stating inability to pay immediately—Proposing payment by instalments.]—A letter written by the solr. of a trader to the solr. of a judgment creditor, requiring the creditor to delay his execution which he would be entitled to sue out in a few days, giving as the reason of the application, lest he should so involve debtor as to render him unable immediately to satisfy his engagements, & proposing to pay the debt by instalments, as the only means of enabling the creditor to realise the whole amount of his demand :—Held : not such a sufficient notice of the insolvency of the trader, as to preclude the creditor under 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, from levying under his execution, as having been brought by such notice within the terms of the proviso in s. 2, by fixing him with previous knowledge of bkpt.'s insolvency.—ABRAHAM v. GEORGE (1822), 11 Price, 423; 147 E. R. 520.

Annotation :—Refd. Cutten v. Sanger (1828), 2 Y. & J. 459, Ex. Ch.

7514. Statement of debtor—That he had committed act of bankruptcy.]—A creditor having pressed his debtor to deposit bills of exchange as security for his debt, debtor deposited them, saying "It will be of no use to you, I have committed an act of bkpcy." :—Held : sufficient notice of an act of bkpcy.—ARTHUR v. WHITWORTH (1842), 6 Jur. 323.

7515. Whether specific act of bankruptcy must be stated.]—Qu. : whether notice of a prior act of bkpcy. under 2 & 3 Vict. c. 29 must be of some specific act of bkpcy.—HOCKING v. ACRAMAN (1843), 12 M. & W. 170; 13 L. J. Ex. 34; 2 L. T. O. S. 124; 152 E. R. 1157.

7511 i. In general.]—Notice of an act of bkpcy. must be specific & clear.—Re WILSON (1890), 24 I. L. T. Jo. 345.—IR.

7511 ii. ——.]—A trustee of a fund is not responsible to an assignee of a creditor for dealing with the latter without reference to the assignment unless either at the time of so dealing he actually knew of the assignee's title, or he had previously received a notice sufficiently distinct to give him an intelligent apprehension of the fact that the assignee had acquired an interest in the claim or fund.—CRAWFORD v. CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO. (1897), 24 A. R. 643.—CAN.

7515 i. Whether specific act of bankruptcy must be stated.]—Notice to the execution creditor in general terms without specifying any particular act of bkpcy., is sufficient to protect all creditors.—FRENCH v. KINGSMILL (1848), 5 U. C. R. 30.—CAN.

Sect. 13.—Protection of bonâ fide transactions—validity of payments to bankrupt and assignee: Sub-sect. 2, A. (a) & (b).]

L.'s executing the transfer of the lease, gave him a draft on defts. for £415. On the evening of that day, L. having previously committed acts of bkpcy., a creditor of his gave defts.' clerk notice not to pay the draft, as a docket would be struck against L. Another of defts.' clerks, in consequence, refused payment when the draft was presented the next day, having also received a similar notice from pltf., another creditor of L.'s. Defts., some days afterwards, paid the draft to a banker who presented it, but not till he had executed an indemnity:—Held: defts. had, before payment of the draft, sufficient notice of the bkpcy.—SPRATT v. HOBHOUSE (1827), 4 Bing. 173; 12 Moore, C. P. 395; 5 L. J. O. S. C. P. 147; 130 E. R. 734.

7523. —— To principal—Notice to all his agents.] Notice of an act of bkpcy. being committed by N. was given to the Bank of England in London, on Mar. 16, & Apr. 8. On Apr. 12 two bank post bills, indorsed in blank, were delivered by N. to S. that he might obtain cash for them from the branch bank, at Gloucester, & S., being acquainted with the agent there, obtained cash for the bills, from the branch bank, & by the direction of the agent, indorsed the bills to Governor & Co. of the Bank of England. The commission had not then issued, & neither S. nor the agent at the branch bank knew of the act of bkpcy.:—Held: (1) notice to a principal was notice to all his agents; (2) the Bank were not protected by 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 82, such previous notice of the act of bkpcy. having been given to them in London.—WILLIS v. BANK OF ENGLAND (1835), 4 Ad. & El. 21; 5 Nev. & M. 7525. —— —— Or his clerk in charge of business.]—Service of a notice must be on the attorney himself or a clerk so far entrusted with the management of his business, as to have the power of acting on such a communication in his absence; & an announcement of bkpcy., made at the attorney's office, to a person who had lodged the writ of execution with the sheriff, but had not personally the conduct of the suit in which execution issued, does not affect the client, the execution creditor.—PIKE v. STEPHENS (1848), 12 Q. 7527. —— Clerk of creditor's solicitor.]—A statement was made by a clerk of deft.'s attorney, to a clerk of pltf.'s attorney, that deft. had committed an act of bkpcy. The clerk to whom it was given was not shown to be a managing clerk, or to have communicated the matter to his principal:—Held: the statement was not such a notice as would defeat an execution, under 2 & 3 Vict. c. 29, s. 1. Qu.: whether a notice to a managing clerk would suffice.—PENNELL v. STEPHENS (1849), 7 C. 7528. —— Managing clerk of purchaser's solicitor.]—Where a solr., with the consent of his client, puts his managing clerk to conduct the management of a matter, which the solr. was retained to conduct, notice to the clerk of an act of bkpcy., acquired in the course of such business, is notice to the solr. & to his client.

A solr. was retained to purchase debtor's business. His managing clerk, who partially negotiated the purchase, had notice of an act of bkpcy. committed by debtor:—Held: not notice to the lay client.—Re ASHTON, Ex p. MCGOWAN (1891), 64 L. T. 28; 39 W. R. 320; 7 T. L. R. 207; 8 Morr. 72, D. C.

7529. —— Sheriff's officer in possession.]—Notice to a sheriff's officer in possession under a writ of fi. fa., of an act of bkpcy. committed by the deft., is not notice to the execution creditor.—RAMSEY v. EATON (1842), 10 M. & W. 22; 2 Dowl. 7531. —— Broker distraining for rent.]—Qu.: whether notice of an act of bkpcy. to a broker distraining for rent is sufficient notice to the landlord.—LACKINGTON v. ELLIOTT (1844), 7 Man. & G. 538; 8 Scott, N. R. 275; 13 L. J. C. P. 153; 3 L. T. O. S. 180; 8 Jur. 695; 135 E. R. 216.

On F., the serjeant-at-mace of the Mayor's Ct., London, proceeding to execute a warrant issued to enforce a judgment for more than £20 obtained in that ct., he found H., an officer of the sheriffs of London, in possession of goods of debtor under a writ issued by the Q. B. D., &, in accordance with the usual practice, he delivered the warrant to H. for execution. H. sold goods, & out of the proceeds paid the amount of the warrant to F.

7524 i. To whom given—Solicitor of execution creditor.]—It is sufficient if notice of a declaration of insolvency be given to the attorney of the execution creditor before execution is sued out.—FRENCH v. KINGSMILL (1848) 5 U. C. R. 30.—CAN.

The next day notice was served on H. of a bkpcy. petition having been presented against debtor, on which he was afterwards adjudged bkpt. No notice of the petition was served on F. :—Held : (1) even if an effectual notice could ever have been served on H., a notice served on him after he had handed over the money to F. & his agency for F. had thus been determined was ineffectual ; (2) the execution creditor was entitled to the proceeds of sale.—Re HOLLAND, Ex p. WARREN (1885), 15 Q. 7534. When given — Before seizure.] — An execution is defeated by bkpcy., if notice of an act of bkpcy. be served on pltf.'s attorney at any time, however short, before seizure, though the notice is served in London, & the writ has been sent to the country.—PIKE v. STEPHENS (1848), 12 Q. 7535. When notice effectual—Notice sent by letter.]—Notice of an act of bkpcy. was sent by letter to the attorney of the execution creditors :—Held : they were not affected with such notice by the mere delivery of the letter at their attorney's office, nor until the same had been read, there being nothing to show a wilful abstaining from reading the letter.—BIRD v. BASS (1843), 6 Man. & G. 143 ; 6 Scott, N. 7536. —— ——.]—A party, to whom notice of an act of bkpcy. is sent by post, is not to be deemed to have had notice until the day when, in the ordinary course of post, he would receive the letter containing it.—LOADER v. HISCOCK (1858), 1 F. & F. 132, N. P.

(b) Whether Knowledge is Notice.

7542. —— That debtor had left house—No knowledge of intention to abscond.]—A wool broker gave to a bank to secure an advance a letter of hypothecation on certain wools, promising to lodge warehouse warrants for them next day. The bank made repeated application for the warrants, but did not obtain them. After a few days, bkpt. having left his house, they by pressure obtained the keys of his warehouse, where the wool was stored, & took possession. In leaving his house, bkpt. was, as it turned out, absconding :—Held : on the facts, the bank had no notice of that.—Re SLEE, Ex p. NORTH WESTERN BANK (1872), L. R. 15 Eq. 69 ; 42 L. J. 7543. —— That debtor had left England—In circumstances leading to inference of intent to defeat creditors.]—At a time when A., as attorney of B. & C., executed a bill of sale of property of B. to D., D. was aware of circumstances, from which it was reasonable to infer that B. had left England to defeat his creditors. D. swore that he believed B. had left England only to make a purchase & would speedily return, & that he did not suspect B. & C. of being insolvent :—Held : D. knew facts sufficient to inform him that B. had committed an act of bkpcy., & he could not escape the consequence by saying he had not drawn that inference from them.—Re DOUGLAS, Ex p. SNOWBALL (1872), 7 Ch. 7544. —— That bankruptcy petitions against debtor had been presented.]—By consent a bkpcy. petition was dismissed, debtor paying an agreed sum in settlement. Petitioning creditor had knowledge of other petitions against debtor. A receiving order was made within three months on a subsequent petition :—Held : the notice of the petitions was notice of acts of bkpcy., & the amount must be repaid to the trustee.—Re SEDGWICK, Ex p. HOBBS (1892), 8 T. 7545. —— ——.]—In Feb., 1914, judgment for dissolution of a partnership was given in an action in the Ch. Div., & a receiver of the partnership assets was appointed. On June 16 an order was made by consent in the action to tax the costs of pltf. & of deft., & the receiver was ordered to pay the costs when taxed to the solrs. of pltf. & of deft. out of the partnership assets. When the order was made all parties to it knew that a creditor's petition in bkpcy. was pending against each of the partners. Subsequently a receiving order was made on each petition, adjudication followed, the proceedings under the two petitions were consolidated, & an order was made by the judge in bkpcy. transferring the Ch. action to the Bkpcy. Ct. & staying the proceedings thereunder. In the meantime the costs had been taxed under the order of June 16, & the solrs. claimed that by virtue of that order they had an equitable charge for their costs on the partnership assets & were secured creditors :—Held : the solrs. were not secured creditors, for they knew of the bkpcy. petitions when the order was made, & the assumption was that they had notice of an available act of bkpcy. committed by the partners before that time.—Re GERSHON & LEVY, Ex p. COOTE & RICHARDS, Ex p. WESTCOTT & SONS, [1915] 2 K. 7546. —— That debtor's solicitor had instructions to issue notice suspending payment.]—Knowledge by a creditor that debtor's solr. has instructions to prepare a notice, that debtor intends to suspend payment of his debts, is not notice to such creditor that debtor has committed an act of bkpcy., & an assignment of a debt taken by such creditor from debtor, with such knowledge, is valid.—Re MORGAN, Ex p. TURNER (1895), 73 L. 7548. —— Solicitor of creditor.]—F., a debtor, caused a deed to be prepared by B., her attorney, whereby she assigned all her stock-in-trade & effects to M., in trust for her creditors. The deed was intended to protect her property from executions in case certain offers about to be submitted to her creditors were not accepted. The assignment was executed by F. & M. on Feb. 17, 1870, & formal possession of the property was given under it to the latter. A meeting of creditors was then held. The existence of the deed was never communicated to them, but proposals were made to 7543 i. —— That debtor had left colony.]—Debtor left the colony, leaving the manager of his bank, to which he was indebted, a power of attorney. Bills accepted by debtor before leaving were presented at the bank & dishonoured, & he was adjudicated bkpt. :—Held : (1) the bank had notice that his departure was an act of bkpcy. ; (2) money paid into his account after that date could be claimed by the official assignee, free from the bank's lien.—Re MOORE (1886), 4 N. b. —— Notice of bankruptcy through newspapers.]—K. was adjudicated bkpt. in England but claimed to be entitled to land in W. A. Subsequent to his bkpcy. the land was conveyed to pltf. by deed executed in W. A. & signed under a power of attorney. them which they accepted, whereupon it became necessary to borrow money, & B. applied to K., who advanced £400 to F., on the security of a bill of sale over all her property. This instrument was drawn up by B. & executed at his office by F., in the presence of K. A reassignment of even date was made by M. to F., of his trust estate in her property. Debtor's goods were subsequently seized & removed to the premises of M. by B., then acting for K., under the bill of sale. On Mar. 22 F. was adjudicated a bkpt., having filed a declaration of insolvency. An action of trover having been brought by the trustee in bkpcy. against B. & M., for conversion of the goods :—Held : (1) assuming the assignment to M. of all the effects in trust for creditors was an act of bkpcy., K. had no notice of it, for even assuming he had employed B. as his attorney in the preparation of the bill of sale, yet the relations thereby established between them would not be such that the knowledge of B., of the assignment to M., would be constructive knowledge in K. ; (2) the reassignment by M. to F. was valid notwithstanding her bkpcy., & K., being a bonâ fide mtgee. for value without notice of a prior act of bkpcy., was protected by 1869 Act, s. 95, & had a valid title to the goods as against pltf.—BRITTAIN v. BROWN & MILLAR (1871), 24 L. R. paid deft. out of the purchase money in R.'s hands within thirty days of A. being declared insolvent. A.'s assignee in insolvency sued deft. to recover back the moneys so paid to him :—Held : (1) deft. had probable cause for believing A. to be insolvent when he received the money, which clearly belonged to A. ; (2) R. made such payment out of A.'s money & as his agent.—MILLER v. REID (1879), 4 A. In an action by the assignee of H. under the bkpcy. against W. to recover the value of the goods, the deed was put in evidence, & its execution relied on as the act of bkpcy. :—Held : the deed, being given in evidence for a collateral purpose, & not to give effect to it as a valid instrument, was admissible, although not stamped or registered, & as the act of bkpcy. was complete on the execution of the deed, W. had notice of an act of bkpcy.—PONSFORD v. WALTON (1868), L. 7567. Facts that may or may not amount to acts of bankruptcy.]—Goods of debtor were seized under an execution. On the next day, his attorneys wrote to the attorneys of the execution creditors, that debtor had "made an assignment of what goods he had, & it was arranged that his daughter should raise the money, but this we find was never finally arrived at." The assignment was in fact to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors. The sheriff sold the goods under the execution, & on the next day debtor was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: a notice stating circumstances which might or might not amount to an act of bkpcy. was insufficient, & the execution was protected, as the letter did not amount to a notice that debtor had committed an act of bkpcy.

To say something to a person which might possibly put him to further inquiry, or to tell him something which, if he were to inquire further, would show him that an act of bkpcy. existed, is not a sufficient notice (COCKBURN, C.J.).—EVANS v. HALLAM (1871), L. Deft. failed to comply with it, & pltf. filed a petition of bkpcy. against him based on the summons. Another creditor afterwards took out a debtor's summons against deft., &, on his non-compliance with it, filed a petition & obtained adjudication of bkpcy. against him. Before the adjudication & without notice of the act of bkpcy. on which it was based, pltf. entered into an agreement with deft. for compromise of the action, which the trustee sought to impeach as void against the creditors:—Held: the non-compliance with pltf.'s debtor's summons was an act of bkpcy. "available for adjudication" within 1869 Act, s. 94, & the agreement for compromise between pltf. & deft. was not a protected transaction under that sect.—HOOD v. NEWBY (1882), 21 Ch. D. 605; 52 L. Subsequently, under 1869 Act, he was adjudicated bkpt. a second time. The assignee under the first bkpcy. afterwards issued a sequestration of the profits of his benefice, & the trustee in the second bkpcy. subsequently issued a similar sequestration:—Held: 1869 Act, s. 88, did not give the trustee's sequestration priority over the assignee's sequestration, the effect of the sect. being only to give priority to a sequestration issued by the trustee over one issued by an individual creditor in respect of a debt provable in the bkpcy.—Re MEREDITH, Ex p. CHICK (1879), 11 Ch. Debtor afterwards obtained an order of discharge, the whole of his property available for dividend, other than the money obtained by means of the sequestration, having been realised & distributed, but the sequestration was not relaxed by the bishop, the trustee having refused to take any steps to obtain the relaxation, on the ground that the sequestration ought not to be relaxed until the whole of the debts were satisfied. In an action by debtor against the trustee for an injunction to restrain him from receiving the residue of the income of the benefice, a declaration that debtor was entitled after his discharge to receive the income, & an order on the trustee to take steps to obtain the relaxation of the sequestration:—Held: the order of discharge did not entitle debtor to the income of his benefice.—LAWRENCE v. ADAMS (1896), 75 L. 7618 v. —— ——.]—On Sept. 13, 1866, S. agreed to deliver, on account of K. at a railway station when wanted, six hundred boxes of cheese, at a certain rate per pound, & to keep same insured until wanted. The weight had not then been ascertained. Subsequently two warehouse receipts, dated respectively Sept. 21 & Oct. 9

then became bkpt. :—Held : the agreement for the lease was not annulled by the bkpcy. of the intended lessee, & B. on performing the conditions, had a right to enforce the agreement specifically, notwithstanding his assignor's bkpcy., & such right was not affected by a proviso, that in case of the bkpcy. of A. the landlord could re-enter & sell the benefit of the contract & the premises, & hold the proceeds, subject to his own claims, for the use of A.'s estate.—MORGAN v. RHODES (1834), 1 My. & K. 435 ; 1 Mont. & A. 214 ; 39 E. 7619. Assignees cannot take benefit of contract—Without taking burden.]—A. committed an act of bkpcy., & quitted England, having, previous to his act of bkpcy., become indebted, as indorser of a bill of exchange, to B. which was dishonoured & due notice thereof given. In A.'s absence, his wife made insurances, the broker being still a creditor for the premiums paid by him. B. having sued the drawer & obtained judgment, was induced by A.'s wife to take a bill in part payment indorsed by her for A. & to stay execution, upon depositing the policies, which being done, a loss happened. The bill not being paid, the broker accepted another for the amount, in his favour, upon the policies being delivered to him for A. with the consent of A.'s wife, & having received the money thereon, paid that bill, & deducted it in account with A.'s assignees, against whom a commission was issued after such payment :—Held : the assignees could not recover of B., for A.'s wife & the broker were their agents, & they could not take the benefit of the policies, effected by her, without taking the burden.—HOVIL v. PACK (1806), 7 East, 164 ; 3 Smith, K. 7620. —— ——.]—By a marriage settlement, after reciting that the intended wife was possessed of £1,500 which the husband was to have for his own use as soon as the marriage should take effect, & that she had also a vested interest in the estate of testator, divisible on the death of a tenant for life, in consideration of the intended marriage, & of the sum of £1,500 then in the possession of the intended wife, & also of the vested interest, the husband covenanted that his heirs, exors., & administrators should, immediately after his decease, pay to the trustees of the settlement the sum of £4,000, to be held upon certain trusts for the wife & children of the marriage, but the deed contained a proviso that the heirs, exors., or administrators of the husband should pay all other debts, which the husband should owe at his death in preference to the £4,000, & that they should not be bound to pay the £4,000, unless the assets of the husband should be more than sufficient to pay all his other debts. The husband became a bkpt. before the death of the tenant for life, but he survived the tenant for life, & afterwards died before the wife's share was actually paid :—Held : the husband's assignees were not entitled to receive the wife's reversionary share under the will without performing the covenant.—CORSBIE v. FREE (1840), Cr. & Ph. 64 ; 5 Jur. 790 ; 41 E. 7621. —— ——.]—In Dec., 1861, bkpt. contracted with W. to build a barge for him, to be paid for in bricks, the barge to be completed on June 5, 1862. Bkpt. hired a yard for a certain number of months, for the purpose of completing the contract, which period expired before the completion of the work, & W. then hired the yard. In June it was agreed by bkpt. in writing that the barge should be held by W. as a security for advances made by him. In July the bkpcy. took place. The advances made by W. exceeded the amount of work done & materials supplied by bkpt. :—Held : W. had a lien upon & was entitled to hold the barge, unless the assignees chose to complete the contract.—Re ATTWATER, Ex p. WATTS (1862), 1 New Rep. 170 ; 32 L. 7618 vi. —— —— To what extent limited.]—A sale of immovable property having been made by insolvent before his insolvency, & the trustee having called on the purchaser to complete the contract & pay instalments due to date of action :—Held : notwithstanding tender by the trustee in his action of transfer against payment of the price, deft. was not entitled to demand transfer on payment of the difference between the price & the amount of judgments obtained by the purchaser against insolvent before sequestration & capable of set-off pro tanto against the price, the dominium being in the insolvent estate against which the purchaser could only insist on damages for breach of contract to transfer.—NORDEN (SMITH'S TRUSTEE) v. NORDEN (1843), 2 Men. 128.—S. a. —— Right of contracting party to retain rent falling due before bankruptcy—Until conveyance delivered.]—The tenant under a lease exposed the reversion of the lease to sale, with the consent of the landlord, who acted as his agent.—The purchaser paid the price to the landlord, who failed to pay it over to the seller, or to deliver to the purchaser a valid discharge of the price, or a conveyance of the lease. The landlord was afterwards sequestrated & a judicial factor appointed on his estate. In an action at the instance of the judicial factor, against the purchaser, who had entered into possession for recovery of the arrears of his rent : —Held : the purchaser was entitled to retain the rents which fell due prior to the landlord's sequestration, until he got a valid discharge for the price, & a conveyance of the lease from the seller, but was bound to pay the rents which fell due subsequent to the sequestration.—MARTIN v. MARSHALL (1850), 12 Dunl. A. & Co., in consideration of receiving orders on the treasurers of the asylum & hospital duly acknowledged by them, to receive the contract money, agreed to provide cash from time to time to complete the contracts. Under such arrangement they supplied cash till H. & Co. became insolvent. After the insolvency the official assignee finished the contracts & received on account of them £170 beyond what he laid out. 7624. —— —— Payment by dishonoured bill.]—Goods were sold under an invoice which expressed that they remained at rent. The purchaser subsequently accepted a bill drawn by the vendor for the price, which was negotiated by the vendor. Whilst the bill was running the purchaser sold a part which, by his direction, was delivered by the vendor to the sub-purchaser, whom the vendor charged with warehouse rent for the part, which he paid. Subsequently the purchaser became bkpt., & the bill was dishonoured:—Held: the assignee could not without paying the price maintain trover against the vendor for the residue of the goods, which had remained in his hands.—MILES v. GORTON (1834), 2 Cr. & M. 504; 4 Tyr. 295; 3 L. 7626. —— —— ——.]—B. & Co. sold iron rails to a co. by a written contract, payment to be by buyers' acceptances of sellers' drafts against inspector's certificate of approval & wharfinger's certificate of each 500 tons being stacked ready for shipment. As the wharfinger's certificates were delivered, the co. accepted the drafts of B. & Co., which B. & Co. negotiated, but the rails remained in B. & Co.'s possession. Pltf. advanced money to the co. on the security of some of the wharfinger's certificates, which were handed over to him with a written memorandum. The co. became insolvent, & their acceptances were not paid. Pltf. filed a bill against B. & Co. & the receiver of the co., claiming a lien on the rails in the hands of B. & Co., in priority to their lien as vendors:—Held: the giving of the acceptances in pursuance of the contract was not an absolute payment, but conditional on the acceptances being met, & upon the insolvency of the acceptors the vendor's lien on the goods revived, the act of the vendor's having negotiated the bills making no difference.—GUNN v. BOLCKOW, VAUGHAN & CO. 7622 i. Purchase by party becoming bankrupt—Preservation of vendor's lien.]—Q. sold the furniture, etc., of hotel premises to L., who assigned his estate for the benefit of his creditors. Q. & L.'s assignees then entered into the following agreement: "Sold by L.'s assignees to Q. all the furniture, etc., Q. to give bills at three, six, nine, & twelve months. Property in goods bought to pass to Q. only upon payment of last bill." The greater portion of the goods so sold was delivered to Q., who neither gave the bills nor paid any portion of the price. Q. then surrendered his estate:—Held: the goods delivered to Q. belonged to L.'s assignees.—QUIRK'S TRUSTEES v. LIDDLE & CO.'S ASSIGNEES (1885), 3 S. C. 322.—S. AF.

7622 ii. —— ——.]—The vendor of certain sheep marked them, in order that, in case of the death of any of them, the risk might not fall on him, & kept them in his possession. 7622 v. —— ——Resale.]—Goods were sold, & the price paid, but they were allowed to remain in the custody of the seller. They were resold. The subsequent purchaser intimated the second sale to the original seller, but not till after the first purchaser had become bkpt., & the seller had arrested in his own hands, in security of a general balance due by the first purchaser. The trustee in the sequestration made no claim to the goods:—Held: the seller's arrestment in his own hands was preferable to the second purchaser's intimation, the seller's right of retention in security of a general balance as against the trustee in the sequestration was not cut down by Mercantile Law Amendment (Scotland) Act, 1856 (c. 60).—WYPER v. HARVEY (1861), 23 Dunl. 7622 vi. —— —— ——.]—On the sale of a factory & machinery, it was stipulated that, until the purchase-money should be fully paid, the vendees were not to remove the machinery. The vendors afterwards executed a conveyance to the purchasers, who executed a mtge. which purported to be of the factory only, & did not mention the machinery. The purchasers resold, the vendee having notice of the covenant, & the vendee subsequently became insolvent:—Held: the covenant against removing the machinery remained in force, & the vendee's assignee was not at liberty to remove the machinery.—CRAWFORD v. FINDLAY (1871), 18 Gr. 51.—CAN.

7628 i. ——Right to refuse delivery—Contract assigned by insolvent.]—A., the purchaser of saw logs to be delivered at specified times, assigned the contract, & the vendor delivered one year's supply of the logs to the assignee. Afterwards A., becoming insolvent, absconded, & the vendor refused to complete the contract, asserting a right to stop the goods in transitu, or to retain them in consequence of A.'s days after delivery. All the lots but the tenth were paid for, when a meeting was held of the purchaser's creditors, & he declared himself insolvent. On the next day, the vendors wrote that they refused to deliver any more goods, giving no reasons. The purchaser having been adjudicated bkpt. on the declaration of insolvency :—Held : although neither the non-payment of the tenth instalment nor the bkpcy. entitled the vendors to rescind the contract, yet after the declaration of insolvency they had a right to refuse to deliver any more goods, until the price of both the tenth & eleventh instalments had been tendered, & the letter refusing to deliver did not excuse the trustee from tendering.—Re EDWARDS, Ex p. CHALMERS (1873), 8 Ch. 7629. —— ——.]—Defts., on Feb. 5, sold to pltfs. 200 tons of iron, to be delivered 25 tons monthly at £5 per ton, net cash, or by four months' bill with 2*s.* 6*d.* per ton added. By the usage of trade no delivery was due under the contract till Apr. 1. On Mar. 12 pltfs. found themselves to be insolvent, & they gave notice of the fact to defts. On Mar. 16 they filed a petition in the bkpcy. ct. for liquidation by arrangement or composition. The usual course of business under previous contracts between the parties of a similar description was for defts. to deliver upon such contracts without further demand of delivery. No delivery was made by defts. or claimed by pltfs. in Apr. On Apr. 5, at the first meeting of the creditors, a resolution was passed to accept a composition of 5*s.* in the pound. Though the existence of the contract was mentioned at the meeting, no mention was made of it in the written statement of pltfs.' affairs. No step was taken in relation to the contract by either party until May 13, when the market for iron having risen, pltfs. claimed the delivery of iron in fulfilment of the contract, offering & being ready to pay cash for it. Defts. replied, stating that pltfs. having failed to perform their part of the contract there was an end to it. Pltfs. thereupon brought an action against defts. for non-delivery of the iron :—Held : there had been a rescission of the contract before May 13, the conduct of pltfs. having been such as to justify defts. in the belief that pltfs. intended to abandon the contract upon their insolvency, & there being evidence that defts. in such belief had likewise abandoned it.—MORGAN v. BAIN (1874), L. 7630. —— ——.]—The C. Iron Co. in Oct., 1874, contracted to supply the P. Steel Co. with iron at a certain price, to be delivered in monthly instalments & to be paid for, as to some, by bills at four months, & as to the rest, by cash at a certain length of credit. The instalments were delivered till the month of Feb., 1875, inclusive, in which month the purchasing co. called a meeting of their principal creditors, & stated that they were carrying on the business at a loss & were short of working capital, & asked for an extension of credit in their existing contracts, which was refused them. The selling co. then refused to deliver any more iron except upon immediate cash payments, & in consequence of that refusal the purchasing co. gave notice to rescind the contract. The purchasing co. continued to carry on the business after the meeting, & endeavoured to raise fresh capital by issuing preference shares, but in June, 1875, they passed a resolution for winding up. The selling co. claimed to prove for damages for breach of the contract against the estate of the purchasing co. :—Held : there was no such declaration of insolvency at the meeting in Feb. as to justify the selling co. in refusing to deliver iron except for cash payments, & the purchasing co. had a right to rescind the contract, & the claim for damages should be dismissed.

In order to justify the vendors in such a case in exercising their right of refusal to deliver, there must be such proof or admission of the insolvency of the purchasers at the time as amounts to a declaration of intention not to pay for the goods.—Re PHŒNIX BESSEMER STEEL CO., Ex p. CARNFORTH HÆMATITE IRON CO. B. having failed to pay some of the instalments as they became due, was induced by A. to sign the following agreement for the hire of the table at a monthly rent : " This agreement is signed for A.'s satisfaction, & will become null & void on B. carrying out the original agreement." Upon the bkpcy. of B. the trustee sold the table & received the proceeds :—Held : the trustee was entitled to the proceeds of the sale, on the ground that the agreement for the purchase was not abrogated by the agreement for hire, & the table, being the property of bkpt., passed to the trustee. —Re LLOYD, Ex p. ORME (1878), 38 L. insolvency. The assignee commenced an action at law in A.'s name against the vendor, in which he recovered judgment, & a bill by the vendor to restrain proceedings at law was dismissed with costs.—WAIT v. SCOTT 1857), 6 Gr. 154.—CAN.

g. —— Right to require return of goods.]—On Mar. 5 & 11 goods were delivered by merchants to a trader, who, on Mar. 14, presented a petition for arrangement & was granted protection on the same date. The merchants, alleging that the trader was aware for twelve months that he was in a state of insolvency, that he knew when the goods were delivered he was unable to pay for them, & that he concealed his financial position from the merchants, applied for an order for the return of the goods so supplied, or in the alternative for payment for same in full :—Held : the ct. had no jurisdiction to make such an order.—Re ARRANGING DEBTOR (1912), 46 I. 7632. —— Sub-contract—Bankruptcy of principal contractor.]—Contractors for the erection of steel tanks to be erected on the purchasers' premises, to be paid for after completion, employed pltf. as a sub-contractor to erect, & fix the tanks, he also to be paid a smaller price after completion. Pltf. had nearly finished the erection of one tank when the contractors became insolvent. The tanks when completed would not be fixtures. The pltf. agreed to complete the contracts:—Held: as no property in the tanks had passed, & as on completion pltf. could not be bound to hand over the tanks, except on having his purchase-money paid or secured by a first charge on the price to be paid to the contractors, the amount payable to the contractors was charged with the payment to the sub-contractor.—BELLAMY v. DAVEY, [1891] 3 Ch. 540; 60 L. By the law of Scotland, no lien or equitable mtge. on real property was created by such a deposit:—Held: the contract being made in England, by contracting parties domiciled there, & England being also the domicil of the assignees under the bkpcy., the estate was charged with the equitable mtge., & the assignees were bound to pay to the creditor the amount of the proceeds of the sale of the estate.—Re COURTNEY, Ex p. POLLARD (1840), 4 Deac. 27; Mont. & Ch. 239, L. 7637. Agreement for tenancy—Word "assigns" omitted.]—The omission of the word "assigns" from an agreement for a tenancy for three years does not deprive the assignee of bkpt. of his right of election to take the premises.—Re BARKER (1863), 7 L. T. 724.

7638. Option to take lease—Word "assigns" omitted.]—A person entitled to leasehold premises for a long term of years agreed to underlet them to a tenant for three years, & whenever called upon to do so by the tenant, to grant to him a lease for three years, seven years, or the remainder of the term that he had it in his power to grant, such lease to contain all the usual covenants for protecting the interests of the grantor. The three years expired without the option being exercised, but the tenant continued in possession until he became bkpt., & his interest in the premises was sold by his assignee to a purchaser:—Held: bkpt. had such an interest in lands, as passed to his assignee, & such interest was not prevented from so passing by the absence of the word "assigns" in the agreement.—BUCKLAND v. PAPILLON (1866), 2 Ch. 7641. Lease abandoned by bankrupt before bankruptcy—Agreement for development of mining property by bankrupt & others jointly.]—L., M., & resp. were jointly interested in a mining property. L. wrote to resp. that he was unable to contribute anything to the expenses of developing the property & that M. & resp. could do what they liked with it. He subsequently became bkpt. Resp. developed the property by his own exertions, & at his own expense, & sold it for a considerable sum. The official assignee under L.'s bkpcy. claimed a share of the purchase-money :—Held : there was evidence of acts amounting to an agreement by L. to abandon his interest & to license M. & resp. to continue the adventure at their own risk, & his estate had no claim on the purchase-money.—PALMER v. MOORE, [1900] A. 7642. Contract of personal nature—Undertaking by bankrupt to provide stabling, carmen, & drivers for horses.]—A declaration set out an agreement between pltf. & P., that pltf. should, for eleven years from Mar. 1, 1869, supply P. with fifty horses suitable for his business of general agent & railway carrier, providing food, etc., & P. providing stabling, pltf. to have the care of the horses & P. to provide carmen & drivers. The declaration then alleged that P. became bkpt., that defts. were his assignees in bkpcy., that they had "accepted & adopted the contract as part of the estate & effects of P. as such bkpt.," & charged a breach of the agreement by refusing to take & pay for the horses :—Held : the contract was of too personal a character to pass to the assignees, even assuming an adoption by assignees of bkpt.'s contract possible.—JACKSON v. SWARBRICK, [1870] W. N. 133.

7643. —— Personal services.]—Unexecuted contracts for personal services do not vest in the trustee.

If at the date of the bkpcy. a sum of money is due in respect of services rendered under the contract, the trustee & not bkpt. will take the money. 7647. —— —— ——.]—By lease, dated Mar. 8, 1866, pltf. demised a house & premises to R. for seven years, at £600 a year, payable quarterly on June 8, Sept. 8, Dec. 8, & Mar. 8. On Mar. 25, 1869, R. filed a petition for adjudication of bkpcy., which was subsequently annulled on Apr. 15, on which day R. was adjudicated a bkpt. on a creditors' petition, under which, on May 7, defts. were appointed assignees, & at a meeting of creditors on the same morning it was resolved, pursuant to 1861 Act, s. 110, that no further proceedings should be taken under the bkpcy., which resolutions was confirmed at an adjourned meeting on May 21, & it was then resolved that bkpt.'s estate should be wound up & administered by the assignees in like manner as if same had remained in bkpcy. On Mar. 27, 1869, pltf. distrained for the quarter's rent due on Mar 8, & at the request of the solrs. to petitioning creditors & the official assignee, pltf. remained in possession, without selling, till May 12, when defts.' solrs. paid the rent & the costs of the distress to pltf. Defts., as assignees of bkpt.'s estate, remained in possession "for the purpose of realising the stock, fixtures, & furniture, & not otherwise," & on June 8, another quarter's rent became due, & was paid to pltf. on the same day by the same solrs. on behalf of defts. On June 12, pltf.'s solr. wrote to defts.' solrs. as follows: "I take it that as the assignees have not declined the lease of the premises, but are still in possession, they have elected to take the lease." No answer was sent to that letter. Defts. remained in possession for the purposes before mentioned, & no other, & on June 23 they sold by auction on the premises the tenant's fixtures belonging to the estate. The removal of the fixtures was completed by June 30, & attempts were made to deliver the keys of the premises to bkpt., but defts. were unable to ascertain his address. On July 21 they tendered the keys to his solrs., who declined to accept them, & on July 30, having learnt where bkpt. was, they forwarded the keys to him at Belfast by registered post letter, & informed him that they declined to accept the lease. On Aug. 1 defts'. solrs. wrote to pltf.'s solr. that defts. had disclaimed any interest in the premises, & had delivered the keys to bkpt. On Sept. 8 pltf. took possession upon the understanding that his doing so should not affect his right, if any, against defts. to the quarter's rent due that day. The lease had been deposited by bkpt., prior to the bkpcy., with a creditor, as security for a debt, & remained in the creditor's possession till after Sept. 8, when it was delivered by him to pltf. In an action by pltf. to recover from defts. the quarter's rent to Sept. 8:—Held: (KELLY, C. B., diss.) the question of election being one of intention, the acts of defts. were acts evidencing such an unequivocal intention on their part, to elect to take to the lease of the premises for at any rate the six months to Sept. 8, as to fix them with liability for the quarter's rent to that day, & (CHANNELL, B.) to render it unnecessary to decide whether an action for use & occupation could be maintained against them.—WILLIAMS v. TAYLOR (1869), 21 L. 7653. —— Assigning lease—Effect of delay.]—A party, who had deposited a lease for years with pltf. as security for a debt & given him a memorandum by way of equitable mtge., became bkpt. in 1847, but was allowed to remain in possession & receive the rents until his death in 1858. In 1859 the Ct. of Bkpcy., on application of pltf., made an order for the sale of the lease, or, in the event of sale being deemed not advisable, that it should be assigned to pltf. The sum bid for the property being insufficient to satisfy pltf.'s claim, it was assigned to him in 1860 by the official assignee, & a creditors' assignee appointed in lieu of the original creditors' assignee, who had refused to concur in the sale. In ejectment by pltf. against the personal representative of bkpt. :—Held : (1) the assigning the lease to pltf. was an acceptance of it by the assignees ; (2) it was a question for the jury whether they had accepted it within a reasonable time.

The question as to whether the assignees of bkpt. had elected to take this lease depends on whether, prior to their doing what they did, they had or had not declined to interfere, in such circumstances as to divest themselves of authority to act as they have done. That must depend on whether the lapse of time between the bkpcy. & the conveyance to pltf. was so unreasonably long that, taken in conjunction with the surrounding circumstances of the case, the jury would be warranted in coming to the conclusion that the assignees had declined to accept the lease (COCKBURN, C.J.).—MACKLEY v. PATTENDEN (1861), 1 B. & S. 178 ; 30 L. 7654. —— Entry by trustee for purpose of realising estate.]—Debtor by a valid deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, conveyed all his estate to a trustee to be administered for the benefit of his creditors as in bkpcy. Debtor was the lessee of certain premises, consisting of a jeweller's shop & house, for a term of years. The trustee entered upon the demised premises, & remained upon them from Mar. 21 to June 24 for the purpose merely of realising the trust-estate. Upon Apr. 26 the trustee gave the landlord notice that he elected not to take the lease :—Held : the trustee had done nothing amounting to an adoption of the lease.—MALLETT v. LEVIN (1867), 16 L. 7656. —— Refusal to allow landlord to enter.]—R., who held two farms of pltf., as tenant from year to year, became bkpt. R.'s assignees took possession of the farms, & disputes having arisen between them & the landlord, the assignees refused to allow the landlord to enter on the farms, & sold the feed of parts of the farms :—Held : the assignees by their conduct had elected to take the farms.—BRADSHAW v. JAMES (1869), 20 L. T. 781 ; 17 W. R. 1010.

7657. —— Negotiations with mortgagee for assignment—Lease deposited with mortgagee as security.]—Pltf. demised to M. a wharf for twenty-one years, the lease containing covenants for rent & repairs by the lessee. M. deposited the lease with S. as security for a debt, & filed a petition for liquidation on Dec. 8, 1880, & deft. was appointed trustee on Jan. 3, 1881. Deft. never took possession of the wharf, but he negotiated with S. for the assignment of the lease to him ; the negotiations proved abortive. Pltf. served deft. with a notice requiring him to disclaim, but deft. failed to do so. Pltf. then brought an action to recover two quarter's rent, due respectively on Dec. 25, 1880, & on Mar. 25, 1881, & damages for breach of the covenant to repair :—Held : deft. had, by his conduct, elected to accept the lease.—TITTERTON v. COOPER (1882), 9 Q. A fiat having afterwards issued against A., his assignees sent in an invoice, & demanded payment for the goods so bought by defts. :—Held : the assignees did not thereby so affirm the sale as to disentitle them to maintain trover for the goods, upon a subsequent demand & refusal.—VALPY v. SANDERS (1848), 5 C. w. Sale of interest in partnership—Acquiescence of trustee.]—A., one of the members of a partnership of five persons who owned a pastoral property, had mortgaged his interest in the partnership to B., another member of the partnership. In 1893, A. was adjudged bkpt. & an official assignee of his estate appointed. In 1894 A.'s interest in the partnership was sold under the mtge & was acquired by B., who held it & dealt with it as owner. In 1904 A. obtained releases from all his creditors, including B. The partnership was subsequently reconstituted on the basis of B. being the owner of two of the five shares. No claim was ever made by the official assignee in respect of A.'s share. In 1911 pltf. purchased from the official assignee A.'s interest in the partnership.

In a suit by pltf. against B. claiming to have the purchase of A.'s interest in the partnership set aside as having been at a gross undervalue :—Held : the official assignee had not only not elected to impeach the sale, but had actually affirmed it.—CAMPBELL v. CAMPBELL (1916), 21 C. 7672. —— Extension of time—Power of court to grant.]—Although the three months given to a trustee by 1883 Act, s. 55 (1), within which to disclaim onerous property, may have expired, the ct. has power under s. 105 (4), to grant the trustee an extension of time.—Re PRICE, Ex p. FOREMAN (1884), 13 Q. 7674. —— —— When granted.]—On Mar. 31, 1890, the chief official receiver in bkpcy. resigned his office, & by an order of the same date all estates which were then vested in the chief official receiver as trustee by virtue of his office, were transferred to & vested in his successor. On June 19, 1890, it was ascertained by the official receiver that certain leasehold premises occupied by bkpt., against whom a receiving order had been made in 1884, had not been disclaimed, & on June 27, 1890, formal notice of disclaimer was given to the lessor. The lessor refused to accept the notice, & application was made to the ct. for leave to disclaim the property, it being shown that since the bkpcy. the rent of the premises had been paid by bkpt.'s wife out of her separate estate, & that no application had been made to the trustee by the lessor under 1883 Act, s. 55 (4), requiring him to decide whether he would disclaim or not :—Held : (1) the official receiver, as trustee, was affected by the acts & omissions of his predecessor, & on his appointment the lease vested in him, & he was not in a position to disclaim it without the leave of the ct. extending the time for doing so ; (2) there being no proof that the landlord had sustained any damage whatever from the omission, leave to disclaim should be given.—Re BAKER, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, Re BAKER, Ex p. AXFORD (1891), 8 Morr. 116 ; 7 T. L. R. 355, C. A.

7675. —— —— —— On terms.]—A trustee applied for two months extension of time, & it was shown that a mtgee. would be prejudiced & the estate would in the event of disclaimer be insufficient to meet his demands. The ct. refused the application, unless on a personal undertaking by the trustee to indemnify the mtgee. during such extension.—Re PRICE, Ex p. FOREMAN (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 466 ; 33 W. R. 139.

7676. Sufficiency of disclaimer—Delay in taking decisive steps.]—In an action by pltfs. as assignees of bkpt. against deft., for non-performance of a contract to deliver shares, to be performed on July 1, 1835, the issue was, whether pltfs. had abandoned it :—Held : as they had taken no decisive steps till Jan., 1838, the jury might properly infer they had abandoned the contract.—LAWRENCE v. KNOWLES (1839), 5 Bing. 7677. —— —— What is reasonable time.]—In Nov., 1847, R., being owner of one hundred & fifty-seven shares of £100 each, in an incorporated co., became bkpt. Only £25 per share had been paid. At the time of the bkpcy., bkpt. delivered the certificates of the shares to the official assignee. At that time the shares were of no value. In June, 1849, notice was given to the official assignee of a call of £1 per share, which he was requested to pay. Nothing further was done by the co. or the assignees until Feb., 1853, when the shares having become valuable, the assignees claimed to be registered in the co.'s books as the owners of them, & offered to pay whatever was due for calls. In answer to their application, they received a letter from the secretary of the co., stating that there were no shares standing in the registry-book in the name of bkpt. :—Held : assuming it was necessary that the assignees should, within a reasonable time, do some act to signify their acceptance of the shares, the question of reasonable time was one for the jury, but a reasonable time would not begin to run until some one interested in the matter took some step in respect of it.

Though undoubtedly a considerable period of time elapsed before anything was done, on the other hand, it is open to observation, that when the assignees were called upon to do something, there was a temporary want of value in the shares, & an admitted fluctuation, & it might be right & proper for the assignees to wait, & see what turn affairs might take (COLERIDGE, J.).—GRAHAM v. VAN DIEMEN'S LAND CO. 7687. —— —— At option of lessor—Option not exercised before disclaimer.]—Bkpt. was the holder of a lease, which provided that if the lessee became bkpt. the lease should "cease, determine, & be void." The trustee disclaimed the lease:—Held: the proper construction of the proviso was that the lease only became void at the option of the lessor, & as he had not exercised the option, he was entitled to prove for the damage sustained by the disclaimer.—Re TICKLE, Ex p. LEATHER SELLERS' CO. C. Leave to disclaim.

7694. When necessary—Contract to purchase unexpired portion of lease—Monthly tenancy.]—Bkpt. was tenant of leasehold premises under an agreement for a monthly tenancy. By an agreement of even date bkpt. contracted to purchase the unexpired residue of the lease. The contract remained unperformed at the time of his bkpcy :—Held : the trustee had an interest in the premises, within 1869 Act, s. 23 & 1871 Rules, r. 28, & was entitled to apply for & obtain leave to disclaim.—Re ROBERTS (1874), 30 L. 7700. Form of application—Several distinct properties—One landlord or chief respondent—Other parties interested.]—A trustee when applying to the ct. under 1883 Act, s. 55 (3), for leave to disclaim property may include in one application several distinct premises, so long as there is one landlord or chief resp. who is affected by the whole application, although there may be other resps. who are only affected by part of it.—Re WHITAKER (1888), 21 Q. 7704. When granted—Bankruptcy of lessee—Landlord's rights against sub-lessee not prejudiced.]—A. demised a house to L. & Co. for ten years at a yearly rental of £70. A few days afterwards L. & Co. demised the house to M. for a term equal to the term of their own lease, less seven days, in consideration of a premium of £100 & a yearly rent of £56. L. & Co., having filed a petition for liquidation, the ct. gave the trustee leave to disclaim, on the ground that the disclaimer would not affect the right of A., the original lessor, to distrain upon M. for the rent of £70, & to re-enter on breach of the covenants, reserved by & contained in the original lease.—Re LEVY, Ex p. WALTON (1881), 17 Ch. 7709. —— Trade fixtures removable by bankrupt lessee.]—Where there are trade fixtures on the leasehold premises of bkpt., removable by the tenant, & the trustee applies for leave to disclaim the lease, the same rule will be applied as between the landlord & trustee as would obtain if the lease had been determined in an ordinary way, & the landlord must either take over the fixtures at a valuation, or the trustee must have a reasonable time, before disclaiming, in which to sever & remove them.—Re MOSER, Ex p. PAINTER (1884), 13 Q. 7710. —— Bankruptcy of one of two joint tenants—After dissolution of partnership—Rent paid by solvent retired partner.]—A lease of land & minerals was granted to two partners as joint tenants. The partnership was afterwards dissolved, on the terms that the business should be carried on by one of the partners alone, & that he should purchase the interest of the other for £12,000, which was to be paid in forty equal half-yearly instalments. The retiring partner covenanted that he would stand possessed of his share & interest in the demised premises in trust for the continuing partner. The continuing partner covenanted with the retiring partner to pay the £12,000 in the manner agreed upon, & assigned to him the buildings, machinery, & fixtures on the demised premises by way of mtge. to secure the payment of the £12,000, & covenanted that the leasehold premises should stand charged therewith. A year afterwards the continuing partner filed a petition, under which a trustee of his property was appointed. The trustee occupied the demised property for some time with a view to the benefit of debtor's estate. The rent due under the lease was paid to the landlord by the retired partner :—Held : leave to disclaim debtor's interest in the lease ought to be given to the trustee, only on condition of his paying to the retired partner the rent of the premises from the date of the trustee's appointment until the day when his beneficial occupation ceased.—Re SALKELD, Ex p. GOOD (1884), 13 Q. 7711. —— Trustee having unreconcilable duties.]—Bkpt. held a sub-lease of a quarry, which he had mortgaged to his bankers as security for a loan. Before the bkpcy. the bankers had entered into possession of the quarry & worked it by their agent. The agent was appointed trustee in the bkpcy., & continued to work the quarry on behalf of his principals :—Held : leave to disclaim could only be granted upon terms, the trustee having in his dual position undertaken unreconcilable duties.—Re CROWTHER, Ex p. DUFF (1887), 4 Morr. 100, D. 7712. —— Compensation for occupation by trustee—Estate benefited.]—On giving leave to the trustee to disclaim a leasehold interest of bkpt., the ct. will not order the trustee to pay the landlord any compensation for his use & occupation of the demised property, except in special circumstances, one instance being where the trustee's occupation has been beneficial to bkpt.'s estate.—Re KNIGHT, Ex p. ISHERWOOD (1882), 22 Ch. 7714. —— —— —— Landlord kept out of possession.]—When the trustee applies for leave to disclaim a lease of bkpt., the ct. will not order any compensation to be paid to the landlord, unless the trustee has kept him out of possession of the property, & his occupation has resulted in a benefit to bkpt.'s estate. The principle is that the trustee ought not to be allowed to increase bkpt.'s estate at the expense of the landlord.—Re BUSHELL, Ex p. IZARD (1883), 23 Ch. D. 115 ; 48 L. T. 502, C. A.

7715. —— —— —— Possession retained to make profit.]— In determining whether, on giving leave to the trustee to disclaim a lease of bkpt., the trustee should be ordered to pay compensation to the landlord in respect of his occupation of the leasehold premises, the ct. will have regard not merely to the question whether the occupation has actually produced a profit to bkpt.'s estate, but also to the question whether the possession was retained by the trustee with a view to obtaining such a profit.

The ct. ordered compensation to be paid by the trustee as a condition of giving him leave to disclaim the lease of bkpt.'s place of business, although during part of the time during which the trustee had been in occupation a bailiff had been in possession of bkpt.'s goods under a distress for rent, & the landlord had been allowed to place bills on the premises stating that they were to be let, & that application for that purpose was to be made to him.—Re WITTON, Ex p. ARNAL (1883), 24 Ch. 7716. —— —— —— Retention for benefit of creditors.]—In cases where a trustee seeks to disclaim, if subsequent to the adjudication any advantage has been derived from the use of the landlord's property, that is the use of the creditors & not of debtor, & for such advantage the landlord is entitled to be paid.—Re BROOKE, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1844), 1 Morr. 82.

7717. When refused—Lease mortgaged by way of underlease—Leave to disclaim equity of redemption.]—A lease was made by A. to B., who assigned it to C., who again assigned it to D. On the day following the assignment to D., D. made a mtge. of the property by way of underlease to C. D. having become unable to pay his debts, his creditors came to a resolution that his affairs should be liquidated by arrangement, & the lease having become of no value, the trustee of D.'s estate applied for leave to disclaim the lease:—Held: leave to disclaim the lease should be refused, but, upon the landlord undertaking not to make any claim or to prove against the estate of D., the trustee might be at liberty to execute a disclaimer of the equity of redemption in the mtge.—Re WILSON (1871), L. R. 13 Eq. 186; 20 W. R. 363.

7718. —— Time for answering notice expiring before application—Party serving notice waiving time limit for reply.]—A trustee received from the lessors on Nov. 24 a notice calling on him to disclaim a lease held by debtor within twenty-eight days, under 1869 Act, s. 24. The lessors wrote another letter to the trustee on the day before the twenty-eight days expired, in which they asked for a reply to their letter of Nov. 24, "at his earliest convenience." The trustee, after the twenty-eight days had expired, applied to the ct. for leave to disclaim the lease:—Held: the lessors had waived their right to insist on an answer within twenty-eight days, & leave to disclaim should be given.—Re STOKOE, Ex p. MOORE (1876), 2 Ch. D. 802; 35 L. T. 386; 24 W. R. 720, C. A.

7719. —— Application after expiry of lease—Failure of lessor to appear on trustee's appeal from refusal of leave.]—A lease of a house was vested in bkpt. as assignee. The trustee did not disclaim, but he did not take possession of the property or exercise any act of ownership over it. Bkpt. continued to live in the house, his friends paying the rent for him. After the expiration of the term the lessor sued the original lessee on his covenant to repair. The lessee served a third party notice on the trustee, claiming to be indemnified by him as assignee of the term, against all breaches of the covenant since the date of the bkpcy. & the trustee's appointment. The trustee then applied for leave to execute a disclaimer in respect of the lease. The lessor opposed the application, which was refused on the ground that the lease had expired. The trustee appealed, giving notice to the lessor, who did not appear on the hearing of the appeal:—Held: leave to disclaim might be given, as it could not prejudice the rights of any person who was not before the ct.—Re THROCKMORTON, Ex p. PATERSON (1879), 11 Ch. 7720. Form of order—Bankruptcy of sub-lessee—Leaseholder asking for vesting order.]—A. & B., being mtgees. of premises, sub-mortgaged them to their bankers by way of security for an advance. They then acquired a sub-lease of the premises from the leaseholder, & let the premises to a third party for a term of years with an option of purchase. Upon the bkpcy. of A. & B. the trustee asked for leave to disclaim, & the leaseholder asked for an order vesting the property in him:—Held: the right order to make was one giving leave to disclaim, subject to the leaseholder's & second lessee's right to prove against the estate for any injury accruing through the disclaimer, & putting the sub-mtgees. to their election whether or not they would within fourteen days take a vesting order to themselves, &, if they adopted the latter alternative, excluding them from all interest in & security upon the property:—Semble: it was doubtful whether the words of 1883 Act, s. 55 (6), were intended to apply to a landlord.—Re PARKER & PARKER, Ex p. TURQUAND (1884), 14 Q. 7721. Costs of application—Failure of trustee to elect after notice given.]—When a landlord gives a trustee notice requiring him to decide whether he will disclaim or not bkpt.'s leaseholds, & the trustee declines or neglects within the twenty-eight days limited by 1883 Act, s. 55 (4) to give notice whether he disclaims or not, & subsequently applies to the ct. for leave to disclaim, he may render himself personally liable to the payment of rent & costs.—Re PAGE, Ex p. MACKAY (1884), 14 Q. 7722. —— Estate less than £300—Taxation.]—The costs of a trustee's application under 1883 Act, s. 55, to disclaim leaseholds, are costs of a "proceeding under the Act" which, as a general rule, are payable out of the estate, & where the assets are under £300, such costs are taxable on the lower scale.—Re PROCTER, [1891] 2 Q. 7723. Appeals—From discretion of court—Appeal to House of Lords.]—The Ct. of Appeal in the exercise of its discretion under 1869 Act, s. 23, gave a trustee leave to disclaim a lease. Leave to appeal to the House of Lords was refused, as being an appeal from the discretion of the ct.—Re CLARKE, Ex p. EAST & WEST INDIA DOCK CO. (1881), 17 Ch. D. 759; 50 L. J. Ch. 789; 45 L. 7726. —— After disclaimer executed—Stay of proceedings—Mortgagee's application.]—On the application of the trustee leave was given him to disclaim a lease vested in bkpt. After the trustee had executed a disclaimer, but within the time allowed for bringing an appeal, a person with whom bkpt. had deposited the lease by way of equitable mtge., & who was present when the order giving leave to disclaim was made, gave notice to appeal from the order:—Held: the disclaimer having been executed, the lessor's title was complete, & the appeal must be dismissed.

A person interested in preventing a disclaimer, should apply at once to stay proceedings under the order pending his appeal.—Re WOODS, Ex p. DITTON (1876), 3 Ch. D. 459; 45 L. J. Bcy. 141; 24 W. R. 1008; 2 Char. Pr. Cas. 66, C. A.

7727. —— —— —— Landlord's application.]—After unconditional leave has been given by the ct. to a trustee to disclaim a lease of bkpt. & the trustee has executed a disclaimer, it is too late for the lessor to appeal from the order even for the purpose of getting conditions imposed on the trustee. The Ct. of Appeal has then no power to impose conditions. If the lessor desires to appeal from such an order, he ought to apply when it is made for a stay of proceedings under it.—Re HAWES, Ex p. SADLER (1881), 19 Ch. D. 122; 51 L. J. Ch. 201; 30 W. 7729. —— Purchaser with judgment for specific performance against bankrupt.]—Where a vendor has got a judgment for specific performance against the purchaser, & the purchaser becomes bkpt., the vendor's proper course is to go on & enforce his rights under such judgment, not to serve notice on the trustee under 1883 Act, s. 55 (1), (4), calling on him to elect whether he will disclaim or not.

When a mtgor. becomes bkpt., the bkpcy. is no bar to a foreclosure action. The same principle applies to an action for specific performance (VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J.).—Re JEWELL (1897), 4 Mans. 28.

7730. Notice requiring trustee to disclaim—Whether posting sufficient—Receipt denied—Delivery to person in charge of trustee's office.]—Pltf., the lessor of premises occupied by a tenant who became bkpt., posted to deft., bkpt.'s trustee, an application requiring him to decide whether he would disclaim the premises or not. The receipt of the application was denied by deft., & no disclaimer was made within twenty-eight days:—Held: the mere posting of the notice was not sufficient, but it must be received by the trustee. Semble: It would be received if delivered at the office of the trustee to the person in charge.—REED v. HARVEY (1880), 5 Q. 7732. In respect of what property—Agreement to procure lease from third party.]—Petitioner covenanted with bkpt. that he would procure a lease to be granted to him of certain premises by a third party:—Held: this was an agreement for a lease within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 75, & petitioner was entitled to call on the assignees to elect whether they would accept or decline such agreement.—Re PEARSON, Ex p. BENECKE (1835), 1 Deac. 186; 2 Mont. & A. 692; 4 L. 7733. —— Parol lease from year to year.]—Bkpt. held two farms on a parol lease from year to year. The assignees had allowed bkpt. to remain in possession, & the landlord petitioned that they might elect either to take or decline bkpt.'s interest:—Held: a parol lease was within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 75, & the assignees must elect.—Re REEVES, Ex p. HOPTON (1841), 2 Mont. 7734. —— Lease to which bankrupt entitled as trustee for himself & petitioners.]—By lease dated Jan. 2, 1837, between N. of the first part, R. of the second part, & the lessee of the third part, N. & R. demised to the lessee for ten years certain mills & other premises, which had been previously mortgaged by N. to R. in fee. At the same time the lessee & N. entered into partnership by articles of even date with the lease, according to which articles the demised mills & other premises were to be considered partnership property. The lessee & N. carried on business together till Aug. 6, 1842, when a separate fiat issued against the lessee which was annulled in Nov., 1842. The lessee also carried on a distinct trade with G. & M. against whom & himself a joint fiat was issued. The accounts of the partnership between the lessee & N. had not been adjusted, but N. had all along occupied & still continued to occupy & carried on business upon the demised premises. N. & R. having presented a petition under the joint fiat praying that the assignees might elect whether they would accept or abandon the lease, the assignees contended that 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 75, extended expressly to the case only of bkpt. "entitled to a lease or an agreement for a lease," neither of which descriptions were applicable, bkpt. being only a trustee for himself & N. & being only entitled to one moiety of the lease beneficially:—Held: independently of 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, the ct. could order the assignees to act with regard to the matter in such manner as it thought fit, & had jurisdiction to order the assignees to elect whether they would accept or abandon the lease, & the Lord Chancellor had jurisdiction by the express terms of the sect. to order the assignees to elect & deliver up the lease, if they declined it, & the possession of the premises, or make any such other order as he should think fit.—Re RALEIGH, Ex p. NORTON (1843), 3 Mont. 7735. —— Lease deposited with equitable mortgagee.]—Held: a lessor was entitled under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 75, to an order on the assignees to elect whether they would accept or decline a lease, notwithstanding the lease had been deposited by bkpt. by way of equitable mortgage.—Re

7736. 7737. Effect of application—Whether bar to petition for leave to prove for rent, etc.]—Where a party, who has let bkpt. into possession of premises under an agreement to procure him a lease, petitions the ct. for an order that the assignees may accept or abandon the agreement, he is not precluded from applying to the ct. upon another petition for leave to prove for ground rent, dilapidations, & occupation rent by the assignees.—Re PEARSON, Ex p. BENECKE (1836), 2 Deac. 46 ; 5 L. 7740. —— —— Grounds for granting—Trustee compelled by lessor to pay rent in advance.]—The mere fact that the lessor has availed himself of the provisions contained in debtor's lease to compel the trustee to pay half a year's rent in advance, is not, in the absence of negotiation, or of anything to mislead the trustee, or of special circumstances to excuse the delay, a ground for enlarging the time, after the expiration of the twenty-eight days for notice to be given by the trustee, whether he disclaims the lease or not.—Re RICHARDSON, Ex p. HARRIS (1880), 16 Ch. 7741. PART XX. SECT. 16, SUB-SECT. 5.—D.

7735 i. In respect to what property—Lease subject to mortgage.]—The rule of practice acted on for several years in bkpcy. in Ireland, that the ct. will not, in the exercise of its discretion, order an assignee to elect whether or not he will accept a lessee's interest in a lease vested in bkpt., when it is subject to a mtge., is not a hard & fast rule, but ought to be departed from in special circumstances.—Re COLEMAN, [1917] 2 I. 7751. On trustee—Generally.]—The effect of the disclaimer is to put an end to both the rights & the liabilities of the trustee in respect of the disclaimed property. That is the primary object. By the disclaimer the trustee elects to have nothing to do with the property, which is onerous, & from which nothing can be got for the benefit of the creditors. He is at liberty to disclaim it, & the effect of the disclaimer is to extinguish all the rights & liabilities of the trustee himself (LINDLEY, L.J.).—Re FINLEY, Ex p. CLOTHWORKERS' CO. 7752. —— Disclaimer of agricultural lease—Effect of covenants as to way-going crops.]—By a covenant in a lease the lessee was bound at the end or sooner determination of the term to leave on the demised premises the hay, straw, etc. The lessee became bkpt., & the lessor petitioned under 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 19, that the assignees might either accept or deliver up the lease, & that they might be restrained from removing the hay, straw, etc. The assignees declined to take the lease, but contended they were entitled to remove the hay, straw, etc. The Lord Chancellor determined the lease, ordered the assignees to deliver possession of the premises, granted the injunction asked for & directed the opinion of a ct. of law to be taken on the construction of the covenant:—Held: on determination of the lease by order of ct. the assignees were not entitled to be paid for the hay, straw, etc.—Re GOUGH (1814), Buck, 85; previous proceedings, (1813), 1 Rose, 445, L. The lessee became a bkpt., & his assignees, on a petition, under 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 19, refused to accept the lease:—Held: they were entitled to the off-going crop, paying rent up to the time when possession of the premises & lease should be delivered to the landlord.—Re DARK, Ex p. MAUNDRELL (1817), 2 Madd. 315; Buck, 83; 56 E. 7755. —— —— Whether bound by stipulations against selling crops.]—A lessee was bound by the covenants in his lease not to sell the hay, straw, etc., grown on his farm without the consent of the landlord. The lessee became a liquidating debtor under 1869 Act, s. 125, & the trustee in the liquidation disclaimed the lease:—Held: the trustee was bound by 56 Geo. 3, c. 50, s. 11, notwithstanding the disclaimer, & an injunction should be granted to restrain him from selling the hay, straw, etc., grown on the farm.—LYBBE v. HART (1885), 29 Ch. 7757. —— Right to enforce agreement for purchase of fixtures by landlord.]—By indenture of demise, reciting that the lessee had purchased certain fixtures on the premises, on condition of their being repurchased as after mentioned, it was agreed between the lessor & lessee, & the lessor covenanted, that on the expiration or other sooner determination of the term, he, the lessor, should & would take the fixtures at such price as they should be appraised at by two competent persons, one to be named on each side. The lessee became bkpt., & his assignee declined the lease, which was delivered up, but he required the fixtures to be repurchased, & brought an action of covenant against the lessor for not appointing an appraiser:—Held: as by 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 75, bkpt., on delivering up the lease, was discharged from all the covenants on his part, performance of the covenant in question could not be enforced by the assignee against the lessor.—KEARSEY v. CARSTAIRS (1831), 2 B. & Ad. 716; 9 L. 7759. —— Right to recover excess value of machinery installed by bankrupt.]—Deft., by indenture, demised to E. & W. a fulling mill, for fourteen years. The lease, after reciting that the machinery had been valued at a certain sum, contained covenants, that at the end or other sooner determination of the term, the machinery should be again valued by two indifferent persons chosen by the lessees & the lessor, & that if such second valuation should amount to less than the first, the difference should be paid by the lessees to the lessor, but if it should be greater, the surplus should be paid by the lessor to the lessees. During the existence of the lease, the lessees became bkpt., & their assignees declined to take the lease, but they required deft. to appoint a person to value the machinery, & on his refusal to do so, appointed one themselves, who valued the machinery then in the mill, most of which had been brought in by bkpts., at a sum exceeding the original valuation. The assignees then delivered possession of the premises to deft., & demanded of him the difference between the two valuations, which he refused to pay:—Held: the remedy of the assignees was not by an action on the covenants, which had been determined by the bkpcy., & by their refusal to take the lease.—FAIRBURN v. EASTWOOD (1840), 6 M. & W. 679; 9 L. 7778. —— ——.]—If there is nothing more than a lease, & the lessee becomes bkpt., the disclaimer determines his interest in the lease. He gets rid of all his liabilities, & he loses all his rights by virtue of the disclaimer. There is no need of any provision for vesting the property in the landlord, but the natural & legal effect of 1883 Act, s. 55 (2), is that the reversion will become accelerated. There is nothing to be vested in the landlord. But he may require delivery of possession, &, if so, he can get it under s. 55 (6) (LINDLEY, L.J.).—Re FINLEY, Ex p. CLOTHWORKERS' CO. (1888), 21 Q. A lessee for a term of years demised part of the premises for a shorter term, & the sub-lessee entered into possession. The lessee afterwards liquidated by arrangement, & his trustee, under an order of the ct., disclaimed the lessee's interest in the premises. Notice of the application to the ct. for leave to disclaim was given to the sub-lessee within a reasonable time before the order was made. B. admitted his liability for rent up to Apr. 1, 1871, being the first quarter day after the adjudication on which rent was payable, but, as to the rest, he contended that 1867 Act, s. 139, operated as a surrender in law of the original term:—Held: B. was not liable for the rent claimed, the land having reverted to A., who could not take the land back & sue for the rent at the same time.—FISHER v. TRAVERS, 4 J. C. subsequently agreed to assign his under-lease again to M., who entered into possession, but refused to pay rent except on certain conditions. H. then sued C. for the rent:—Held: (1) the original lease had merged in the fee by virtue of Debtors & Creditors Act, 1876, s. 69 (4); (2) the acts of H. amounted to a confirmation of the under-lease notwithstanding her words; (3) there had been no surrender of the under-lease by operation of law, & C. was liable to H. for the rent reserved by the under-lease.—HOUGHTON v. COMPTON, [1882] 1 N. On assignee from bankrupt—Liability for rent accruing between assignment & adjudication—Adjudication on assignment as act of bankruptcy.]—The lessee of premises assigned the lease with other property to deft. by a deed, which was an act of bkpcy. The lessee was subsequently adjudicated bkpt. on that act of bkpcy., & a trustee appointed, who disclaimed the lease. During the interval between the assignment of the lease & the date of the lessee's being adjudicated bkpt., two quarters' rent of the premises accrued due under the lease. Before the lessee's bkpcy. pltfs., the owners of the reversion upon the lease, sued deft., & recovered judgment against him, for the first quarter's rent. They had commenced an action for the second quarter's rent, when the lessee was adjudicated bkpt., but the action did not come on for trial until after the adjudication :—Held : deft. was liable for the rent, notwithstanding the bkpcy. of the lessee had relation back to the act of bkpcy.—STEIN v. POPE, [1902] 1 K. 7801 ii. —— ——.]—In Feb., 1873, pltf. leased a wharf & warehouse to S., for a term of five years, from Jan. 1, 1873, at annual rent of $4,800, payable quarterly. The lease contained a covenant that the lessee would not assign, underlet, or part with the demised premises by his own act or deed, or by act or operation of law, without the lessor's written consent, & there was a proviso for re-entry in case of non-payment of rent, or failure to keep any of the covenants in the lease. The lessee entered & occupied till Oct. 12, 1875, when he became insolvent, & assigned under Insolvent Act, 1875, to deft. as official assignee. At the time of assignment $1,800 was due pltf. from S. for rent due on Oct. 1 preceding. Deft., as assignee, collected wharfage for the use of the demised premises from Oct. 13, 1875, to Jan. 29, 1876, which was the only act deft. did in reference to the property, except giving notice to pltf. on Dec. 24, 1875, that the inspectors intended to retain the property only up to the end of 1875, & that on Dec. 31 the lease would be surrendered, & the possession of the property given up to him:—Held: pltf. was entitled to recover from deft. the quarter's rent due Jan. 1, 1876, but not for the period between that & Jan. 29, because the current quarter's rent could not be apportioned, & deft. did not incur any personal liability to pay the rent.—ROBERTSON v. MCLEOD, ROBERTSON v. HALEY (1877), 1 P. & B. 15.—CAN.

Under obligation to grant lease—Form of lease.]—By an order made in a cause, it was referred to the master to settle a lease to be granted by assignees pursuant to a contract entered into by a prior owner of the property, inserting proper covenants from the assignees to the lessee. The master settled a draft lease containing covenants to repair, etc., by the assignees, & providing that the covenants should be limited to the beneficial interest of the assignees in the premises, & that their liability thereunder should cease on their procuring like covenants from a purchaser from them, but without a proviso limiting the liability of such purchaser to his beneficial interest in the premises :—Held : the lease was proper as settled by him.—PAGE v. BROOM (1842), 6 Jur. 308.

At the date of the bkpcy. there had been part deliveries under two contracts, & there was a sum of £95 due & owing in respect of such deliveries. No delivery had been made in respect of the third contract :—Held : (1) there must be some co-ordination between the three contracts to enable appct. to say it was unfair to carry out one & not the others ; (2) there was no such co-ordination ; & (3) the two contracts under which there had been part deliveries should be rescinded, & appct. prove in the bkpcy. for £95, the amount due in respect of such deliveries ; (4) as no case had been made out for the cancellation of the third contract, appct. should give the trustee notice to elect whether he would carry out such contract within a reasonable time.—Re CASTLE, Ex p. HASLAM BROTHERS (1917), 87 L. SUB-SECT. 7.—VESTING ORDER.

7818. Notice of motion for—Time for service.]—Upon application by a trustee for leave to disclaim a lease, the lessor may serve notice of motion for a vesting order on parties interested as sub-lessees, as soon as he is served with the notice of the trustee, & need not wait until leave to disclaim has been actually given, but in such case the lessor will run the risk of having his motion dismissed, with costs, if leave to disclaim is refused, or if it appears that he is not entitled to a vesting order.—Re BRITTON (1889), 61 L. 7819. —— On whom served.]—Upon an application by an original lessee for a vesting order in relation to leasehold property of bkpt., which has been disclaimed by the trustee, the ct. has a discretion to direct which of the persons entitled to apply for such an order shall be served with notice of the application, &, if in the opinion of the ct., appct. has not served all the persons who ought to be served, he may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by his default.

B., the freeholder, demised to I. for a term of twenty-one years. I. assigned the terms to E., who assigned to M., who mortgaged the premises by sub-demise to W. On the bkpcy. of M. his trustee disclaimed the lease, & I. was compelled to pay rent to B. I. applied for an order under 1883 Act, s. 55 (6), calling on W. to accept a vesting order. Notice of motion was served on W. only.—Re MORGAN, Ex p. MORGAN (1889), 22 Q. B. D. 592; 58 L. J. Q. B. 295; 60 L. T. 941; 37 W. R. 344; 5 T. L. R. 308; 6 Morr. 57.

7826. —— —— —— Rules as to exercise of discretion.]—Seven leases of seven houses, for the terms of ninety-nine years, were granted to lessees, who had erected the houses under a prior building agreement. Each lease reserved a small ground rent. None of the leases contained any restriction on the lessee's right to assign. On the same day the lessees mortgaged all the houses by way of underlease for the residues of the several terms, except the last day of each term.

The lessees having been adjudicated bkpts., the trustee disclaimed all his interest in the leases. There had been no breach of any of the lessees' covenants :—Held : in the circumstances the ct. ought, on an application by the lessor under 1883 Act, s. 55 (6), to exercise its discretion by making an order vesting the disclaimed property in the mtgees., subject only to the same liabilities & obligations as if the leases had been assigned to them at the date when the bkpcy. petition was filed.

If in such a case the exercise of the discretion in favour of the mtgee. will place him in no better position, & will place the lessor in no worse position, than if there had been no disclaimer, the discretion ought to be exercised in favour of the mtgee.—Re CARTER & ELLIS, Ex p. SAVILL BROTHERS, [1905] 1 K. He did not mtge. the remaining portion of the plot nor deal with it in any way. He subsequently became bkpt., & his trustee disclaimed the lease. The four mtgees. appointed a trustee of their interests under the mtges., & he applied to a county ct. judge on their behalf for an order vesting in him as trustee for them all the rights, interest, & title of bkpt. under the lease, including the portion of the plot not mortgaged, subject to the rent, covenants, & conditions contained in the lease. The county ct. judge made the order. Appct. was solvent, & no suggestion was made that he was not a proper person to be appointed trustee by the mtgees. :—Held : the vesting order was rightly made.—Re HOLMES, Ex p. ASHWORTH, [1908] 2 K. SUB-SECT. 8.—APPLICATION TO EXCLUDE PARTY REFUSING TO ACCEPT VESTING ORDER.

7830. Jurisdiction of county court judge.]—Where a lessee is adjudicated bkpt. in a county ct., & his trustee disclaims the lease, in application by the landlord for an order putting mtgees. by demise to their election to take a vesting order of the lease cum onere, or be excluded from all interest, is an application to enforce a claim arising out of the bkpcy., which could not have been enforced by action in the High Ct. prior to 1883 Act, & by virtue of s. 102 (1), the county ct. has jurisdiction, without any consent of the parties, to decide all questions of law or fact arising on the application, including the question whether the lease is subsisting, or whether it was merged by a temporary coalescence of the freehold & leasehold estates in the lessee.—LEA v. THURSBY, [1904] 2 Ch. 57 ; 73 L. 7831. Who may apply—Lessor.]—A lessee mortgaged the leasehold property by sub-demise, & was subsequently adjudicated a bkpt. The trustee obtained leave to disclaim, & thereupon the lessor obtained an order that the mtgee. should be excluded from all interest in & security upon the property, unless within seven days he elected to accept an order vesting in him the disclaimed property subject to the same liabilities & obligations as bkpt. was subject to under the lease :—Held : the order excluding the mtgee.'s interest, unless he accepted the terms proposed, could be made upon the application of the lessor.—Re COCK, Ex p. SHILSON (1887), 20 Q. 7833. —— —— Only necessary to serve mortgagee.]—The lessee of a house assigned it, & the assignee again assigned it to a person, who afterwards became bkpt. Before the bkpcy. bkpt., had mortgaged the house by sub-demise. The trustee disclaimed the lease :—Held : the lessor was entitled, without serving any one but the mtgee., to apply for an order putting the mtgee. to his election whether he would accept an order vesting the house in him, subject to the liabilities to which at the date of the filing of the bkpcy. petition bkpt. was subject under the lease, or to be excluded from all interest in and security upon the property.—Re BAKER, Ex p. LUPTON, [1901] 2 K. SECT. 17.—LANDLORD'S POWER OF DISTRESS.

See, now, 1914 Act, s. 35.

SUB-SECT. 1.—RIGHT OF DISTRESS.

7837. How made effectual—Landlord also trustee—Right to claim goods in both capacities on same record.]—In replevin, deft. avowed for rent in arrear from J., & also claimed the goods as being the property of himself & another as assignees of J., against whom a commission had issued. A verdict having been taken for deft. on the whole record, the ct. directed it to be entered for pltf. on the issue taken on the title of the assignees, on the ground that deft. could not be permitted on the same record to claim the goods as a distress for rent, & also to set up the title of the assignees.—EMERY & MIDDLETON v. MUCKLOW (1834), 4 Moo. & S. 263.

7838. —— No leave required.]—The only person who may interfere with the possession of a receiver is a landlord distraining for rent. Any other person who claims a better title than the receiver ought to apply to the ct. for leave to enforce his rights.—Re MEAD, Ex p. COCHRANE (1875), L. R. 20 Eq. 282; 44 L. J. Bcy. 87; 32 L. T. 508; 23 W. R. 726.

7839. Against whom right limited—Not mortgagee.]—The goods of a trader on premises of which he was tenant were mortgaged for more than their value. The mtgee. entered & took possession. The tenant became bkpt. owing more than a year's rent:—Held: the landlord might make his distress upon those goods available for the whole rent due, 1849 Act, s. 129, protecting only the interest of the assignees of bkpt., & not that of his mtgee.—BROCKLEHURST v. LAWE (1857), 7 E. & B. 176; 26 L. 7841. —— Not creditor obtaining order for administration in Chancery.]—Held: an order obtained in the Ch. Div. by a creditor for administration of a deceased debtor's estate, not followed by any proceedings in bkpcy., was not equivalent to or included in the term "order of adjudication" in 1883 Act, s. 42, so as to limit the power of the landlord, or other person to whom rent was due from the deceased person's estate, to recover by distress one year's rent only accrued due prior to the date of the administration order.—Re FRYMAN'S ESTATE, FRYMAN v. FRYMAN (1888), 38 Ch. 7842. Restraint of distress—Jurisdiction of court—Liquidation under 1869 Act, s. 125.]—Held: the Ct. of Bkpcy. had jurisdiction, under 1869 Act, ss. 13, 65, 72, 78, & 125, to restrain a distress for rent or other legal proceedings against debtor or his estate in respect of any debt provable, & to decide the question of the landlord's right to distrain.—Re RUSSELL, Ex p. RUSSELL (1870), 18 W. 7843. —— —— Liquidation under 1869 Act, s. 126.]—A distress under a statutory power was levied by a gas co. against the goods of debtor, who, on the day of but after the seizure, filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement, & obtained an ex p. injunction restraining the sale of the goods seized. At the first meeting of creditors a composition under 1869 Act, s. 126, was resolved upon by the requisite majority of creditors, & the resolution was afterwards duly confirmed & registered. Subsequently, on the application of debtor, an order was made, directing the co. to 7844. —— —— Under 1869 Act, s. 13.]—Under a local statute a gas co. had the same rights with respect to recovering the rent or "charge" due for the supply of gas, as landlords had with respect to recovering rent. The co., after notice that a firm indebted to them for a supply of gas had filed a petition under 1869 Act, s. 125, distrained in pursuance of their statutory rights upon petitioners' goods. The creditors of petitioners afterwards resolved on liquidation, & a trustee was appointed:—Held: the distress was not liable to be restrained as "an execution or other legal process" within s. 13, &, assuming the filing of the petition to be equivalent to the commencement of a bkpcy., the co. were entitled under s. 34 to distrain, after the filing, for one year's supply of gas.—Re FANSHAW & YORSTON, Ex p. BIRMINGHAM & STAFFORDSHIRE GASLIGHT CO. Gasworks Clauses Act, 1847 (c. 15), s. 16, was incorporated with the special Act. The co., after one of their customers had filed a liquidation petition, & with notice of the petition, proceeded to seize his goods under a distress warrant granted by the justices, in respect of money due for gas supplied to him within a year before the filing of the petition:—Held: the distress was a legal process against the estate of debtor in respect of a provable debt, which the ct. had, under s. 13, power to restrain.—Re ROBERTS, Ex p. HILL (1877), 6 Ch. 7850. Repayment of proceeds of levy— & damages for excessive distress—Jurisdiction of court to order.]—On Dec. 3, 1878, a brewing co., in pursuance of a power contained in an agreement for letting, entered upon the premises of their tenant & levied a distress. On Dec. 7 the tenant committed an act of bkpcy. Upon the application of the trustee the county ct. judge directed the brewing co. to pay to the trustee the amount so levied by them, & damages for the distress, as being excessive:—Held: the Ct. of Bkpcy. had no jurisdiction to make an order.—Re CLIFFE, Ex p. EATOUGH & CO., LTD. 7853. —— —— ——.]—The payment due to a gas co. for gas supplied, though it is called "rent" in some Acts of Parliament, is not really of the nature of rent, & a gas co. does not come within the words "other person to whom any rent is due" in 1869 Act, s. 34. Those words apply only to a person who, though he is not the landlord of bkpt., fills a position analogous to that of a landlord, because he is entitled to receive that which is "rent" strictly so called.

By their special Act a corpn. were empowered to recover from any person any rent or charge due to them by him for gas supplied, by the like means as landlords were for the time being by law allowed to recover rent in arrear:—Held: the corpn. were not, within 1869 Act, s. 34, "other persons" to whom any rent was due by debtor, but, by virtue of the special Act, they were entitled to the rights given to landlords by s. 34.—Re PEAKE, Ex p. HARRISON (1884), 13 Q. 7856. —— ——.]—A mtge. deed contained an attornment clause, whereby A. attorned & became tenant from year to year to B. for & in respect of the mortgaged premises, at the yearly rent of £800, to be paid by equal quarterly payments, & it was thereby agreed that it should be lawful for B., at any time after three months from the date of the mtge., without giving previous notice of his intention so to do, to enter upon & take possession of the premises whereof A. had attorned tenant, & to determine the tenancy created by the attornment. A. filed a liquidation petition, & on the same day a receiver was appointed, who entered into possession of A.'s estate & effects. Notice of the petition & of the appointment of a receiver was sent to B., who two days later, by virtue of the attornment clause, distrained upon the goods & chattels on the mortgaged premises for a half-year's rent then due:—Held: B. was entitled, under 1869 Act, s. 34, to distrain for the rent due to him from A. at the time of filing the liquidation petition.—Re THRELFALL, Ex p. QUEEN'S BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY (1880), 16 Ch. 7858. Receiver—Under attornment clause.]—By a receivership deed executed contemporaneously with a mtge. in fee, which it recited, the mtgor. & mtgee. appointed a receiver, & constituted him their agent & attorney to receive the rents of the mortgaged property, & to use such remedies by way of entry & distress as should be requisite for that purpose. By the same deed the mtgor. attorned as tenant from year to year to the receiver, & there was a proviso, that if default should be made in payment of the mtge. money, or interest, at the times appointed, the mtgee. might enter & avoid the tenancy created by the attornment. There was also a proviso, that nothing therein contained should lessen the rights, powers or remedies of the mtgee. under the mtge. On the mtgor. being found bkpt.:—Held: the relation of landlord & tenant had been created between the receiver & mtgor. by the receivership deed, & the receiver was entitled to distrain & take the goods which had belonged to the mtgor. on the mortgaged premises.—JOLLY v. ARBUTHNOT (1859), 4 De G. & J. 224; 28 L. Subsequently the mtgees. took out separate distresses against the mtgors. for six years' rent due from each for his one equal undivided moiety of the premises, & they seized the chattels on the partnership premises. The mtgors. became bkpt., & the receiver in the bkpcy. claimed the goods as against the mtgees. :—Held : the mtgees. having in both cases distrained on goods which were the joint partnership property of bkpts. had exceeded their rights, & they could not distrain on goods in which the tenant & another person had an undivided interest.—Re POTTER, Ex p. PARKE (1874), L. 7864. After "an act of bankruptcy"—1849 Act, s. 129.]—On Mar. 27, 1861, J. committed an act of bkpcy. under 1849 Act, s. 67, by making a fraudulent conveyance of all his goods & chattels to A., his landlord, but no attempt was made by any creditor to obtain an adjudication upon it, nor did it appear that there was any creditor who could have done so. On Oct. 11, the day from & after which 1861 Act came into operation, A. made a distress on the goods of J. for four years' rent, &, on Oct. 17 J., who was not a trader, was adjudicated bkpt. on his own petition under ss. 86, 87 of the latter Act, & assignees appointed :—Held : (1) the words "an act of bkpcy." in 1849 Act, s. 129, meant one to which the title of the assignees could relate; (2) the title of the assignees could not relate back to the act of bkpcy. in the preceding Mar., & s. 129 did not apply.—PAULL v. BEST (1863), 3 B. & S. 537; 1 New Rep. 311; 32 L. 7866 ii. —— ——.]—Defts. leased premises to O., at a yearly rent, payable quarterly in advance, with a covenant that, if the lessees made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, the lease should immediately be forfeited & the next ensuing year's rent at once payable. O. assigned to B., as trustee for the benefit of creditors, who went into possession. Defts. distrained for six months' rent then in arrear, & one year's rent payable in consequence of the assignment:—Held: the distress was illegal, since the year's rent became due only by virtue of the forfeiture.—BAKER v. ATKINSON (1886), 11 O. R. 735; 14 A. R. 409.—CAN.

7866 iii. ——.]—By a lease made on Oct. 31, 1895, premises were demised at a yearly rent, payable in advance, in even portions monthly on the first day of each month, the first payment to be made on Nov. 1, 1895. The lease provided for an express power of distress for rent in arrear, & that, in the event of lessee assigning for benefit of creditors, the current quarter's rent should immediately be payable. On Jan. 31, 1896, the lessor distrained. On the same day the lessees assigned & by consent the goods were sold by the lessor & were removed from the demised premises before the last day of Feb.:—Held: (1) the acceleration clause had no application, even if the words "current quarter," could be read "current three months" as the current three months ended on Jan. 31, 1896; (2) a lessor apart from an acceleration clause was entitled to rent, not exceeding three months in advance, which became in arrear while the assignee remained in possession & while there were sufficient goods on the premises subject to distress; (3) the lessor was entitled to the rent which fell due on Feb. 1, 1896.—LANGLEY v. MEIR (1898), 25 A. R. 372.—CAN.

7866 iv. —— ——.]—By the terms of a lease rent was payable quarterly in advance with a proviso that, if the lessee made an assignment for benefit of creditors, the then current quarter's rent & succeeding quarter's rent should be at once payable. Thirteen days after a quarter's rent was due, the lessee made an assignment:—Held: landlord was, apart from the proviso, in addition to the current quarter's rent, entitled to the quarter's rent payable in advance on the quarter day next after the date of the assignment.—LAZIER v. HENDERSON (1898), 29 O. R. 673.—CAN.

7866 v. —— ——.]—Before any rent was due, deft. seized goods of B. for three months' rent & took possession. In consequence B. made an assignment to pltf., who entered, & on same day, deft. again seized for one month's rent in advance, & three months' accelerated rent:—Held: he had a claim for one month's rent only.—GREENWELL v. MCKAY (1909), 7 E. b. —— No rent due at time of insolvency.]—There is no custom in Newfoundland which entitles a landlord to a year's rent, when the insolvency takes place at a time before any rent is positively due.—LITTLE v. DOOLING & KELLY'S TRUSTEES (1817), 1 Nfld. L. R. 29.—NFLD.

c. Rent accrued due before bankruptcy.]—Deft. leased premises to M., who covenanted to pay $700 in ten quarterly payments of $70 each, by way of additional rent, with a proviso that, if he became bkpt. or insolvent, the then current quarter's rent should immediately be payable & the term become void. M. failed to pay any portion of the $700, & after the accrual of the third quarterly payment became insolvent:—Held: deft. had the right to distrain for the three quarterly payments that had accrued due before the insolvency, but that he could not distrain for the whole $700.—GRIFFITH v. BROWN (1869), 21 C. P. 12.—CAN.

d. —— Goods seized & sold by bill of sale holder.]—A., being tenant of B., gave to C. a bill of sale over his goods. C. seized. B. put in a distress, & A. sequestrated. 7872. Terms of lease altered by agreement—Between landlord & assignees.]—Premises had been demised to a tenant at £200 a year. His assignees entered into an agreement with their landlord, altering the terms on which the rent was to be paid under the demise. The rent was paid for a period on the new basis, when the assignees made default & became bkpt. The landlord distrained after the bkpcy. for the rent then due according to the demise, & not on the altered basis : —Held : the landlord was entitled to distrain after the bkpcy. for the rent due according to the terms of the demise, as the effect of the agreement was merely to postpone the landlord's rights under the demise so long as the rent was paid on the altered basis according to the agreement, & as the rent had not been so paid, the landlord's rights under the demise could be enforced.—Re SMITH & HARTOGS, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1895), 73 L. 7873. Proportionate part of rent from last quarter day till bankruptcy—Application of Apportionments Act, 1870 (c. 35)—"Rent accrued due"—1883 Act, s. 44.]—A lessee became bkpt. between two quarter-days. The trustee refused the landlord's demand at the end of the quarter for the whole quarter's rent upon the assumption that his right was limited to a proof for the rent accruing between the last quarter-day & the date of the commencement of the bkpcy. :—Held : the landlord was entitled to distrain upon the expiration of the quarter, the rent apportionable to the part before the adjudication being, by Apportionment Act, 1870, "rent accrued due prior to the date of the adjudication" within 1883 Act, s. 44.—Re HOWELL, Ex p. MANDLEBERG & CO., [1895] 1 Q. 7875. After seizure under fieri facias.]—In order to enforce a landlord's claim for rent in arrear, against assignees, after a seizure under a fi. fa., he must distrain.

The sheriff had seized under a fi. fa., & the landlord gave notice of his claim for rent before the sale. Afterwards notice was given of a fiat of bkpcy. issued against the execution debtor :—Held : the assignees were entitled to the whole proceeds of the sale.—GETHIN v. WILKS, GALE v. WILKS (1833), 2 Dowl. 189.

7876. —— Where opportunity to distrain.]—A sheriff seized goods & sold them by private sale on Mar. 17. They were removed by the purchaser on Apr. 10. On Apr. 14 a receiving order was made, the act of bkpcy. being the seizure & sale. On Apr. 15 the landlord gave the sheriff notice requiring payment of two quarters' rent to Mar. 25. The sheriff paid the proceeds of sale to the trustee in bkpcy. :—Held : the landlord was not entitled to the rent for either quarter, because the rent due for the Christmas quarter might have been distrained for between Mar. 17 & Apr. 10, & the rent for the Lady Day quarter had not become due when the goods were seized.—Re DAVIS, Ex p. POLLEN'S TRUSTEES (1885), 55 L. 7877. Where receiver appointed—Loss of priority over charging order.]—In an action in the Ch. Div. by one partner against another for a dissolution of the partnership, judgment was given for a dissolution & the appointment of a receiver of the assets of the partnership. Both partners were afterwards adjudged bkpt., the action was transferred to the Q. B. Div. in bkpcy., & the judge having jurisdiction in bkpcy. made an order charging the costs of pltf.'s solr. on the funds in the hands of the receiver. Before that order was made, the landlord of the premises, in which bkpts. had carried on their business, had given notice to the receiver of a claim for rent due to him, but had not attempted to distrain. The judge was not informed of such claim before he made the order, & he subsequently made a further order, by which he directed the receiver to pay the rent due to the landlord, & to pay the balance in his hands to the solr. :—Held : the landlord, not having distrained, had no lien on the funds in the hands of the receiver in priority to the solr.—Re SUFFIELD & WATTS, Ex p. BROWN (1888), 20 Q. 7878. Agreement giving right of distress—Mortgage attornment clause—Rent unreasonable.]—A mtge. to secure £55,000 contained an attornment clause, under which the mtgors. became yearly tenants to the mtgee. at a yearly rent of £20,000, which was about seven times the letting value of the premises:—Held: the arrangement was a mere device to give the mtgee. an additional security in the event of the mtgors.' bkpcy., & was a fraud on the bkpcy. law, & the mtgee. could not, on the bkpcy. of mtgors., distrain for rent under the attornment clause.—Re THOMPSON, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1877), 7 Ch. 7879. —— —— ——.]—Though an attornment clause in a mtge. deed is a valid clause, if it constitutes a real relation of landlord & tenant between the mtgee. & the mtgor., & a distress levied for the rent fixed by the clause will be good as against the trustee of the mtgor., & will thus enable the mtgee. to obtain a security upon chattels of the mtgor., the proceeds of which would otherwise have been distributed among his creditors, yet, if the rent fixed by the clause be so excessive that the ct. comes to the conclusion that it was not intended to create a real rent or a real tenancy, but that the clause was a mere device to enable the mtgee., in the event of the bkpcy. of the mtgor., to obtain an additional security upon chattels, which would otherwise have been distributed among his creditors, the clause & any distress levied under it, even though before the commencement of the bkpcy., will be invalid as against the trustee of the mtgor., as being a fraud upon the bkpcy. law.—Re BOWES, Ex p. JACKSON (1880), 14 Ch. 7880. —— —— Rent fluctuating in amount.]—A member of a building society borrowed £7,500 from the society, which was to be repaid in a series of instalments, & to secure the loan he executed to the trustees of the society a mtge. of real estate. It was agreed by the deed, "for the better securing the payments, which by the rules of the society ought to be made by the mtgor.," that, if the mtgees. should at any time become entitled to enter into possession or receipt of the rents, & the mtgor. should then or afterwards be in the occupation of the whole or part of the property, he should during such occupation be tenant thereof from month to month to the mtgees., at a monthly rent equal in amount to the money which ought to be paid monthly by the mtgor. from time to time for subscriptions, interest, fines, & other money under the rules, & that the tenancy should commence on the day up to which he should have fully paid all & every part of such subscriptions, interest, fines, & other money, & the rent for the period intervening between the commencement of the tenancy & the day on which the trustees should be entitled to enter into possession or receipt of rents should be payable & paid on that day, & the monthly rent due upon & subsequently to that day should become due monthly in advance, & be payable at the monthly meetings, the first payment of rent becoming due on the day on which the mtgees. should first become entitled to enter into possession. The mtgor. committed default in his payments, & was afterwards adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: (1) it was no objection to the attornment clause that the monthly rent was fluctuating in amount; (2) the attornment clause, & distress levied under it for rent which accrued due both before & after the commencement of the bkpcy., were valid as against the trustee in the bkpcy.—Re KNIGHT, Ex p. VOISEY (1882), 21 Ch. 7882. —— —— Effect of non-registration—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 6.]—W. mortgaged to E. premises by way of sub-demise to secure a loan of £20,000. By the deed W. attorned & became tenant from quarter to quarter to E. at a yearly rent of £2,000 by equal quarterly payments, the first payment to be made on the first day of the month next after any interest thereby secured should have become in arrear, but all money received by E. for rent was to be first used in satisfaction of the interest then in arrear. It was also provided that the attornment should not make it compulsory on E. to collect the rent, nor compel E. to account to any subsequent incumbrancer for any rent recovered under the attornment, & that E. might at any time after he was by law empowered to sell, without any notice, enter upon & take possession of the premises, & determine the tenancy. A petition was filed against W., & E. distrained under the tenancy, & realised £1,715. W. was adjudicated bkpt., & the trustee claimed the £1,715, on the ground that the attornment clause was rendered void under Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (c. 31), s. 6:—Held: the clause was void under the sect., & was not protected by the proviso therein, & the trustee was entitled to the £1,715.—Re WILLIS, Ex p. KENNEDY (1888), 21 Q. 7884. —— —— Application of proceeds.]—A. assigned the lease for twenty-one years of a house in which he resided, together with two policies of assurance upon his life, to deft., by way of mtge., to secure repayment of £250 & interest, as well as the premiums upon the policies, & the mtge. deed contained a clause by which the mtgor. attorned tenant from year to year to the mtgee. in respect of the leasehold house at the yearly rent of £175, provided that the mtgee. might at any time, without notice, take possession of the premises & determine the tenancy. There was no specific provision that any part of such rent should be applicable to the principal of the debt. The mtgor. became bkpt., & the mtgee. distrained upon the furniture in the house, which was not the property of A., for a year's rent under the attornment clause, though at that time the landlord's rent of £115, the interest upon the money advanced, & the premiums upon the policies had been paid. Pltf., who was the owner of the furniture, filed a bill to restrain the sale :—Held : the attornment clause was not intended to enable the mtgee. to repay himself any of the capital advanced, but only to secure the payment of rent, interest, & premiums.—HAMPSON v. FELLOWS (1868), L. 7885. —— —— —— Towards principal.]—A mtge. contained a clause, by which the mtgor. attorned tenant to the mtgee. at a rent equal to the annual interest on the mtge. debt, such rent to be paid half-yearly on the same days as the interest. The mtgor. became bkpt. on Mar. 1, & the trustee paid the half-year's interest due on July 1. The mtgee. distrained for half a year's rent reserved by the attornment clause :—Held : (1) the mtgee. was entitled to distrain; (2) the proceeds of a distress for rent levied under an attornment clause were, in the absence of any provision to the contrary, applicable to the payment of principal as well as interest; (3) the fact that the yearly rent reserved by the attornment clause was equal to the yearly interest on the mtge., & was payable on the same days, was not of itself sufficient to displace the primâ facie right of the mtgee. to apply the proceeds of the distress in satisfaction of principal as well as interest.—Re BETTS, Ex p. HARRISON (1881), 18 Ch. 7886. —— Ceases to operate as rent charge—On admission of mortgagee.]—To trespass de bonis asportatis by the assignees of L., defts. pleaded that L., before his bkpcy., being seized in fee of certain copyhold tenements, in consideration of £1,400 covenanted to surrender them to the use of defts., subject to a proviso for redemption, & for better payment of the interest of the £1,400, L. granted defts. that as often as the interest should be in arrear for a certain time, it should be lawful for defts. to enter & distrain for same. The plea then averred the surrender & admittance of defts., & justified the seizure of the goods on the premises whilst in possession of L., as a distress for the interest in arrear :—Held : pltfs. were entitled to judgment non obstante veredicto, for, assuming the grant to operate as a rent charge, it ceased to be so upon the admittance of the mtgees., & afterwards it could only take effect as a covenant, binding such goods of bkpt. as might happen to be on the premises at the time of the distress.—FREEMAN v. EDWARDS (1848), 2 Exch. 732; 17 L. 7887. —— Validity of clause in hire-purchase agreement.]—An agreement for the hire of railway waggons, for the term of five years at a yearly rent of £10 apiece, gave power to the lessors, if the rent should be in arrear for seven days, or if the lessee should become bkpt. or make an assignment for the benefit of or compound with his creditors, to distrain goods on the lessee's premises, & sell, etc., as landlords might on distress for rent, the lessee at the end of the term to have the option of purchasing the waggons for 5*s.* each. The lessee having gone into liquidation, the lessors distrained under the agreement. The agreement being admitted to be of a usual character, having regard to the subject-matter :—Held : (1) the agreement & the distress thereunder were not in fraud of the general creditors in the lessee's bkpcy.; (2) a motion in an action by debtor & the receiver under his petition to restrain proceedings upon the distress must be refused; (3) a power to distrain would not by itself, in an ordinary case, render such an agreement fraudulent against creditors in bkpcy.—LEMAN v. YORKSHIRE RAILWAY WAGGON CO. 7888. Agreement to avoid distress—Right to money paid thereunder.]—Money paid for rent to a landlord, who was about to distrain, by a trader after an act of bkpcy. committed, is not recoverable back by the assignees.

The landlord has a legal lien on bkpt.'s goods, unconnected with the bkpcy. If he thinks fit to waive that right & accept of the rent from the assignees, who may be benefited by having the goods, the landlord should not be placed in a worse situation than if he had made an actual distress (LORD ELLENBOROUGH, C.J.).—STEVENSON v. WOOD (1805), 5 Esp. 200, N. The rent was afterwards paid to the latter out of the money which the purchaser had agreed to give for the lease, the landlord being aware of the situation of bkpt., & there being no property to distrain on the premises, but the landlord having a right of re-entry, according to a proviso in the lease :—Held : the assignee could not recover from the landlord the rent so paid to him, as the estate of bkpt. had been benefited by such payment, & as the landlord had thereby waived his right to distrain, as well as to proceed by ejectment, for a breach of the proviso contained in the lease.—MAVOR v. CROOME (1823), 1 Bing. 261; 8 Moore C. 7892. Agreement to release distress—Execution creditor paying for release—Right to proceeds of goods in repayment.]—Bkpt.'s goods had been seized in execution, but as an act of bkpcy. had been committed before the levy, the execution could not be sustained. While the execution creditor was in possession under the execution the landlord distrained. The execution creditor, with the consent of bkpt., paid the rent to release the goods. The execution creditor sold part of the goods for less than the amount paid to the landlord. The assignees commenced an action against the execution creditor to recover that amount, which was paid into ct.:—Held: the execution creditor might take it out of ct., & an injunction should be granted restraining the assignees from proceeding with the action.—Re JERMYN, Ex p. ELLIOTT (1838), 3 Deac. 343, Ct. of R.

On Jan. 3, 1843, it was agreed between C. & deft. that the rent distrained for should be paid, deft. consenting to forgo the quarter's rent due at Christmas, & the goods were appraised & condemned at £136, being the amount of the rent & expenses, & the money handed over to deft. On Jan. 9, a fiat issued against M., the act of bkpcy. relied on being the execution of the deed of Dec. 13:—Held: the assignees were not entitled to recover back the sum so paid to deft.—LACKINGTON v. ELLIOTT (1844), 7 Man. & G. 538; 8 Scott, N. 7896. —— Committal on refusal to comply with order to deliver—Vacant possession to purchaser from trustee.]—The statement of affairs filed by bkpt. duly disclosed certain property belonging to him, which was subsequently sold by the official receiver to petitioning creditors. Bkpt. failed to give up possession of the property to the purchaser, & an order was made by the county ct. judge, on the application of the official receiver, committing him to prison for contempt under 1883 Act, s 24 (4). Bkpt. appealed, on the ground that he had sufficiently complied with the requirements of the sect. in disclosing the property to the official receiver, & that the official receiver, having conveyed all rights in the property to a third party, was not entitled to apply to the ct. for an order of committal under the sect.:—Held: the official receiver was entitled to have vacant possession of the property in question & was entitled to the assistance of the ct., if bkpt. refused to deliver up the property, in order that vacant possession might be given to the purchaser, & bkpt. having no authority from the purchaser to continue in possession, the order of committal was rightly made.—Re BURGOYNE, Ex p. BURGOYNE (1891), 8 Morr. 139, D. c. —— Against fire.]—The trustee of an insolvent estate is entitled to the amount payable in respect of a fire which took place before insolvency under a fire insurance policy ceded by committing bkpt. to prison for contempt, by reason of his refusal to deliver up the title-deeds relating to certain of his property, as required by 1883 Act, s. 24. Bkpt. subsequently applied to the ct. for his release, it being contended on his behalf that the omission to deliver up the deeds arose from inability to do so, they having been previously deposited by bkpt. as security for a loan & assigned to a person, whose present whereabouts could not be ascertained. It was further stated that bkpt. had been criminally indicted in respect of the deeds & had been acquitted. Bkpt. had been in prison nine months:—Held: there could be no doubt that at one time bkpt. had possession & control of the deeds in question, but the ct. was not satisfied upon the evidence before it whether they were in existence at the time when the order of committal was made & had since ceased to be so, & having regard to all the circumstances an order of release would be made, upon bkpt. entering into his recognisances to come up for judgment when called upon.—Re ASHWIN, Ex p. ASHWIN (1891), 8 Morr. 130.

7900. Pictures in possession of landlord—Right to call on trustee to prove title before delivery.]—At the time of the bkpcy. there were at the chambers occupied by bkpt. previous to his absconding certain pictures, which were taken possession of by the landlord of the chambers, who refused to give them up to the trustee without proof of title, or unless an indemnity were given to him against any risk of an action for conversion, in the event of the pictures afterwards being claimed by third parties:—Held: the contention of the landlord could not be allowed, & the pictures having been in the possession of bkpt., the rights which he had in them devolved upon his trustee.—Re BRYANT, Ex p. GORDON (1889), 6 Morr. 262.

7901. Equitable estate—Interruption of title of assignee.]—Held: (TURNER, L.J.), although the property to which debtor was equitably entitled at the time of his taking the benefit of Insolvent Debtors Act might far exceed the amount of the debts payable under the insolvency, neither he nor a purchaser from him could intercept the title of the assignee under the insolvency to recover the surplus, without showing that the property would be in danger if the assignee were permitted to receive it, or that there was some impediment to an application to the Insolvent Ct. to remove the assignee, if such were the case.

It not appearing clear that there was a net surplus:—Held: no interference with the title of the assignee ought to have taken place.—DYSON v. HORNBY (1855), 7 De G. M. & G. 1; 25 L. T. O. 7902. Debentures—Provision as to assignment—Application to transfer by act of law.]—By a local & personal Act, transfers of debentures were to be by indorsement by deed & in a given form, & were to be entered in the books of the co., & "after such entry, but not till then, the assignee was to be entitled to the benefit:—Held: this did not apply to a transfer by act of law, as in the case of bkpcy.—LANE v. SMITH (1851), 14 Beav. 49; 18 L. 7903. Shares—Right to refuse transfer by member indebted to company—Application to transmission by devolution of law.]—A shareholder in a co. subject to Cos. Act, 1862 (c. 89), Table A., became bkpt.:—Held: article 10 of Table A., applied only to a transfer by deed, & not to a transmission of shares by devolution of law, & the trustee was entitled to be registered as owner of the shares held by the bkpt., notwithstanding the bkpt. was indebted to the co.—Re BENTHAM MILLS SPINNING CO. 7904. —— —— Effect of refusal of previous transfer.]—By the articles of association of a co. it was provided that the directors might refuse to register a transfer of shares while the shareholder making same was indebted to the co., or if they should consider the transferee an irresponsible person. It was also provided that persons becoming entitled to shares in consequence of the death, insolvency, or bkpcy. of a shareholder might be registered, on the production of such evidence as might from time to time be required by the directors, & that any transfer or pretended transfer of shares not being approved by the directors should be absolutely void. A holder of shares in the co. executed transfers of such shares to the nominees of a bank as a security for advances. The co. refused to register the transfers, on the ground that the transferor was indebted to the co. Subsequently, the transferor having filed a liquidation petition, a trustee in liquidation was duly appointed. Such trustee, with the consent of the bank & their nominees, applied to the directors of the co. to be registered as the owner of the shares, but they refused the application. The bank, though consenting to the trustee's registration, had never waived their security:—Held: the declining to register the transfers by the directors was not a disapproval of them so as to render them void within the articles, & the trustee was not entitled to the shares within the articles so long as the transfers remained in force, & the trustee was not entitled to be registered, notwithstanding the consent of the transferees.—Re CANNOCK & RUGELEY COLLIERY CO., Ex p. HARRISON (1885), 28 Ch. under its articles, which incorporated in part Table A., a "first & paramount lien upon all the shares registered in the name of each member for his debts, liabilities & engagements to & with the co., whether the period for the payment, fulfilment, or discharge thereof shall have actually arrived or not." A shareholder having been adjudicated bkpt., the trustee applied to be entered on the register in his place. The co. claimed the right to enter, in addition to the particulars required by Companies Act, 1862 (c. 89), s. 5, a memorandum that the co. claimed a lien, to establish which an action was pending, on the shares, & to issue the share certificate with a similar memorandum :—Held : the co. had no right to put the memorandum on the register, & the trustee was entitled to be registered without the memorandum & to have a "clean certificate."—Re KEY & SON, LTD., [1902] 1 Ch. 467 ; 71 L. A. died, never having divested himself of the legal estate in the shares, & administration to his estate was granted to B., who died leaving part of the estate unadministered. Prior to his bkpcy. he had by an agreement in writing contracted to sell to B. the copyright of a certain newspaper & the back numbers, the purchase-money to be paid by instalments, of which £227 10*s.* remained unpaid at the time of A.'s bkpcy. The agreement contained a stipulation that the instalments should be secured by a mtge. of the copyright to A. No entry of that transaction appeared in A.'s ordinary trade books, but it was entered in his "diary":—Held: "book-debts" in the above sect. were such debts accruing in the ordinary course of a man's trade as were usually entered in the trade-books, & this was a debt which passed by the sale by the assignees of the "book-debts" due to bkpt., under the sect.—SHIPLEY v. MARSHALL (1863), 14 C. 7925. Pledged shares—Bankruptcy of pledgee—Pledgor untraceable.]—Where certain share certificates had been pledged with a firm, which afterwards became bkpt., & the pledgor had disappeared without paying the loan, the trustee was given permission to sell the shares after advertising for the pledgor as directed by the ct.—Re HARRISON & INGRAM, Ex p. WHINNEY (1905), 54 W. R. 203; 14 Mans. 132.

7926. Manner of sale—Discretion of trustee.]—Subject to resolutions of the creditors, a trustee has a discretion as to when & how he will sell a contingent reversionary interest of bkpt., & the ct. will not interfere with the discretion, at the instance of a creditor, unless it is shown that the trustee is acting so very absurdly that no reasonable man would so act.—Re PETERS, Ex p. LLOYD (1882), 47 L. 7928. Resale by trustee—After buying in at sale by mortgagee—Liability for loss.]—Petitioner, an equitable mtgee. of leasehold property, obtained an order for a sale, at which £590 was bid for the mortgaged premises. They were brought in by the direction of the assignees. Petitioner afterwards applied to the comrs. for another sale, but the order they made being unsatisfactory to him as to the time of sale, he declined to accept it. The assignees afterwards obtained another order, when the premises were again by their direction put up to auction, with a reserved bidding of £950. The highest bidding was only £650:—Held: petitioner by applying for a second sale waived any claim against the assignees for the difference in the amount of the biddings at the first & second sales, but he was entitled to be indemnified from the ground rent & all expenses incurred since the first sale.—Re MOORE, Ex p. BALDOCK (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 60, Ct. of R.

7929. Annotations :—Dbtd. White v. Foljambe (1805), 11 Ves. 337, L. C. I never knew the principle of Pope v. Simpson. If assignees of bkpt. agree to sell, they agree to sell with a good title; there may be special cases, as where they enter into a contract supposing they have a good title, the ct. would stand neutral & leave the parties at law according to the course of the late authorities (LORD ELDON, C.); M'Donald v. Hanson (1806), 12 Ves. 277. I never could conceive why Lord Rosslyn should have thrown out that opinion in Pope v. Simpson which was not necessary. If assignees advertise in the common way, there is no reason why they should not be bound as other persons (GRANT, M.R.). Consd. Deverell v. Bolton (1812), 18 Ves. 505, L. 7933. —— Sale of reversionary interest.]—Bkpts. took a reversionary interest in some property as residuary devisees under their father's will, of which also they were constituted exors. The testator had died more than forty years before, & upon the death of the last tenant for life, bkpt.'s assignees sold their interest in the property, & required bkpts. to join in a conveyance to the purchasers. It was objected, that some of testator's debts, which were charged on the property, might be still unpaid, & that the assignees had no power to dispose of it, as it was thus subject to a trust :—Held : in the absence of all evidence of any outstanding debts, the assignees had a full right to dispose of the property, & bkpts. were bound to join in the conveyance.

At a meeting of bkpt.'s creditors a resolution was entered into by the majority then present, that if certain claims of bkpts. for compensation in respect of seizures made by the Danish Government, should prove beneficial to the estate, the creditors would relinquish all right to the above reversionary property :—Held : this was only a conditional, & not a final, arrangement, & did not prevent the assignees from selling the reversionary property.—Re MOXON, Ex p. BOLTON (1841), 1 Mont. The obligation enforced by the rule is purely personal, & not a mere incident to the transfer of property. The purchaser of the goodwill of a business from a trustee in bkpcy. has no right to restrain bkpt. from setting up bonâ fide a fresh business & soliciting the customers of his former business, & it is immaterial whether bkpt. has or has not joined in the conveyance of the goodwill to the purchaser.

7952. Purchaser not affected with trustee's negligence in selling.]—The purchaser of the estate of an insolvent debtor from his assignees, at a sale by auction, will not be affected by constructive notice of circumstances of negligence on the part of the assignees in conducting the sale, such circumstances being entirely collateral to any question of title.

A sale of the estate of an insolvent debtor, made bonâ fide at a public auction, is not, after conveyance to the purchaser, necessarily voidable in equity, only because the purchaser, after the sale but before the conveyance, had notice of circumstances attending the conduct of the sale by the assignees, amounting to negligence on their part.—BORELL v. DANN (1843), 2 Hare, 440; 67 E. Part XXI.—Actions, Arbitrations, and other Legal Proceedings by and against Trustee and Bankrupt.

SECT. 1.—WHAT CAUSES OF ACTION PASS TO TRUSTEE.

See, also, Sect. 5, sub-sect. 1, C., post.

7954. General rule.]—On general principles rights of action are not forfeitable, nor assignable, except in a particular mode, but that rule is founded on the policy of the common law, which is averse to encourage litigation; but the policy of the bkpt. laws requires that the right of action should be assignable & transferred to the assignees as much as any other species of property (EYRE, C.J.). —SMITH v. COFFIN (1795), 2 Hy. Bl. 444; 126 E. R. 641.

N. S. 430, H. L.

7955. ———.]—The proper & reasonable construction [of 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 63] appears to be, that the statute transfers not all rights of action which would pass to exors., for rights incapable of being converted into money, such as the next presentation to a void benefice, pass to them, but all such as would be assets in their hands for the

him:—Held: petition must be dismissed, with costs.—O'REILLY v. FANNIN (1857), 6 I. Ch. R. 166.—IR.

q. Sale of land—Interest on deposit.]—A purchaser from the assignees of a bkpt. is entitled to receive interest upon his deposit, when lodged with the assignees or their solr., whether the purchase be proceeded with or not.—Re PAGE (1837), 1 Dr. & Wal. 31.—IR.

r. Purchaser a person employed to manage estate—Laches of creditor bar to reduction of sale.]—The trustee of a sequestrated estate duly advertised a sale of property. The property was purchased by J., who had been employed to manage the estate under a trust deed. Five years thereafter pursuer, a creditor, sought to reduce the sale on the ground that J. was disqualified from being a purchaser:—Held: defender assoilzied because so long a period had elapsed since the sale.—SMITH v. ROBERTON (1826), 4 Sh. (Ct. of Sess.) 442.—SCOT.

s. Purchase by insolvent—Ratification by creditors.]—Trustees of an insolvent at a meeting of creditors requested him to purchase land of his estate; the land was subsequently sold by auction to a third person in trust for insolvent; the creditors ratified the sale by authorising the trustee to bring an action against the insolvent to compel the performance of the contract:—Held: the sale was valid.—BEYER'S TRUSTEES v. PITON (1884), 3 S. C. 77.—S. AF.

7953 i. Impeachment of purchaser's title.]—In ejectment pltf. claimed title under a deed from an assignee in insolvency who advertised a sale of the property, the period of advertisement being shortened by the ct. & land was sold to F., who conveyed to pltf. The assignee was notified of the sale & requested to execute a conveyance to the purchaser: the assignee under instructions from the creditors, refused, whereupon an order was obtained directing him so to do. Under 1875 Act, s. 75, a sale should be sanctioned by creditors & the period of advertisement might be shortened "by the creditors with the approval of the judge.":—Held: pltf.'s title was good. —DONOVAN v. HERBERT (1885), 9 O. R. 89; 12 A. R. 298.—CAN.

PART XXI. SECT. 1.

7954 i. General rule.]—When the whole damage alleged by pltf. is an injury to his personal estate, his right of action, upon his bkpcy., passes to his assignees.—CUMING v. HARRISON (1895), 29 I. L. T. 126.—IR.

7954 ii. ———.]—As soon as an order is made under Insolvency Act, s. 7, any rights of property which insolvent may have possessed at the date of his petition in insolvency vest in the official assignee, & he alone is competent to sue for the purpose of enforcing these rights.—SADODIN v. SPIERS (1879), I. L. R. 3 Bom. 437.—IND.

Sect. 1.—What causes of action pass to trustee.]

payment of debts, & no others, all which could be turned into profit, for such rights of action are personal estate. Of such the exor. is assignee in law; & the nature of the office & duty of bkpt.'s assignee requires that he should have them also. But rights of action for torts which would die with testator, according to the rule actio personalis moritur cum personâ, & all actions of contract affecting the person only, would not pass. Of such the exor. is not assignee in law, & whatever may be the reason of the law which prohibits him from being so, seems equally to apply to bkpt.'s assignee (PARKE, B.).—BECKHAM v. DRAKE (1849), 2 H. 7960. Personal tort—Tort done to property.]—Supposing it to be quite clear, as we may, that in the case of a personal tort, the right of damages which bkpt. may have is not a right which the assignees could enforce, it is still an undecided question whether they could recover, in respect of a wrong or tort done to the property (LORD ELDON, C.).—Re BOURNE, Ex p. BOURNE (1826), 2 Gl. & J. 137, L. 7961. —— ——.]—Primâ facie all causes of action relating in any way to the personal estate pass to the assignees; but that is subject to an exception, where the personal estate is injured only through the injury to the person or personal feelings of debtor (WIGHTMAN, J.).—STANTON v. COLLIER (1854), 3 E. & B. 274; 23 L. 7963. —— Prejudicing bankrupt in his business—Trespass.]—An action of trespass, for seizing & taking pltf.'s goods, under a false & unfounded claim of a debt, per quod pltf. was annoyed & prejudiced in his business, & believed by his customers to be insolvent, & certain lodgers left his house, does not pass to pltf.'s assignees on his bkpcy.

This is an allegation of special damage, in respect of which the jury might give vindictive damages, & not one for which the assignees could have a right of action, although the money when recovered might belong to them (ROLFE, B.).—BREWER v. DEW (1843), 11 M. & W. 625; 1 Dow. & L. 383; 12 L. 7964. —— Principal & essential cause of action.]—Trespass for breaking & entering the dwelling-house & garden of pltf., & making a great noise & disturbance therein, & damaging the doors, etc., of the house, & the trees, etc., of the garden, & seizing certain goods of pltf., & exposing them to sale on the premises without his leave, whereby pltf. & his family were greatly disturbed & annoyed in the peaceable possession of the dwelling-house & garden, & pltf. was prevented from carrying on his lawful business. Plea, in bar of the further maintenance of the action, that pltf. became bkpt. after the action brought, & that an assignee had been appointed, who accepted the appointment, whereby, & by virtue of the statutes, etc., the causes of action became vested in the assignee: —Held: the plea was bad, & the primary personal injury to bkpt. being the principal & essential cause of action, it still remained in bkpt., & did not pass to his assignee.—ROGERS v. SPENCE (1846), 12 Cl. & Fin. 700; 8 E. 7965. —— Action for trespass & seizure—Annoyance to bankrupt—No damage done to goods.]—In an action for trespass & seizure of goods, pltf. alleged damage to the premises, damage to the goods, & personal annoyance to himself & family. It being admitted that no substantial damage was done to the premises or to the goods:—Held: upon the bkpcy. of pltf. the right of action did not pass to his trustee.—ROSE v. BUCKETT, [1901] 2 K. 7967. Action for negligence—Against solicitor.]—A., being sued by B., retained C., an attorney, to defend him. By C.'s negligence, a judgment was obtained against A., upon which he, being then in custody, was charged in execution for a large sum, & was put to expense in endeavouring to procure his release & to reverse the judgment by writ of error:—Held: this was not a cause of action which passed to A.'s assignees upon his insolvency.

7962 i. Personal tort—Slander—Seduction & assault of wife.]—Pltf. sued deft. for slander, for enticing away & detaining his wife, & for assaulting her:—Held: the causes of action, being for purely personal wrongs, did not pass to the assignee.—WHITE v. ELLIOTT (1870), 30 U. C. R. 253. —CAN.

A., a beneficed clergyman, brought case against his attorneys, for having, through their negligence & want of skill, permitted a writ of sequestrari facias to remain in force against him longer than was necessary, whereby A., during that time, lost the rent, tithes, & profits of his living:—Held: this was a cause of action which passed to A.'s assignees upon his insolvency.—WETHERELL v. JULIUS (1850), 10 C. B. 267; 19 L. J. C. P. 367; 15 L. T. O. S. 414; 14 Jur. 700; 138 E. R. 108.

7968. —— ——.]—A right of action against a solr. for negligence in the preparation of an agreement on behalf of his client to take a farm, in omitting to make therein certain alterations agreed to by the landlord, reserving to the tenant compensation for tillage & dressings at the determination of his tenancy, & whereby the fund divisible amongst the creditors of the tenant upon his bkpcy. is diminished, passes to his assignees as part of his personal estate.—Re DAINES, Ex p. ASSIGNEES (1867), 16 L. T. 127.

7969. —— ——.]—In an action against attorneys for breach of duty in failing to procure the best price for the equity of redemption of pltf.'s premises, which had been entrusted to them for sale, the declaration alleged as special damage that defts. "well knew that if pltf. did not obtain a reasonable price, the bkpcy. of pltf. would be the necessary & inevitable consequence," & further that in consequence of the breach of duty alleged pltf. was adjudicated bkpt. Defts. pleaded pltf.'s bkpcy.:—Held: the cause of action passed to the assignees, & deft.'s knowledge that pltf.'s bkpcy. would follow from their breach of duty made no difference.—MORGAN v. STEBLE (1872), L. R. 7 Q. B. 611; 41 L. J. Q. B. 260; 26 L. T. 906.

7970. —— ——.]—Pltf. alleged that, being desirous of getting his creditors to postpone payment of their claims, he instructed defts., his solrs., to call a meeting of his creditors, & to ask for time, that defts. advised him that he ought first to file his petition, that they forwarded a circular to his creditors which was not authorised by him stating untruly that he was compelled to suspend payment, that they attended the meeting by their clerk, who, purporting to act upon pltf.'s instructions, told his creditors that his estate would not pay more than 2*s.* in the pound, & that that information was untrue to their knowledge, or was made recklessly & negligently, & without any sufficient grounds. Pltf. also alleged that he instructed defts. to submit a scheme to avoid his being made a bkpt., but that they advised him not to do so, & eventually he was adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: (1) pltf.'s statement of claim disclosed no reasonable cause of action; (2) even if the pltf. had any cause of action, it was one that passed to his trustee, & was not sustainable by pltf. personally.—KELLAWAY v. BURY (1892), 66 L. a. Action for damages for deceit.]—Pltf. sued for damages for deceit upon the sale by deft. to him of a business fraudulently represented to be of much greater value than it was:—Held: pltf.'s claim did not pass to the assignee by virtue of Assignments Act, R. S. M., 1902 (c. 8).—MCGREGOR v. CAMPBELL (1909), 19 Man. L. R. 38; 11 W. L. R. 153.—CAN.

7967 i. Action for negligence—Against solicitor.]—Under 8 Vict. c. 48, the right to sue an attorney for negligence, vests in the assignee of insolvent.—ALEXANDER v. A. B. & C. D. (1849), 5 U. C. R. 329.—CAN.

7967 ii. —— ——.]—Plaint against an attorney for negligence. Deft. pleaded that the alleged cause of action was vested in pltf.'s assignees:—Held: the defence was good.—CRAUFORD v. CINNAMOND (1867), I. R. 1 C. L. 325.—IR.

b. Action for special damage—Trover.]—Pltf.'s declaration contained a count in trover, alleging as special damage that pltf.'s business was stopped, & he lost customers:—Held: the cause of action passed to the assignee, as the conversion, the primary cause of action, passed to the assignee, & the special damage dependent upon it could not be sued for by debtor.—SMITH v. COMMERCIAL UNION INSURANCE CO. (1873), 33 U. C. R. 529.—CAN.

c. —— Trespass to goods.]—Pltf.'s declaration contained a count in trespass to goods, alleging special damage:—Held: the cause of action did not pass to the assignee, being for a personal claim of debtor independent of his right of property.—SMITH v. COMMERCIAL UNION INSURANCE CO. d. Action to enforce judgment for damages for malicious prosecution.]—Where A. recovered judgment against B. for damages for malicious prosecution, & became insolvent:—Held: A. could not maintain a suit against B. to enforce his judgment, not having obtained his certificate.—SOLLY v. ATKINSON (1879), 5 V. L. R. 323.—AUS.

Sect. 1.—What causes of action pass to trustee.]

7971. —— Against banker—Damage for injury to credit.]—A banker agreed with a customer to supervise his business & see it carried on during his absence on military service, & to take all reasonable steps to maintain his credit & reputation. He was guilty of negligence in performing his duties under this agreement, & in consequence the customer became bkpt. :—Held : in addition to the damages to the estate caused by such negligence, the customer could recover damages for the injury to his credit & reputation caused by the bkpcy., without proof of special damage, & such cause of action did not pass to the trustee in the bkpcy.—WILSON v. UNITED COUNTIES BANK, LTD., [1920] A. 7972. Action based on false representation resulting in bankruptcy.]—To a declaration for a false representation, whereby pltf. was induced to pay £2,000, & " sustained great loss, & became & was adjudicated bkpt., & suffered great personal annoyance, & was put to great trouble & inconvenience, & was greatly injured in character & credit," deft., except as to the claim in respect of the adjudication in bkpcy. & the remainder of the personal damage alleged, pleaded that before action pltf. had been adjudicated bkpt., that the loss sustained was a pecuniary loss, & that the right to sue for it passed to his assignees :—Held : the only damage recoverable was a direct pecuniary loss, the right to sue for which passed to the assignee, & the plea was a good answer to the whole declaration, & might have been so pleaded.

Assuming that there was special damage recoverable, I do not think that the cause of action can remain partly in bkpt. to recover such damage, & partly can pass to the assignees to recover the pecuniary & ordinary damage. If two several torts had been committed there would be no reason why bkpt. should not recover in respect of one, & the assignees in respect of the other. But where there is but one single cause of action resulting in direct pecuniary & in special damage bkpt. cannot say that enough of it remains in him to enable him to recover the special damage (BRAMWELL, B.).—HODGSON v. SIDNEY (1866), L. 7976. Action to set aside orders made in Chancery action.]—Pltf. brought an action to set aside, on the ground of fraud, certain orders made in two actions in the Ch. Div., in one of which he claimed on his own behalf shares in a co. & to have the register rectified by the insertion therein of his name as a holder of such shares, & in the other action he claimed as liquidator books belonging to the co., & that action was dismissed with costs. Subsequently to the commencement of this third action he was adjudicated bkpt. for non-payment of the taxed costs of the second action. The official receiver having refused to proceed with pltf.'s action, it was, on the application of defts. dismissed :—Held : as the claim in the first mentioned Chancery action was one in respect of property, which if recovered would belong to the trustee for the benefit of the creditors, &, as the Bkpcy. Ct. could, during the existence of the adjudication, which was conclusively binding on pltf. while it stood, allow pltf. to contest the validity of the judgment or order in the second Ch. action, which was the foundation of the adjudication in bkpcy., either on the ground of fraud or otherwise, the right to continue the three actions was a chose in action which vested in the trustee, pltf. having no locus standi, & the action to set aside the orders had been properly dismissed. —BOALER v. POWER, [1910] 2 K. 7975 i. Claim for causing bankruptcy—Judgment maliciously marked.]—In an action to recover damages pltf. complained that deft., after pltf. had paid a debt to him, marked judgment & issued execution in respect of it, in consequence whereof pltf. had to obtain the protection of the Ct. of Bkpcy. The second count alleged that the judgment was maliciously marked. Deft. pleaded as a defence to all the causes of action, save as to the injury to pltf.'s credit, & his being obliged to obtain the protection of the Bkpcy. 7991. —— Covenant to repair.]—An agreement made between A. & D., not under seal, stipulated that until the lease of certain premises thereby agreed to be granted should be executed, D., his heirs, executors, administrators, & assigns should be bound by all the covenants set forth in the agreement, amongst which was a covenant that D., his heirs, exors., administrators, & assigns should leave the whole of the premises & fixtures then in & intended to be fixed in or about the messuage & premises in a perfect & tenantable state of repair at the expiration of the term therein mentioned, or sooner determination thereof. No lease by deed was ever granted in accordance with the agreement, but D. & his representatives entered into possession under the agreement, & continued therein until the expiration of the term for which it was intended the lease should be granted. During the currency of the term mentioned in the agreement A. was adjudicated a bkpt., & his trustee sold & assigned to pltf. all the property of bkpt. In an action for breach of the contract to repair:—Held: the right of action in respect of the breach of the contract was a chose in action of bkpt., which passed to pltf., & pltf. was not bound to have given notice of the assignment under Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 25 (6).—GIBBON v. DUDGEON (1881), 45 J. P. 748.

7992. —— Bankrupt's right of indemnity against sub-tenant.]—A lessee assigned the lease to A., who assigned it to B., each assignment containing a covenant by the assignee to pay the rent, & keep his assignor indemnified against the covenants in the lease. A. became bkpt., B. died, & the lessee, who had been called upon to pay the rent, bought from bkpt.'s trustee, & took an assignment of, bkpt.'s right to indemnity, withdrawing a proof he, the lessee, had carried in, & releasing the estate of bkpt.:—Held: (1) the right of A.'s trustee to sue B.'s exors. upon his covenant to indemnify was assignable by the trustee, & damages in an action by the trustee against the exors. would not be confined to the dividend payable to the lessee in respect of his proof against A.'s estate, but extended to the whole amount of the obligation under the covenants to pay & indemnify entered into by such assignee; (2) upon the construction of the deed of assignment & release, the lessee had acquired the right of the trustee to sue the exors., & the release did not extend to all the estate of bkpt., but the asset assigned to the lessee must be excluded from it.—Re PERKINS, POYSER v. BEYFUS, [1898] 2 Ch. 182; 67 L. A. 343.— N.Z.

j. —— Regard to interests of estate—Probability of success.]—Though it is lawful for a trustee to commence actions on behalf of the insolvent estate he should only do so in due regard to the interests of the estate & when there is a probability that something will be recovered thereby.—MACKIE, DUNN & CO. v. REINACH'S TRUSTEE (1885), 2 Buch. A. C. 30. —S. AF.

k. —— Under Bulk Sales Act.]—NATIONAL TRUST CO. v. NADON (1915), 30 W. L. R. 588 ; 7 W. W. R. 1067 ; 24 D. L. R. 742 ; 8 Sask. L. R. 41.—CAN.

7993 i. What trustees may sue—One of two or more trustees—Execution of power of attorney.]—Where an action is brought by two or more trustees of an insolvent estate the power of attorney to sue must be signed by or on behalf of all the trustees.—MULLER BROTHERS v. LOMBARD, VAN AARDE & CO. (1904), 21 S. C. 657.—S. AF.

l. —— Trustee under English bankruptcy.]—Where property of an English bkpt. has become vested in his trustees in England, the title of such trustees may receive recognition in colonial cts., & no order or request from the English ct. is necessary to enable the trustees to sue in Victoria to recover the Victorian property of bkpt.—NIVEN v. GRANT (1903), 29 V. L. R. 102.—AUS.

Auxiliary jurisdiction of English & Colonial courts, see, generally, Part I., Sect. 7, ante.

m. —— Trustee under Scotch sequestration.]—The assignee of a Scotch bkpt. having brought trover for scrip certificates, & other securities for money, alleging a conversion before the bkpcy., it was objected that, under 2 & 3 Vict. c. 41, ss. 49, 78, such action was not maintainable in the absence of proof that the damages were attachable for debt, or would have passed by assignation intimated, according to the law of Scotland :—Held : ss. 3 & 49 were, in themselves, sufficient to entitle pltf. to recover in the action, & the ct. were not bound to put any construction upon s. 78.—MURRAY v. BOLTON (1852), 4 Ir. Jur. 338.—IR.

n. —— Trustee in foreign bankruptcy.]—A Scotsman, who carried on business in France, was declared bkpt. by the cts. of that country, & a syndic, who, by the law of France, had the exclusive right to sue on behalf of the creditors, was appointed to administer bkpt.'s estates :—Held : the syndic had a title to sue in the Scots Ct. for reduction of a deed, by which bkpt. gratuitously discharged his right to movable estate situated in Scotland.—OBERS v. GIBB (PATON'S TRUSTEES) (1897), 24 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 719.—SCOT.

p. —— —— Action to make liable property acquired after discharge.]—The assignee of insolvent cannot maintain a suit to make the property of insolvent, acquired after his discharge, liable, unless he be a creditor, or has entered up judgment against insolvent, pursuant to Insolvent Act, ss. 78, 79.—GLENNY v. WOOLSEY (1856), 4 I. Ch. R. 636.—IR.

q. —— Provisional assignee—Bankruptcy before 12 Vict. c. 43.]—BEARDSLEY v. STEPHENSON (1850), 1 All. 631.—CAN.

r. —— Trustee who has rendered relief sought useless.]—A. mortgaged land to B., & then made an assignment under R. S. O., 1897 (c. 147), for creditors to C., who conveyed to B. the equity of redemption in the land. B. & C. brought an action to have a lease of the land made by mtgor. to D. declared void, & alleged that the lease was made voluntarily when the lessor was, to the knowledge of the lessee, in insolvent circumstances, & with intent to defraud creditors :—Held : the right to relief upon the latter ground could be claimed only by C., & his right terminated when he so dealt with the estate as to render the relief useless to it, & he was improperly joined as pltf.—BANK OF HAMILTON v. ANDERSON (1904), 24 C. L. T. 347 ; 8 O. L. R. 153 ; 3 O. W. R. 301, 380, 709.—CAN.

s. —— Trustee claiming adversely to bankrupt.]—A creditor, against whom a commission had issued, presented a petition, charging the assignees of his debtor with mismanagement, & the petition was ordered to stand over until the validity of the commission against him should be determined. Afterwards his assignee, before that question was determined, presented another petition praying that it might be deemed a supplement to & adoption of the former petition :—Held : two persons claiming adversely to one another being unable to unite to form a cumulative title, the petition should be dismissed.—Re FRENCH & CO., Ex p. SOMERS (1828), 1 Mol. 431. —IR.

t. —— Trustees of joint estate—For debt due to separate estate.]—Assignees under a joint commission against A. & B., may, as such, maintain an action for the use & occupation of premises which belonged to A., without describing themselves as the assignees of the separate estate of A., when the rent becomes due for occupation subsequent to the bkpcy., the assignment passing the reversion to the assignees by virtue of the joint commission.—PEPPER v. MOLONY (1832), Alc. & N. 62.—IR.

7997 i. —— Official assignee—After withdrawal of petition.]—On Oct. 14, 1903, a petition in insolvency was filed & a vesting order was made by the ct. On June 15, 1904, insolvents took out a rule nisi to withdraw their petition, & the rule was made absolute on Sept. 21, but the orders were not drawn up till Feb. 27, 1906. The official assignee filed a suit on Mar. 2, 1905, on behalf of insolvents to recover a sum of money alleged to be due in respect of certain mercantile transactions :—Held : the official assignee was competent to bring & continue the suit after the order of withdrawal.—HAJI SAJAN v. MACLEOD (1907), I. L. R. 32 Bom. 321.—IND.

7998 i. To what proceedings assignee necessary party—Action on insurance policy absolutely assigned for creditors.]

8003. Within what time—Application to set aside proceedings—Irregularity.]—Assignees applying to set aside proceedings, on the ground of irregularity, must come to ct. within a reasonable time after notice of the irregularity.—BUTTERWORTH v. WILLIAMS (1846), 4 Dow. & L. 82; 1 Saund. & C. 168; 7 L. T. O. S. 235.

8004. —— —— ——.]—If assignees after a long interval apply to the ct. to set aside proceedings involving the estate of bkpt., they must give some satisfactory reason for the delay.—AMADIO v. SHOWELL (1847), 1 Saund. & C. 305; 8 L. T. O. S. 369.

8005. —— —— ——.]—A judgment against bkpt. will not be set aside for irregularity, unless the assignees apply within four days after they have notice of it.—ALCOCK v. SUTCLIFFE (1847), 16 L. J. Q. B. 129; 8 L. T. O. S. 321, 395; 11 Jur. 126.

8006. When proceedings by petition competent—Where creditor has proved— & success would give trustee lien on dividends.]—Where a creditor has proved a debt, & the assignees have a demand against him, which if determined in their favour would give them a lien upon the dividends, they may proceed by a petition in the bkpcy. to enforce that demand.—Re BROWN, Ex p. TIMBREL (1819), Buck, 305.

8007. —— —— Right to bring second action.]—Assignees not restrained from bringing a second action, having been non-suited in the first, for the recovery of certain sums from a creditor who had given credit for them in his account, & had proved for the balance; but the general rule is that they must proceed by petition, if the creditor has proved.—Re OLIVER, Ex p. HILTON (1820), 1 Jac. & W. 467; 37 E. R. 446, L. C.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Morton, Ex p. Robertson (1875), L. R. 20 Eq. 733.

8008. Whether notice necessary—Motion against high bailiff to deliver goods taken in execution.]—A motion by a trustee against a high bailiff to deliver up to him goods of debtor taken in execution by him or their value,, is not an action within County Cts. Act, 1888 (c. 43), ss. 53, 54, so as to require notice in writing to be given to the high bailiff before commencing the same.—Re LOCK, Ex p. POPPLETON (1890), 63 L. T. 320; 39 W. R. 15; 7 Morr. 184, D. C.

8009. Joinder of actions—Trustees under separate commissions—Joint debt due to both bankrupts.]—The assignees of A., & also of B., under separate commissions, cannot recover in the same action a joint debt due from deft. to both bkpts., & also separate debts due to each; & if in such an action the jury have assessed the damages severally on the separate counts, the ct. will arrest the judgment on those counts, which demand the debts due to each bkpt. separately.—HANCOCK v. HAYWOOD (1789), 3 Term Rep. 433; 100 E. R. 661.

8024. Against subtenant—For rent after bankruptcy.]—In 1840, A. being lessee of a warehouse & cellar under a demise from B., & also lessee under C. of other adjoining property, comprising (inter alia) a vault, D. became tenant from year to year to A. of the warehouse & cellar, & vault, at an annual rent of £185, made up of £140 for the warehouse & cellar, & £45 for the vault. On Oct. 27, 1845, A. became bkpt., £92 10*s.* being at that time due as rent from D. to bkpt. The assignees, upon being appointed, elected to take the property held under B., & on Feb. 26, 1846, elected not to take the property held under C. At Christmas, 1845, rent to the amount of £114 7*s.* 6*d.* became due from A. to C., for which amount, on Feb. 19, 1846, C. distrained upon the goods in the vault held by D., who, to relieve himself of that distress, paid that sum to C. An action having subsequently been brought by the assignees of A. against D. to recover the above sum of £92 10*s.* & £35 for a quarter's rent due at Christmas for the warehouse & cellar:—Held: pltfs. could well sue for the quarter's rent due since the bkpcy. in their representative character as assignees.—GRAHAM v. ALLSOPP (1848), 3 Exch. 186; 18 L. 8027. —— Work completed by surety for bankrupt.]—A. contracted with applt. for the performance of work at an agreed price, & W. became surety to applt. for the performance of the contract by A. The contract contained a provision that if the contractor should become bkpt., the employer might require the surety to proceed with the work. A. became bkpt. before completion, & applt. gave notice to W. to proceed with the work, which W. completed :—Held : the official assignee under the bkpcy. of A. was entitled to sue for the price of the work so completed by W. it being a substituted performance of the original contract by A.—COHEN v. SANDEMAN (1879), 40 L. T. 370, P. C.

8028. Breach of contract—To settle claim & pay over proceeds.]—Policies of insurance, on which a loss had occurred, belonging to A. had been deposited by him as security for a debt of £800 with a banker. B., who was acquainted with the circumstances, afterwards, at the desire of A., expressly undertook to take the policies & to settle an underwriter's claim, & to pay in the amount which he might receive to A.'s account at the banker's. Upon that undertaking the policies were given to him, & upon them he received £949. A. having become bkpt. & being then indebted to B. in a larger sum, the latter refused to pay over the money so received :—Held : the assignee of A. could not, even with the assent of the banker, maintain any action against B. for the breach of his undertaking.—CHALMERS v. PAGE (1820), 3 B. & Ald. 697 ; 106 E. 8030. —— To apply funds in meeting bill—Measure of damages.]—A. paid money to a banking co. for the specific purpose of providing for a bill of exchange, for that amount, drawn by A. upon the co.'s London bankers. A. was at that time indebted in a larger amount to the co., who, instead of applying the money according to his instructions, placed it to the credit of his account with them. The bill was refused acceptance, & while it remained unpaid in the hands of the holder, A. became bkpt. :—Held : his assignees were entitled to recover from the co., in a special action of assumpsit, the whole amount deposited.—HILL v. SMITH (1844), 12 M. & W. 618 ; 13 L. a. On building contract—Work completed by surety for bankrupt.]—Pltf., as official assignee of A., insolvent, sued for the balance of payments due for work performed under a building contract between A. & deft. Deft. pleaded that before the sequestration A. abandoned the works under the contract, & that they were completed by W. one of A.'s sureties under a bond, to whom deft. had given notice of A.'s default. Pltf. filed a replication setting out a bond, under which W. was surety for A. in £250, & one of its conditions which stipulated that in case of the insolvency of A. or any delay in or suspension of the work, "the employer, by the architect might give to the contractors or their sureties or their assignee or trustee, as the case might be notice requiring the work to be proceeded with," & in case of default deft. might employ other persons to complete the work & set off the expense against the money payable to A. under the contract. The replication went on to state that deft. gave notice to W., & that W. proceeded with & completed the works according to the specifications, etc., & that the right of action vested in pltf. & that he was suing partly for his own benefit & partly for the benefit of W. :—Held : the replication was good.—SANDEMAN v. COHEN (1877), KNOX, 371, 496.—AUS.

On her arrival deft., as mtgee. of the ship, took possession of the ship & cargo:—Held: as against a wrongdoer, the owner of a ship was primâ facie owner of the goods on board, & the assignees of H. & F., who had become bkpt. before the arrival of the vessel, were entitled to maintain trover against deft. for the cargo.—BRANCKER v. MOLYNEUX (1841), 3 Man. & G. 84; 3 Scott, N. 8044. —— Against holder of bill—Deposited as security to co-obligor of bond—Measure of damages.]—Trover by the assignee of R., a bkpt., to recover the amount of a bill of exchange for £1,600, which bill had been deposited with deft. by bkpt., as an indemnity to M. & L., against the consequences of a bond which they, jointly with bkpt., had executed to J., under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 8. The bond, having been cancelled, was shown by the assignees in its cancelled state to deft., & they at the same time demanded the bill, which deft. declined to part with, saying, that he should hold it for M. & L. Deft. afterwards obtained £800 on the bill:—Held: £1,600 was the proper measure of damages, notwithstanding only £800, remained due on the bill.—ALSAGER v. CLOSE (1842), 10 M. & W. 576; 12 L. J. The proposition that the assignee can compel a landlord specifically to perform an agreement to grant a lease to bkpt. has never been determined (GRANT, M.R.).—WEATHERALL v. GEERING (1806), 12 Ves. 504 ; 33 E. R. 191.

A. became bkpt., & his assignees agreed to convey to B. the equity of redemption in the demised premises :—Held : the assignees had no right to enforce against B. a specific performance of that agreement by an assignment containing a covenant for indemnity against payment of the rent & performance of the covenants reserved by the original lease.

Assignees in bkpcy. take the property of bkpt. by the operation of law, & enter into no covenants to indemnify bkpt. against the covenants in his leases. They may take to his leases, subject only to such liability as attaches upon all assigns, i.e., a liability to be sued on such covenants as binds assigns during the time they retain that character, but, when they cease to retain it, their liability ceases, the privity of estate which alone makes them liable to be sued being determined. The assignees of bkpt. after they have parted with the possession of their lease, are not liable to be sued at all ; they stand in no need of an indemnity, & there is no principle on which they can require it from the vendee of their estate (GRANT, M.R.).—WILKINS v. FRY (1816), 1 Mer. 244 ; 2 Rose 371; 35 E. PART XXI. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.

8052 i. Discretion of trustee—Interference by court—Onus on creditor opposing proposed settlement.]—Pltf., a creditor, served a notice on an assignee for creditors, requiring him to take proceedings to set aside a bill of sale made by insolvent, & afterwards served on him a notice of motion for an order giving him, the creditor, permission to bring the action. After being served with the notice, the assignee, with the approval of a majority of the inspectors & creditors, made an advantageous settlement with the grantee of the bill of sale. Pltf. obtained an order, giving him leave to bring an action impeaching the bill of sale, without the settlement being brought to the notice of the judge :—Held : the settlement however complicated the matter may be, nor interfere in any way.

Where the trustee & committee of inspection propose to accept a compromise, it is for the party objecting to satisfy the ct. that the proposed compromise is one which ought not to be entertained.—Re PILLING, Ex p. SALAMAN, [1906] 1 K. 8055. The ct. being of the opinion that the compromise would save the costs of litigation, & not being satisfied that it was unfair, gave leave to carry it out, notwithstanding the opposition of the joint creditors.—Re RIDGWAY, Ex p. CLARKE (1891), 8 Morr. 289.

SUB-SECT. 4.—POSITION OF DEFENDANT.

8057. Right to dispute bankruptcy—Necessity for & effect of notice.]—In an action by assignees, the notice under 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 10, that deft. means to dispute the validity of the commission, is not to be considered as part of deft.'s regular evidence in the cause, but may be proved at the beginning of the trial, & immediately puts pltfs. upon strict proof of trading, petitioning creditor's debt & act of bkpcy. Although in an action by assignees, deft. has once pleaded without giving notice under 49 Geo. 3, c. 121, s. 10, yet if he has leave to withdraw his plea & plead de novo, such a notice given with the second plea is sufficient.—DECHARME v. LANE (1809), 2 Camp. 324.

8058. —— When lost—Advertising goods as those of bankrupt.]—In an action for goods of bkpt., against the person who sold them, an advertisement of deft., describing them as the goods of bkpt., precludes him from disputing the bkpcy.—MALTBY v. CHRISTIE (1795), 1 Esp. 340.

8060. —— —— Admission that party duly declared bankrupt—No notice of intention to dispute.]—In an action of trover by assignees, deft.'s attorney admitted that the party had been duly declared bkpt.:—Held: deft. was thereby precluded from objecting to any of the proceedings under the commission, unless he had given notice to dispute it.—PERRING v. TUCKER (1829), 3 Moo. & P. 557; 8 L. It is not intended that I should take away the right of having a jury except in special circumstances, as, for example, that it is solely a point of law or what not. Deft. pleaded that, prior to the assignment to pltf., M. & G. had assigned the accounts to S. by instrument in writing. Pltf. replied that the assignment to S. was void as a fraudulent preference:—Held: the replication was bad, because the assignment to S. could not be declared fraudulent & void in the action, S. not being a party to it.—BERTRAND v. HOOKER (1895), 10 Man. 8076. —— Abandonment of contract—Delay in requiring performance.]—A contract for the sale by deft. to bkpt. of railway shares was to be performed on July 1, 1835. To a declaration by the assignees for a breach of such contract in not delivering the shares, deft. pleaded that the assignees did not adopt the contract within a reasonable time after the bkpcy., & averred that the contract was abandoned by mutual consent:—Held: the circumstance of the assignees having suffered a considerable period to elapse without requiring the contract to be performed, was evidence whence the jury might infer an abandonment.—LAWRENCE v. KNOWLES (1839), 5 Bing. 8078. —— Jus tertii—Right of true owner of goods sold as debtor's.]—M., the owner of goods, put C. into possession of them, who remained so until & after the death of the owner, who died intestate. After M.'s death, deft. sold the goods by the desire, & as the property of C., who had previously committed an act of bkpcy., of which deft. was cognisant. Intestate's goods had not been administered, & the ordinary had not claimed them. In an action by the assignees of C. for the conversion of the goods:—Held: deft. was not entitled to set up the right of the ordinary to the goods, & deft. could not insist that the property was not shown to have been in the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the true owner.—WHITE v. MULLETT (1851), 6 Exch. 713; 20 L. On the tenant becoming bkpt. the trustee obtained an order against the landlord to pay over to the trustee the proceeds of the distress, less the amount which the landlord was entitled to retain under 1883 Act. The order was not obeyed, & the trustee moved the ct. for an order to the same effect against the solr.:—Held: the trustee might proceed against the solr., although he had originally elected to go against the landlord, as the trustee's cause of action against the solr., by whom the property was being retained without right, was not identical with that against his landlord.—Re CROOK, Ex p. COLLINS (1891), 66 L. 8081 ii. —— —— Action against purchaser refusing delivery of goods—Subsequent action for damages for care of goods.]—A merchant in Ontario purchased the assets of an insolvent trader in Quebec, but refused to accept delivery of same. The curator of the estate brought an action in Quebec to compel him to do so, & obtained judgment, whereupon he accepted delivery & paid the purchase money. The curator then brought another action in Ontario for special damages alleged to have been incurred in the care & preservation of the assets from the time of the purchase until the delivery:—Held: such special damages could not have been included in the action brought in the Quebec cts., & the right to recover them was not res judicata by the judgment in that action.—HYDE v. LINDSAY (1899), 29 S. 8081 iii. —— —— Action by trustee for creditors to obtain transfer of property—Second action by trustee in bankruptcy.]—Deft., a partner in a firm, by written agreement ceded all his rights in & to certain specific property to the creditors of the firm, & appointed H. to act as his agent to effect a sale of such property for the benefit of such creditors. Thereafter H. unsuccessfully sued deft. under the agreement for transfer of such property. Afterwards the firm was declared insolvent, & the trustee in the insolvent estate sued deft. for transfer of the property under the agreement:—Held: a plea of res judicata could not be sustained in answer to the action by the trustee in the insolvency.—PRAGJU BHIMBHAI & CO.'S TRUSTEE v. DESAI (1905), 25 N. E. D. 388.—CAN.

m. —— That action was premature.]—The creditors of insolvent consented, by an agreement, that pltf., as guardian of the estate, & deft. should sell certain timber manufactured by insolvent, & pay deft. out of the proceeds, $5,500, which he claimed, upon deft. giving to the guardian his bond to repay same, or so much as deft. might not be entitled to. The bond recited the agreement, & the condition was that deft. should repay such portion of the $5,500 as he should not be entitled to. Pltf. sued on the bond, averring payment to deft. of the $5,500; & that deft. was not entitled to same, but had not repaid it. Deft. pleaded that he duly established his right to the $5,500 by filing particulars of his claim thereto, & alleged that such claim had not been placed on any dividend sheet, nor in any manner adjudicated or awarded upon. Deft. rejoined, that it had not been contested or objected to, & that pltf., as assignee, had not prepared any dividend sheet of the estate:—Held: the meaning of the bond was, that deft. should repay what, after a contestation of his claim, it might appear that he was not entitled to rank for, & the action was premature.—HALL v. DUNSFORD (1871), 32 U. 8085. —— —— Order made by Lord Chancellor.]—In an action by the assignees, of B., a bkpt., in order to prove petitioning creditor's debt, they proved that B. was indebted to R., that a commission afterwards issued against R., & that his assignees were petitioning creditors against B., & in order to support the commission against R., produced the proceedings under it :—Held : they were not admissible in evidence, & pltfs. were bound to prove by other evidence R.'s trading, act of bkpcy., etc.

Pltfs. also produced an order, made by the Lord Chancellor under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 18, whereby, after reciting a petition to him by N., he ordered that, if the comrs. should be satisfied that M. had proved under the commission against B. a debt sufficient to support the commission, contracted not anterior to the petitioning creditor's debt, the commission should be proceeded in :—Held : this was not a valid order, inasmuch as it did not find, or call upon the comrs. to find, that the original petitioning creditor's debt was insufficient.—MUSKETT v. DRUMMOND (1829), 10 B. & C. 153; 5 Man. & Ry. 8086. —— Examination of defendant before commissioner.]—In assumpsit by assignees for goods sold and delivered by bkpt., & on an account stated, if pltfs. put in evidence an examination of deft. before the comrs., his admissions against himself are evidence against him, but his statements in his own favour are not evidence for him.—GROOM v. RICHARDSON (1841), 5 Jur. 1061.

8087. What evidence conclusive—Depositions—Demand on which bankrupt could have sued.]—In an action by assignees for a demand, for which bkpt., if solvent, might sue, the depositions are conclusive evidence of the matters contained in them, unless bkpt., within the time prescribed by 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 92, gives notice of his intention to dispute the commission, although the action was commenced, & notice given by deft. that he would dispute the act of bkpcy., etc. within the time allowed to bkpt. to give such notice, if the cause be not brought to trial till after that time is elapsed.—EARITH v. SCHRODER (1827), Mood. & M. 24, N. 8088. —— —— ——.]—The depositions are conclusive evidence under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 92, in a case, where bkpt. might have sued, if no bkpcy. had ensued, though the conversion which gave the right of action took place after the act of bkpcy.—FOX v. MAHONEY (1832), 2 Cr. & J. 325; 2 Tyr. 285; 1 L. 8089. —— —— ——.]—Trover by the assignees of R., a bkpt., to recover the amount of a bill of exchange for £1,600, which bill had been deposited with deft. by bkpt., as an indemnity to M. & L., against the consequences of a bond which they, jointly with bkpt., had executed to J., under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 8. The bond, having been cancelled, was shown by the assignees in its cancelled state to deft., & they at the same time demanded the bill, which deft. declined to part with, saying, that he should hold it for M. & L. Deft. afterwards obtained £800 on the bill :—Held : this was a demand & refusal, on which bkpt. might have maintained the action, & the depositions, taken under the fiat, of petitioning creditor's debt, the trading, & act of bkpcy., were conclusive evidence of those facts, by virtue of 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 92.—ALSAGER v. CLOSE (1842), 10 M. & W. 576; 12 L. 8090. —— —— —— Whether bankrupt could have sued.]—In all actions by assignees, which bkpt. himself might have maintained, if no bkpcy. had occurred, the depositions taken before the comrs. are conclusive evidence of the trading, etc., although at the time of the bkpcy. the cause of action may not have been complete; & the question whether the action is of such a nature, must be decided by a reference to the facts of the case, which the judge may collect from the opening of pltf.'s counsel, & not from a strict reference to the cause of action appearing on the record.

Where in trover by assignees the conversion was laid after the bkpcy. :—Held : pltf.'s were not precluded by the form of the record from having the depositions admitted as conclusive evidence.—KITCHENER v. POWER (1835), 3 Ad. & El. 232; 1 Har. & W. 174; 4 Nev. & M. 8102. —— Every assistance given to trustee.]—Bkpt., on the eve of his bkpcy., possessed himself of money belonging to his estate, which he paid into a banking account opened by him for that purpose, & a cheque was drawn by bkpt. on that account in favour of his housekeeper, in payment of which she received a Bank of England note for £500. The note, payment of which had been stopped by the trustee, was subsequently presented by the N. Bank, it having been paid in by a customer, who stated that he had merely passed same through his account as a matter of convenience for the person to whom the note was originally given. A motion having been launched by the trustee to declare the note to be his property, an arrangement was come to, by which the claim of bkpt.'s housekeeper was withdrawn, & the person, through whose account the note had passed, also made no claim to retain it, but he applied to have paid thereout the costs to which he had been put, & to get such a receipt for the balance of the money as would be an answer to any action in connection with the note which might thereafter be brought against him :—Held : even assuming every assistance had been afforded to the trustee, no ground had been shown why the trustee should pay costs, & the only order the ct. could make was an order in the terms of the trustee's notice of motion, no order being made as to costs.—Re BATES, Ex p. HOBBS (1892), 8 T. 8105 iii. —— —— Bankrupt administrator—Continuing deceased's business—Goods seized by trustee.]—On M.'s death intestate J. continued M.'s business & took out administration. Subsequently J. was adjudicated bkpt., on the petition of a creditor who had sold him goods for the purpose of carrying on the business, & the official assignee seized all the property in his possession. Ten days afterwards an order was made for the administration of M.'s estate. The property seized was acquired or came into possession of J. in the course of carrying on the trading. On an application for an injunction to restrain the assignee from realising or intermeddling with the property seized :—Held : an injunction should be granted, as the proper forum for deciding any question in relation to the assets was the ct. where orders had been made for the administration of the estate of M., & not in the ct. where J.'s bkpcy. matter was being dealt with.—Re HICKEY, PROVINCIAL BANK v. HICKEY (1891), 27 L. 8112. —— Obligation to give security.]—S. & Co., merchants in London & Shanghai, applied to applts., merchants in Prussia, to open a credit on their behalf for £5,000, & offered to deposit with them as a security the title-deeds of a house at Shanghai. The negotiations were commenced verbally, when all parties were in Prussia, but were concluded by a letter written by S. & Co. to applts. from London, enclosing the title-deeds of the house in Shanghai. Applts. accepted bills drawn by S. & Co. & payable in London. S. & Co. became liquidating debtors, a considerable sum being due to applts. on the bills. No conveyance or memorandum of the deposit was made at the British Consulate at Shanghai, but the house remained registered in the name of S. & Co. Applts. having applied for an order that the trustee should convey the house to them, the contract was personally binding on S. & Co., & could be enforced against their trustee in exactly the same way as against debtors.—Re SCHEIBLER, Ex p. HOLTHAUSEN (1874), 9 Ch. d. Action for work done—Accountant—Investigation of books on prosecution of bankrupt.]—The trustee of H.'s insolvent estate employed pltfs., accountants, to examine & report upon H.'s books. The result of such examination was to cause the Crown to institute a prosecution against H. The trustee instructed pltfs. to proceed with the investigation of the books in order to assist the prosecution, which pltfs. did in great detail, subsequently attending at the prosecution, & doing additional work during the course of the trial. The trustee, at the third meeting of creditors, had specially asked for instructions to be given to him as to the course to be pursued in connection with the unsatisfactory state of the books, but no specific instructions were given by the creditors, the future management of the estate generally being left to the trustee. In an action by pltfs. against the trustee as such for their fees for the investigation in connection with the prosecution:—Held: as the trustee had no authority statutory or express to employ pltfs. to assist the prosecution, the estate could not be held liable.—FEW v. HARTLEY'S TRUSTEE (1887), 5 S. 8119 i. Defences available—Want of assets—Trustee's conditional acceptance of bill of exchange—Onus of proof.]—C. & Co. made an assignment of their estate for creditors, giving power to the trustees to carry on the business. The trustees carried on the business for a time, but were finally obliged to place it in insolvency, & deft. was appointed assignee. At the time of the assignment to the trustees, C. & Co. were indebted in a large sum to H., & between the date of the assignment & the insolvency, that amount was increased for goods supplied for the purpose of carrying on the business. After the insolvency deft., as assignee of the estate, accepted an order drawn by H. in favour of pltfs., in the words: "Accepted: payable when in funds as a first preference out of the estate of C. & Co." Deft. received $18,000 out of the estate, & applied the amount to satisfy the claim of the trustees for advances made in carrying on the business of the estate, which it was insufficient to meet:—Held: (1) the evidence did not show such a fulfilment of the condition upon which the acceptance was made, as to make deft. liable upon it to pltfs.; (2) deft. was not bound to show to whom, & when, & in what circumstances, the money was paid by him, but the burden was on pltfs. of showing misappropriation of the funds.—POTTERS v. TAYLOR (1888), 20 N. Subsequently pltfs. filed a bill in the Rolls Ct., while the goods remained in the possession of B., alleging that such possession was held by them as agents & trustees for pltfs., & praying an injunction to restrain them from parting with the goods. A. & Co. afterwards were adjudicated bkpts., & the messenger of the Ct. of Bkpcy. obtained possession from B. of the goods. Pltfs. then amended their bill by adding the assignees in bkpcy. as parties, & praying for an injunction against them also. Without any previous motion to stay the suit in the Rolls Ct. the assignees shortly afterwards filed their answer, impeaching pltfs.' security, & submitting that the whole motion was within the jurisdiction of the Ct. of Bkpcy. Subsequently the assignees applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an order that the right of all parties claiming any lien on the goods should be determined by that ct., which motion was refused, as against pltfs., on the ground of proceedings pending in the Rolls Ct. The cause then coming on for hearing was met on its merits, but it was found that another amendment by pltfs. was necessary, which was afterwards made. 8129. —— Action for account—& to enforce security by foreclosure or sale.]—In Jan., 1885, S. commenced an action against M. for an account of what was due to him on the security of a mtge. of certain freehold property & a bill of sale of certain chattels, both dated Aug. 7, 1879, & to enforce those securities by foreclosure or sale. It was subsequently agreed that M. should execute a further bill of sale in favour of S., & that nothing should be done by S. to enforce his securities before June 30, 1886, & a bill of sale was executed on July 3. On Mar. 25, 1886, M. was adjudicated a bkpt., & on May 26 two persons were duly appointed trustees in his bkpcy., & were afterwards added as parties to the action. S. then applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an order that one of such trustees, who had also been appointed receiver of bkpt.'s property, might be directed to withdraw from possession of the chattels comprised in the bills of sale, but the application was adjourned at the request of the trustees, &, for various reasons, was never brought on again. In July S. commenced an action against the trustees for an account of what was due to him on the security of the bill of sale dated July 3, 1885, & to enforce such security by foreclosure or sale. A motion was subsequently made by the trustee that all further proceedings in the two actions might be stayed until further order, on the ground that S.'s application to the Ct. of Bkpcy. was still pending, & had not been adjudicated upon, & that the same questions would have to be determined on the hearing of that application as those which arose in the actions, viz., whether the bills of sale were or were not fraudulent & void, & that such questions would be better tried in the Ct. of Bkpcy. than in the Ch. Div. :—Held : (1) in the circumstances it would not be proper that the actions should be stayed, as questions would probably arise fitter for the consideration of the Ch. Div. than of the Ct. of Bkpcy. ; (2) the question in each case must be decided on the facts therein, & the discretion of the ct. was limited ; (3) the fact of S. having made an application to the Ct. of Bkpcy. did not deprive him of his right to proceed in the actions, as such application only related to the chattels, & not to the real estate.—SHARP v. MCHENRY, SHARP v. BROWN (1886), 55 L. T. 747.

8130. —— Grounds for refusing.]—A composition deed, by which all the creditors of debtor agreed to accept a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on the amount of & in full discharge of their debts, was duly executed by all the creditors, & registered under 1861 Act, & all the property of debtor was assigned to a trustee to provide for the composition. The payment of part of one of the debts to which pltfs. were entitled was afterwards agreed to be postponed till all the other creditors had received their composition in full, & the entire estate then available was distributed in paying the composition on all the debts except the portion of pltfs.' which was postponed. Some years elapsed, & it was then discovered that there was some real estate at Monte Video which had become vested in the trustee of the composition deed, & had remained unadministered, & pltfs. instituted a suit in the Ch. Div. to have such property realised with a view to payment of the balance still due. On a motion by the trustee of the composition deed to have the proceedings stayed, on the ground that the case ought to be dealt with by the Ct. of Bkpcy. :—Held : (1) the Ch. Div. had at least concurrent jurisdiction, & the fact that there was no body of creditors amongst whom a fund was to be distributed was a circumstance which made it expedient to exercise that jurisdiction ; (2) the fact of the deed containing a clause which made it doubtful whether it came within ss. 192 & 197 would of itself be a strong ground for not compelling the parties to go to the Ct. of Bkpcy.—JENNEY v. BELL (1876), 2 Ch. 8132. —— Action unjustifiably caused by trustees.]—The official & creditors' assignees of a legatee & exor., who became bkpt., claimed from testator's estate £350, & refused to concur in a sale, unless paid that sum. In consequence of their refusal a bill was filed by the co-exor. to administer the assets, & it appearing that nothing remained due in respect of bkpt.'s share, the ct. ordered the assignees to pay the costs of the suit.

The assignees of bkpt. have no right to drive a person into this ct., except on the ordinary principle that the costs must be paid by the party by whose unfounded claim the litigation has been occasioned. I can recognise no special right in assignees that exempts them from what is the ordinary & the just rule on the subject of costs (STUART, V.-C.).—PATTISON v. GRAHAM (1854), 2 Sm. & G. 207 ; 65 E. The trustees renounced the trusts, & B. became the administratrix of the estate. B., the tenant for life, died on Mar. 30, 1849. C. married E. in Sept., 1845, & in Mar., 1846, all his estate & effects were, on his own petition, vested in his assignees in insolvency, which was never superseded. The assignees never took any steps in regard to the fund. The administratrix refused to pay the annuity to pltfs., & thereupon E. & his wife filed a bill for the payment of what should be found due to them. Upon a plea in bar put in by defts., stating the insolvency of the husband:—Held: the plea could not be allowed as against the right of the wife, but it might stand for an answer, with liberty to pltfs. to except, & to amend their bill.—GLOVER v. WEEDON (1857), 3 Jur. 8166. ——.]—S., an attorney, having been instructed by H. to make J. bkpt., obtained a debtor's summons under 1869 Act, s. 7, & served it on J., who thereupon applied to the registrar of the county ct. to dismiss the summons. Having heard both parties, the registrar made an order on Apr. 12, that J. should within seven days enter into a bond, with two such sufficient sureties as the ct. should approve, to pay such sum as should be recovered by H. in any proceeding taken for the recovery of the debt due to him from J. together with costs, & that all proceedings on the summons should be stayed until the ct. in which such proceedings for the recovery of the debt should be taken had come to a decision thereon. S. drew up the order, which was the first of the kind made by the county ct. in pursuance of the Act. During the seven days a correspondence took place as to the proposed sureties, who were objected to by S. on behalf of H., & no bond having been executed in consequence, a petition in bkpcy. was, by the express order of H., presented by S. on Apr. 21, under s. 8, & on the same day a receiver was appointed under s. 13, the act of bkpcy. alleged being (in the terms of s. 6 (6)) that petitioning creditor had served on J. a debtor's summons, & that he being a trader had for seven days neglected to pay the debt alleged to be due, or to secure or compound for the same. J. objected to the petition, & after several hearings the county ct. judge adjudged J. to be bkpt. This decision was affirmed by the chief judge in bkpcy., but was afterwards reversed by the Lord Justice of Appeal, who annulled the proceedings on the ground that the order of Apr. 12 was a stay of proceedings at the time of the petition & adjudication:—Held: (1) (KELLY, C.B., & CLEASBY, B.), an action was maintainable by J. against S. for maliciously & without reasonable & probable cause presenting the petition & causing him to be adjudicated a bkpt.; (2) (MARTIN & BRAMWELL, BB.), such an action was not maintainable by J. against S.—JOHNSON v. EMERSON & SPARROW (1871), L. s. Action against sheriff — For allowing goods to be removed without satisfying insolvent's claim for rent.]—In 1881 pltf. carried a resolution under the arrangement sects. of 1857 Act, for a composition with his creditors, it being required by the resolution that pltf.'s estate & effects should vest in the official assignees & H., as a security for the creditors, upon trust, in default in payment of the composition, to apply to realize the estate. Afterwards, & before the composition had been carried out, or pltf. had obtained any certificate pltf., by lease dated Apr. 13, 1883, demised premises to T. Goods of T. in those premises were seized under a fi. fa., & a quarter's rent then due under the lease was claimed from the sheriff by pltf., & by the official assignees & H. 8170. 8173. Onus of proof of probable cause.]—In an action for maliciously suing out a commission against pltf., under which he was adjudged a bkpt., & his goods seized, but which was afterwards superseded, pltf. proved, in addition to those facts, an action of trespass brought by him against deft. for the seizure plea, alleging the bkpcy. issue joined on that fact, & verdict for pltf. He further proved that shortly before the commission was taken out he had removed some goods in circumstances which did not make the removal an act of bkpcy., but were probably relied on by deft. as having that effect. It was not shown that that was the fact upon which the comrs. made their adjudication, or by which deft. supported his plea in the former action :—Held : this was sufficient evidence to throw on deft. the onus of proving probable cause.—COTTON v. JAMES (1830), 1 B. & Ad. 128 ; 8 L. It stated that no order had ever been made for revesting the estate & effects of pltf. in him, but did not state that there was any other creditor for any sched. of debts :—Held : (1) notwithstanding pltf.'s discharge from custody, the estate remained vested in the assignee by the operation of the vesting order ; (2) it was so vested in the assignee for the benefit of pltf.'s creditors & not as a bare trustee for pltf. ; (3) in order to qualify himself to sue, pltf. must apply, under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 92, to the Ct. for Relief of Insolvent Debtors, & obtain from that ct. an order revesting the estate ; (4) the plea should be allowed.—TUDWAY v. JONES (1855), 1 K. & J. 691 ; 3 Eq. Pltfs. in their reply alleged that they had assigned the causes of action before the execution of the deed, & that the suit was brought in their names as trustees for the assignees :—Held : (1) the assignment of the causes of action carried with it all rights of action, which though inchoate at the time might subsequently become complete ; (2) where there was an absolute assignment of a beneficial interest in a debt the assignor might sue as trustee for the assignee, notwithstanding his subsequent execution of a composition deed.—THE WASP (1867), L. The rejoinder traversed the notice. Pltfs., having offered their ship to defts. on charter, at 16*s.* per ton per month, the latter objected, on the ground that the ship was too large. Plea, bkpcy. of pltf. before action. Replication, that before pltf. became bkpt. he sold the goods & transferred the policy, & the right & interest of pltf. to recover for the loss of the goods, to F., & delivered the policy to him. Rejoinder, that the cargo was delivered & the risk thereon ended in England before the bkpcy. of pltf., & that the right to have a return of premium was not transferred from pltf. before his bkpcy.:—Held: the two causes of action being separate & totally distinct from each other, though arising upon the same instrument, pltf. was entitled to sue for average loss as trustee for his vendee, that being a cause of action in which he had no beneficial interest at the time of his bkpcy. Semble: the facts of bkpt. continuing to have a very small beneficial interest in a contract assigned before his bkpcy., would not defeat the right of the assignee of the contract to sue in his name (POLLOCK, C.B.).—BODDINGTON v. CASTELLI (1853), 1 E. & B. 879; 23 L. 8187. Petition of right—Continuance after order staying proceedings—Contempt of court.]—D. was adjudicated a bkpt. under 1861 Act. He subsequently presented a petition of right intituled in the Queen's Bench praying the recovery of £6 15*s.* due to him from the Lords Comrs. of the Admlty. An injunction staying all further proceedings in that petition was issued against him by the Ct. of Bkpcy. under 1869 Act. Bkpt. disputed the validity of the order, & proceeded with his petition of right after service of the order:—Held: D. was guilty of a contempt of ct. in so doing.—Re DAVIS (1872), 20 W. R. 767.

8188. Cause of action reconveyed to bankrupt.]—To an action for goods sold, etc., deft. pleaded that since the cause of action arose, & before action, the estate of pltf. went into liquidation under 1869 Act, & B. was duly appointed trustee. Pltf. replied that B. for good & valuable consideration sold, assigned, & transferred to him all the estate, causes of action, etc., vested in B. as trustee under the liquidation:—Held: the sale was warranted by s. 25 (3) of the Act, & pltf. was entitled to sue in his own name, under s. 111.—KITSON v. HARDWICK (1872), L. 8189. Action to set aside judgment—As obtained by fraud.]—Where a person, who has been adjudicated a bkpt. in consequence of his failure to comply with a bkpcy. notice to pay a judgment debt, alleges that petitioning creditor's judgment was obtained by fraud, he may apply to the ct. in bkpcy., to be allowed to contest the validity of the judgment. He cannot, however, while the adjudication remains in force, bring an action to set aside the judgment on the ground that it was obtained by fraud, & the High Ct. has no jurisdiction to entertain such an action.—BOALER v. POWER, [1910] 2 K. 8190. Appeal from judgment in colonial court—No sufficient averment of injustice.]—Pltf., a native of one of the colonies, alleged that he had taken the benefit of a Colonial Insolvent Act, in consequence of having had a judgment recovered against him in the Colonial Ct., from which judgment he had appealed, but unsuccessfully, that the assignee, now in England, had assets in his hands out of which, if the judgment were reversed, a large surplus would be coming to him, that the judgment was the result of an erroneous decision, & an appeal would probably be successful, but that the assignee, colluding with the judgment creditor, refused to prosecute such appeal, & prayed that the assignee might be decreed to prosecute the appeal, or that the ct. would enable pltf. to prosecute the appeal in the name of the assignee:—Held: there was no sufficient averment that pltf. had failed to obtain justice in the ordinary tribunals of his own country to empower the ct. to interfere, & demurrer allowed.—SMITH v. MOFFATT (1865), L. R. 1 Eq. 397; 35 L. J. Ch. 219; 14 L. T. 323; 12 Jur. N. S. 22; 14 W. R. 242.

8191. Appeal from injunction—Against passing off goods.]—Deft., who had become bkpt. since the trial of the action, appealed against an injunction restraining him from selling certain articles with labels or wrappers in imitation of those used by pltf., & from using a certain name, whether alone or in combination with his own or any other name, in the manufacture of those articles in such manner as to lead to the belief that the articles made by deft. had been manufactured by pltf. The trustee did not join in the appeal:—Held: notwithstanding the bkpcy., deft. was entitled to appeal from the injunction, inasmuch as it imposed a personal liability upon him.—DENCE v. MASON (1879), 41 L. T. 573, C. A.

8192. —— Against infringement of patent.]—Judgment having been given restraining defts. from making, selling, or using instruments of a certain construction as being an infringement of pltf.'s patent, & ordering delivery up of all instruments so constructed, defts. appealed, but before the appeal became bkpt.:—Held: defts. though bkpts., had still such an interest in being relieved from the injunction as entitled them to proceed with the appeal on giving security for costs.—UNITED TELEPHONE CO. v. BASSANO (1886), 31 Ch. absolute in form—Refusal of creditors to redeem.]—Debtor made an assignment of real estate to B., a creditor, the deed being absolute in form but intended as a security for the debt. Debtor afterwards became bkpt., & swore that at the meeting of creditors B. refused to give up the property without receiving payment in full of his debt & that the creditors refused to pay:—Held: that did not authorise bkpt. to sue for the property to his own use.—HATCH v. ROSS (1868), 15 Gr. 96.—CAN.

a. Action to set aside judgment—In matrimonial suit.]—An action by insolvent to set aside a judgment in a matrimonial suit to which he was a party, is an action he is entitled to bring independently of his estate.—KILFOIL v. FISHER (1916), W. L. D. 1.—S. AF.

b. Action to set aside mortgage.]—An action to set aside a mtge. transaction affecting property in which pltf. claimed an interest was brought by an arranging debtor, & a statement of claim was delivered. By resolution, accepting the proposal in the arrangement matter, it was provided that pltf. should pay 20*s.* in the pound on all his unsecured debts & engagements. Default was made in carrying out the arrangement, & an order for realisation was made, & a vesting certificate issued & registered. The official assignees were not parties to the action, which was commenced after the default & vesting order:—Held: pltf. had no locus standi to carry on the action, & the proceedings therein should be stayed.—HARRISON v. ANCKETELL, [1905] 1 I. R. 25; 39 I. L. T. 241.—IR.

c. Execution levied by insolvent judgment creditor—After sale of debt by assignee.]—If a judgment creditor makes an assignment under Insolvent Act, 1875, & the debt is sold by the assignee, an execution issued in the name of insolvent will be set aside, unless authorised either by the assignee or the purchaser.—JOHNSON v. DE VEBER (1887), 26 N. B. R. 441.—CAN.

d. Appeal from refusal to re-open settled account.]—Bkpt. stated & settled with his partner an account, which the Ct. of Ch. decreed ought not to be re-opened. The ct. refused to sanction the continuance of litigation by way of appeal, with a view to go behind the decision, since there could not be shown on the face of the account manifest error undiscovered during the Ch. proceedings, nor that substantial benefit would result to the creditors.—Re SIM (1862), 14 Ir. e. Appeal from decree in foreclosure suit.]—In 1821 C. took, in England, the benefit of Insolvent Act; in 1830 he mortgaged his property in Ireland, & gave a bond & judgment to secure the debt. The mtgee. filed a bill for foreclosure & sale against a prior annuitant upon the property, against the assignees in insolvency, & against insolvent. All parties, except insolvent, were content with the decree made:—Held: an appeal by insolvent was incompetent because of the insolvency.—ROCHFORT v. BATTERSBY (1849), 2 H. L. Cas. 388; 14 Jur. 229.—IR.

bkpt. for costs & damages only, arising out of an alleged infringement of a patent, presented an appeal, whereupon resps. prayed that the applt. should not be allowed to prosecute his appeal, unless the trustee were joined as a co-applt. The trustee refused to be joined :—Held : this being a novel case, infringement of patent with injunction standing against applt., applt. ought to be allowed to appeal in formâ pauperis without joining the trustee.—CROSSLEY v. ANTI-VIBRATION INCANDESCENT LIGHTING CO., LTD., [1906] W. 8195. Estoppel—Bankrupt having treated bill of sale as valid—Allegation that same invalid.]—Pltf. gave a bill of sale to defts. to secure an advance. Before the payment of the first instalment due under the bill of sale he filed a petition in bkpcy., & in his statement of affairs returned defts. as secured creditors. Defts. seized & sold the furniture, & the proceeds being insufficient to pay their debt, they proved for the residue. A composition was sanctioned by the ct. & paid to the creditors, including defts. Pltf. subsequently brought an action for the wrongful seizure of his goods, alleging that the bill of sale was invalid :—Held : pltf. having in the bkpcy. proceedings treated the bill of sale as valid & obtained thereby an advantage to himself could not afterwards allege that the bill of sale was invalid so as to entitle him to recover in the action.—ROE v. MUTUAL LOAN ASSOCN. p. —— For relief against decree—Consent given thereto in ignorance of bankruptcy.]—Debtor made an assignment of real estate to B., a creditor, the deed being absolute in form, but intended as a security for the debt. Debtor afterwards became bkpt. under 7 Vict. c. 10. Many years subsequently he filed a bill against the mtgee.'s administrator for an account. The administrator, being ignorant of the bkpcy., consented to a decree referring it to the master to take the necessary accounts on the footing of the assignment being a security, but on afterwards discovering the fact of the bkpcy., he filed a petition setting up the bkpcy. & claiming relief against the decree:—Held: the decree should be set aside, & the bill dismissed with costs, unless the assignee in bkpcy. was willing to adopt the suit & to become bound by it.—HATCH v. ROSS (1868), 15 Gr. 96.—CAN.

q. —— On security given prior to insolvency.]—Since 3 & 4 Vict. c. 107 no action can be maintained against insolvent, on a security given for a debt due prior to his insolvency, even though the security may have been given by the direction of the Insolvent Comr. who tried the case, & as the condition of insolvent's discharge.—QUINLIVAN v. QUINLIVAN (1842) Ir. Cir. Rep. 692.—IR.

r. —— On bill of exchange—Accepted by insolvent.]—A civil bill is maintainable against insolvent on a bill of exchange, accepted by him prior to his insolvency, he not having given notice of the insolvency to the party whom he knew to be holder of the bill, although the bill was returned in his schedule.—CAULFIELD v. KETTLEWELL (1841), Ir. Cir. Rep. 28.—IR.

s. —— Ejectment—Joinder of trustee.]—Chattel interests in land remain vested in bkpt. or insolvent until his assignees have elected to take same, & until such election the assignees need not be joined with bkpt. or insolvent as parties in an ejectment on the title for the land.—HANWAY v. TAYLOR (1874), 8 I. L. T. 98.—IR.

t. —— Arrears of rentcharge—Joinder of trustee.]—The grantor of a rentcharge, though discharged as insolvent, continued in possession of the lands:—Held: his assignee ought to be made an answering party to the grantee's bill to raise arrears by debt proved under it. Semble: nor even for a debt not proved under it.

The fact of bkpt. having absconded, & having been condemned whilst absent, to five years' imprisonment, & hard labour, for a fraudulent bkpcy., does not give any further right to a credtor to sue him for a debt contracted before his bkpcy. —QUELIN v. MOISSON (1828), 1 Knapp, 265; 12 E. 8209. —— Specific performance—Trustee necessary party.]—Deft., having in 1857 made a mtge. of freeholds to pltf. to secure repayment of a sum of money & interest, in June, 1861, signed a memorandum, whereby he charged certain copyholds with the same debt, & undertook, when required, at his own expense, to execute to pltf. such mtge. of the same as he should require. Deft. afterwards became a bkpt. After the adjudication, & before the ct. had made any vesting order as to the copyholds, pltf. filed a bill alleging that deft. had been applied to & refused to perform his undertaking to execute a conveyance, or to sign any mtge. of the copyholds, & praying for specific performance of the agreement The assignees were not made parties to the suit, bkpt. being sole deft:—Held: the assignees were necessary parties to the suit.—POOLE v. BURSELL (1862), 6 L. 8218. —— Effect of delay in applying—Plaintiff restrained from enforcing judgment.]—Partners, who had accepted a bill of exchange, dissolved partnership, & one filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement, & a resolution for liquidation was passed by the creditors & a trustee chosen. Immediately afterwards the holder of the bill commenced an action against the acceptors. After notice of trial had been given, the trustee applied for an injunction to restrain further proceedings against debtor in the action:—Held: though it would have been proper to restrain pltf. from proceeding against the insolvent acceptor, if the injunction had been applied for at once, the proper course in the circumstances was to allow the action to proceed, & to restrain pltf. from enforcing his judgment against the insolvent acceptor.—Re MANNING, Ex p. MILLS (1871), 6 Ch. 8221. —— By foreign creditor in foreign court.]—The ct. will not grant an injunction, which would be wholly ineffectual for the purposes intended, & will decline to make an order to restrain proceedings in an action commenced by a foreign creditor in a foreign ct., notwithstanding that the debt, in respect of which the action was brought, was incurred upon a bill of exchange accepted & payable in England.

The ct. will, upon a proper case being made, give leave to defend the action.—Re CHAPMAN (1872), L. R. 15 Eq. 75; 42 L. J. Bcy. 38; 27 L. T. 628; 21 W. R. 104.

8222. —— Against compounding debtor—In what cases action should proceed.]—When an action is brought by one of the creditors of a compounding debtor against debtor for his original debt, the Ct. of Bkpcy. ought to restrain the action if it can see clearly that it is vexatious & without foundation, even though the question in dispute concerns only debtor & the creditor who is suing, but if there is a substantial question to be tried, the action ought to be allowed to proceed.—Re LOPEZ, Ex p. LOPEZ (1877), 5 Ch. 8223. —— Receiving order made against defendant.]—Deft. presented a petition, on which a receiving order was made on Oct. 24, 1885. Pltf. brought his action against deft. on the balance of an account on Sept. 19, 1887. Deft. applied for an order to stay the action, on the ground that a bkpcy. petition had been presented by him & a receiving order made against him, & that the action being in respect of a debt provable in the bkpcy. had been commenced without leave of the ct.:—Held: the action should be restrained, as there was no special or exceptional circumstances which would entitle the ct. to allow it to continue.—BROWNSCOMBE v. FAIR (1887), 58 L. An action was commenced against him on Nov. 11, & on Nov. 27 he obtained his order of discharge, & then pleaded, in the general form, that he became bkpt. before action brought, & that the cause of action accrued before the bkpcy. :—Held : the plea was not proved, for it was the order of discharge, & not the adjudication, which was the bar, & the defence arose after action brought & ought to have been pleaded according to the fact, as required by s. 68 of the C. L. P. Act, 1852 (c. 76), s. 68.—JONES v. HILL (1870), L. R. 5 Q. B. 230 ; 39 L. J. Q. B. 74 ; 21 L. T. 784 ; 18 W. R. 453.

8232. —— —— —— Effect of delay.]—An action was commenced against deft., in May, on an annuity deed, a fiat issued against him in June, in July he pleaded non est factum, & in Dec. he obtained his certificate. Application was made to a judge, in Jan., for leave to withdraw the plea & plead the certificate, but was refused, because it was too late to plead it puis darrien continuance ; afterwards the cause was tried, & pltf. had a verdict. On motion for a rule for staying proceedings, on the ground of deft. having obtained his certificate, & the debt being provable under the fiat, the ct. refused to assist deft., because of his laches in not pleading his certificate in proper time.—SHARPE v. D'ALMAINE (1840), 4 Jur. 989.

8233. —— Obtained by fraud—Answer to plea.]—Held : it was a good answer to a plea of bkpcy. that the certificate was obtained by fraud, though the enactment to that effect in 5 Geo. 2, c. 30, s. 7, was not repeated in 6 Geo. 4, c. 16.—HORN v. ION (1832), 4 B. & Ad. 78 ; 1 Nev. & M. action on note.]—Plea in bar to an action on a note, averring the pendency of proceedings commenced by pltf. against deft., under Insolvent Act, 1864, for the same cause of action, subsequent to the declaration in the cause :—Held : bad.—BALDWIN v. PETERMAN (1866), 16 C. P. 310.—CAN.

q. Payment of composition — To holder—Note indorsed to third party after becoming due.]—To an action on a note brought by an indorser against the maker, deft. pleaded that while A. was the holder of the note he compounded by a general agreement with A. & all his other creditors at 10*s.* in the pound, which composition was afterwards paid to A. in satisfaction of the note & accepted, & that the note was indorsed to pltf. after it became due. At the trial it was proved merely that deft. having become insolvent had paid some of his creditors one rate in the pound in discharge of their debts & to other creditors another rate :—Held : verdict should be entered for pltf.—FORSTER v. BETTES (1849), 5 U. C. R. 599.—CAN.

r. Discharge—Action on guarantee.]—Held : 3 Geo. 4, c. 124, s. 3, enabled a party who had become insolvent to set up his discharge, under Insolvent Acts, as a good bar to an action at the suit of a party whom he guaranteed, before his insolvency, against all damage, by reason of his paying over to insolvent a deposit made with him as trustee for insolvent, & a third person.—SIDLEY v. TATE (1841), Ir. Cir. Rep. 96.—IR.

s. —— Scire facias on recognizance.]—A discharge under 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 14 :—Held : not a defence to a sci. fa. on a recognizance by a tenant under the ct.—R. v. O'DONNELL (1844), 6 I. Eq. R. 639 ; 1 Jo. & Lat. 271.—IR.

t. —— Scire facias to revive judgment.]—When insolvent, having returned a judgment debt in his schedule, was duly discharged, & was never served with the sci. fa. to revive the judgment, the ct. set aside an execution under it without costs, with liberty to deft. to plead to the sci. fa., although upwards of a year had elapsed since the revivor, & no proceedings had been taken to set it aside.—CHARLES v. HYDE, 2 Leg. Rep. 42.—IR.

[* 8233 i. —— Obtained by fraud—Answer to plea.]—Some nine years after deft. had obtained his discharge in insolvency, pltf., a scheduled creditor, issued a fi. fa. against deft.'s goods on a judgment recovered before the discharge, contending that the discharge was void, because deft. had, previous to his assignment, fraudulently allowed a judgment to be recovered against him & his assets taken, & also because, his assets being so taken, there was nothing at the time of the assignment on which it could operate. Pltf. had consented to the assignment, & did not appeal from the order of discharge, nor did he, when the discharge was being granted, raise the objection of no assets :—Held : the fi. fa. must be set aside, & pltf.'s remedy, if any, was by action on the judgment.—PARKE v. DAY (1875), 24 C. P. 619.—CAN.

8236. —— Omission to plead discharge—Composition.]—At the first meeting under a petition the creditors resolved to accept a composition, which resolution was subsequently confirmed. At the date of the petition a creditor for £50, who held a bill of exchange as security, did not appear by name in the list, though the bill was included as a liability to an unknown holder. The creditor refused the first instalment of the composition which was tendered to him, & bringing an action against debtor, obtained judgment by default & issued execution. Thereupon debtor obtained an interim injunction :—Held : as debtor had omitted to plead the discharge granted by the creditors, the injunction must be dissolved.—Re THOMPSON (1870), 15 Sol. Jo. 7.

8237. Whether action may proceed—Trustee giving security for costs.]—Qu. : whether notwithstanding the bkpcy. of pltf. at law the action may not proceed, the assignees giving security for the costs.—WILLIAMS v. KINDER (1799), 4 Ves. 387 ; 31 E. R. 197.

8238. Whether suit abated—Insolvency pending account.]—By the insolvency of pltf. pending an account the suit is abated.—WILLIAMS v. KINDER (1799), 4 Ves. 387 ; 31 E. R. 197.

8239. —— No one appearing for bankrupt or trustee at trial.]—After issue had been joined & notice of trial given by sole pltf. in an action, he filed a petition, under which a trustee of his property was appointed. When the action came on for trial no one appeared for pltf. or for the trustee, & there was no evidence that any notice of the action had been served on the trustee :—Held : the action had abated, & the only order which could be made was to strike the action out of the list.—ELDRIDGE v. BURGESS (1878), 7 Ch. 8242. —— Intervention by official receiver—Bankrupt suing on behalf of himself & all other creditors.]—A receiving order followed by an adjudication in bkpcy. was made against pltf. in an action, in which the claim on behalf of himself & all other creditors was for an order setting aside an assignment of personal property by way of settlement made by deft. upon his wife previously to his bkpcy. :—Held : the action must be dismissed, unless the official receiver intervened within a specified time, on the ground that, although the action was brought on behalf of all the creditors, pltf. could only sue as a creditor, & when he ceased to be such by the assignment by operation of law to his trustee, he ceased to be a person capable of continuing the action, & as he was not a trustee of the right of action, but suing as a creditor in his own right, & a receiving order & injunction obtained in the action did not operate in the same manner as a judgment in a creditor's administration action, where the ct. undertook to protect all the creditors.—WOLFF v. VAN BOOLEN (1906), 94 L. T. 502.

8243. Time given to trustee to proceed in suit—By filing supplemental bill—Liberty to apply.]—On a motion to dismiss a bill for want of prosecution, pltf. having become bkpt., the assignees were given a month to proceed in the suit, by filing a supplemental bill, if they thought proper, & if they did not do so, deft. to have liberty to apply again.—MUMFORD v. RANDALL (1811), 1 Rose, 196 ; sub nom. RANDALL v. MUMFORD, 18 Ves. 424 ; 34 E. 8237 iii. —— Trustee not intervening.]—Where pltf. commences an action, & pending the proceedings becomes bkpt., he may, under 7 Vict. c. 10, ss. 31 & 32, continue the suit in his own name, unless the assignees intervene.—IRELAND v. WAGSTAFF (1848), 4 U. C. R. 231.—CAN.

8237 iv. —— On joinder of trustee.]—In a supplemental bill by pltf., who had been found bkpt., & which charged that his assignees having got sufficient to pay all his creditors, would not proceed for his benefit in the suit :—Held : the assignees ought to be made parties.—BREBNER v. THOMPSON (1827), 2 Mol. 433.—IR.

8237 v. —— —— Validity of commission disputed.]—Pltf. in equity being found bkpt., but disputing the validity of the commission may proceed in the suit, bringing the assignee before the ct. by supplemental bill.—KELLY v. DOWLING (1828), 1 Mol. 73.—IR.

8237 vi. —— After arrest & discharge.]—Pltf., subsequently to the accrual of the cause of action & declaration filed thereon, being arrested, filed his petition & executed the usual assignment, under Insolvent Act. Having paid the debt for which he was arrested, he was discharged by the detaining creditor, without having his petition dismissed by the Insolvent Ct. :—Held : he was not entitled to continue the action.—MOULDS v. POWER (1841), 2 Leg. 8245. Action by one partner against other & third party—Joint fiat against both partners—Action against third party not maintainable.]—A joint fiat in bkpcy. was issued against two partners, pending a suit by one of them against the other & a third person, who had previously retired from the business, to set aside the partnership agreement on the ground of fraud & misrepresentation on the part of both defts., & for repayment of the money which pltf. had brought into the concern under that agreement. The assignees obtained leave from the Ct. of Review to prosecute the suit against the retired partner, & they proceeded by supplemental bill, in which the creditors' assignees were pltfs. & the official assignee & the retired partner were defts. :—Held : the creditors' assignees, who represented not only original pltf. on whose behalf relief was sought, but also the bkpt. partner, who was an original deft. against whom relief was sought, could not sustain the suit against the retired partner. Semble : in such a case the suit might have been prosecuted by assignees appointed to represent the separate estate of pltf. in the original suit. Qu. : whether, if it had appeared in evidence in the suit, that deft., the retired partner, was alone or otherwise, answerable for the fraud, the ct. could, in such a case, have made a conditional decree, imposing terms upon pltfs., as representing bkpt., who was originally charged as deft.—ROBERTSON v. SOUTHGATE (1848), 6 Hare, 536 ; 67 E. R. 1276.

8246. Supplemental order to carry on proceedings—Nothing remaining to be done except taxation of costs.]—Pltf., in a suit in which nothing remained to be done but the taxation & payment to him by deft. of his costs, became bkpt. :—Held : a supplemental order to carry on proceedings might be made, on the application of his assignee.—ELLISON v. SHARP (1867), 2 Ch. 8248. Action by two plaintiffs—Bankruptcy of one—Trustee added as party.]—B., who was employed to sell an estate, believing that certain parts of the estate could be resold at a considerable profit on the reserved price, induced A. to become the nominal purchaser of the lots at the reserved price, which A. agreed to do on a promise made to him by B. that he would finance him throughout the affair. In order to carry out the transaction it was agreed that A. should hand to B. a document in the form of a cheque to be drawn by him for the amount of the deposit money in favour of B.'s firm as auctioneers of the estate, B. undertaking that the cheque should not be presented or used. In pursuance of such arrangement the estate was knocked down to A., & a cheque given by him for £1,310 for the deposit. Afterwards B., in breach of the agreement, presented the cheque & induced C. & Co., bankers, to cash it, & B. received the amount, though at that time C. & Co. had no assets of A.'s to meet the cheque. C. & Co. & A. having brought an action to recover the £1,310 paid by C. & Co. on the cheque, A. became bkpt. :—Held : as, if the case for pltfs. were true, either the bankers or their customer must be entitled to recover, & in the latter case his trustee, the name of the trustee was properly substituted for that of A.—HOARE & Co., & NEWTON v. BAKER (1887), 4 T. L. R. 26, D. C.

8249. Effect of election not to continue action.]—Where a trustee elects, under C. L. P. Act, 1852 (c. 76), s. 142, not to continue a pending action commenced by debtor, such election is not a bar to a subsequent action by the trustee in his representative capacity founded on the same cause of action.—BENNETT v. GAMGEE (1877), 46 L. B. Stay of Proceedings.

8258. Discretion of court—Bankrupt having rendered himself liable to imprisonment.]—Pltf. in an action in the Ch. Div., having failed to pay into ct., when ordered, a sum of money which he had received in a fiduciary capacity, was served with a notice of motion for a writ of attachment against him. He thereupon filed his petition in bkpcy., & applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. under 1883 Act, s. 9, to stay further proceedings in the action, on the ground that the claim against him was a debt provable in his bkpcy.:—Held: his application must be refused, for no good reason was shown why the Ct. of Bkpcy. should interfere. Semble: the jurisdiction conferred on the Ct. of Bkpcy. by the above sect. will not, as a general rule, be exercised in favour of bkpt. personally, where he has by some misconduct in some other proceedings rendered himself liable to imprisonment.—Re MACKINTOSH, Ex p. MACKINTOSH (1884), 13 Q. 8265. Removal of stay—Bankrupt purchasing assets after discharge.]—Pltf. in an action to recover money due on commission was adjudicated bkpt. shortly after notice of trial. His trustee elected not to proceed with the action, & deft. thereupon obtained an unconditional order staying the proceedings. Pltf. having obtained his discharge & purchased his assets from the trustee, applied for a removal of the stay, in order that he might continue the action:—Held: pltf. could not stand in a better position with regard to the action than his trustee, &, in the absence of special circumstances which would have entitled the trustee to reopen the action after submitting to an unconditional stay of proceedings, the stay could not be removed.—SELIG v. LION, [1891] 1 Q. 8273. —— —— —— Interest of bankrupt as tenant for life in remainder.]—Testator by his will directed his trustees to pay the income of certain shares to his wife, who predeceased him, for her life, & after her decease to A. for her life, & then to B. her husband for his life, & after the decease of the survivor of A. & B. to divide such shares among their children who attained twenty-one in equal shares, & he devised certain real estate in the events which happened to C., the eldest child of A. & B., & certain other real estate to all the children of A. & B. share & share alike. On the death of testator in 1894, B., who in the events which happened became the sole trustee of the will, managed the property devised & bequeathed, the children of A. & B. not having attained twenty-one. In 1906 C. commenced an action against B., claiming accounts of the rents & profits of the real estate, & to have the trusts of the will so far as they concerned the shares carried into execution by the ct. By orders made in the action for inquiries & by the master's certificates certain sums were found due & ordered to be paid by B. in respect of such rents & profits, & the shares were sold & the proceeds thereof paid into ct. By the order on further consideration an inquiry was directed at the option of C., & at his risk as to costs, whether any sum was due to him out of the shares of the children of A. & B. in such rents & profits for the maintenance by him of such children during their minorities. In 1908 B. was adjudicated bkpt., & the official receiver of the district was appointed trustee in his bkpcy. C. thereupon obtained the usual ex p. order under the above rule to join the official receiver as deft. to the action. The official receiver then took out a summons to discharge the order joining him as deft.:—Held: (1) the official receiver was properly joined as deft. to the action, there having been a transmission of interest within the above rule, viz., the interest of B. as tenant for life in remainder of the shares, & it was desirable he should be a party to the action so as to bind him by any proceedings with reference to such shares or the proceeds of sale thereof, & also for the purpose of having his decision as to whether he would proceed with the inquiry ordered as to whether any sum was due to B. for maintenance; (2) the inquiry as to maintenance was not one which could be taken in bkpcy. proceedings.—Re SYKES, JARAM v. HOLMES (1909), 100 L. T. 265.

8274. Whether trustee necessary party—Action on claim not provable in bankruptcy.]—A shareholder in a co. commenced an action against the co. & H., its vendor & promoter, claiming, as against H., a declaration that the prospectus was fraudulent within Cos. Act, 1867 (c. 131), s. 38, damages & an indemnity, & a declaration that H. was liable, under Directors' Liability Act, 1890 (c. 64), to pay to pltf. compensation. H. having become bkpt., pltf. obtained an order, under R. S. C., Ord. 17, r. 4, to carry on proceedings against his trustee. On a motion by the trustee to discharge that order:—Held: (1) so far as the action against H. was one for deceit, or based on Cos. Act, 1867, s. 38, the claims were not provable in bkpcy. by virtue of 1883 Act, s. 37 (1), & the trustee was not a necessary party; (2) so far as the claim against H. was based on Directors' Liability Act, 1890, if it was not provable in bkpcy., then the trustee was not a necessary party, & if it was provable, then the proper course for pltf. to pursue was to go into the Bkpcy. Ct. & prove his claim; (3) the order allowing pltf. to carry on proceedings against the trustee must be discharged.—GREENWOOD v. HUMBER & CO. (PORTUGAL), LTD. (1898), 6 Mans. 42.

8275. —— Bankruptcy of two of five defendants—Action continued against other three—No notice to trustees of bankrupts.]—Where two of five defts., jointly & severally liable to pltf., had become bkpt.:—Held: the action might proceed against the other three defts. without bringing the trustees of the two bkpt. defts. before the ct., or giving them notice of the proceedings.—LLOYD v. DIMMACK (1877), 7 Ch. Then the trustee may be made a party. The judgment is not against him or that he pay out of the estate, but judgment being against other deft., pltf. is at liberty to prove in the bkpcy. the amount of the claim established, & there the trustee is a party because it is necessary both as against bkpt.'s estate & the other deft. that the action should go on (COTTON, L.J.).—BARTER v. DUBEUX (1881), 7 Q. r. —— Proceedings to charge stock subject to marriage settlement.]—Testator, the father of deft.'s wife, bequeathed money in the funds to trustees, in trust to pay the dividends to the wife, &, at her decease, to & among her children as she should appoint, or in default of appointment, share & share alike, with remainder over to the trustees in the event of the children dying under age or unmarried. A conditional order was obtained by pltf. to charge the stock; but before it was made absolute, deft. became insolvent, & filed a petition in the Insolvent Ct.:—Held: the conditional order could not be made absolute, the assignee of insolvent not being before the ct.—MILLS v. HORNER (1844), 6 I. 8278. —— Order that trustee be made party—When granted.]—After issue joined in an action by the indorsees against the acceptor of a bill of exchange, in which the defence was that pltfs. took the bill without value & after notice that deft. had been defrauded of it, deft., who was sole deft., filed a petition in liquidation & a trustee was appointed. The Bkpcy. Ct. refused to restrain the action, but restrained pltfs. from enforcing any judgment they might obtain in the action either against the property or person of debtor, & the trustee declined to admit pltf.'s claim:—Held: the Bkpcy. Ct. was the proper ct. in which pltfs. ought to prove their debt, & there was no ground for making an order under R. S. C. Ord. 50, r. 2, that the trustee be made a party to the action or be served with notice thereof.—BARTER v. DUBEUX (1881), 7 Q. B. D. 413; 50 L. J. Q. B. 527; 44 L. T. 596; 29 W. R. 622, C. A.

The trustee did not enter an appearance. Notice was served on him that the action was restored to the paper for trial, but he did not appear at the trial:—Held: it was not necessary for pltf. to file the pleadings or a notice of motion for judgment as against the trustee, under R. S. C., 1875, Ord. 19.—CHORLTON v. DICKIE (1879), 13 Ch. D. 160; 49 L. J. Ch. 40; 41 L. T. 467; 28 W. R. 228.

8288. —— Action to which discharge of debtor no defence—Cancellation of agreement for fraudulent misrepresentation.]—A. filed a bill against B., praying that an agreement might be cancelled, & a sum of money paid under it repaid, on the ground of fraudulent misrepresentations by B. Before the suit came to a hearing B. became a liquidating debtor, & the suit was revived against his trustee. The trustee then applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an injunction to restrain the suit in Ch.:—Held: (1) the Ct. of Bkpcy. would not restrain proceedings in a suit or action, to which the discharge of debtor in bkpcy. would be no defence; (2) pltf. had a right to prosecute his remedy against debtor personally in the suit, notwithstanding the proceedings in liquidation, & injunction refused.—Re BLAKE, Ex p. COKER (1875), 10 Ch. 8289. —— Action against married woman trader.]—A writ was issued for goods sold & delivered against a married woman trading separately from her husband. Part of the defence raised being that proceedings in bkpcy. were then pending:—Held: as long as those proceedings remained undisturbed, application to recover the debt must be made in bkpcy., & leave given to go in & prove for the debt & the costs of the action.—DAY v. FREUND (1876), 35 L. T. 551; 25 W. R. 222.

Annotation:—Expld. Re Grissell, Ex p. Jones (1879), 48 L. J. Bcy. 109, C. A. You must not treat Day v. Freund as a decision that a married woman with a separate estate can be made bkpt.; all that Bacon, V.-C., says is: I find a de facto bkpcy. which has not been attempted to be disturbed (JAMES, L.J.).

8290. —— Defendant having had leave to defend —On payment into court.]—M. commenced an action in Mar. against N. to recover £364, money paid to his use, & it was set down for trial, but before the hearing N. absconded & was adjudicated bkpt., H. being appointed trustee. N. had leave to defend the action on payment of £150 into ct. The ct. made an order restraining M. from proceeding with his action, proof to be made in the bkpcy.—Re NEIL, Ex p. HARPER (1887), 4 T. L. R. 65.

8291. When granted—Decree for specific performance subject to reference—Trustee declining to accept contract.]—A purchaser, against whom the vendor had obtained a decree for specific performance, subject to a reference as to title, became bkpt., & his assignee declined to accept the contract. The chief clerk made his certificate of good title:—Held: an order should be made staying all proceedings in the suit, without prejudice to any application which pltf. might be advised to make under 1849 Act.—KELL v. NOKES (1866), 35 L. J. Ch. 729; 14 L. T. 697; 12 Jur. N. S. 780; 14 W. R. 908.

8292. —— Only when necessary to protect general interests of creditors—Bankruptcy per se insufficient.]—The fact of debtor before a Ct. of Bkpcy. being sole deft. in a Ch. suit, is not of itself sufficient ground for an application to a Ct. of Bkpcy. to stay proceedings in the Ch. suit. The Ct. of Bkpcy. will not interfere in such cases, except when such interference is requisite for protecting the general interests of the creditors.—Re TURNER, Ex p. HIDE (1872), 20 W. R. 508.

8293. Grounds for refusing.]—An attorney brought an action for business done, against deft., a commission of bkpcy. against whom had been superseded. Pltf. after being nonsuited took out a fiat in bkpcy. against deft. The ct. refused to allow the proceedings to be stayed without costs, on a suggestion that the case was within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 59.—EICKE v. NOKES (1834), 1 Bing. N. C. 69; 4 Moo. & S. 585; 3 L. 8294. —— Court not satisfied that plaintiff would not be prejudiced.]—In 1885 an agreement was made in London, by which resp. was to act for debtors' firm as agent in Australia, but in 1886 he was dismissed from service, & commenced an action against the firm in the Australian Cts. for breach of the agreement. In 1887 the senior partner of the firm died & his son was taken into the business, but in 1889 a receiving order was made against the firm, & the official receiver applied for an injunction to restrain resp. from proceeding with his action:—Held: as the ct. was not satisfied that the rights of resp. as pltf. in the action would not be prejudiced, or that expense would be saved, the application must be refused.—Re SPALDING, Ex p. CHIEF OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1889), 61 L. C. Costs.

8295. Jurisdiction of court—To order payment by trustee personally—Trustee not made party—Appearing at trial & fighting action.]—Deft. became bkpt. after the close of the pleadings. The filed & before discharge, may apply to any ct. in which a suit is brought against insolvent for any debt or demand admitted in the schedule, or disputed as to amount only, for a stay.—Re HUNT, MONNET & CO., Ex p. GAMBLE v. BHOLAGIR MANGIR (1864), 1 Bom. 251.—IND.

g. For what time—Until security for amount of verdict & costs provided.]—Deft., after having obtained a conditional order to set aside a verdict had for pltf. became bkpt.:—Held: unless deft. should consent to a stet processus without costs, all proceedings should be stayed until security given by deft. or his assignees for the amount of the verdict & pltf.'s costs.—MEGAW v. DE LIZARDI (1873), I. R. 7 C. L. 205.—IR.

h. When refused—Improper conduct of bankrupt.]—Where a debt arose from debtor's improper conduct, & he could have satisfied the debt, at least in part, but was on his own petition adjudicated bkpt., the ct., under 1883 Act, s. 56, allowed proceedings to be continued which had been taken by the creditor before the bkpcy. to enforce payment.—MCKILLOP v. VALENTINE (1893), 11 N. PART XXI. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 2.—C.

k. Of judgment creditor.]—A judgment creditor was refused payment in full of certain costs, which he had incurred in recovering his judgment & getting an order for payment by trustee was not made a party, but he appeared at the trial & fought the action:—Held: he had waived the irregularity, & there was jurisdiction to order him to pay the costs personally.—LONDON SCHOOL BOARD v. WALL BROTHERS (1891), 7 T. L. R. 566; 8 Morr. 202, C. A.

8296. —— What court—1915 Rules, r. 96 (3).]—The word "court" in the above rule, which provides (inter alia) that where a trustee in bkpcy. is, at the instance of other parties, made a party to the action, he is not personally liable for costs unless the ct. otherwise directs, means the ct. having jurisdiction in bkpcy.—HILL v. COOKE-HILL, [1916] W. N. 61.

8297. Whether trustee personally liable—Defence vexatiously continued.]—If assignees continue to defend a suit instituted against bkpt., which is decided in favour of pltf. with costs, & they have no assets, they are not personally liable, unless they vexatiously continued the defence.—Re KINDERSLEY CASTLE (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 479, n., Ct. of R.

8298. —— Trustee appearing & defending—Bankrupt not appearing at hearing.]—When bkpt. deft. does not appear at the hearing, & his trustees appear & defend, they are liable to the costs of the action.—WATSON v. HOLLIDAY (1882), 20 Ch. 8299. —— Bankrupt having appealed against interlocutory order—Trustee not proceeding with appeal—But proceeding with defence.]—An interlocutory order for an injunction & receiver having been made against defts. in an action, they gave notice of appeal, & shortly afterwards became bkpt. An order was made for carrying on the proceedings against their trustee. The trustee gave notice to pltf. that he should not proceed with the appeal. Shortly afterwards the trustee entered an appearance & called for a statement of claim. He declined to undertake to pay the costs of the appeal incurred by pltf. before the notice that the appeal would not be proceeded with, & the appeal came on that the question as to the costs might be decided:—Held: the appeal must be dismissed with costs to be paid by the trustee, for having adopted the defence of bkpts. he had placed himself in their position as to the whole of the action, & could not reject part of the proceedings in it.—BORNEMAN v. WILSON (1884), 28 Ch. 8301. —— Trustee appearing & contesting claim—Failure to substantiate denials.]—Where an action was pending in which a declaration was claimed that deft. held a mtge., which he had taken in his own name, as trustee for pltf., &, deft. having been adjudicated a bkpt., the trustee in bkpcy. was, on pltf.'s application, added as deft. to the action, & contested the pltf.'s claim:—Held: as the question in the action was whether the trustee in bkpcy. was right in denying pltf.'s assertion that he was a cestui que trust, & the trustee had failed to substantiate his denial, costs must follow the event in the usual way, & an order must be made making the trustee personally liable for the costs.—HILL v. COOKE-HILL, [1916] W. N. 61.

SUB-SECT. 3.—TRANSFER OF PROCEEDINGS.

See 1914 Act, ss. 100 (2), 105 (4), & 1915 Rules, r. 18.

8302. Jurisdiction of court—After receiving order but before adjudication.]—Qu.: whether where a receiving order has been made, but debtor has not been adjudicated a bkpt., the ct. has any jurisdiction under 1883 Act, s. 102 (4) to make an order to transfer.—Re WHITE & CO., Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1884), 1 Morr. 77.

8303. What must be shown—Advantage by transfer.]—When application is made under 1883 Act, s. 102 (4) for the transfer of an action pending in another division of the High Ct., some proof must be afforded that advantage is likely to be derived by reason of such transfer to the judge in bkpcy.—Re WHITE & CO., Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1884), 1 Morr. 77.

8304. When transferred—Administration action.]—Testator up to his decease carried on business in partnership with his son. The capital belonged to the father, & the articles contained provisions vesting the son's share immediately on the father's death in the father's exors. The father by will appointed the son & two other persons exors., with discretionary powers to sell the business to the son & to continue it in the meantime. The son alone proved, & continued the business with testator's assets, & within a year from the father's death a suit was instituted by separate creditors of the father for the administration of his estate. A receiver was appointed in the suit, & shortly afterwards a trustee was appointed under a liquidation petition, which had been presented by the son before the receiver was appointed. The bill was amended by making the trustee a party, & praying an injunction to restrain him from meddling with the estate of testator:—Held: the Ct. of Bkpcy. was the proper forum for deciding the questions arising between the estates of the father & the son.—MORLEY v. WHITE, Re WHITE (1872), 8 Ch. 8307. —— Suit in Chancery by legatees—Against executors & continuing partners of testator's firm.]—A suit in Ch. was instituted by legatees under the will of testator against his exors. & against the continuing partners of a firm of which he had been a member at the time of his death, & D., another partner who had retired after testator's death, for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the partnership as they existed at the time of testator's death, & obtaining payment to his estate of the share of the capital due to him. After the bill was filed the continuing partners filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement, & a trustee was appointed. The trustee was made a party to the suit by a supplemental order, but no relief was prayed against him. The trustee having applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an injunction to restrain the proceedings in the suit as against him BACON, C.J., refused the injunction on the ground that the ct. had no jurisdiction to grant the injunction. After the order was made D. also filed a petition for liquidation :—Held : on the production of evidence that D. had also become a liquidating debtor, all the matters in question in the suit might be properly determined in bkpcy., & the trustee was entitled to the injunction asked for.—Re DIXON, Ex p. GORDON (1873), 8 Ch. 8308. —— Trustee having better title than bankrupt.]—The ct. will not, on the application of the trustee, make an order under 1883 Act, s. 102 (4), transferring to the Judge in Bkpcy. an action pending in any other Division by or against bkpt. at the time when the receiving order was made, unless the trustee has by operation of the bkpcy. law a higher & better title than bkpt.

Application was made by a trustee for the transfer for trial before the Bkpcy. Judge of two foreclosure actions, commenced against debtor before the receiving order by originating summons in the Ch. Div., in which the trustee had been joined as co-deft. :—Held : the sole question for trial was the validity of the mtges., in which no question of priorities could arise, & the trustee having no higher & better title than bkpt. would have had, the order of transfer ought not to be made.—Re CHAMPAGNÉ, Ex p. KEMP (1893), 69 L. 8309. Grounds for refusing—No advantage—Delay of one action.]—On application by a trustee under 1883 Act, s. 102 (4) to transfer three actions pending in the Q. B. Div. to the judge in bkpcy., in the first of which bkpt. was pltf., & in the other two deft. in the first action was suing the bkpt. :—Held : the application must be refused, as no advantage would be derived from the transfer, & the trial of the first action, in which deft. had been ordered to pay money into ct. would be delayed.—Re ROSS, Ex p. THE TRUSTEE (1888), 37 W. 8323. —— —— On right to costs—Under 1849 Act, s. 86.]—The creditor of a trader having in pursuance of the above Act, filed an affidavit of debt, & the amount having been disputed, an order was made that deft. should enter into a bond with two sureties. An action was brought to recover the amount claimed, & an agreement was entered into between pltf., deft., & K., in pursuance of which the order for the bond was discharged, & the bkpcy. proceedings were terminated, K. depositing cheques for the debts & costs, if any recovered in the action, in case of a verdict for deft. the cheques to be returned to K., upon his paying £6 for the costs of debtor's summons, & also the costs of any issue found for pltf. At the trial of the cause it was agreed that a verdict should be entered for pltf., subject to the award of an arbitrator, the costs of the cause to abide the event of the award, & the costs of the reference to be in the discretion of the arbitrator. The arbitrator awarded that the verdict should be reduced so that the creditor recovered a sum less than that sworn to:—Held: as the verdict was to be operative, the above sect. applied, notwithstanding the cause had been referred to the award of an arbitrator.—FOSTER v. HANSON (1857), 1 H. & N. 755, n.; 156 E. SECT. 1.—ABOLITION OF IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

8333. General rule—Abolishment of imprisonment for debt.]—1869 Act is an Act for abolishing imprisonment for debt; not merely for abolishing imprisonment for debt following upon judgments of the Superior Cts., but for the abolition of imprisonment for debt in those circumstances in which it could take place in the cty. cts.; & it provides a series of other safeguards for that which is deemed to be a right that should be safely hedged round, viz., the power of incarcerating debtor for the non-payment of his debt. There are, under this Act, more stringent conditions to be fulfilled before a person can be sent to prison (HANNEN, J.).—FRAZER v. DANIEL (1870), 21 L. T. 723.

8334. —— ——.]—If the case does not come within any of the exceptions mentioned, there can be no imprisonment for default in payment, for the money is due as a debt (WILLS, J.).—BUCKLEY v. CRAWFORD, [1893] 1 Q. B. 105; 62 L. J. Q. B. 87; 67 L. T. 681; 57 J. P. 89; 41 W. R. 239; 9 T. L. R. 85; 37 Sol. Jo. 67; 5 R. 125.

8335. —— ——.]—A person cannot be committed for non-payment of a sum of money, except in certain cases specified in 1869 Act, s. 4 (BYRNE, J.).—CARTER v. ROBERTS, [1903] 2 Ch. 312; 72 L. J. Ch. 655; 89 L. T. 239; 47 Sol. Jo. 515.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Launder, Launder v. Richards (1908), 98 L. T. 554.

8336. Exceptions—General nature of—Punitive.]—The exceptions are all of a character which indicates that the Legislature wished merely to limit the term of imprisonment in regard to certain debts which were not simple debts, contracted in the ordinary intercourse between man & man, where credit is given by one person to another, but were debts, the incurring of which was in some degree worthy of being visited with punishment. In every case there is something of the character of delinquency pointed out (LORD HATHERLEY, C.).—MIDDLETON v. CHICHESTER (1871), 6 Ch. App. 152; 40 L. J. Ch. 237; 24 L. T. 173; 19 W. R. 369, L. C. & L. JJ.

8337. —— —— ——.]—I do not think that 1869 Act, which, though it abolished imprisonment for debt in certain cases, was, as it in fact says in so many words, legislation "for the punishment of fraudulent debtors," did not mean punishment. When we come to look at the Act, we find that it contains different provisions to meet different classes of debtors, there being one set of provisions in the case of defaulting debtors of a certain class, & special provisions being made in the case of debtors guilty of misdemeanour or other misconduct; &, looking at these provisions, it is impossible to suppose that punishment for misconduct was not intended to be meted out. The Act abolishes imprisonment for debt in the case of an honest debtor, but it is at the same time intended for the punishment of a fraudulent or dishonest debtor. It is in that sense vindictive, & intended to be so. Then we come to 1878 Act, which was passed to meet a special class of cases. It was not intended by this Act to get rid of the penal clauses of the previous Act, but only to give the judges a judicial discretion to deal with these exceptional cases, which the Legislature did not think of when it passed the previous Act (JESSEL, M.R.).—MARRIS v. INGRAM (1879), 13 Ch. D. 338; 49 L. J. Ch. 123; 41 L. T. 613; 28 W. R. 434.

8338. —— —— ——.]—The remedy against the property or person of a debtor prohibited by 1883 Act, s. 9, is in respect of a debt, & intended to enforce payment of that debt; but the remedy by committal or attachment under 1869 Act, is punishment for an offence.

The punitive character of 1869 Act, s. 4 (3), cannot now be questioned (LINDLEY, L.J.).—Re SMITH, HANDS v. ANDREWS, [1893] 2 Ch. 1; 62 L. J. Ch. 336; 68 L. T. 337; 57 J. P. 516; 41 W. R. 289; 9 T. L. R. 238; 37 Sol. Jo. 247; 2 R. 360, C. A.

d. —— 1872 Act.]—Pltf. had, before the above Act came into operation, demised premises to deft. Three quarterly gales accrued due after the Act came into operation:—Held: pltf. was entitled to arrest deft.—PARKER v. M'HUGO (1874), I. R. 9 C. L. 265.—IR.

e. —— ——.]—Debtor cannot be arrested on foot of a judgment entered after the above Act for a sum due before the Act.—ARKINS v. MAGRATH (1874), I. R. 8 C. L. 114.—IR.

f. —— ——.]—Although, since the above Act, imprisonment for contempt, which consists of the non-payment of money pursuant to the order of a ct. should, in analogy to the statute, be restricted to the limit which the statute has placed upon imprisonment for debt, yet the only remedy for a prisoner detained in custody under process of contempt, for a period exceeding that limit, is by application to the ct. by which the order for attachment was made. Semble: in cases of contempt for non-payment of money, imprisonment for a period of twelve months should be treated as a purging of the contempt.—M'COMBE v. GRAY (1879), 4 L. R. Ir. 432.—IR.

g. —— ——.]—The right of a Ct. of Ch. to attach is subject to the above Act. While a Ct. of Equity may enforce obedience to its decrees by attachment, such remedy is not available to enforce payment of a debt found due to an estate in an administration suit. In such case proceedings should be for a committal under the above Act.—SHEEHY v. SHEEHY (1904), 38 I. L. T. 251.—IR.
